TURNBULL'S

The Flood of the Season's French and English Printed Calicoes is rolling in—white capped and aglow phosphorescent, color play. How the Priscellas of the past would joy to see them? Pretty as you have seen them, they were never so handsome before. Persian designs, leaves, buds, flowers, polka, dots, plain stripes, scrabbles and scrawls, angles and tangles. More than 300 different styles, small figures, large figures, and mourning designs, better printing was never done 'exquisite.' If you don't want to buy, don't pass the window or come in. Prices range from 6 to 15 cents.

The trouble with low grade Marseilles Bed Spreads has been loose threads at the back—lace, all right, but you didn't like the fiddle-string arrangement at the back, needn't. Here are $2.50 Marseilles Bed Spreads, full size and handsome patterns, with backs firm and well finished. Look at this honey-comb quilt for $1, which needs no apology for either size or weight.

Flannelettes—what are they? are they all-wool? No they are mostly cotton, finished to imitate a Flannel, and especially adapted for childrens' dresses and ladies' wrappers. They consist of Cream Grounds, with pink, blue and cardinal Stripes, blue and white, pink and cream, pink and blue, and pink, cream and grey, some 18 patterns in all—the best quality being only 12½ cents a yard.

Opened out this week, a line of Linen Tablings, the maker of which is noted the world over. They are specially suited for every day wear—the warp is well twisted and they wash and iron well.

Before you hear from us again, I will have visited the wholesale markets where I will be on the look-out for Bargains for my Customers.

Thirty Years Paying Rent in Peterborough.

I frequently hear statements akin to above, followed by remarks of deep regret for having missed many golden opportunities of buying whole lots at a price they would now have to pay for one foot of the same land. Buying property in Peterborough is the safest kind of a safe and profitable investment. I have at present cheap homes, medium class homes and a few exceedingly fine Residences and grounds some of which were built for home comforts, regardless of cost. Uncontrollable circumstances have now caused these to be offered for immediate sale much under value. I commence at $475, for good house and large lot. I can suit any reasonable buyer. I have also good value in Market Gardens and Farms.

THE LICENSE QUESTION.

A LIVELY DEBATE IN THE LOCAL LEGISLATURE.

Mr. Meredith Attacks the Present System of Appointing License Commissioners — Hon. A. S. Hardy Replies at Length.

TORONTO, March 13.—In the Legislature yesterday Mr. Meredith, the Leader of the Opposition, moved this amendment to a motion to go into Committee of Supply:

That all words in the motion after the word "that" be omitted and the following substituted therefor: The present mode of administering the license laws through the Board of Commissioners and Inspectors appointed by the Government of the day has resulted in a partizan administration of the law; has subjected those engaged in the liquor traffic to undue influence by and in the interest of the dominant party in this province; has led in many cases to the tyrannical exercise of the powers of the commissioners and inspectors, and is others to the lax enforcement of the law and the condoning for partizan purposes of offences against its provisions; has unduly and unfairly interfered with the freedom of exercising their franchise by those engaged in the liquor traffic and is otherwise objectionable in its purpose and operation; and while declaring its firm intention and purpose to be not to relax or impair the efficiency of the other provisions of the law, and particularly those limiting the number of licenses to be granted—this House is of opinion that it is essential to the honest, non-partizan and faithful execution of the liquor license laws that the present mode of appointing boards of commissioners should be abrogated and provision be made for placing the appointment of commissioners in the hands of a body more removed from the influence of partizanship and more directly responsible to and under the control of the people.

Mr. Meredith said. "The attention of the public has of late been specially directed by the public press to the administration of the license system under the existing law, and it has been deemed a matter of some surprise having regard to the very serious charges made reflecting upon the administration of the law in the Capital of the Province of Ontario, that no steps have been taken towards making an investigation into the truth of the charges which are now the subject of public discussion. There are to be found in the experience of every one the proof that to some extent that state of things which was referred to by the newspaper writings exists throughout the Province."

Mr. Meredith then referred to the Crooks Act, the main feature of which was to limit the licenses and take away from the municipalities the power they before possessed in the license system. It was said by hon. gentlemen opposite that they made the change in the law not with any view to political aggrandisement, but had taken that position practically at the request of the temperance party in the country and that they had reluctantly assumed it. This, he said, had not been borne out by the facts. Continuing, Mr. Meredith said:

"I want to call the attention of the House to the position the leader of the Government took when that measure was introduced in answer to the objections made from this side of the House. The hon. gentleman made a declaration that the commissioners should not be appointed from his political friends. He pledged the House that the appointments should be made from both political parties. That they should not be appointed from his side of the House only, but that there should be a member in every case of the Conservative party also appointed. To some extent he carried out that pledge, but scarcely had a year or two passed when the hon. gentleman violated the understanding under the pretence, for it was a pretence, that he could not properly administer that law if a Conservative were admitted, and that he could not administer these laws except by friends of the party. Throughout this Province not only had hon. gentlemen used this license system for election purposes, but also at other times to advance the interests of their party. It had also placed under their control the enormous liquor traffic of this country."

Mr. Meredith, continuing, said he would be able to demonstrate, not from mere statements of his own nor from charges made in the newspaper press, that the effect of this legislation had been to make those engaged in such traffic and who were of a different political persuasion cross over to the Liberal party because they knew it was to the interests of their trade that the liquor dealers should be supported by the Reform party. He read from the evidence of L. M. Lotridge at considerable length to substantiate this position.

"In the interests of the temperance party, and the speaker, in the interests of truth and purity, I say that this power of prostituting the present license system to the subserviency of party should be removed from the hands of the party now in power. Then instead of having this particular party and that particular party appointed by the government of the day, we would have the question of the proper administration of the license law handled in accordance with the views of the people in each and every locality. Then in large centres and where we have such cities as we have in Ontario to-day we are prepared to go further and to say that this question should be left in the hands of the people direct, with the full belief and confidence that the law would be administered in accordance with the principles of what is right and proper.

Hon. A. S. Hardy rose to reply. He explained that from 1877 up till one year ago he personally was responsible for the administration of the law, and during the last year it had been under the supervision of the Provincial Treasurer, so that the Premier was personally irresponsible, and he (Mr. Hardy), being more familiar with the administration, would take upon himself the responsibility of replying to the charges made.

Mr. Hardy said that as he saw the license administration it was one of a very superior kind, and no scheme had yet been submitted which would be better in design or better in execution than the one now in force. In fact, said he, the charges preferred by honorable gentlemen opposite are not charges of detail but charges of merely occasional discrepancies which would exist under any other regime and would crop up here and there under any law which might be in force.

Said Mr. Hardy: "The charges as made by the honorable leader of the Opposition are weak, thin, poor and meagre in detail. We as representing the Government have been charged with being partizan in the appointment of license commissioners. Now, when the Dominion Government, the friends of the honorable leader of the Opposition, by an over-reach of power undertook to administer the license law; did they, notwithstanding what has been said, appoint non-partizan boards? No, they did not so. They appointed Conservatives. They didn't appoint a single Reformer that I know of."

Opposition cries: "Oh yes!" Oh yes!"

Mr. Hardy: "Give me a name will you. [Applause.] I defy you to give me a single name of a Reformer who was appointed on the Board! You cannot do it!"

Opposition cries: "Go on, go on!"

Mr. Hardy: "You come here with these charges, and now you are not able to give me a single name!"

Mr. Clancy (Kent): "Thomas C. McNabb of Chatham, a Reformer, was appointed to the Dominion Board."

Mr. Hardy: "That is only one name, give me more. Go on and give me more. Let us have the names of more; but remember, I shall look carefully into this man McNabb's history and see if he was really a Reformer."

Mr. Hardy further continued in an attack on the Dominion Government's mode of dealing with the licenses while they presumed they had them under their control. The state of the liquor traffic before the enactment of the Crooks Act was referred to, and compared with the condition resultant on the existing laws. Statistics were quoted to show that Reform hotel keepers were greatly in the minority in all places.

He would not continue the argument further now, but would rest it unless the debate was continued on the other side. He would just say, however, that the present mode of the appointment of commissioners was less objectionable than their election by local bodies, in which cases it was well-known hotel men would combine to elect their men. It was acknowledged that the temperance legislation of this House was in advance of all legislation on the license question in the world, with the exception of the Nova Scotia law.

Mr. Hardy concluded: "Under these circumstances in the interests of temperance and morality it is not desirable again to revert to the old system, which the resolution of my hon. friend seeks." [Applause.]

After recess the debate was continued by Mr. H. E. Clarke, Mr. Gibson of Huron, Dr. Willoughby, Hon. A. M. Ross who produced a statement signed by 143 Toronto hotelkeepers denying The World's charges of license boodling and the existence of a License Guarantee Fund, Mr. Ostrom, Mr. Waters, Mr. Whitney, Mr. G. R. Smith, Mr. Preston, Mr. Murray and Mr. Bishop. Mr. Wylie moved the adjournment of the debate.

In accordance with a resolution moved by the Attorney-General yesterday, morning sessions will be commenced next Tuesday and will be continued for the remainder of the session.

Mr. Ley's bill to amend the Municipal Act was considered in the Municipal Committee yesterday. Mr. H. E. Clarke's bill was agreed to, the clause taxing local improvements on a basis of property valuations instead of by a frontage rate, being eliminated.

After some discussion consideration of the clause in Mr. Leys' bill relating to the city's liability for the use of the county jail and court-house was adjourned until to-day.

These bills were read a third time: Respecting the Ontario and Sault Ste. Marie Water, Light and Power Company and the town of Sault Ste. Marie; for the better protection of insectivorous and other birds; respecting the consolidation of the debentury debt of the city of Toronto.

Mr. Clarke moved that the above bill be discharged and referred back to committee, where it was passed.

ANOTHER TASCOTT.

This Time He Turns Up at Nanaimo and is Evidently Insane.

VICTORIA, B.C., March 14.—A man answering the description of W. B. Tascott, the murderer of Millionaire Snell of Chicago, was arrested at Nanaimo Wednesday afternoon and lodged in jail. He gave the name of Charles Palmer. He arrived on the noon train and his suspicious actions drew the attention of the officers, who quietly watched him and effected his arrest. It is said Palmer, as he calls himself, boarded the train at Gold Stream, three miles from Victoria and jumped off the cars before the train stopped at Nanaimo. He engaged a boatman immediately to row him to Gabriola Island, telling the latter he was hunted and wished to escape from his pursuers. Rain coming on, the voyage was not made. Palmer then offered a livery man $20 to drive him out of town as far as he could. While preparing to leave he was arrested. Should it turn out to be Tascott he is evidently insane. When arrested he gave his occupation as compositor. A charge of vagrancy was entered against him and he will come up for examination Saturday.

Kingston News.

KINGSTON, March 15.—In the fall of 1887 the steamer Southampton, owned by Captain S. Fraser, became waterlogged in Lake Huron. The tug Storm King went to the rescue and towed her to port. The owners of the tug have put in a salvage claim for $3000, claiming that the tug ran a great risk in effecting the rescue. Captain Fraser values the service at $200, hence the suit. The case is now being tried in the Maritime Court here before Judge Price.

The young man named Hodge, formerly of Prescott, who was arrested Wednesday charged with seduction, appeared before the magistrate yesterday morning. The girl, Ellen Clark, was in an adjoining room. Her brother testified that she would be 16 years of age in May next and that she did not keep late hours. As far as he knew she bore a good character. The case was adjourned till next Wednesday, and Hodge was admitted to bail in $200.

FRENCH AFFAIRS.

A Heated Debate in the Chamber—Three Duels Imminent.

PARIS, March 15.—The Bank of France authorities deny the report of the resignation of the governor and one of the directors of the bank. They also discredit the rumor of the resignation of two other directors.

La Paris says the Minister of Finance has appointed two experts to ascertain the exact position of the Comptoir d'Escompte.

In the Chamber of Deputies M. Arene amid noisy interruption from the Right read the report of the committee appointed to consider the charges against Laguerre, Lalsart and Tarquet. The report favored the prosecution of the accused deputies.

M. Sevaistre declared the proposal showed the impotility of its authors. For this remark Sevaistre was severely censured by the President of the Chamber.

M. Laguerre then spoke. He averred that his party intended to prosecute its campaign peacefully and legally. He would not appeal to the Chamber, whose verdict was immaterial, but to the country which supported the Patriotic League. He denied that the league was a secret society. The real conspirators were those who rebelled against universal suffrage. This clique had seized the Government, but universal suffrage would have the last word. Persecution and violence would only hasten the hour when the country, disgusted and indignant, would repeal the Chamber. [Applause from the Right.] The report of the committee maintained that the Patriotic League was a secret society. Referring to the fact that Gen. Boulanger recently dined with the Duchesse Dusse, he expressed surprise that men calling themselves Republicans should form a part of the Pretorian Guard of the Faubourg St. Germain.

Gen. Boulanger rose, and crossing his arms regarded the majority defiantly. An uproar ensued, during which M. Thiesse was censured for apostrophising the President.

Paul de Cassagnac defied the Chamber to prosecute Boulanger.

The debate was clotured, 318 to 214. The Chamber then, 334 to 227, authorized the Government to prosecute the accused deputies. The sitting was then adjourned.

As a result of the heated debate duels are imminent between MM. Arene and Provost Delaunay, Burdeau and De Cassagnac, Pichon and Laguerre. In the course of his speech Laguerre was called to order on account of his violent language and the fact was inscribed on the official record.

Not so Poor as He Seemed.

ST. LOUIS, March 15.—Friday George C. Hayden, aged 74, died at a cheap boarding house here. He was supposed to be very poor. The public administrator in examining Hayden's trunk found a note enclosing a safe deposit key. It also contained the name of B. C. Payne of Winslow, Maine. The administrator found in Hayden's box at the safe deposit vault over $80,000 in cash, stocks and bonds. Hayden is supposed to have relatives in Maine. He lived here nearly 40 years.

NEWS OF THE DOMINION.

A TORONTO FIRM MULCTED BY THE CUSTOMS AUTHORITIES.

Death at a Wedding—Evidence at Montreal—A Dundee Man's Probably Fatal Fall—Drowned by the Sea.

TORONTO, March 15.—In the police court yesterday morning George Kerr, the well known barrister, was fined $3 and costs for assault on James Paterson, a retired merchant and ex-President of the Board of Trade. The trouble arose from a dispute as to the whereabouts of Paterson's will, which he claimed to have left with Kerr as lawyer. A case of insulting language preferred by Kerr against Paterson was dismissed. Both are prominent trustees of the Metropolitan Methodist Church.

Contractor John Shields and Captain Sylvester Neelon appeared before the Civic Executive Committee yesterday to press the claims of the St. Catharines and Niagara Central Railway Company for a bonus or subsidy from the Dominion Government. The following motion was passed: "That the Council be requested to pass a petition asking the Dominion Government to grant the subsidy, and that a committee consisting of His Worship the Mayor, Chairman of the Executive, and Ald. Denison, Davies and Veker, wait upon the Government and impress on it the great advantage to the commercial interests of Toronto likely to accrue on the completion of that section of the road between St. Catharines and Toronto.

It is reported that Gillespie, Ansley & Martin, wholesale furriers, have had a difficulty with the custom authorities, which has resulted in the firm being mulcted to the tune of $5000. Both the members of the firm and the authorities refuse to talk.

It is recorded against the name of Edward White, (336½ Yonge-street, arrested last night, that he attempted to steal a dog, the property of Wm. Flynn. According to the latter's story Flynn's dog was walking soberly behind its owner in Yonge-street when the prisoner came along and grabbed it. He refused to give it up and was run in.

The admirers of the heavy horse from all parts of the Province assembled at the Toronto Drill Shed yesterday to witness the Clydes' contest for honors. It was the third annual spring show of the Clydesdale Horse Association of Canada. Both morning and afternoon the spacious building was crowded with spectators, who seemed to take great interest in the big horses as they were led about, their manes decorated with various colored ribbons. The show on a whole was certainly the best yet held by the Association and the animals did credit to the country. Mr. Beith of Bowmanville was a prominent exhibitor, his stock being a fine lot. The interest taken in the first-class that came before the judges, that of Canadian bred Clydesdale stallions, showed that the agriculturists of the Dominion are aware of the necessity of securing good, serviceable home-bred animals. In this class first prize was awarded to William Gregg's Glenlee, bred by the exhibitor at Claremont. Glenlee also secured the sweepstake prize. In the next class, that of Canadian Clydesdale stallions, foaled subsequent to Jan. 1, 1888, John Bell's L'Amaroux secured first prize, the only other entry being Alex. Doherty's Merry Boy.

A Government caucus was held in room 16 at the Legislative buildings yesterday. The chief subject was that of opening the railway question. It was decided that colonization railways would receive encouragement, notably those which would open up the northwestern part of the Province.

It is understood that they announced their intention of granting aid to the following proposed railways:

$2000 per mile for fifty miles of road from Port Arthur to Sand Lake, amounting in all to $150,000 to that district.

$3000 per mile for 28 miles, from a point on Manitoulin Island, to connect with the Canadian Pacific Railway.

$3000 per mile for a road from Parry Sound to the Northern and Pacific Railway junction.

$2000 for 50 miles on a railroad beginning east of Palmer Rapids and terminating 30 miles east of Westport.

It is not at all improbable but the Government will also consider before the House rises the advisability of granting aid to the Nipissing and James' Bay railway, although it is believed they did not announce this as yet. The Government are fully alive to the representations made that the newly-settled districts of the Province are entitled to assistance in the line of railway development.

Probably Fatal Fall.

HAMILTON, March 15.—Mr. Robt. Woods, who was an oldtime resident of Dundas and for years foreman of the Dundas foundry, fell from a hay mow and received injuries from which he will probably die. The unfortunate gentleman, who is now engaged in farming near Copetown, was preparing to feed the stock and by some means fell through the mow. When picked up it was ascertained that his injuries were of a very serious nature. Drs. Ross and Mallock were soon in attendance, and it was discovered that either his ribs or the cartilage connecting with his spine had been fractured. He is paralyzed in the lower limbs from the effect of the accident and it is feared that he will not recover.

Montreal Malefactors.

MONTREAL, March 15.—In the Court of Queen's Bench yesterday among the true bills returned by the grand jury were: Marie Girard, Eva Peltier and J. Personne, perjury; Andre Mainville, rape; J. A. Cousins, E. Rooney and L. S. Chaffer, obtaining money under false pretences; Nap. Lecroque, forgery of signatures to application for liquor licenses. No bill was returned in the case of Wm. Disterle, charged by Feodor Boss with obtaining money under false pretences. The trial of John Benson for the murder of his wife was continued yesterday, the evidence being unfavorable to Benson.

Death at a Wedding.

WYOMING, Ont., March 15.—While a wedding was taking place Wednesday evening at the residence of John Paul, second line of Plympton, Mrs. McIntosh, wife of Rev. Mr. McIntosh of Mandeamin Presbyterian Church, went into one of the bedrooms to lay aside her wraps. A few moments later she was found lying on the floor dead. The cause of her death was apoplexy. She leaves four sons and five daughters.

Expansion of British Trade With Canada.

LONDON, March 15.—A meeting of the Anticosti Company has been convened for voluntary liquidation, as F. W. Stockwell is unable to provide the purchase price. The directors expect that the property when sold as a result of the winding up, will more than suffice to pay the debts and expenses, and repay the shareholders the full amount of their subscription.

British trade expanded last month both in exports to and imports from Canada. The former increased £21,230, or equal to five per cent.; the latter £23,463, or equal to twelve per cent.

A $50,000 Fire.

MARION, Ind., March 14.—The window glass factory of Stewart, Estes & Co. was burnt to-day; loss $50,000.

Brought Her Plunder.

WINDSOR, March 15.—Magistrate Bartlett yesterday morning continued the case against Mrs. Trumble for one week. She is charged with bringing stolen property into Canada, and was arrested at the instigation of a clerk who saw her steal some goods in Newcomb, Endicotte & Co.'s, Detroit, and followed her to Windsor before he could make up his mind to have her arrested.

VOICES FROM BELLEVILLE.

Some Bay City Converts of Crossley and Hunter.

An Interesting Meeting at the George Street Church—Mayor Diamond not Present as Expected—Some Earnest Testimonies from the Visitors—Short Addresses by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter—The Belleville People Entertained.

At half past seven last night the George Street Church was besieged by crowds of people. At each door there was an eager party vainly seeking admittance, for hundreds had to be turned away. There was no alternative. Some provision had to be made for the expected excursionists from Belleville, and about 200 seats were roped in at the front of the church. All around the people were crowded into every available space, and large numbers had to stand up throughout the service. The interval of awaiting the arrival of the Belleville party was filled in with singing. Mr. Crossley, by request, singing "My ain Countree."

SPECIAL PRAYER.

The following special requests for prayer were also read :—For a brother-in-law and sister-in-law who lately joined a church, but, having been persuaded that there is no harm in a parlor dance, were having a party for that purpose at their home this evening; for a neighbour and his wife still unsaved; for a brother and his wife, the latter being sick; for a large family; for two young women under deep conviction; for a young man; for two young men, one of whom has expressed a desire to be saved; for two brothers and a friend; for a sister and her husband; for two young men; for a woman who is sick; a mother on behalf of her boy; prayers were requested for a brother in Boston, also for an unconverted brother at home; for a father; for a husband, father and brother; for a husband who never comes to church; for a brother in Toronto; for a friend dying with consumption; for a father, mother and sister; a mother on a sick bed on behalf of her young children.

At this juncture the Belleville people to the number of about one hundred and twenty-five arrived. Rev. Mr. Learoyd, of the Bridge street church, Wm. Johnston, superintendent, Mr. C. P. Holton, Bible class leader, and a number of Bellevillians took places on the platform. The order of services was varied somewhat, the experiences of the Belleville people occupying till nearly ten o'clock.

REV. MR. HUNTER

read a part of the 25th chapter of Matthew, and in his comments pointed out that the "loving sacrifice" mentioned in the chapter was but a reasonable Christian service and a service they should be prepared to yield to Christ. The passage "Conform not to this world" he urged upon Christians as a very necessary part of their conduct, yet he said a good many of them were to be found at the theatre instead of at the revival services. He also urged Christians to act upon the Scriptural injunction : "In love preferring one another," and to "live peaceably with all men." This passage said nothing about women, but he supposed it was intended to include them also. There were some women it would be impossible to live at peace with, and for that matter a great many men too. But by "heaping coals of fire on their heads" all our enemies can be killed. It was much easier to settle these matters here than at the judgment bar. Mr. Hunter concluded his address by quoting :—"Do not evil but overcome evil with good"; that, he said, was his motto.

IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

Rev. Mr. Crossley next made a short address upon the subject : "Is life worth living?" It was, he said, but only as a Christian. A moral life, riches and earthly honors and pleasures, or infidelity, were all unsatisfying portions; their end is eternal death. But the service of God was satisfying, in life and at death; its reward was a glorious eternity beyond. What did the unsaved intend to do to make life worth living? He earnestly impressed upon them the necessity of coming to Jesus if life was to be made worth living.

FROM THE BAY CITY.

A number of the Belleville people then addressed the meeting.

Rev. Mr. Learoyd gave a brief account of the result of Messrs. Crossley and Hunter's services there a year ago. He said it was a blessed work, and in all his Methodistic life he had never seen such a religious awakening. The Bridge street church took in at that time about 400 members, and other churches also had large addition to their membership as an outcome of the services. The results had been most stable and satisfactory, and here they were to-night, a hundred of them, earnest, living powerful Christians who were there to testify to the blessedness of that revival work. He questioned if there was a more live and energetic church in the conference than the Bridge street church, Belleville, and yet the pillars of that church were the babes who had received their spiritual birth at the revival. The young people who were converted at that time were all working for the Master under church guidance, and they were becoming giants in Christ. Rev. Mr. Learoyd said he hoped for a similar blessing upon the operations of Messrs. Crossley and Hunter here.

Mr. Wm. Johnston said he would not speak further than to explain the absence of Mayor Diamond, of Belleville, who had intended being present. He read the following letter from that gentleman :—

THE MAYOR'S LETTER.

BELLEVILLE, March 14.

My Dear Brother Hunter:

I had made every arrangement to be present with you this evening, but at the last moment a matter has arisen that requires my personal assistance, connected with city business, that prevents me leaving here. I assure you that I regret this disappointment, but my official duty must in this instance stand paramount to my individual pleasure, even in this church matter.

It will be a year ago on the 21st day of this month when

> "I heard the voice of Jesus say
> Come unto me and rest—
> Lay down, thou weary one, lay down
> Thy head upon my breast.
> I went to Jesus as I was,
> Weary and worn and sad;
> I found in Him a resting place,
> And He has made me glad."

For the year I have been "led beside still waters," and I am endeavoring to live as a meek and lowly follower of my blessed Master.

I pray that the work in Peterborough will be abundantly blessed and that hundreds be added to the Church of God.

Remember me to Mr. Crossley.

Yours in faith,

W. JEFFERS DIAMOND.

Mr. Johnston said the son of whom he had spoken on his last visit, as being instrumental in the Mayor's conversion, was present, and would perhaps speak. Mr. Johnston was pleased to observe marked success since he had been here last, and he hoped for still greater things.

Mr. Holton, leader of the ladies' Bible class of the Bridge street church, numbering 130, spoke of the results of the revival work there. Of his own Bible class, he said, there were 23 who were led to Christ a year ago, and of that number 20 were still firm in the faith, leaving 14 of whom he was a little anxious. His heart was rejoicing at the success of the services, at which so many were led to Christ.

Mr. Sergeant, a railroad man, related his experience, and a moment of silent prayer was spent in behalf of the railroad men of Peterborough.

Mr. R. Vernallyes, a merchant, who had been saved largely by the prayers and solicitations of his wife at these meetings; Mr. Carscallen, a commercial traveller, who had been shown the way to Christ by his ten year old girl who died about four years ago; Mr. Charles Wilkins, Inspector of Fisheries, one of the oldest men in Belleville and an Episcopalian in religion; Mr. Alford, another grey-haired old man; Mr. Ketchenon, a government official who had been converted the last night of the Belleville meetings—all these spoke a few words relating the circumstances of their conversion at Messrs. Crossley and Hunter's meetings in the Bay City a year ago.

Two young men also gave their experiences—Mr. R. Gordon, one of Mr. Johnson's Sunday School pupils, and Mr. Ed. Howard, one of the heroes of Batoche. The latter told of how the imminent danger of death on the battle field roused him to a sense of his position and he resolved that if he ever got home he would give his heart to the Lord. It was not however till the evangelists came to Belleville that he was able to yield himself to Jesus.

There not being time for others of the visiting contingent to speak, the after-meeting for the benefit of those seeking salvation was began, at which many hearts were turned to God.

NOTES.

The choir was unusually large last night. Every seat provided for the singers was occupied.

To night's meeting will be the last in the George street church of the present series, next week's services being in St. Paul's.

Among the Bellevillians were Messrs. P. Harrison, of the Intelligencer, and H. McDiarmid, of the Ontario.

Mr. Crossley and Miss Nellie Wrighton sang "The Song of Trust" in duet.

The earnest, simple testimony of the Belleville brethren made an impression upon the vast congregation and no doubt many hearts were reached in this way. After the meeting the Bellevillians were entertained at supper in the basement, where the ladies of the church had spread a substantial repast. The visitors were grateful for the kindness shown them by the George street church people. Their train left for home about 11 o'clock.

For the first time since the beginning of these meetings Mr. Hunter had to speak to some young men who were misconducting themselves in the gallery last night. He plainly told them that no whispering or unseemly behavior would be tolerated for an instant.

The evangelists took a lively interest in the testimonies of the Belleville people. They hung eagerly upon their words, and frequently interjected a remark as the old scenes were brought back to their memories.

Rev. Mr. Hunter, at last night's meeting, put in a good word for the town papers, urging the people to buy copies of the daily editions to send to their friends.

Seeking a Subsidy.

WARKWORTH, March 15.—A meeting of the ratepayers of the township of Percy was held here Wednesday evening for the purpose of appointing delegates to wait on the Dominion and Ontario Governments to urge that a subsidy be granted the Cobourg and Northumberland Railway. J. Humphreys, A. M. Hamilton, Dr. Richards, F. H. Carlaw and Allan Spiers were appointed to wait on the Dominion Government, and W. Beasley, P. Gallagher and C. A. Mallory to wait on the Ontario Government.

A Fatal Accident.

AGINCOURT, March 15.—While James Kennedy, an aged resident of this place, was driving a team of horses assisting to move a building on the premises of S. J. Patterson, he missed his footing and before the building could be stopped it had been drawn over his body injuring him fatally. He was taken to his home but expired a few minutes afterwards. An inquest was thought unnecessary.

Scott Act Cases at Whitby.

WHITBY, March 15.—Three Scott Act fines have been inflicted by Magistrate Horn: John Brery, Epsom, $100; P. Gleason, Greenwood, $100; George China, Brooklyn, $100; R. Willcockson, Columbus, $100.

Whipped by White Caps.

BALTIMORE, March 15.—White Caps whipped James Hatton, a prominent colored politician, at Purgotesgue, Va., a few days ago. Hatton was left unconscious and is badly used up.

AUSTIN FLINT, M.D., late professor of the principles of practice of medicine and of clinical medicine in the Bellevue Hospital Medical College, says of Bright's disease : "Pain in the loins is rarely a prominent symptom, and is often wanting. This statement also applies to tenderness on pressure over kidneys." It is not safe, therefore, to argue that you have not kidney disease because you have no local symptoms of it. Your only sure plan is to use Warner's Safe Cure as soon as the most remote symptoms appear.

Health Failing Fast.

"I was swollen from head to foot from dropsy of six months' standing, and my health was failing fast, but after taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters I am quite well, and think there is no medicine equal to B. B. B., and to it I remain a true friend." Joseph Heric, Linwood, Ont. 2w10d

Partly Gave Up.

"In the year 1885 I coughed for six months, and having unsuccessfully tried many remedies, I partly gave up, thinking I had consumption. At last I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, less than one bottle of which cured me, leaving me as well as ever I was." Henry W. Carse, Wabash, Ont. 2w10d.

Your Life in Danger.

Take time by the forelock ere that rasping, hacky cough of yours carries you where so many Consumptives have preceded you; lose no time, but procure a bottle of the rational remedy for Lung and Bronchial Diseases, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES. It will cure you. Sold by all Druggists, at 50c. and $1 00 4w10eod

Eczema, Itchy, Scaly Skin Tortures.

The simple application of "Swayne's Ointment," without any internal medicine, will cure any case of Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Piles, Itch, Sores, Pimples, Eczema, all Scaly Itching Skin Eruptions, no matter how obstinate or long standing. It is potent, effective, and costs but a trifle. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents. dw

A High Valuation.

"If there was only one bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil in Manitoba, I would give one hundred dollars for it," writes Philip H. Brant, of Monteith, Manitoba, after having used it for a severe wound and for frozen fingers, with, as he says, "astonishing good results." 2w10d

Nothing Like It.

"I was troubled with liver complaint for a good many years, but was cured by one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters. I have never found any medicine to help me like B. B. B., in fact one bottle made a complete cure." W. J. Bust, Parkhill, Ont. 2w10d

INDIGESTION can be effectually cured by the use of Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine. This admirable tonic is invaluable in cases of Appetite and General Debility. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6d56

MUNCASTER'S

ROYAL PURPLE.

They jogged dismally along through the night. Beverlin had hoped they might encounter Dr. Carroll along the way, in a more comfortable vehicle, hurrying belated to meet the train, and thus alleviate his present distresses; but there was no such luck. The night had grown intensely dark; there should have been a moon visible, but it was heavily beclouded and apparently millions of miles away from the earth. A fresh wind blew in his face; he could hear its moaning in the trees alongside as the heavy branches bowed to its triumphant power. At length the jolting coach stopped suddenly, with a jerk, and Beverlin inquired with solicitude if one of the horses had fallen down.

"Land no, sah, nuffin dat kind; dey'd stan' any 'mount of trabelin'; dey's used to it, and dey's tough, dey is—sound to de co'. Aw, no; but axin' yer pahding, sah, dis yere's de place, if you all's a mind to git out, sah—heek, heek!" This remark was followed by so much convulsive restraint that Beverlin was beset with fears of immediate epilepsy for his companion. He could not see the negro's face now for the darkness, but he could feel the condition he was in, the very atmosphere seeming to convey it to his over sensitive nerves.

"Just put my sachel and things there by the gate, will you?" he said, preparing to alight with unusual alacrity.

"Oh, you nevah mind dat, sah; I'll see you clair inter de house. I don't reckon no othah niggah in de country would do dat for hub nor money—but Aaron couldn't leave you, seein' de fix you's all in—heak, heak!"

"It is not necessary at all," replied Beverlin.

"It is not necessary at all," replied Beverlin, anxious to get rid of the fellow and poking a bill at him, for he could feel him still indulging that silent merriment. "I prefer to take my time about it. Thank you, that will do."

"All right, sah—as you please—heek, heek—ga lang, Jeremiah; ga lang, Lamentation—heek, heek, heek!"

"Rid of him at last, thank fortune!" Beverlin leaned against the adjacent stone wall and drew a long breath of inexpressible relief. Within the enclosure, over the ledge, he could trace the outline of the house; more imaginary than definite, perhaps, for the faint illumination from a lamp lit interior did not seem to penetrate the external blackness to any great extent. It was only a point of indication. Was there a gate? Where? Reconnoitering a little he soon fumbled against one. This step was a palpable discovery, as it settled the direction toward the house; such being the usual construction of country parterres that a straight line between the gate and the front door was evidently the shortest distance between two given points. This method of reasoning soon caused him to proceed in his halting, hampered fashion up the broad stone pathway toward the beacon light, distant thirty yards or more. Eventually he reached the front door. The door was standing hospitably open, and in order to ring the bell it was necessary to enter the hall, the bell being, by a peculiar contrivance, adjusted into the door itself. He entered, therefore, and was just about to tackle this tocsin when a broad gleam of light from an apartment to his left attracted his notice, and, knowing Carroll's bachelor proclivities, he took a step toward this room as if to surprise his friend reading. A single glance informed him that the room was unoccupied, and, retreating toward the portal rather shamefacedly, he gave the bell a tremendous pull, which resounded with a certain gong like clamor, sufficient to have awakened the dead. Beverlin feared it was rather unmannerly to be making such a noise in the house of a stranger, and wondered if his effort had not deranged the machinery of the implement in a measure. Observing at length the internal disregard of his first onslaught, he gave such a pull as sent him staggering to the door post and damaged the ringing powers of the apparatus for several days time. No result.

"Hope I haven't aroused the spooks with all this confounded jangle! However, the thing's done for now," he said to himself, rather hopelessly. "Reckon I may as well go inside and make myself comfortable." Then he dragged his satchel and belongings inside the door and hobbled on into the lamplight of the adjoining room.

CHAPTER II.

THE LETTER OF ROYAL PURPLE.

It was a square room, full of windows and doors—it seemed to be all doors. One jutting bay window overlooked the direction of his late approach; the windows were shut down and the shutters barred. Opposite the door by which he had entered, a large double door with glass in the upper sashes appeared to lead out upon an annexed piazza; it also was closed, and the curtain of one side pulled up awry. Doubtless a view of the river and harbor was obtainable from such a vantage. Within the grate opposite the bay window a low fire was glimmering; it was almost out. "Assuredly a very warm welcome," murmured Beverlin, as he stood there speculating about his peculiar reception. A door just beyond the fireplace stood slightly ajar. It led apparently into another room of an equal size, where another lamp was similarly burning. Beverlin's curiosity led him to take a peep inside—fancying that the errant Carroll might yet be discovered at a late supper. Nobody there. Wearied and disgusted he sank into a comfortable arm chair, drawn up to the table which bore the lamp, and looked about him. Surely Carroll would be in soon, and he would sit there and wait for him. What a queer house—all open this way to thunder storms and thieves; but then, Carroll always was eccentric, never did things like anybody else! His eyes roved around the walls; they were decently decorated, and a neat matting covered the floor. An engraving which overtopped the mantelpiece region engaged his thoughts for awhile. He tried to unravel why a Scotch lassie, in a rather limited costume, was gazing out over a spread of water; he wondered what the picture was meant to convey. "Something from Scott, I suppose," said he, settling the doubt. His gaze wandered to the other pictorial specimens. They were not noteworthy. One was a damaged engraving of Landseerian dogs, and one a photograph of a church. There were also two pieces of framed tapestry which caused him to grin, one representing a ruined abbey with blue walls, over which very light green ivy was clambering (possibly a moonlight effect), and the other a pastoral love scene wherein a pretty milkmaid bestowed a rose upon a hulking plow boy over a mastodon fence; the landscape very small in proportion to the mammoth figures peopling it. "Heirlooms," said Beverlin, with a slight laugh.

Enormous Fortunes.

Notwithstanding the enormous fortunes accumulated through the use of printer's ink, large sums of money are annually wasted in ineffectual and unremunerative advertising.

The merits of a really valuable commodity properly portrayed in the columns of an influential and widely-read newspaper, like the EXAMINER, will speedily become generally known and appreciated, while the returns reaped by the advertiser will more than justify the amount expended.

Clearness, attractiveness, brevity and sincerity must characterise any announcement intended to catch the public eye and appeal to public confidence. An advertisement inserted in a London journal a few days ago brought instant and multitudinous replies accompanied by an almost unlimited supply of bank notes, simply because it touched the chord of nature which makes all mankind akin. Its simple pathos and self-evident truthfulness appealed to every heart.

The advertiser sought for a lost relative and, giving his name, said: "I am ill and friendless. My last half crown is expended in paying for this advertisement. Write me at"—(giving the address). As already stated, nearly every one who read the announcement hastened to relieve the necessities of the sufferer.

Thus it is with a really meritorious commodity or preparation; if its virtues be properly and truthfully set forth in the public press, its success is prompt and certain.

On the other hand, the public is quick and unerring to detect deception and charlatanry; and, accordingly, no amount of "puffery" will force a vile nostrum into public esteem and patronage.

Valuable medicines, like Warner's Safe Remedies carry their own best commendation in their power to cure the particular diseases for which they are a specific.

They require no labored panegyric to convince the people of their power and efficacy, for they have been tried and found perfect.

Fire Protection.

A Rhode Island, U. S., firm have just completed a new and improved system of waterworks for the Auburn mills. The pipes are so arranged that in case of fire their perforated sides automatically opens and sprinkle the water all over the room, flooding it in a few minutes. The pipes are kept full of water from an elevated tank. This system is said to furnish excellent fire protection.

Curtana.

The point game was concluded yesterday afternoon, but no better scores were made than those of Messrs. Ferguson and Walker, 17 each. These two gentlemen played off the tie, the latter winning the club medal.

The Millbrook curlers offer a puerile excuse for their defeat by the juniors Saturday night. They tell the Reporter that "if they had not to leave on the train they would undoubtedly have beaten the Peterborough club."

How Strange It is

To see people starting at the head of George street, passing all the grocery houses on the street, thereby giving them the go-by, and coming to a halt at the Opera House Block, to secure some of W. J. Morrow's celebrated teas. One half the population of Peterborough are using our now celebrated 25c. tea. For the next few years we will sell goods away below other houses, so you can always rely on buying goods cheaper from us than elsewhere. Watch for our Saturday bargains and be sure to call.

Real Estate Change.

Mr. James Yule, not being able to resist the attractions of Peterborough as a place of residence, will take up his abode on Albert street in the solid brick house he has purchased from Mr. Edward Webb, sr., for $1,075.

A Fortunate Discovery.

For the past two years a little child of Mr. Thomas Farrington, No. 50 Patterson street, has been under treatment for an obscure nasal affection, with the symptoms of nasal polypus and nasal catarrh. Dr. Yelland, assisted by Dr. Scott, made an exploration, under chloroform, and discovered the cause of the trouble in the shape of a ladies' boot button, which had been impacted in the child's nostril for two years.

The Spur Line.

The first train passed over the new C.P.R. switch line to-day, four cars of wheat being left at Meldrum & Davidson's mill. The "formal opening" of the spur was duly celebrated by the mill and railway employees. Further work will be discontinued for the present, but as soon as the frost is out of the ground the line will be finished to the new mills.

Just Mention It.

The lecture and concert at the Opera House on Monday evening March 18th, are now the principal topics of conversation. Mr. J. J. Curran Q.C.M.P. of Montreal, who lectures on Ireland and her Cause is one of the most talented and finished orators in the Dominion. And a very rare treat may be looked for. Miss Waite of Beecher's church choir, Brooklyn's queen of song whose fame has preceded her and the local favorites who are to take part in the concert are too well known to need any mention. Secure your seats early at Doucet's music store as plan is rapidly filling up.

Auction Sale of Boots and Shoes

on Saturday, March 16th. I am instructed to sell, without reserve, the bankrupt stock of boots and shoes of the estate of T. B. Hymeneal

On Thursday last Mr. Saunder Free and Miss Louisa Slogett, of Seymour township, were married and are now enjoying a honeymoon trip to Washington. The bridesmaids were Miss Martin, of Stirling, and Miss Stevenson, of Peterborough. The groomsmen were Mr. Casement, of Lakefield, and Mr. C. Aggett, of Perry. Over seventy guests witnessed the ceremony and as soon as the congratulations were given they had an opportunity of viewing the many valuable presents which filled a large table provided for their reception.

The Peterborough Bookstore.

The Publishers' Weekly, New York, says:—"Mr. J. R. Stratton, proprietor of the Peterborough Daily Examiner, as well as of the large and growing book and stationary business which bears his name, has secured a lease of the whole block heretofore occupied by the Peterborough Bookstore (late A. L. Davis & Co.), and has also purchased this business and added it to his own. The whole of this block, three stories in height, and also the second story throughout of the block next south has been refitted and renewed with the special requirements of the several departments in view, and Mr. J. R. Stratton finds himself possessor of one of the largest premises for business within the province of Ontario."

History of Masonry.

The lecture delivered by John Ross Robertson, proprietor of the Toronto Telegram, in the Masonic Hall, Port Hope, last night, was a rare treat to the craft, of whom there were a large number present. Mr. Robertson held the attention of the audience for over an hour and a half in an exhaustive account of Freemasonry, its trials and vicissitudes, dating back over a period of one hundred years. He dealt largely with statistics and especially touched on the life of Freemasonry in Canada. The success of the order here has been phenomenal within the last few years, and at times the lecturer grew eloquent as he reviewed the grand work of the order in our midst. He left for Brockville to-day, and thence goes to Ottawa, Brantford and Sarnia.

In the Stomach of a Horse.

A peculiar case is reported to the Campbellford Herald from the township of Methuen, county of Peterborough. Its informant, Mr. W. H. Cassiday, says that a farmer named James Thompson, who resides in that part of the country, has a horse that became sick and was in such distressing pain that he was about to end its misery with a rifle ball. Fearing the trouble might have arisen from bots or some other cause of that nature, Mr. Thompson administered several doses of a strong medicine, which seemed to alleviate the suffering, but to his great surprise he discovered that soon afterwards the animal had passed a yellow-bellied snake nine inches in length. The reptile was dead, but was evidently alive before the medicine was administered, and was the cause of the intense pain. It is possible that the horse, while drinking, swallowed the snake when it was small, and that it lodged in the stomach and thrived until the medicine was given, which killed it, and it afterwards passed out of the stomach with the food.

A California Letter.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 22nd, 1889.

"Blessed thou the land where the lemon trees bloom!
Where the golden orange glows in the deep shadowy gloom!
Where a wind ever soft from the blue Heaven blows,
And the groves are of laurel and myrtle and rose!"—Goethe.

Dear Examiner:—As this is the "dull" season with news seekers in your town, perhaps a brief description of the orange groves of Southern California may prove of interest to many of your readers.

About the first thing an Eastern visitor wants to do on his arrival here is to visit an orange grove and "pick an orange with his own hands," and there is perhaps no industry in Southern California more interesting than the raising and marketing of oranges.

The orange was first introduced into this country over one hundred years ago by the Jesuit Fathers, and as witness of the longevity of the trees, many of them planted then still produce excellent fruit.

The orange has figured in tradition, song and story from the time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, and there is a halo of romance about these "Golden apples of Hesperides," which even a close inspection of an orange grove will not dispel, for some features cherished by those who have only seen a grove as their fancy painted it, are decidedly common-place and inconvenient. The trees, to the number of forty to the acre, are planted in regular rows, and the soil is continually being loosened or ploughed up and kept damp by irrigation. Hence you cannot lie on green sward 'neath the trees and dreamily gaze through the waxen leaves to cerulean space beyond. Neither can you, as in the Canadian apple orchard, go to sleep in a hammock under wide spreading boughs, nor enjoy the exquisite pleasure of extracting the reckless caterpillar which drops into your mouth while you were courting the god of slumber. A good deal of poetry may be found in an orange grove, but there *is also a matter-of-*fact and strictly business look about it that one does not anticipate.

Orange growing is undoubtedly a paying industry in the hands of an experienced fruit-raiser, some orchards bringing $1,000 per acre on the trees and what would be called ordinary fruit bringing from $300 to $500 per acre. But to bear well, the trees require more care than does a stable of thoroughbred horses, and an orange grove is a decidedly poor investments for those who think that such a possession means an independent fortune for life.

The orange tree blossoms early in February, and continues in flower until the last of March, while the fruit sets in about March and attains full maturity in from nine to twelve months thereafter. The blossom is pure white and of the most delicate texture and exquisite fragrance.

Up to a year or so ago Los Angeles boasted of the largest orange grove in the world. But, being in the hears of the city, the vandal hand of the "boom" was laid upon it, and a large portion was turned over to real estate speculators, who made quick sales of it in town lots. Necessarily, then, many trees had to be rooted up; and now the glory of the famous Wolfskill orange grove is not what it used to be. This orchard originally contained 110 acres, planted to over 12,000 trees, 4,000 of which were lemon. This great orchard has been known to yield, in one season, 20,000 boxes of oranges, 7,000 boxes of lemons, and several hundred boxes of choice limes. The boxes hold an average of 149 oranges. There are 2,000 trees in this orchard which are nearly a half century old, from which are obtained oranges that have no rival in any market. About this garden spot the city stretches on all sides, and its fragrant, shaded aisles are penetrated by the busy hum of commerce.

The main part of this orchard is still a delightful spot to visit, and recently, with some friends, I took a stroll down its avenues, fragrant with the breath of orange flowers, which were mingled with the golden globes of ripened fruit. There was a tropic warmth and brightness in the air, but down the long vista, far over the smiling plains, we could see the rugged uplift of the mighty Sierras, frosted with the snows of countless years.

The heavily laden trees beckoned to us down the straight, long vistas, and the fruit was as tempting as that from the sun-kissed isles of the Orient. The water in the irrigating canal flowed musically past, and in silver ripples swept beneath the shade of orange trees which were mirrored on its bosom. The fresh, weedless soil smelled sweet, and there, around, ripe oranges lay amid its furrows.

Down in the packing houses was a line of busy workers sorting the oranges, putting the best and cleanest into boxes for shipment and throwing aside those of a poorer grade to sell to peddlars, who dispose of them upon the streets, or to the various families whom they supply.

There were long rows of boxes, neatly packed, the oranges looking as much alike as two pins, just so many in each layer and not a waste space between them.

An orange grove is a delightful spot for rest, and the old pictures which our fancy painted in the far away past came back to us there, but they were no richer in sunshine and shadow, no lovelier in tint or shade, no fairer in their changing perspective, no fuller of perfume and beauty, than was the orange grove where we wandered under the cloudless skies of Southern California.

The most beautiful days of Southern California are to be seen during the winter months. The summers are fair in their cloudless skies, in abundant fruits, in tropic calm, in bed and blossom, in the unfailing green of the alfalfa fields, and the cool emerald of the bending trees. But the winters are perfect in all things—in sun and rain, in delightfulness of temperature, in marvellous growth, and in the untold harvests springing upon the plains and hillsides. The average number of rainy days out of the season is not more than 35, and there are probably more fair days in this season than there are during the whole year in Canada. These rains are thrice welcome to the Californian, and it has been truly said that the sweetest music that ever cheers his ear is the soft pattering of "the rain upon the roof."

At this writing, enough rain has fallen to reveal the glories of the climate and productiveness of the soil. The farmers with their ploughs are busy all along the gentle slopes and great plains. The new orange crop is now being harvested and shipped. The gardens are redolent with the fragrance of a thousand flowers. The lawns are covered with Kentucky blue-grass, while the hills, slopes and plains far and wide are carpeted with inch-high grasses, green as emerald and soft as velvet.

Yours truly,
Carl L. Smart.

Honesty and Intelligence.

It pays to be honest, you say.
Granted.
Yet how many are dishonest through ignorance, expediency, or intentionally. One can be dishonest and yet say nothing.

A clerk who lets a customer buy a damaged piece of goods, a witness who holds back the truth which would clear a prisoner, a medical practitioner who takes his patient's money when he knows he is doing him no good—all are culpably dishonest.

It is generally known that doctors bind themselves by codes, resolutions and oaths not to use any advertised medicines. Now, there is a medicine on the market which, for the past ten years, has accomplished a marvelous amount of good in the cure of kidney and liver diseases, and diseases arising from the derangement of these great organs—we refer to Warner's Safe Cure. So wide-spread are the merits of this medicine that the majority of the doctors of this country know from actual evidence that it will cure advanced kidney disease, which is but another name for Bright's Disease.

The medical profession admit that there is no cure for this terrible malady, yet there are physicians dishonest enough to procure Warner's Safe Cure, put the same into plain four-ounce vials, and charge their patients $2.00 per vial, when a sixteen-ounce bottle of the remedy, in its original package, can be bought at any drug store in the world for $1.25.

Perhaps the doctor argues that the cure of the patient justifies his dishonesty, yet he will boldly stand up at the next local medical meeting and denounce Warner's Safe Cure as a patent medicine, and one which he cannot and will not use.

The people are waking up to the truth that the medical profession is far from honest, and that it does not possess a monopoly of wisdom in the curing of disease, doctoring the many symptoms of kidney disease, instead of striking at the seat of disease—the kidneys themselves—allowing patients to die rather than use a remedy known to be a specific, simply because it has been advertised, and when patients are dead from Advanced Kidney Disease, still practising deception by giving the cause of death in their certificate as pneumonia, dropsy, heart disease, or some other accompanying effect of Bright's Disease.

Chancery Court.

The Spring Sittings Opened—Fisher vs. Fisher Being Tried.

Chancery Court was opened at the Court House at one o'clock this afternoon, Mr. Justice Robertson presiding. The bar was represented by several local lawyers and the following from a distance:—W. Cassells, Q. C., G. T. Blackstock and G. H. Watson, Toronto; W. H. Biggar, Belleville. The first case was that of—

Fisher vs. Fisher.—The plaintiff, Luke A. C. Fisher, claims to set aside a deed dated ——, 1874, from the Rev. Mark Burnham to the defendant Jessie E. Fisher, of Lot 191, N. Driscoll street, in the Village of Ashburnham, or to have the said lot partitioned or sold and the purchase money divided in such proportion as their interests may appear, on the alleged ground that the plaintiff's uncle, Hugh Fisher, paid a portion of the purchase to the Rev. Mark Burnham, and that the said lot was devised by the said Hugh Fisher to the plaintiff. The defendant sets up that her father, the late William Fisher, the purchaser, paid the greater portion of the purchase money, and that any money paid by her uncle, Hugh Fisher, was paid by way of advancement, as he stood in loco parentis to her; hence she claims the said lot as the sole heir-at-law of her father. Messrs. E. B. Edwards and J. W. Bennett for the plaintiff, and Messrs. G. T. Blackstock and W. A. Stratton for the defendant.

The other cases to be tried are Kemp vs. Fife and Fitzgerald vs. the Midland Railway Company.

TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL

THE PUBLIC ACCOUNTS COMMITTEE HOLD A HOT SESSION.

A Bill Introduced in the House to Compel Telegraph and Telephone Wires to be Put Underground.

Ottawa, March 15.—The Senate yesterday continued its discussion of Hon. John Macdonald's trade resolution and the House took up the adjourned debate on the Budget. The speakers in the House were Mr. Wood (Westmoreland), Bechard, Gigault, Amyot, Sproule and McMillan of Huron. Mr. Cockburn moved the adjournment of the debate, which will not be continued until Tuesday, when by arrangement it will be closed.

Only one bill was introduced yesterday, by Mr. Perley of Ottawa, to provide for the compulsory placing of all telephone, telegraph and electric light wires underground, the bill to go into effect on Jan. 1 next. The bill applies to the whole of Canada.

The House adjourned at 12.25 this morning.

There was a three hours' session of the Public Accounts Committee yesterday morning, at which there was a good deal of lively talk. It is asserted by the Liberal members that the clothing supplied the volunteers by Canadian manufacturers is of an inferior quality and that it could be purchased more cheaply in England and a far better article supplied.

The contracts for militia clothing are not awarded by public competition but are practically awarded between three or four firms: One at Halifax, two at Montreal and one at Hamilton. Senator W. E. Sandford's Hamilton company was paid $50,000 last year for militia clothing, James O'Brien of Montreal $19,000, and Doull & Miller of Halifax $19,000. Mr. Mulock got the committee to pass a motion summoning Senator Sandford to appear. The House when it met endorsed the resolution and it was sent over to the Senate.

Another matter discussed was the case of Henry Smyth, M.P., of Chatham, Ont., who holds a roving commission from the Agricultural Department as an immigration agent. Mr. Campbell, the present member for Kent, in which Chatham is situated, wanted to make a statement to the committee that Mr. Smyth had drawn money from the Department for services that he had never performed and for expenses which he had never incurred, in fact the charge was one of fraud. Mr. Campbell is not a member of the Public Accounts Committee, and Mr. Somerville wanted to have him examined. This, however, the Conservative members would not agree to unless Mr. Smyth was present to cross-examine Mr. Campbell. There was a great deal of lively talk as to whether Mr. Campbell would be allowed to make his statement. Mr. Foster, Mr. Bowell and Mr. Costigan energetically opposed any statement until Mr. Smyth had been notified of the charges. The latter will therefore be summoned to appear at the next meeting.

Mr. Davis called attention to a large payment made to an informer by the Customs Department and asked how the money was paid to the informer. In this case $6185 appeared in the Auditor-General's report as having been paid to S. W. McMichael of Toronto, financial inspector of Ontario customs ports, as his share of a seizure. There was also a similar sum of $6188 entered as having been paid to the informer. The Auditor-General says that both sums were paid over to the officer who made the seizure. He was supposed to hand over half to the informer. Mr. Davies pointed out that it was quite possible the seizing officers might receive the benefit of the whole sum.

Mr. Brown has decided not to attempt to "re-committee" his bird bill.

Two applications for divorce have been before the Senate committee. In the case in which Mr. G. W. Lowry of Huntley, Ont., applies for separation from his wife on the ground of adultery, the application will be favorably reported.

The Wand case, in which Arthur Wand of Montreal applies for divorce from his wife on the ground of adultery, was up yesterday. The respondent was not represented. The petitioner and several witnesses were examined. The committee framed a report which will be presented to the Senate to-day. The charge of infidelity was conclusively proved.

Col. O'Brien, M.P., says positively that he will not withdraw his anti-Jesuit amendment to go into supply.

INTERIOR DECORATION

A Few Practical Illustrations from the Room Paper Department of the Peterborough Bookstore

OUR New Designs have all been selected with direct regard to their harmonious combination. DADO, WALL SPACE, FRIEZE, BORDERS and CEILINGS have been carefully chosen with regard to their relation to each other, and therefore by the use of our different Combinations Artistic and Harmonious results are obtained. Hitherto the purchaser has been forced to search through the stock of other dealers in order to find the patterns of Wall Paper, Frieze and Dado that would combine even fairly well, and it has required great skill, judgment and patience to accomplish this satisfactory. However, by the use of our Paperhangings it is possible for anyone to have rooms decorated with perfect harmony, a great improvement over the old system, under which a successful interior was possible only through a skillful decorator, or by reason of a happy accident in the selection of the necessary papers. To our customers at a distance we will be pleased to forward samples and estimates of cost.

THE VESTIBULE.

The first place of your house is the Vestibule, and decorated with our new Saracenic Patterns, the prevailing effect of which is a pale sea green and a shimmering white in Arabic Design above the low Mosaic dado of blue green, traced with white and accented with cream color and chocolate on a background of sea-green Mosaic. Surmounting this is the wide frieze of intricate interlacing tracery, singularly brilliant and effective. The ceiling is covered with closely worked arabesque in the same colors but in a different pattern. It is impossible to convey any idea of the flashing brilliance of this effect. The architectural treatment of the vestibule is very simple. Since it is only a room for transient occupancy, it follows that the ornament must be bold and striking, not delicate and intricate, for there is no time for the eye to grasp these qualities.

THE STAIRWAY.

In the decoration of a stairway three things are almost indispensable. Solidity and massiveness of form and construction, breadth and effectiveness of ornament and design and the utmost richness of color. This last consideration seems almost the most imperative of all; perhaps, because hitherto the stairways have been so bold and barren. Fortunately the period of entrance tunnels and step-ladders is gone forever, and people realize now that not only does the stairway offer the best chances for effective treatment, but that it really demands almost the richest decoration in the house. It almost always happens that a hall will be more or less dark, and the deep Indian yellow and venetian red used in our designs do the most that is possible towards lightening the room and improving its appearance. A fountain of dark green verde antique, dull green rugs and blue-green draperies give the required contrast and complete the color effect.

THE DRAWING ROOM.

At the time of the æsthetic revival some years ago, the revolution was universal and complete, and, as is always the case during time of revolution, much that was inherently good suffered disgrace with that which merited its destruction. When the world awoke to a clear sense of its artistic depravity, it resolved to turn over a new leaf, leaving nothing to remind it of its former shame. So in an instant all former modes of decoration vanished, and in their place came the rigid forms, the sombre hues, and the importunate rectitude of the new regime. The actual truth and right existing in the new covenant was very great, and to it we owe our present high artistic position. Among other errors it was supposed that there was something iniquitous in white and gold; but white and gold was and still is the very noblest and most beautiful combination of color that can be made, and almost the only one which is perfectly in harmony with the character of a drawing room. The effect of this superb paper is charming—the rich design of creamy white being relieved on a ground of coppery gold. The large, broad masses of the design and the strong flowing lines combine to produce an effect that is beyond improvement.

A MORNING ROOM.

A Smoking Room, "A Den" could be applied with equal propriety. We have a design, slightly Japanese, but not slavishly so, for nothing can be more inartistic than the dull copyism which has lately been in vogue, whereby a nineteenth century room has been transformed into some exotic apartment, distant, perhaps, three thousand miles and fifteen hundred years.

Ingrains, the general color of which is warm, with a light chocolate brown, broken by small touches of many harmonious colors. The High Dado is in rather dark chocolate, covered with carelessly arranged circles of a lighter shade, and bearing different designs. The wall is very simple. Metallic flowers conventionalized on a light terra cotta ground. The ceiling is in strong contrast, a lustrous blue green, set off here and there by crimson leaves. The design is exceedingly rich and elaborate.

THE DINING ROOM.

The "Velours" and Micas with which the Dining Room is decorated are particularly rich and elaborate, giving to this most important room the dignity and repose its character demands. The designs are in varying shades of brown and gold, with coppery and irredescent gleams. The chief section of the wall is the very broad frieze. The ground is light, warm brown, with wavering parallel lines. The whole effect is most ingenious and artistic in design, and shows to excellent advantage the rich effect obtained by our combinations of varying tones of gold and plain back-ground of simple color

THE BED CHAMBER.

The delicacy and softness of color, and tone which the character of this room requires are qualities specially noticeable in the combination of our designs. Nothing rigid or formal is admissable in a chamber, neither are brillant colors or marked designs to be desired. Everything should be mellow, informal, perhaps luxurious, certainly not florid or gorgeous; light soft colors in quiet combinations. Hangings with large indistinct figures, of furniture with delicate curves, soft fur rugs, and plenty of cushions. These are the things most to be sought for. A chamber should be restful in every way. The velours which cover the walls are admirably suited to their purpose. The general effect is of a luminous silvery hue. The combinations of colors is most satisfactory, rich but subdued, elaborate yet broad in effect. It would be hard to find an arrangement of papers more surely successful, than the New Designs just opened out at the Peterborough Bookstore.

Under one of these specimens of antiquity a piano, with the lid raised, was diagonally placed. Beverlin was surprised that a book of Schubert's waltzes was open on the rack, and a vast pile of music, songs and opera scores mislaid across the cover.

"Ah, yes, Carroll did have a tuneful turn—come to think of it; nothing out of the way, however—quite commonplace! I suppose he keeps up this sort of thing by way of impressing the provincial mind with a sense of his accomplishments. Oh, the charlatanry of the sly old dog! But no, I had quite forgotten the somber Amelia, who may possibly seek nepenthe in music, now and then."

Proceeding around the room his eye encountered a "whatnot" upon which the conventional shells, photographs, rosaries, Chinese trash and cards were crammedly disposed. Next a book case—but wait; it was necessary to investigate what sorts of books Carroll read these days—his literary resources. Novels? Surely no; is this the possible indulgence of the pale student of the midnight lamp? Formerly Carroll had scorned this sort of thing—but tastes change. These were most of them the veriest trash—woman's books, if you like. "Possibly to touch Amelia's lighter fancies," he commented. Ah, yes, these shelves now; they were more like his friend; Lecky, De Tocqueville, Taine, Mill, Spencer, Buckle, Byron; innumerable historical, biographical works and bound magazines. This was Carroll all over. Again seating himself with a weary sigh, not untinged with hunger, he proceeded to overlook the objects on the table in order to fill up the time, as well as to glean further items of the personality of his friend from his chattels. Besides the heavy metal lamp thereon there were placed various gift books at the corners in a stiff, conventional manner; an ornamental inkstand, together with a sham silver affair for holding flowers, in which a spray of honeysuckle was at present arranged, filled up the intervening spaces. Hold! What was that on the other side? Apparently a knife, but of such exquisite workmanship as displayed a foreign origin—a dirk or perhaps a stiletto—at any rate entirely unlike anything of the kind he had ever seen before. He reached for it and was about to grasp it, when he perceived that it was firmly imbedded in an alligator writing pad; he could not from his position draw it forth. It seemed to have been placed there, not by accident but with design; and as his eye swept down the short, glittering blade he felt a cold shivering sensation, which he speedily repudiated as little better than a species of cowardice. He walked around the table, seized the pad with its murderous poniard and had soon regained his seat. of fried chicken, a dish of cold boiled potatoes and an abundance of butter. It was not very inviting as a feast, but he was very weak, and he drew these things forth with joy.

"The survivors of the Jeannette!" he said, permitting himself a little joke. "Discovery of a cache at No Man's Land—conduct of the crew in their starved condition! Very well for headlines—now for practical exemplification!" Having compounded a salad from the potatoes and a recovered onion, he managed to make out a respectable and certainly original supper. A bottle of Apollinaris water and one of claret from the ice mine proved to be additional blessings.

"Quite a Royal Purple feast, despite a dearth of napkins," he said complacently as he arose at length from the table and was about to light his customary cigar and make himself at home over the evening paper. "There is nothing like adaptability—nothing."

It Cost Too Much.

The Sad Experience which Befell One of the Astors.

In the early days of the direct tea trade with China, importers were anxious to secure the earliest cargoes of a new crop.

The first cargo brought the best price and large profits. The successful Captain was always rewarded, so every known aid to navigation was adopted.

The young captain of one of Mr. Astor's clippers bought, on one of his trips, a new chronometer, and with its aid made a quick passage, and arrived first. He put the price of it into the expense account of the trip, but Mr. Astor threw it out, insisting that each an item of expense of new fangled notions could not be allowed.

The Captain thereupon resigned and took service with a rival line.

The next year he reached port long in advance of any competitor, to the great delight and profit of his employers, and the chagrin of Mr. Astor.

Not long after they chanced to meet, and Mr. Astor inquired.

"By the way, Captain, how much did that chronometer cost you?"

"Six hundred dollars;" then, with a quizzical glance, he asked:

"And how much has it cost you, Mr. Astor?"

"Sixty thousand dollars."

Men are often unfortunate in the rejection of what they call new fangled notions.

There are sick men who refuse, even when their physicians tell them they cannot help them, to take Warner's Safe Cure, because it is a "new fangled" proprietary medicine. The result is they lose—life and health.

Thousands of other men have been restored to health by it, as the testimonials furnished to the public show. The proprietors have a standing offer of $5,000 to any one who will show that any testimonial published by them is not, so far as they know, entirely true.

Dr. Andrew Wilson, Fellow of the Royal Society, of Edinburgh, the editor of Health, London, Eng., says, in his magazine, in answer to an enquiry, "Warner's Safe Cure is of a perfectly safe character, and perfectly reliable."

Now fangled notions are sometimes very valuable, and it costs too much to foolishly reject them.

Corn Sewing

Common Croup

is often fatal when not remedied in time. Leslie B. Nicholson, 19 Wellesley avenue, Toronto, says:—"As a quick cure for croup, colds, sore throat, chilblains, etc., I can recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil." 13 1y

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

PROROGATION BEFORE EASTER NO LONGER PROBABLE.

Considerable Progress Made With Government Measures and Private Bills Yesterday—In the Railway Committee.

OTTAWA, March 15.—The probability of prorogation before Easter seems to be growing less. With a view to pushing through the Government business, Sir John Macdonald moved this afternoon that for the rest of the session Government business should take precedence on Wednesday, which would leave only one day in the week, Monday, for business promoted by private members. Sir John said he believed the members wished to get away before Easter, and to do this three things would be required of them—short speeches, long sittings and the manifestation of an earnest desire to return as early as possible to their homes. He intimated that the ministry didn't care much whether the prorogation was before or after Easter, though he thought the members generally would be inconvenienced by having to come back.

An objection was taken by Mr. Laurier that with only one day a week available justice could not be done to the business outlined on the order paper, which contains new upwards of seventy notices of motion.

In deference to the opposition manifested Sir John then amended the resolution so as to give one more Wednesday for private business.

Considerable progress was made to-day with Government bills. Discussion on the amendment to the act respecting certificates to masters and mates of ships brought out the fact that in the law of the past a coasting trade certificate holding good for all ports in Canada allowed the master or mate holding it to navigate his vessel all the way round the Maritime Provinces to British Columbia, while hitherto it was unlawful to sail on such a certificate to the island of St. Pierre-Miquelon or the West India Islands. The act is now amended so as to include all ports in these places and all ports on the east coast of America.

The bill making provision for the winding-up if desired of other than insolvent companies got its second reading after some little discussion. This constituted the afternoon's business.

The evening in the House was devoted to private bills. The following were read a third time and passed:

To ratify an exchange of land between the Ontario and Quebec Railway Company and the Land Security Company—Mr. Small.

Respecting the Kingston and Pembroke Railway Company—Mr. Kirkpatrick.

Amending the act incorporating the Winnipeg and North Pacific Railway Company—Mr. Bergin.

Respecting the Berlin and Canada Pacific Junction Railway Company—Mr. Bowman.

Respecting the Bay of Quinte Bridge Company—Mr. Corby.

In committee Hon. John Costigan's resolutions respecting proposed changes in the law governing the inspection and culling of timber was fully criticised by lumbermen of both sides of politics—Messrs. Cook, White, Edwards and Perley, the last named claiming to voice the general sentiment in objecting to any act of this kind subjecting the lumbermen to a regulation fee when there was no probability of their requiring the services of the inspectors provided for. Sir John Macdonald at length had the resolution passed on the promise that an opportunity for full discussion would be afforded when the bill founded upon it was being introduced.

Mr. Haggart's bill respecting the Civil service then came up for second reading. It deals mainly with postoffice departmental matters. There was quite a discussion about the proposition to increase the salary of the Toronto postmaster to $4000, the same as that of the postmaster at Montreal.

The bill having been read a second time and passed through committee the House adjourned at 11 o'clock.

THE C. P. R.'S BILL.

More Time Required by the Government for its Consideration.

OTTAWA, March 15.—A big phalanx of railway lawyers and railway men invaded the meeting of the Railway Committee this morning in expectation that the Canadian Pacific Railway's bill would be considered. Sir Hector Langevin at once announced that the Government desired more time to study the measure, which is attracting a great deal of attention, and it was decided to make it the first order for Thursday next.

The bill to incorporate the Saskatchewan Railway and Mining Company was reported after being amended here and there. The road will run from Dunmore on the Canadian Pacific Railway northerly to a crossing of the South Saskatchewan River at or near Drowning Fort, thence across the Red Deer River near its mouth, thence by the best route to a crossing of the South Saskatchewan River at or near Saskatoon. The capital stock is $4,000,000.

Mr. Daly's bill to incorporate the Northern Pacific and Manitoba Railway and Mr. Macdowall's bill incorporating the Ontario, Manitoba and Western Railroad were also reported.

When the committee had dwindled down to half-a-dozen members a bulk bill respecting an agreement between the Kingston and Pembroke and Nepanee, Tamworth and Quebec Railway Companies was sent up. Mr. Edgar objected to measures passing through which had never received any proper consideration. He said there was altogether too much of this class of legislation. The bill was then handed over to a sub-committee of gentlemen who always watch closely the bills before the Railway Committee.

Notes From The Gazette.

OTTAWA, March 15.—The amount of Dominion circulation and specie on Feb. 28 was $16,460,746 against $16,686,320 for January. The excess of specie and guaranteed debentures on Feb. 28 was $3,036,641.

The unrevised statement of inland revenue accrued during February was $461,846, of which $264,180 was spirits, $40,920 malt, $125,137 tobacco, $27,253 cigars.

The debts of the Bank of British North America at the end of 1888 were as follows: Circulation £280,316, other liabilities £3,570,890; total, £3,851,206. Assets: specie £528,678, other assets £4,593,928; total £5,122,614.

H. A. Massey, H. P. Osborne (Hamilton), C. D. Massey, W. E. H. Massey, F. V. Massey (Toronto), are applying for incorporation as The Sawyer and Massey Company of Toronto and Hamilton, with a capital stock of $100,000 in $100 shares.

The Ontario Fish Company, headquarters at St. Thomas, capital stock $2000, ask incorporation.

THE LICENSE QUESTION.

MR MEREDITH'S AMENDMENT DEFEATED BY 20 MAJORITY.

The House Divides on Strictly Party Lines After Another Day of Debate—The Government's Railway Policy.

TORONTO, March 16.—Mr. Meredith's amendment to the motion that the House go into supply was lost by a majority of 20 yesterday. The House did not divide until nearly midnight. Then when the Opposition Leader's amendment was lost the House went into supply.

Nothing new o importance was brought out in the debate on the license question. In fact the discussion as compared with that of Thursday was rather lame. The speakers were Mr. Wylie, Mr. McLaughlin, Mr. Metcalf, Mr. Awrey, Mr. Clancy, Mr. Wood (Brant), Mr. Fell, Mr. Wood (Hastings), Mr. Garson, Mr. Rorke, Mr. E. F. Clarke and Mr. Ingram. This is the division list:

YEAS.—Blyth, Clancy, Clarke, E. F. (Toronto), Clarke, H. K. (Toronto), Craig, Creighton, Hamnell, Hudson, Ingram, Kerns, Lees, Meacham, Meredith, Monk, Morgan, Preston, Rorke, Smith (Frontenac), Stewart, Tooley, Whitney, Willoughby, Wood (Hastings)—23.

NAYS.—Adam, Armstrong, Awrey, Balfour, Ballantyne, Bishop, Bissett, Bronson, Caldwell, Colquhoun, Clarke (Wellington), Cook, Davis, Dryden, Ferguson, Field, Fraser, Freeman, Garson, Gibson (Hamilton), Gibson (Burlington), Gilmour, Graham, Guthrie, Harcourt, Hardy, Lyon, McAndrew, McKay, McMahon, Muir, Mowat, Murray, Pascoe, Phelps, Reynolds, Ross (Dundas), Ross (Middlesex), Smith (York), Snider, Sproule, Waters, Wood (Brant)—43.

When the House went into Supply last night Mr. Meredith asked if any change was proposed in the railway policy of the Government. Mr. Mowat replied that their policy had been embodied in resolutions presented by the Hon. A. M. Ross, which were as follows:

That, by section 6, cap. 22, 46th Victoria, it was provided that the Lieutenant-Governor in Council might, subject to the terms and conditions therein contained, grant a bonus, subsidy or annual payment to any company there, or that might thereafter be, incorporated, not in excess of $3200 per mile, in aid of the construction of a line of railway extending from a point in the District of Muskoka as far north as Gravenhurst, to Sault Ste. Marie, the total mileage not to exceed three hundred miles; but no company has taken advantage of the said provision, and it is desirable to repeal the said section 6, cap. 22, 46 Victoria, in order that the aid thereby authorized may be available for the construction of the railways hereinafter mentioned.

That, subject to the conditions hereinafter mentioned, there shall be granted out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund to the undermentioned railway companies, for the construction of the portions of railway, hereinafter mentioned, as follows, that is to say:

The Ontario & Rainy River Railway, from the town of Port Arthur to the town of Fort William, and thence westerly in the direction of Sand Lake, not exceeding in the whole fifty miles, a cash subsidy of $3200 per mile.

The Manitoulin and North Shore Railway Company, from the Village of Little Current to a point on the Canadian Pacific railway, in the township of Nairn, a distance not exceeding twenty-eight miles, a cash subsidy of $3200 per mile.

The Parry Sound Colonization Railway Company, from the Town of Parry Sound to Burk's Falls, on the line of the Northern Pacific Junction railway, a distance of about forty miles, cash subsidy of $3200 per mile.

The Nipissing and James' Bay Railway, from North Bay towards Lake Temiscamingue, a distance not exceeding fifty miles, a cash subsidy of $3200.

The Brockville and Westport Railway Company, from the point where the said railway will intersect the Canadian Pacific railway, in the Township of Oso, to Palmer's Rapids, in the Township of Raglan, a distance of about fifty-five miles, a cash subsidy of $3200 per mile.

In lieu of the cash subsidy, as aforesaid, the Lieutenant-Governor in Council may at his option direct that payment shall be made semi-annually to the said railways for a period of forty years, semi-annual payments of sixty-nine dollars and ninety-six cents per mile.

That the Parry Sound Colonization Railway, the Ontario and Rainy River Railway, the Manitoulin and North Shore Railway, the Nipissing and James' Bay Railway, the Brockville and Westport Railway, shall be considered to be colonization railways.

That inasmuch as the construction of colonization railways will promote the settlement and increase the value of certain unsettled lands of the Province; and inasmuch as it is desirable that a portion of the said lands should be set apart and sold for the purpose of forming a fund to recoup the Province in respect of moneys expended in aiding railways; a tract of land is, therefore, set apart for the purpose of being sold, and the proceeds thereof applied to form the fund aforesaid, that is to say, a tract of land at least ten miles in width on each side of the present projected lines of railways to which aid is granted as aforesaid, or on each side of the lines of the said railways as the same may be hereafter finally located and established.

That the said lands to set apart shall be sold at such price not less than two dollars per acre, and on such terms and conditions otherwise as the Lieutenant-Governor may from time to time determine.

That the moneys arising from the sale of the lands so set apart shall constitute a fund to be called "The Railway Subsidy Fund, 1889," and a separate account of the same shall be kept by the Treasurer of the Province.

That the Railway Subsidy Fund shall be applied as follows:

The cost and expenses of the collection of the said fund shall form and be the first charge thereon.

The remainder of the said fund shall be applied in or towards payment of the moneys by any Act of this session granted, or which may hereafter be granted in aid of railways.

That all pine trees upon the said lands shall be reserved from sale, and the proceeds of the sale of the said trees shall form no part of the said railway subsidy fund.

That in case, after the said lands are placed in the market, the Commissioner of Crown Lands reports in writing that any particular portion or portions of the lands so set apart, is or are not worth two dollars per acre, it shall be lawful for the Lieutenant-Governor in Council to reduce the said price, and the same may thereafter be sold at such reduced rate.

That notwithstanding anything herein contained, the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may dispose, by way of free grant, or any of the lands so set apart as aforesaid, for the right of way of any railway or railway stations, workshops or any lands necessarily required for constructing or working any railway or any other lands required for public purposes, and of which the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may deem it to be in the public interest to make free grants.

STILL ANOTHER TASCOTT.

Attorney-General Martin Contradicts the Rumor of His Intended Resignation.

WINNIPEG, March 15.—A telegram from Selkirk says an Indian has arrived there from Lake Winnipeg bringing in the news of the capture of Tascott by detectives 200 miles out in the lake. He was disguised as a tramp working out in a wood camp near Whitemouth and skipped just before the detectives arrived in search of him.

Attorney-General Martin contradicts the report that he intends resigning his seat in the Cabinet.

CHARGED WITH FRAUD.

A Well-Known Ottawa Merchant Arrested —His Statement.

OTTAWA, March 15.—W. E. Brown, boot and shoe merchant of Rideau street, was arrested this afternoon by Detective Carpenter of Montreal and Detective Montgomery of this city, the charge being that he, while in insolvent circumstances, did by gift or conveyance transfer goods to Alsha Ann Baker of Wales, in the County of Stormont, to the amount of $20,000. Another count of the warrant recites that he (Brown), with the intent to defraud, did unlawfully conceal $20,000 worth of goods, etc. The warrant was issued at the instance of Samuel & Son, boot and shoe men of Montreal.

Mr. Brown is a defeated candidate for the mayoralty. He says the charges are false from beginning to end and threatens to make Samuel & Son pay for his arrest.

A GLADSTONIAN VICTORY.

DEFEAT OF THE CONSERVATIVES IN KENNINGTON.

Mr Beasley's Majority in the Parliamentary Contest Yesterday 632, a Gain of 1650 Over the Last Election.

LONDON, March 16.—An election was held in the Kennington division of Lambeth to-day to fill the parliamentary seat made vacant by the resignation of R. G. Davis (Con.) The election resulted in a victory for Mr. Beasley, the Gladstonian candidate, who polled 4920 votes against 3439 for Mr. Hope the Conservative nominee.

At the last election Davis, the retiring member, received 3253 votes and Beasley 2782.

To-day's election was hotly contested, both parties straining every nerve to achieve success.

Unpleasantly Significant.

LONDON, March 16.—The Standard (Unionist) referring to the result of the Kennington election says: "No sensible Unionist will pretend to minimize the seriousness of this misfortune. All the explanations in the world will not deprive the figures of their unpleasant significance."

Anderson's Course Gets Red.

LONDON, March 16.—In the House of Commons to-day Home Secretary Matthews was questioned regarding the actions of Anderson, an official of the Home Office, who permitted Le Caron the informer to look over the whole of the latter's past correspondence with the Home Office authorities prior to appearing as a witness before the Parnell Commission and to select such letters as he thought would be of service to The Times.

Mr. Matthews said that at the time he knew nothing of the course taken by Anderson and consequently had not given it his sanction, but now considered that Anderson had acted properly.

Sir William Vernon-Harcourt gave notice that he would submit a motion regarding Anderson's conduct when the police vote is discussed Monday.

Another Tumble in French Shares.

PARIS, March 15.—The Bourse closed very dull to-day. Comptoir d'Escompte shares, which opened at 500f. Monday and reached 495f. Wednesday, reacted to-day to 315 f. on renewed rumors that the Bank of France advances were not sufficient to overcome existing difficulties. Other credit shares were freely offered, notably Credit Lyonnais and Banque de Paris. Rentes fell 25c., Societe des Metaux, quoted Wednesday at 127, declined to 91.25 Rio Tintos, which were 350, Wednesday, are now quoted at 91.

Decline in London Markets.

LONDON, March 15.—On the Stock Exchange to-day American railroad securities declined on large continental sales, closing flat. The Milwaukee dividend disappointed the exchanges.

The London copper market is nervous. The price advanced Tuesday to £56, reacted and closed to-day at £51.

The Patriotic League.

PARIS, March 15.—The police to-day searched the houses of many members of the Patriotic League. Persons against whom damaging evidence is found will not be arrested, but will be summoned to appear before a magistrate for examination.

German Artillery Estimates.

BERLIN, March 15.—The Reichstag to-day discussed the supplementary estimate for the increase and reorganization of the artillery. Count Von Schellendorf referred to France's superiority in the forming of batteries and said that other countries made much larger expenditures for military purposes than Germany did.

All Quiet in the Gold Fields.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 15.—Lower California is quiet. Gov. Torres has plenty of troops to preserve order. The Conservative organs insist that Mexico will lose lower California. The Government says this is untrue. Rich copper and silver mines have been discovered on the Ramires-Varela concession in the State of Guerrero.

Gen. Dias de Vega of El Nacional newspaper has been released after eight months' imprisonment and paying a fine of $1000.

Bail Bonds Stolen.

ITHACA, N.Y., March 15.—Two pickpockets arrested on the night of Gov. Hill's mass meeting here last fall were released on $1500 bail. Their cases were called at the session of the Supreme Court yesterday. They failed to appear and it is discovered that their bail bonds have been stolen from the County Clerk's office.

Disobeyed the Warning.

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., March 15.—While walking on the Central Railway track to-day Miss Mabel Tuttle, a school teacher, saw a coal train approaching and in crossing over to the south-bound track was struck by a passenger train and killed. She had been warned by the section foreman ten minutes before not to walk the tracks.

The Number of Newspapers.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Geo. P. Rowell & Co.'s American Newspaper Directory, soon to be issued, states that the newspapers and periodicals of all kinds issued in the United States and Canada now number 17,107, a gain of 797 during the last twelve months and of 7892 in ten years.

A 14-Year-old Murderer.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Patrick Meehan, aged 14, to-day fatally stabbed Christian Weiss, aged 21, a fellow employe in a butcher shop. Weiss directed the boy to clean up the shop. The boy took offence at the way the order was given, picked up a butcher's knife and drove it to the hilt into Weiss' breast below the heart.

MAXIMS FOR BUSINESS MEN

A Talk Especially to Business and Professional Men.

Christianity is a Help Rather Than a Hindrance to Business Men—Some Practical Advice Given by Mr. Crossley—Mr. Hunter's Application of the Story of Daniel—Close of the Second Week's Services.

The second week of the revival services closed last night with another large meeting in the George street church. Rev. Mr. Pearson remarked "that he had never seen a two such weeks before in his life," they were marked by such a religious awakening among all classes of people. Hundreds have been converted and large numbers of new members have been added to the church in consequence. It is a curious fact, though, that among the converts there are in proportion five females to one male.

For the next two weeks St. Paul's church will be the scene of these meetings, and the hope—nay more, the firm conviction—was expressed that the succeeding fortnight would be productive of even greater good than the term just concluded.

The addresses Friday night were especially to business and professional men. Rev. Mr. Hunter's remarks were based upon the sixth chapter of Daniel, containing the story of Daniel's faith and triumph. Daniel was upheld as a model for those men who say:—"Oh, I can't be a Christian; I'm in business." Daniel was a thorough business man; the one in the kingdom second only to the king himself; a governor over 120 princes, who were just as many rascals and rogues requiring one honest man to look after them. Daniel had the courage of his convictions and could say "no" to anything that was wrong. More men of his stamp were required in God's service today—men who will be business like Christians and wield a beneficial influence over their fellowmen. In his time of trouble Daniel went into his chamber to pray, but he didn't lock the door, close the windows and plug up the key hole for fear his enemies would see him—as many men do to-day. They are afraid to have family prayer or say grace if anyone is present. Oh, for the courage of a Daniel! His subsequent career was graphically portrayed, his condemnation by his enemies, his being thrust into the lion's den and his deliverance therefrom were dwelt upon. Rev. Mr. Hunter concluding with the remark that the same God who watched over Daniel in the lion's den would protect and preserve Christians from all danger.

SOME MAXIMS.

"Render therefore unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's and unto God the things that are God's."—Matthew xxii, 21.

Rev. Mr. Crossley laid down a number of maxims for business and professional men. He would say to every man, have a business or profession, or some vocation in life. He pitied those men who had no means of earning a living and ridiculed those so-called "gentlemen at large," who live on their money, an aimless and unrewarded life.

First, he said, don't merge your manhood into your business. Thus was what a great many men did—became absorbed in their business or profession to the exclusion of everything else. The greatest thing in this world was man, and his greatest possession was a mind; let it, therefore, not be dwarfed into the narrow limits of business matters. A man whose manhood is thus merged into his business is, besides, unfitted for life.

Secondly, don't confound the inconsistencies of professed Christians with genuine Christianity. Mr. Crossley was very severe upon those people who pick up some unworthy action of a professing Christian, and sneeringly say:—"There's your Christian for you." He likened them to the dogs who licked the sores on Dives' body—with an apology to the dogs for the comparison, for these men were worse; the brutes had a benevolent object in view, while the sneerer does a great deal of harm.

Third, don't separate honesty from Christianity. Be honest, but be more. "Render unto Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's," but go further and "render unto God the things that are God's." Honesty was not Christianity, though Christianity was honesty. Be honest with man, but be honest with God as well. A great many think that in being honest they are doing all that is expected of them. "Don't let us," he said, "think we can be so pious as to save ourselves the privilege of being honest."

Fourth, don't confound honesty with Christianity. Honesty with God and man constituted Christianity, but mere honesty with man is not Christianity. A moralist or an infidel may be an honest man, as far as this world goes. Putting it plainly, Mr. Crossley said:—You owe God love, trust, devotion and homage. You admit that, and you are able to repay it, but you won't. You are, therefore, dishonest, and guilty of robbery. Suppose one of you owed me $5; you would not think of cheating me out of it, for that would be barefaced robbery. But here you are doing exactly the same thing with God, only the crime is the more heinous in so far as love and devotion are more important than a $5 bill. Be honest with God, he urged, and yield to Him that homage and love you owe to Him.

Fifth, don't allow the inconsistencies and hypocrisies of professing Christians to prevent you from becoming Christians. There are inconsistent and hypocritical professors of Christianity; but so are there petty-fogging lawyers, quack doctors, till-tapping clerks and defaulting cashiers and bank managers—yet these things do not keep you out of a business or profession. As in the other departments of life, men should not allow themselves to be influenced by the unworthiness of certain professing Christians. If others were not as pure as they would have them be, look at their shortcomings with the fervent charity that covereth a multitude of sins. Instead of being adversely affected by their inconsistencies, right minded men should be stimulated to greater devotion.

BUSINESS AND CHRISTIANITY.

Sixth, don't seperate business and Christianity. People say that business is business, but it isn't. It's Christianity. According to political economists, there are three departments in life—business, culture and recreation. Some add Christianity, but they shouldn't, for Christianity was life itself. It added a dignity to a man's business; next to heaven itself was Christianity. Let us, he said, be Christians and carry it into our business, culture and recreation.

Seventh, don't think you cannot be a successful business or professional man and be a Christian. In saying this a business man made a tremendous give-away on himself. He practically admitted that he was acting dishonestly—more it is a slander on all the other business men, for it implied that they too were not doing the right thing. Further, it was a reproach to Christianity, an outrage and libel on the Christian religion, for it alleged that the Lord had made combined business and Christianity impracticable. A man may be engaged in business and be a Christian. Of course there were some businesses that were contrary to Christianity—for instance, liquor selling, professional gambling and thieving. As he had once told a liquor dealer who was convicted of his sin, and did not know how to decide between his business and Christianity, Mr. Crossley urged all such to determine to be Christians any way, in spite of everything, Christianity was a prime factor in being a success. Those were the successful men who were either Christians or who conducted their business in a Christian way. Those were, of course, exceptions (for instance the Gaudchaux) but these exceptions only proved the rule. Mr. Crossley urged business and professional men to not build their hopes on plans for the future to the neglect of the present. This principle was the secret of failures. The men who adopt it, Micawber like, say "something will turn up," while they wait and neglect their present opportunities. Mr. Crossley urged them to heed the warning at once; to-morrow might be too late. There was the terrible possibility of their dying unprepared; they should not neglect the present opportunity of salvation offered them. They should at once enter into the experience which would enable them to say:—"I am the Lord's, and He is mine."

Rev. Mr. Hunter, at the close of Mr. Crossley's address, earnestly pleaded with the unconverted not to put off the hour of their salvation any longer. He referred to a case which had come under his notice. While laboring in Port Hope his hotel landlord had become convinced of his sin, but when Mr. Hunter spoke to him he said: "But there's my business." After some talking the hotel man decided to sell out, and told Mr. Hunter he would sell for 50c. on the dollar as soon as he could. A few weeks afterward, while working in another town, Mr. Hunter received a telegram stating that this hotel keeper, who was a strong, vigorous man, had died. He had neglected the timely warning and put off the hour of his salvation, and had died before he could execute his plans.

NOTES.

Rev. Mr. Crossley's song, "The Model Church," was intended to stir up Christians to an effort to make each of their churches a model one.

The services for Sunday are:—11 a.m., Rev. Mr. Crossley in the Mark street church, Ashburnham, and Rev. Mr. Hunter in the Charlotte street church; 4 p.m., mass meeting of Sunday school pupils in the George street church; 7 p.m., Messrs. Crossley and Hunter together in St. Paul's. It was intended to have one of the evangelists preach in the Baptist Church, but Rev. Mr. Shorey having an outside engagement, Rev. Mr. Parker kindly consented to have the arrangement altered. It is intended, however, that these Sunday services shall make no difference with church attendance. Members are requested to go to their own churches without any reference to the special services.

Prayers were asked for a Roman Catholic friend who was very careless; a young lady for herself; for two unconverted brothers, and for two young men who are greatly moved; for a young man; for a mother and sister; for two young men, one of them given to strong drink; for a sister; a lady wished God's people to pray for her unconverted husband; a daughter for her aged father and mother; for a sister and her friend; for the conversion of a merchant of this town; for a young person who seems to becoming hardened; for a young man out of town; for a Sunday school class; for a father; for a son and mother; for a father and his friend, unconverted.

Rev. Mr. Pearson stated last night that an anonymous letter had been received from Winnipeg containing $5, saying:—"Ask no questions—send receipt." He said he supposed it was conscience money from some person converted at the Crossley-Hunter meetings in that city.

At a quarter to ten o'clock on Sunday morning the pastors of the Methodist churches wish to meet new converts for a short fellowship and conference.

Mr. Bradley, the sexton of the George Street Church, has in his possession a couple of dozen odd rubbers that he picked up after the crush Thursday night. Owners can have the odd ones by producing their mates.

Mr. Crossley sang "Two Kinds of Lives" with much feeling last night. The song pointed a moral that struck to the hearts of many.

A Y.M.C.A. YOUNG MAN.

Hasty Departure from Woodstock of J. A. Gould and the Alleged Cause.

WOODSTOCK, March 15.—A sensation of no small proportions was created here to-day by the rumor that J. A. Gould had left town in haste. Gould came from London last spring to assist in the organization of a Y.M.C.A. in town. He has been for 25 years engaged in this work in the United States.

Shortly after this Gould was engaged by Mr. J. White to manage his drug store. Yesterday morning he informed his employer that he wanted to leave town at once to attend to some business in Denver, Col. Mr. J. S. Cole, Provincial Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., arrived in town yesterday and rumor connects this fact with the disappearance of the gentleman named. It is said that Mr. Gould's character will not bear investigation, that he is guilty of an unmentionable iniquity and that this is not the first time he has been compelled to make a hasty departure.

Gould was one of the most stylish and sweet-tongued gentlemen that has ever been met in this town and could pray, preach and sing to perfection. His financial relations are said to be all right.

Woodstock Municipal Nominations.

WOODSTOCK, March 15.—At the nomination of councillors to-day, to fill the seats of the deceased members, these were named: St. John's Ward.—J. R. Oliver, Charles Allan, Edward West, R. M. Revell, John Pascoe. St. George's Ward.—C. M. Oliver, Joseph Rippon, S. J. Cole, James Bell. For Reeve.—J. M Grant, J. J. Hall and R. M. Revell. Mr. Grant withdrew, and it is possible that there will be no contest.

The Brompton Hospital for Consumptives, London, Eng., published a statement that fifty-two (52) per cent. of the patients of that institution have unsuspected kidney disorder. Prof. Wm. H. Thompson, of the University of the City of New York, says: "More adults are carried off in this country by chronic kidney disease than by any other one malady except consumption." The late Dr. Dio Lewis, in speaking of Warner's Safe Cure, says over his own signature:—"If I found myself the victim of a serious kidney trouble, I would use Warner's Safe Cure."

Health Failing Fast.

"I was swollen from head to foot from dropsy of six months' standing, and my health was failing fast, but after taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters I am quite well, and think there is no medicine equal to B. B. B., and to it I remain a true friend." Joseph Haris, Linwood, Ont. 2w10d

Partly Gave Up.

"In the year 1885 I coughed for six months, and having unsuccessfully tried many remedies, I partly gave up, thinking I had consumption. At last I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, less than one bottle of which cured me, leaving me as well as ever I was." Henry W. Carse, Wabash, Ont. 2w10d.

Eczema, Itchy, Scaly Skin Tortures.

The simple application of "Swayne's Ointment," without any internal medicine, will cure any case of Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Piles, Itch, Sores, Pimples, Eczema, all Scaly Itching Skin Eruptions, no matter how obstinate or long standing. It is potent, effective, and costs but a trifle. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents. dw

A High Valuation.

"If there was only one bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil in Manitoba, I would give one hundred dollars for it," writes Philip H Brant, of Monteith, Manitoba, after having used it for a severe wound and for frozen fingers, with, as he says, "astonishing good results." 2w10d

Nothing Like It.

"I was troubled with liver complaint for a good many years, but was cured by one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters. I have never found any medicine to help me like B. B. B., in fact one bottle made a complete cure." W. J. Best, Parkhill, Ont. 2w10d of prevention is worth a pound of cure, every home in the land should be provided with NASAL BALM at this trying season, and its use should be freely resorted to on the very first symptoms of Cold in the Head or Catarrh. It is the only genuine remedy and certain cure for these troubles, and its claims are backed by thousands of the strongest testimonials, a few of which we append below:

WM. SAWYER, Toronto, says:—I had a bad attack of Catarrh last winter and like many other foolish people, thought it would wear away. But it did not; instead it was wearing me away, and at last I made up my mind to try something. I got a prescription made up, a powder and snuffed it up and up until I grew weary but got no benefit. I then looked over the papers and saw your advertisement in the Mail. I had confidence in it right away and got a bottle of NASAL BALM and I can honestly say it was the best investment I ever made, and I strongly recommend it to all sufferers from catarrh and cold in the head. It helped me from the first and has thoroughly cured me. Every sufferer from catarrh should use NASAL BALM, and leave snuff, powders and douches alone.

MISS M. RAY, Cape, N. S., states: I have used NASAL BALM on several occasions with the children for cold in the head, and always find it effects a rapid cure.

MISS CLARA MACNIDER, Little Metis, Ont., says:—I have used two bottles of your NASAL BALM for catarrh with the most beneficial results. To anyone suffering with this most disagreeable disease I can heartily recommend it as a radical cure. I cheerfully give you permission to use this if you desire it.

MR. THOMAS ROCHE, Rochefort, Ont., says:—I have suffered severely from catarrh, and never got any relief until I used NASAL BALM. I never thought I could find so sure a cure. It is a pity all afflicted with catarrh do not know of and use this wonderful medicine.

W. A. MALLORY, Mallorytown, Ont., says:—My daughter suffered for years from a most distressing and annoying catarrh. Her case was under the treatment of eminent physicians in the United States and Canada. Two months' use of NASAL BALM has had more beneficial effects than all former treatment combined.

COLD IN HEAD

MARCH WINDS

CATARRH

SAMUEL BOLTON, Caldwell Mills, Ont., writes:—It gives me great pleasure to testify to the great merit of NASAL BALM. I tried other remedies but got no relief. The disease had brought on partial deafness. Yet two applications of NASAL BALM gave me great relief and before the bottle was finished I was completely cured.

P. B. MACNAMARA, Merchant tailor, Brockville, Ont., says:—As an instant relief for Cold in the Head and Catarrh, NASAL BALM is unequalled. The effect is noticed as it is used.

MR. JOHN BROWN, Kagawong, Algoma, Detroit, writes:—I have used your NASAL BALM and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best remedy on earth for catarrh. I have only used one half bottle, and it has fully cured my catarrh. I have no hesitation in giving my name as an endorsation of NASAL BALM, as the greatest remedy yet discovered for catarrh and cold in the head.

EX-MAYOR ROBERT BOWIE, Brockville, Ont., says:—I used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it cured me after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head.

C. MCDONALD, Serpent River, Algoma, says:—I have used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it has done me more good than all the remedies I ever tried before. It is worth its weight in gold.

MR. G. T. GORRELL, mail clerk on C. P. R., says:—NASAL BALM is a boon to all suffering from cold in the head. It gives relief rapidly and never fails to effect a speedy cure.

MR. J. D. KENNEDY, G. T. R. agent at Brockville, says:—A short treatment with NASAL BALM radically removed all symptoms of my catarrh. The preparation is pleasant and easy to use, and gives immediate and permanent relief.

LEWIS ROEBUCK, Wyevale, Ont., says:—I recommend NASAL BALM highly to all who suffer from catarrh.

MR. S. E. CHASE, Port Arthur, Ont., says:—I have been using your NASAL BALM for catarrh, and find myself cured with only one bottle. To call it the best preparation made for catarrh is scarcely strong enough.

T. H. MOWBOR, Petty Bound, says:—NASAL BALM has no equal as a remedy for cold in the head. It is both speedy and effective in its results.

W. H. GABEL, Bowie, Ont., says:—I feel it my duty to write to you and report the result of my using NASAL BALM. I have been a very sufferer from that loathsome disease, catarrh, and tried several remedies, but got no relief till I purchased a bottle of NASAL BALM. I used it according to directions and it has completely cured me. I take great pleasure in recommending it to all suffering from catarrh.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS similar only in name and appearance. Ask for NASAL BALM and take no substitute recommended as "just as good." If you cannot get NASAL BALM from your dealer it will be sent post-paid on receipt of price—50 cents and $1—by addressing POLFORD & CO., Brockville, Ont.

ROYAL PURPLE.

Under one of these specimens of antiquity a piano, with the lid raised, was diagonally placed. Beverlin was surprised that a book of Schubert's waltzes was open on the rack, and a vast pile of music, songs and opera scores mislaid across the cover.

"Ah, yes, Carroll did have a tuneful turn—come to think of it; nothing out of the way, however—quite commonplace! I suppose he keeps up this sort of thing by way of impressing the provincial mind with a sense of his accomplishments. Oh, the charlatanry of the sly old dog! But no, I had quite forgotten the somber Amelia, who may possibly seek nepenthe in music, now and then."

Proceeding around the room his eye encountered a "whatnot" upon which the conventional shells, photographs, rosaries, Chinese trash and cards were crammedly disposed. Next a book case—but wait; it was necessary to investigate what sorts of books Carroll read these days—his literary resources. Novels! Surely no; is this the possible indulgence of the pale student of the midnight lamp? Formerly Carroll had scorned this sort of thing—but tastes change. These were most of them the veriest trash—woman's books, if you like. "Possibly to touch Amelia's lighter fancies," he commented. Ah, yes, these shelves now; they were more like his friend; Locky, De Tocqueville, Taine, Mill, Spencer, Buckle, Byron; innumerable historical, biographical works and bound magazines. This was Carroll all over. Again seating himself with a weary sigh, not untinged with hunger, he proceeded to overlook the objects on the table in order to fill up the time, as well as to glean further items of the personality of his friend from his chattels. Besides the heavy metal lamp thereon there were placed various gift books at the corners in a stiff, conventional manner; an ornamental inkstand, together with a sham silver affair for holding flowers, in which a spray of honeysuckle was at present arranged, filled up the intervening spaces. Hold! What was that on the other side? Apparently a knife, but of such exquisite workmanship as displayed a foreign origin—a dirk or perhaps a stiletto—at any rate entirely unlike anything of the kind he had ever seen before. He reached for it and was about to grasp it, when he perceived that it was firmly imbedded in an alligator writing pad; he could not from his position draw it forth. It seemed to have been placed there, not by accident but with design; and as his eye swept down the short, glittering blade he felt a cold shivering sensation, which he speedily repudiated as little better than a species of cowardice. He walked around the table, seized the pad with its murderous poniard and had soon regained his seat. What beautiful mingling of old silver and copper in the intertwisted handle; what tracery, what purity of invention! He turned it all about and examined it critically. But the blade, not very sharp, not in any sense death dealing—perhaps only a cherished paper knife! Thus he dismissed the momentary thought of lurking banditti or midnight assassins from his mind. He turned the pad about and was on the point of replacing the knife, when his keen sight detected some writing across the surface, which he immediately recognised as Carroll's familiar chirography. It was with a sense of vast relief that he deciphered the following words:

If Hunter Severin arrives in my absence, please see that he has everything to make him comfortable. I am unavoidably detained.

CARROLL.

To whom was this written? If to Amelia, why was she thus negligent of the duties of hospitality? If to a possible butler, why was the follow not here to see that everything was attended to? Ah, here were further orders down below; but these were written in violet ink, in an extremely unformed and shaky hand—and conveyed information to this surprising effect:

He is doomed—predestined to a miserable, unfortunate and lingering fate! The fiat has gone forth that, ere the stroke of midnight hour, blood shall darken the moon; vengeance shall haunt the couch of his repose; the arm of the grim tormentor shall shake his admantine courage; unbounded violence shall beset his pathway, together with all the miseries which befall those who defy the the powers that be.

(Signed) ROYAL PURPLE.
(His mark.)

And in the midst of a crimson Maltese cross the knife was dramatically stuck.

"H'm!" mused Beverlin, smiling. "Inconceivable — a decidedly spooky place." Then he laughed aloud. "Fantastic, sensational!" he added, much amused. "Royal Purple, indeed! Royal fiddlesticks! This is doubtless the practical joke of a child of thirteen summers. There is a flavor quite unmistakeable of Beadle and Mayne Reid about the lines. Well, well, well, the small boy to the front!" He turned the pad around, and was about to resume his seat, when it occurred to him that if Carroll was detained, it would be wise to attend to the wants of the inner man, which were now sufficiently urgent. He therefore sought the dining room with that object in view. It was the room just beyond, and having entered, he noticed that the outside door stood wide open, so that the wind which swept through the apartment produced a ghastly flickering! All the doors, in fact, were open, save one; it seemed like a very hospitable room, keeping open house in this fashion. The cloth was spread upon the table, but there was no other visible preparation for his arrival. He called aloud for a possible servant: "John! Peter! Andrew! Susan!"—no reply. He must perforce, then, himself execute the mandate of Carroll's note, in default of others to provide for his comfort. It was necessary to forage about. He looked into the closet, of which the door also stood open; there were dishes, but nothing to eat. In the sideboard the case was similar, save for a tray of dry bread, which he speedily drew forth; then he went in search of butter. He ventured into a kitchen perceptible beyond a meager passageway, also illuminated, but there was nothing there; everything was scrupulously neat and clean and had been put in order for the night; the stove yet warm as from a recent fire, but quite devoid of possibilities at present. He examined these closets, for he was now thoroughly ravenous, having eaten nothing since a cracker at noon. He then investigated the ice chest in an adjacent store room, and was fortunate enough to find a leg of fried chicken, a dish of cold boiled potatoes and an abundance of butter. It was not very inviting as a feast, but he was very weak, and he drew these things forth with joy.

"The survivors of the Jeannette!" he said, permitting himself a little joke. "Discovery of a cache at No Man's Land—conduct of the crew in their starved condition! Very well for headlines—now for practical exemplification!" Having compounded a salad from the potatoes and a recovered onion, he managed to make out a respectable and certainly original supper. A bottle of Apollinaris water and one of claret from the ice mine proved to be additional blessings.

"Quite a Royal Purple feast, despite a dearth of napkins," he said complacently as he arose at length from the table and was about to light his customary cigar and make himself at home over the evening paper. "There is nothing like adaptability—nothing."

It Cost Too Much.

The Sad Experience which Befell One of the Astors.

In the early days of the direct tea trade with China, importers were anxious to secure the earliest cargoes of a new crop.

The first cargo brought the best price and large profits. The successful Captain was always rewarded, so every known aid to navigation was adopted.

The young captain of one of Mr. Astor's clippers bought, on one of his trips, a new chronometer, and with its aid made a quick passage, and arrived first. He put the price of it into the expense account of the trip, but Mr. Astor threw it out, insisting that such an item of expense of new fangled notions could not be allowed.

The Captain thereupon resigned and took service with a rival line.

The next year he reached port long in advance of any competitor, to the great delight and profit of his employers, and the chagrin of Mr. Astor.

Not long after they chanced to meet, and Mr. Astor inquired.

"By the way, Captain, how much did that chronometer cost you?"

"Six hundred dollars;" then, with a quizzical glance, he asked:

"And how much has it cost you, Mr. Astor?"

"Sixty thousand dollars."

Men are often unfortunate in the rejection of what they call new fangled notions.

There are sick men who refuse, even when their physicians tell them they cannot help them, to take Warner's Safe Cure, because it is a "new fangled" proprietary medicine. The result is they lose—life and health.

Thousands of other men have been restored to health by it, as the testimonials furnished to the public show. The proprietors have a standing offer of $5,000 to any one who will show that any testimonial published by them is not, so far as they know, entirely true.

Dr. Andrew Wilson, Fellow of the Royal Society, of Edinburgh, and the editor of Health, London, Eng., says, in his magazine, in answer to an enquiry, "Warner's Safe Cure is of a perfectly safe character, and perfectly reliable."

New fangled notions are sometimes very valuable, and it costs too much to foolishly reject them.

Corn Sawing

is a process conducted by the agency of tight boots all the year round. Corn reaping is best conducted through the agency of Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor, the only safe and sure-pop corn cure. Putnam's Extractor is now widely imitated. Beware of all poisonous and sore producing substitutes. 6dw11

A Dreadful Doom.

To be unable to satisfy hunger without being distressed by heartburn, indigestion, sick stomach, dizziness or faintness, seems a dreadful doom. All who suffer thus will find prompt relief and permanent cure in Burdock Blood Bitters. B. B. B. positively cures dyspepsia in any form. 2w10d is often fatal when not remedied in time. Leslie B. Nicholson, 19 Wallesley avenue, Toronto, says:—"As a quick cure for croup, colds, sore throat, chilblains, etc., I can recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil." It is a sure cure. Directions accompany each bottle. 2w10d

Common Croup

GREAT GERMAN

HAIR MAGIC.

The equal of this great preparation is yet to be found. It is an unfailing Restorer for grey hair—it stops all falling out of the hair—it removes all dandruff and keeps the scalp clean. On bald heads (if there are but the faintest traces of roots) the magic will produce a fine growth. Will you try it? If so we will let your hair go, and become prematurely old? What do you say? All druggists everywhere have it for sale. Ask for it. If your druggist tell you he has something just as good—many have dead stock of other hair tonics on hand and try to shove them off in this way. See that each bottle bears seal and signature:

Scott Act Meeting.

A fairly well attended public meeting was held in the opera house this afternoon for the purpose of discussing the Scott Act, and another similar meeting will be held to-night. Opponents of the Scott Act are challenged to be present and debate the question. Rev. Messrs. Pearson and Burns are the speakers.

Arrested for Larceny.

This afternoon James Wilfred, of Ennismore, was arrested by P. C. Adams on a charge of larceny. The charge is that this morning Wilfred stole a pair of boots from the store of Mr. A. Wiley, Bridgenorth, and on his way to town sold them to a farmer. The purchaser brought the boots into the police station and shortly afterwards Wilfred was arrested.

More Contracts Awarded to Peterboro'.

Mr. Patrick Navin, the government contractor for the new Post Office and Custom House in Lindsay, was in town on Friday, and closed a contract for the plumbing, etc., of the new structure with J. E. Noble & Co., and another with the Dickson Estate Co. for supplying the maple flooring for same. It is greatly to the credit of Peterborough that her business establishments command the confidence of contractors in preference to the claims of Lindsay and larger places. When the best is wanted in the above lines, this town is not a bad place to come to get it.

Gratitude.

Mrs. George Towns, of Douro, THE EXAMINER has learned, has great reason to be grateful to Dr. G. S. Ryerson, of Toronto, occulist and aurist, for his kindness to her, which has resulted in the restoration of her sight, of which she was almost totally deprived for years. Dr. Ryerson very kindly procured her admission to the Toronto Eye and Ear Infirmary and treated her there professionally. For all this Mrs. Towns is especially grateful and willingly consents to a public recognition of Dr. Ryerson's kindness.

Much For Little.

Just think of it, an exquisite musical programme and an oratorical treat for the small sum of 25 or 50 cents can be enjoyed by those who patronize the entertainment in the opera house on next Monday evening. Read the names of the galaxy of talent:—Miss Alice Walts, of Beecher's Brooklyn church choir, soprano; Mrs. W. J. Morrow, Mrs. T. Dunn, Messrs. Thos. Dunn, M. J. Tierney, and last but not least, that whole-souled and inimitable Irish orator, Mr. J. J. Curran, Q.C., M.P., from whose lips fall burning words of eloquence as he descants on "Ireland and her Cause." Those who miss this grand event will regret it. 1d

A Carter's Case.

The licensed carter's were interested in a police court case this morning. John Fawcett was charged with a breach of the by-law governing carters, and that he had moved some wood and household effects for Mr. Jas. Headry the other day. Mr. Fawcett pleaded ignorance of any intentional wrong, and the magistrate dismissed the case, holding that the man had been engaged by the day, and not per load, and had not therefore broken the law. The carters are considerably "riled" over the magistrate's decision, and claim that the by-law is in force. They say that if hiring by the day is not a breach of the by-law they will pay no more licenses, because they would have no protection under the by law. They threatened to appeal against the judgment in this case.

Court of Chancery.

Continuation of the Spring Sittings—Not Yet Concluded.

The case of Fisher vs. Fisher was finished yesterday afternoon. Judgment in favor of plaintiff, with costs.

FITZGERALD VS. THE MIDLAND AND GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY COMPANIES—occupied considerable time, not being concluded till one o'clock to-day. This was an action for $1,000 damages brought by Mr. J. W. Fitzgerald, the alleged damage being done to his property on the old Midland track in the north end of the town, consequent upon the raising of the embankment in building the Chemong Lake line. The action was not so much to recover the amount of damages as to compel the railway company to enter into arbitration. The defence set up was that the plaintiff had brought suit against the wrong parties, claiming that the responsible parties were the Peterborough & Chemong Lake Railway Co., a separate corporation from the Grand Trunk.

KEMPT V. FIFE AND OTHERS.—Judgment was delivered dismissing this action, which was brought against Messrs. Robert Fife, Thomas Kemp and Robert Burgess to recover certain lands in the township of Dummer, forming a portion of the estate of the late Kenneth Kempt. The plaintiff abandoned his claim to the lands and it is understood an amicable arrangement has been arrived at between the parties interested. W. H. Moore, for the plaintiff; Hall & Hayes, for the defendants.

News Nuggets.

—The fine weather to-day brought a large crowd into town.

—Mr. W. J. Mason can boast of the fanciest dressed window in town.

—The first bicycle of the season made its appearance yesterday. It kept to the sidewalks.

—There is lamentation in Belleville. Forepaugh's great circus will not visit that city next summer.

—John Connors and Jimmy Cash were arrested yesterday while drunk, but were discharged this morning.

—Messrs. Garlick Bros. have succeeded the Henderson Bros. as proprietors of the Forest House, Bobcaygeon.

—The Fenelon Falls dramatic company, comprising twenty eight performers, appeared before a cultured Bobcaygeon audience recently and scored a success.

—The branch store recently opened in Lindsay by Mr. Macfarlane Wilson, of China Hall, is said to be the handsomest in that town.

—Port Hope's $60,000 four and a half per cent joint town and harbor debentures which will be issued shortly have been disposed of at par, through Montreal financial institutions.

—Fairweather, the hatter, has a novel awning in front of his store. It is supplied with sky-lights or reflectors to show off the wiredows. It was put up by Turner, the tent and awning maker.

Wm. Roberts, M.D., physician to the Manchester, Eng., infirmary and lunatic hospital, professor of medicine in Owen's College, says: "In a great majority of cases Bright's Disease begins slowly and imperceptibly." This is sufficient warning, and justifies you in using Warner's Safe Cure before your kidney trouble becomes chronic, or pronounced Bright's Disease.

Fantastic Firemen.

Their Vermont Frenzy Breaks Cumberland Centre a Success—Mist of Costumes, Masses, etc.

The weather of the past few days, from a skating stand point has been mild enough to dampen anything but the ardour of a fireman, and, in spite of the thaw, the preparations went on briskly, and on Friday the rink was beautifully decorated and the ice in splendid condition. The number of members was not very large, and, from the fact of so many neglecting to hand in their cards, the following is by no means a complete

LIST OF COSTUMES:

Miss Florence Hall	Little Red Riding Hood
" E. C. Allen	Young Widow
" M. F. Thomson	Chinese Lady
" Eva Strain	Red White and Blue
" Jas Cook	Waiting Maid
" Bertie Harvey	Good Luck
" Minnie Hay	Daughter of the Regiment
" Millie Thorndyke	Fire Worshippers
" Snowden
" R. Moseley
" Dean
" Thompson
" Logan
W. Hendren	Captain of Tobogganing
O. Pomeroy	Clown
Robert Pratt	Chief Little Bear
G. C. Hodge	Hamilton
C. McMartin	Claim Jumper
A. McMartin	Highland Fly
D. J. Dennistal	Highland Chief
Walter Dean	Sharpshooter
Hugh Cochrane	Woodranger
T. Lees	Good Luck
Fred Monkhouse	Prince Arthur
Harry Falat	Schoolboy
F. McKibbon	Camper
Albert Bogue	Schoolboy
James Connal	St. Leon Water
Everett Hall	The Irishman from Cork
Bert Harvey	Nine Hour Mechanic
E. Gillespie	African Chief
Frank Gordon	Nine Hour Mechanic
T. H. Irwin	Mexican
W. Chamberlain	Mike Streicher
Wm. Logan	Dutchman

The attendance of spectators was large—in fact far beyond expectation, and shows that the public are not unmindful of their obligations to the gallant firemen. Everything was well managed and passed off successfully. The Fire Brigade Band presented selections of their capital music with their accustomed liberality. One of the mysterious features to many was the presence of a sextette of female firewaterslippers, or, as was facetiously put by one of the brigade, "firemen worshippers."

The races were well contested and resulted as follows:—

BARREL RACE—Joseph Downer.

THREE MILE RACE—J. P. Shevlin. There were six entries for this event, Messrs. J. Connal, W. Logan, G. Parker, W. Hendren, J. H. Smith and J. P. Shevlin. At the go off, all six struck a too lively pace to last, and for a few minutes the struggle was exciting. But as the pace began to tell, one by one dropped out till only Logan and Shevlin were on the track. For several laps it was a game of see-saw, first one and then the other gaining the lead and receiving liberal applause, but when about thirty out of the forty-eight laps had been covered Logan dropped out, leaving Shevlin winner of the race, with apparently a good deal of go remaining. The judges conceded him the race without requiring him to cover the distance.

Below is the list of

BEST DRESSED LADY.—Miss Minnie Hay —"La Fille du Regiment."

BEST DRESSED LADY.—Comic costume—Miss Mary Daley—"Old Woman."

BEST DRESSED GIRL.—Miss Eva Strain—"Red, White and Blue."

BEST DRESSED GENTLEMAN.—Mr. Wm. Hendren—"Captain of Tobogganing."

BEST DRESSED GENTLEMAN.—Comic—Mr. Ed. Roy—"Tailor."

BEST DRESSED BOY.—Master Robert Pratt —"Indian Chief,"—a gorgeous genuinely Indian costume purchased at the sale of the effects of the late Robert Smith by Mr. H. W. Kent.

The following ladies and gentlemen acted as judges, giving universal satisfaction:—Mrs. (Dr.) Burnham, Mrs. J. R. Strattoo, Dr. Burnham and Mr. A. H. Stratton.

Altogether, in spite of the elements, the firemen score a success, and are to be congratulated on having so successful a weather prophet. If the carnival had been postponed one day longer it would have been too late. The EXAMINER wishes the gallant boys of the brigade even a larger measure of good luck than attended them in their last carnival.

Personal.

Mr. Jos. Pritchard, late with Dundas & Flavelle, Lindsay, has removed to Toronto, but before his departure was the recipient of an address and handsome gold chain from the members of the firm. Joe has many friends in Peterborough who will wish him every success.

Miss Mercier, well known in Peterborough as one of our most fashionable dressmakers, has given up her own business in order to take charge of Turnbull's dressmaking department. Those patronizing Mr. Turnbull may rest assured that their orders will be well attended to in this department.

How Strange It is

To see people starting at the head of George street, passing all the grocery houses on the street, thereby giving them the go-by, and coming to a halt at the Opera House Block, to secure some of W. J. Morrow's celebrated teas. One half the population of Peterborough are using our now celebrated 25c. tea. For the next few years we will sell goods away below other houses, so you can always rely on buying goods cheaper from us than elsewhere. Watch for our Saturday bargains and be sure to call.

GOT TO MOVE ALONG; therefore the price is no object. Good groceries within the reach of all at M. R. Kidd's.

The Value of Longevity.

Dr. Felix L. Oswald, in writing of the value of longevity, says:—

"Can there be a doubt that Burns and Keats foresaw the issue of their struggle against bigotry, or that Cervantes, in the gloom of his misery could read the signs of the dawn presaging a sunbeam of posthumous fame?

"Spinoza and Schiller died at the threshold of their goal; Pascal, Harvey, Macaulay, Bentley and Bichat left their immortable works half finished; Raphael, Mozart and Byron died at the verge of a summit which perhaps no other foot shall ever approach.

"The price of longevity would redeem the mortgage of our earthly paradise"—and can be protected and should be, with sound and the use of proper medicine at the right time.

Owing to the stress, the worry, and the annoyance of every day life, there is no doubt but that tens of thousands of men and women yearly fill premature graves.

Especially after middle life should a careful watch be kept over one's physical condition. The symptoms of kidney disease, such as becoming easily tired, headache, neuralgia, feeble heart action, fickle appetite, a splendid feeling one day and an all gone one the next, persistent cough, trouble in urinating, etc., should be diligently looked into and at once stopped through a faithful use of Warner's Safe Cure, which has cured tens of thousands of such troubles and will cure yours.

Experiencing no pain in the region of the kidneys is no evidence that they are not diseased, as these great purifying organs have very few nerves of sensation, and oftentimes the kidneys are positively rotting and being passed away through the urine before the victim is aware he is suffering from advanced kidney disease, which is only another name for Bright's Disease.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Missing Man's Body Found in the Lake—A Reward of $200 Offered.

TORONTO, March 16.—A reward of $200 is offered for information of Seymour Porter, who mysteriously disappeared on New Year's day, whether he be dead or alive.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Gilbert Fletcher of the Fletcher Manufacturing Company, which occurred on Dec. 25, was solved yesterday morning, by the finding of the body of the unfortunate man on the lake shore about a mile west of the Humber. It is supposed Mr. Fletcher wandered down to the bay, where he was drowned, the strong current forcing the body out into the lake. The deceased leaves a widow and two children.

The annual meeting of the Canadian Packers' Association was held at The Canadian Grocer office yesterday. The greater part of the day was spent in an informal discussion on matters relating to the trade. The following officers were elected: President, W. Boulter; Vice-President, B. R. Nelles; Secretary-Treasurer, J. B. McLean. Executive Committee—W. A. Ferguson, S. Fenton, W. P. Innes.

Coroner Duncan at 4 p.m. to-day will open an inquest into the death of James Bracken, the G.T.R. fireman scalded at Allandale, and who died of his injuries on the night of March 14.

The difference between Gillespie, Ansley and Martin, and the customs authorities, reported yesterday, was one of interpretation and there was no attempt to defraud the Government.

The picture of the unfortunate girl Ann Diamond of Belleville, who suicided some time ago in Rochester, figures in the rogues' gallery attached to the Toronto Police Department. She was sent to the Mercer for six months one year ago for stealing a quantity of jewelry from Mrs. Morrison, Huron-street, Detective Davis effecting the arrest.

MR. CHAS. LEGROS now has a telephone in his tonsorial parlors for the convenience of ladies who require hairdressing done at their homes. His George street parlors are the handsomest and tastiest in town, and are fitted with hot and cold water baths. His stock of cigars, pipes and tobacco comprise the best and biggest variety. Smoke Gladstone, 5 for 25c. at Legros'. Cheap smokers should use Legros' Best, 2 for 5c.; very fine imported cigars, 3 and 4 for 25c. He is selling all best Havana cigarettes that cost 15c. per packet, at 10c. El Padre, 4 for 25c.; Creme de la Creme, 4 and 5 for 25c.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

FOR NETTLE RASH, Summer Heat and general toilet purposes, use Low's Sulphur Soap. dw

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER
THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

CLEVELAND BROTHERS, ALBANY, N. Y.

DRESS GOODS

SATEUR CLOTH, commonly called HENRIETTA. It is almost a joke the way these Goods have jumped to popularity at a single leap, but it is now at the zenith, entrenched, fortified public favor decrees it. We have never had the like before under 90c., the price 75c. We are showing 36 distinct shades. Litt a told, every ounce of the weight comes from good fine wool, honestly put together, by the yard stick 46 inches plump. Test the dye, every shade shows as evenly as the sun on a quiet pool, and are going out like the rolling sea—evenly and constantly. See them, they are on the move. In the last week, heaps of New Dress Goods have come in. The Spring gathering is at its flood. Take any sort you choose, Cottons or Woollens, Silks or Satins. Another family of Cashmeres. We show 15 Colorings, most of which are entirely new, 44 inches wide, price 50 cents.

Cast your eye to the end of our Dress Goods counter, and you will find a range of French Stuffs in 20 shades. We have never had the like before under 25c., but have bought them low and are selling them close price 20 cents.

Bradford Goods in stripes and checks, at 10 cents a yard, fresh goods, new colors.

Those wishing to have their dresses made up can have them done on the premises if necessary by our Dressmaker, Miss Mercier, who has given up her own business to take charge of this Department.

Artificial Flowers—They will gladden your eyes, perhaps cheer your hearts, and touch your pocket book. Gently have you noticed the progress in the art of making them so natural. They cheat you into touching or smelling to test their reality.

Lilacs, Tulips, Roses, Lilies of the Valley, to be worn in profusion on Millinery this season. Case after case of Black and Colored Straw Hats, Bonnets, Trimmings, &c., have arrived, in fact nearly all the Spring Millinery is now opened out and ready for inspection.

WHAT THE RAILWAY MAIL CLERKS ARE ASKING.

One Probable Outcome of Mrs. Bell's Suit Against Sir Charles Tupper—The Command of the Wimbledon Team.

OTTAWA, March 17.—Sir Charles Tupper leaves for Montreal this afternoon. He will be in Toronto on April 5 to be examined in connection with the arbitration between the Canadian Pacific and the Government. It is altogether likely that Sir Charles will visit the Maritime Provinces before returning to England.

Messrs. Edgar and Purdom, representing the railway mail clerks of Western Ontario, waited upon Postmaster-General Haggart yesterday with a view to securing an improvement in their financial position in the service. They point out that their work is more trying and their hours much more irregular than those of clerks in city post offices, and they ask that their pay be put on an equality with the latter. They would like to be put upon the same basis as the city clerks, and have their mileage allowance done away with. In case this is not done they want their superannuation based not upon their salaries alone but upon salaries and allowances combined. They also ask that the amount deducted monthly from their pay for superannuation fund purposes may be so placed as to form an annuity fund for their widows.

Mr. Bell, husband of the woman whose suit against Sir Charles Tupper ended on Friday last in an intimation from Judge McMahon that she had rendered herself liable to indictment for blackmail and perjury, has for years been employed as semi-oual messenger in the Commons. He was a witness in the case and was included in the Judge's remarks about the perjury. In consequence of his connection with the case it is understood that Bell's services in the Commons will be dispensed with.

Tenders for corporation advertising were to have been considered at a meeting of the Civic Printing Committee yesterday afternoon, but the aldermen were surprised to find that none had been received. There was no explanation save an unofficial one that the newspapers had combined to send no tenders. The aldermen proved equal to the occasion and in pursuance of their previous determination that for the future they would advertise in only one in place of all four city papers, they recommended to Council that the advertising be given to The Citizen, and that where insertion in two papers was called for by law Le Canada should be given the second choice. Of the committee of eight one favored dividing the spoils equally amongst the four, but the seven argued that the course agreed upon as above was the one best calculated to draw readers next year.

Another chapter in the Brown failure episode was enacted to-day, when rumors were in wide circulation that he had jumped his bail and left for parts unknown. The police were quite agitated over the matter. It was learned however, from Mr. Wm. Finlay, who is Mr. Brown's bookkeeper and also one of his bondsmen, that that gentleman had merely gone to Metcalfe, a village not far distant, where his brother-in-law resides, and would return in ample time to appear in court on Friday next, when the criminal charge against him comes up on remand. Mr. Brown told an interviewer yesterday that he had no desire to avoid trial.

Sydney Smith, jr., chief clerk of the Post Office Department here, left for Toronto this evening on receipt of intelligence that his father, Hon. Sydney Smith, was in a dying condition, there being no hope of his recovery.

There has been no little "kicking" done by some of the military men in the House about the appointment of Lieut.-Col. Bacon to the command of the Wimbledon team. The choice is left to the chairman of the council, and in that capacity Lieut.-Col. Ouimet, Speaker of the Commons, made the choice. The objection is not to Col. Bacon personally, but is on the score that Ottawa has too frequently secured this plum, this making the third time in six years that Ottawa has got the command. Last year the command went to Montreal, and the adjutancy to Ottawa. This year the same two cities get the positions, but in reversed order. The kick comes mainly from the Maritime Provinces. Apart from the matter of territorial representation Col. Bacon's appointment is generally lauded as a handsome compliment to a lifelong friend of rifle shooting. It is interesting to note that there are six Ottawa men in the first twenty riflemen eligible for this year's team. There are three Toronto men: Tom Mitchell, R. McVittie and F. W. Curson, all of the Grenadiers. Other Ontario men in the twenty are Capt. McMicking, 44th, Niagara Falls; Sergt. J. Rolston, 20th; R.N., Paymaster N. S. Russell, 45th; Lieut. J. A. Wilson, 33rd; Lieut. Conboy, 30th; and Staff-Sergt. Org. Guelph Field Battery. Staff-Sergt. Ashall, Queen's Own, is sixth on the list of waiting men and will in all likelihood have a chance to go, as several of the first twenty always decline to go.

CANADIAN COPYRIGHT.

The Association's Views Presented to Ministers by the Deputation.

OTTAWA, March 16.—A deputation from the Canadian Copyright Association, consisting of J. Ross Robertson, Dan. A. Rose and J. A. Taylor, had an interview today with Sir John Thompson and Hon. Mr. Carling. Mr. Lowe, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, also being present, concerning the bill now before the House. They submitted to the Government that it was of vital importance that provision should be made in the bill that registration of any work by the author to secure exclusive copyright should be made at Ottawa prior to or simultaneously with the publication of his work elsewhere. That further liberty should be given to all publishers to register works prior to publication, but should the authors also register prior to publication elsewhere, then only the authors' registration would be valid. They claimed that unless such was done the proposed bill would be useless, as otherwise our market would be flooded with American reprints during the three months allowed to publish.

Attention was also called to Chancellor Boyd's decision given last week, by which English editions of Canadian copyright books cannot be imported into Canada, and it was stated that as the law now stands it is offensive to the English publisher and also to the Canadian consumer who wishes a superior edition to the Canadian, so they propose that sec. 6 of our present act be struck out with the exception of the last lines which will then allow importation. Sir John Thompson stated to the deputation that it was the Government's intention to meet as far as possible the wishes of the deputation. In the afternoon the deputation again met Mr. Lowe, when the matter was further discussed.

It is expected the bill will receive its second reading this week.

Incendiary Fires.

WINCHESTER, Va., March 17.—A number of recent attempts of incendiaries culminated early yesterday morning in the destruction by fire of three storehouses, one dwelling house and two stables. These separate fires were kindled at different times. An attempt was made to fire the building occupied by the United States Express Company. Much excitement prevails in the community over the action of the fire bugs.

The Latest from Hayti.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The steamer Caroline Miller from Cape Haytien brings news of a decisive victory by Hippolyte over Legitime's forces on March 7, at La Celine. Hippolyte was on the field in person.

Mahdists Defeated with Heavy Loss.

CAIRO, March 17.—A messenger who has arrived at Wady-Halfa reports that a battle between the followers of Soudani and the Mahdists has taken place at Sinaa, to the southwest of Berg, and that the former were victorious. Both sides suffered heavy losses. Among the killed were two Mahdist chiefs.

LATEST LONDON GOSSIP.

THE GLADSTONIAN VICTORY IN KENNINGTON.

Lord Randolph Churchill Continues to Puzzle Politicians and Plain People as Well—Spontaneous Enthusiasm.

LONDON, March 17.—By-elections are supposed to turn on questions of high policy, and they are discussed as if they did. There is immense exultation on one side, and depression on the other. Home Rule stock goes up or down as respectable gentlemen labelled Liberal or Tory get a few hundred more or less votes in suburban districts. A scoundrel like Pigott or a scamp like Gent Davis may do more for the Irish cause at a given moment than Mr. Gladstone or Mr. Parnell. Kennington, beyond doubt, will influence general opinion, whether it expresses general opinion or not. To use a phrase current on these occasions, it is a blow to the Government; The Daily News says a death-blow, but this Government has already received at least a dozen death-blows from that journal, and yet it miraculously and maliciously survives them all, and may even survive this.

Serious Tories do not pretend, as The Standard says, to minimize the importance of this defeat. All the explanations in the world will not deprive figures of their significance. Such explanations as that and other journals of like faith now give are of the usual kind. The Tories have not lost votes; there has been no changing from side to side; Mr. Beresford Hope polls more votes than did Gent Davis; Mr. Beaufoy's increased support came from what is called the reserve vote. Mr. Beresford Hope is a nephew to Lord Salisbury and a cousin to Mr. Balfour. Whether these kinships helped or harmed him seems uncertain. Mr. Beaufoy is a local man and employs a great number of Kennington workmen; the head of a firm of distillers, yet he had the support of the temperance party. Mr. Gladstone, when he got to Greenwich, was junior colleague to a gin distiller.

But enough of details. It is sufficient to say that the Gladstonian victory in Kennington is a victory won by a far greater majority than the most sanguine hoped, and will give fresh vigor and volume to the Liberal cry for dissolution and fresh stiffness to the Tory resolve not to dissolve.

Randy the Sphinx.

LONDON, March 16.—Lord Randolph Churchill's attitude continues to puzzle the politicians, and puzzles plain people still more. His civilities to Mr. Stanhope on the Army questions were not, it appears, meant to go beyond Mr. Stanhope. Toward the Admiralty, and especially toward Lord George Hamilton, he is as implacable as ever. His letter to Sir Edward Reed has in it that note of personal as well as political antagonism which Lord Randolph seldom takes the trouble to conceal where it exists. "Such an exposure and confession," writes he, "of utter incompetence would insure prompt dismissal and probably professional ruin if Lord George were a private person." The exposure and confession are, of course, in Lord Randolph's mind, to be found in Lord George's speech on Admiralty affairs.

This morning appears another letter from Lord Randolph, explaining that he is not against all schemes for strengthening the navy, but against all bad schemes. This will not give much comfort to the Government.

$2000 Worth of Enthusiasm.

LONDON, March 17.—The Tory papers have got hold of a confidential circular sent out by the organizers of the National Protest against coercion. If you believe them, the spontaneous enthusiasm of Wednesday at St. James' Hall cost $5000. It was surely cheap at the money, but only a quarter of that sum has been collected, and the other three-quarters are urgently wanted. Hence the confidential circular.

The Albert Hall Ice Carnival.

LONDON, March 17.—The ice carnival at Albert Hall has the attraction of novelty, and brought together an enormous crowd to see the Duchess of Teck open it. It is a big bazaar, and not much else, but a dozen American ladies are helping their English friends in the selling, and people go to stare, as usual, at the English and Americans alike.

Paris Financial News.

PARIS, March 17.—With the exception of the transactions in rentes and foreign securities the Bourse yesterday was dull, being engaged in the settlement. Final transactions were made at 225 francs for Comptoir d'Escompte shares and 80 francs for Societe des Metaux shares. The directors of the principal financial houses of Paris met at the Ministry of Finance Friday night and again last night. It is reported they decided that the Comptoir d'Escompte should be placed in liquidation and reconstructed. It is said that 90,000 shares in the proposed new bank are already subscribed for. The employes of the Comptoir d'Escompte have been invited to withdraw their deposits in that bank, which from motives of delicacy they have hitherto left intact.

It was learned later that no decision was reached at the meeting in regard to the liquidation and reconstruction of the Comptoir d'Escompte. It is believed a further 20,000,000 francs will be necessary to save the Comptoir d'Escompte from judicial liquidation.

There was an exciting scene in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday. M. Laguerre of the Patriotic League made a speech attacking M. Constans, the Minister of the Interior, whom he accused of having engaged in doubtful transactions while acting as president of a financial concern in Lyons in 1882, and ended by calling him a fraudulent minister. The speech created a tumult in the Chamber and the Speaker formally censured M. Laguerre for his utterances.

M. Constans made an indignant denial of the charges and retorted upon M. Laguerre by saying that nobody quite knew where that gentleman's fortune came from. The matter was then dropped.

The Soir asserts that the Government has warned certain wealthy foreigners residing in France, who are known to have assisted Gen. Boulanger in a financial way, that they will be expelled the country unless they stop supplying him with funds.

The Bank of France will advance 20,000,000 francs to uphold the Comptoir d'Escompte provided another 20,000,000 francs is subscribed, of which 16,000,000 has already been promised.

France's Trade.

PARIS, March 17.—The French Board of Trade returns for February show an increase of 21,454,000 francs in imports and a decrease of 11,330,000 francs in exports compared with those of February, 1888.

A Stupendous Coal Syndicate.

LONDON, March 17.—A coal syndicate representing £100,000,000 proposes to purchase all the collieries of Cumberland, Yorkshire, Lancashire, Northumberland and Durham. The proprietors of the mines will meet soon at Manchester to consider the syndicate's stupendous proposal.

The Weavers' Strike.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 17.—The first week of the weavers' strike closes without any appreciable change in the situation and the question now settles down to one of endurance.

Pyw Wins the Pool Championship.

BROOKLYN, March 16.—Albert Frey won the pool championship of the United States to-night in Brooklyn, defeating James Malone in the final game 600 to 500.

A VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY

BENSON ACQUITTED OF THE MURDER OF HIS WIFE.

It is Said a Son of the Prince of Wales is Soon to Make an Extended Tour of Canada—Andy Maloney Arrested.

MONTREAL, March 16.—The trial of Benson for the murder of his wife, Bridget Doyle, was concluded to-day, when the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

The Star to-night says: "It is stated that Sir George Stephen will be accompanied on his return by a son of the Prince of Wales, who will make an extended tour of Canada and the United States."

Andy Maloney was arrested to-day on his arrival in town from Hot Springs. He is charged with the larceny of $14,000 worth of jewelry. Bail was refused and the case fixed for Monday afternoon. Reinhelts, who it is alleged lost the goods in Maloney's gambling house, was a traveler for P. W. Ellis & Co. of Toronto.

Her Relief Dream to Come.

MONTREAL, March 17.—About three weeks ago the 21-year-old daughter of Mr. Stewart, a wealthy man who resides in one of the suburbs of New York, eloped with her father's coachman, who was exceedingly handsome. The two had carried on furtive flirtations unknown to the young lady's parents and one morning the latter woke up to find their daughter had left the house and that the coachman had also taken flight. Pinkerton detectives were engaged on the case, assiduously worked on it and were successful Friday in locating the pair living together in the little village of Bord a Plouffe. The runaway couple were surprised to be discovered in such an out-of-the-way place but the young lady voluntarily offered to return home with the officer. She was repentant and regretted the step which has caused her parents so much trouble. After saying farewell to the coachman she came to Montreal in charge of the detective and took the first train for home. The man was not prosecuted against.

The Negro Exodus From North Carolina.

RALEIGH, N.C., March 17.—The negro exodus from this State is about to take the form of colonization of negroes in Arkansas. The negroes are holding mass meetings almost nightly. Negro orators and preachers of this section are especially active in the matter and issued a circular yesterday calling a meeting to organize the North Carolina Emigration Association for the purpose of securing organized action toward colonizing all the negroes in the State of Arkansas, where they are offered lands for a trifle. The circulars say that the white people don't want them here and they have determined to go. It is complained that the election law, school law, and other laws passed by the last General Assembly were passed to crush them out. They propose to colonize on unoccupied lands in Arkansas and follow agriculture.

Jersey City Officials Indicted.

JERSEY CITY, N.J., March 17.—The grand jury yesterday presented indictments against fourteen members of the Board of Freeholders and four members of the Board of Public Works. The charges in the case of the Freeholders were gross mismanagement of county affairs, wasting public money and general dereliction amounting to misdemeanor. In the case of the Board of Public Works the accused were similarly charged, and in addition it was alleged that they had shown favoritism in giving out contracts, awarding them to persons other than the lowest bidders.

The Last of the Buried Miners Rescued.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., March 17.—Peter Nearshalsky, after 80 hours' imprisonment in the Black Diamond colliery, was hoisted to the surface at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His appearance was the signal for cheers from thousands of throats, which were heard for miles. He had given up all hopes when his rescuers reached the breast in which he was imprisoned. Strange to say his injuries, aside from nervous prostration, are not serious.

Evarts to Get the English Mission.

NEW YORK, March 17.—A well-known banker of this city, a friend of Senator Sherman and of Senator Evarts, who returned from Washington yesterday, said the President would nominate Senator Evarts for the English mission immediately after the assembling of the Senate to-morrow. This gentleman says he knows from the very highest source that this is a fact; that the President has already offered the place to Senator Evarts and that Senator Evarts has accepted it.

His Speculated in Stocks.

BOSTON, March 17.—Edgar Swan, teller of the City National Bank of Lynn, was locked up yesterday in default of $30,000 bail. He is a self-confessed defaulter, in what amount is not known, the officials declining to make any statement beyond the announcement that the net loss to the bank will be $35,000. Speculation in stocks is the cause of Swan's ruin.

Flagman Hannigan Acquitted.

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., March 17.—Flagman Hannigan, charged with being responsible for the fatal collision of excursion trains at Mud Run station, was acquitted yesterday afternoon. The jury was out only half an hour. Engineer Major's case will come up for trial Monday.

Insane Over Spiritualism.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 17.—Charles Nanjack, an attendant at the City Hospital, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself through the head with a horse pistol. He stood in front of a mirror and aimed the pistol. He was believed to be insane over spiritualism.

The Elusive Tascott.

WINNIPEG, March 17.—There is no doubt that a few days ago Tascott, the murderer of Millionaire Snell of Chicago, was in this vicinity. The report that Tascott was captured at Lake Winnipeg was due to the fact of some strangers being seen there. The best inquiries available indicate that the searchers for Tascott have gone to the Pacific coast.

A Raise For This Firm's Peddlers.

PITTSTOWN, Pa., March 17.—The iron peddlers employed by Ellis & Lessig, who are paid according to the price received for iron by the firm, will receive a raise of 25 cents per ton for peddling hereafter. This is the first advance in peddlers' wages in the Schuylkill valley for several years.

Scranton's Perils.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 17.—Eight chambers in the 14-foot vein and those directly above it in the rock vein of the Central Colliery Company have caved in and the crush is still in progress. The damage that may ensue cannot be determined as the cave-in is almost in the very center of the Hyde Park section of the city.

No Export Duty on Iron Ore For Sweden.

STOCKHOLM, March 17.—The first chamber of the Diet has rejected the bill for the imposition of an export duty on iron ore. The bill had before been rejected by the second chamber.

The Prohibition Defeat in New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N.H., March 17.—Complete returns from all but one place show that all the constitutional amendments are adopted except the prohibitory amendment and that striking the word "Protestant" from the bill of rights. The vote on the latter was: Yes, 27,980; no, 20,920—not the required two-thirds in its favor. The prohibitory amendment was defeated by a vote of 25,273 yes to 20,776 nos.

THE SCOTT ACT CAMPAIGN.

Public Meetings on Saturday in the Opera House.

Addresses by Rev. Messrs. Burns and Pearson—No Opponents of the Act Appear—A Presage of Victory?

The temperance party of Peterborough held public mass meetings in the Opera House Saturday afternoon and evening. The attendance at both meetings was good considering the little advertisement that had been given them, and among the audience were noticed a sprinkling of the liquor element of the town, though none of them accepted the challenge to come forward and address the meeting in behalf of the repeal. In the afternoon the audience was largely composed of the farming community, while in the evening it was mostly townspeople who attended.

Dr. Fitz, President of the Scott Act Association, presided at the meetings and in his opening address stated that this repeal contest was being forced upon the temperance party by the liquor men; it was not at their instance that the vote was to be held. Referring to the question of compensation to liquor-sellers for the loss sustained by them under the Scott Act, the chairman pointed out that the ratepayers in refusing to adopt a license by-law could not be equitably held reliable for their share of this compensation fund; while if by their votes they endorsed and became parties in the license system, and so made legal the liquor selling business, they could not take away that business without being morally responsible for the losses sustained by those engaged in the business.

READY FOR PROHIBITION.

Rev. Mr. Burns' (of Millbrook) address dealt with the temperance question in general terms and the tactics adopted by the repeal party. One of their plans to procure names for the petition was to skilfully conceal the real nature of the document and get people to sign it in a mistaken notion that it was "for the Scott Act, you know," as they would evasively put it. There were three courses of action in reference to this great evil—free trade in liquor, or a high license, or prohibition. The first two he dismissed as propositions unworthy to be entertained for a moment. It laid with the people, then, to say that there should be prohibition. They should send prohibition representatives to parliament; throw Tory or Grit politics to the winds and make prohibition their politics. The movement began years ago under Hon. Alex. McKenzie had resulted in the Scott Act, and the parliament of Canada had said that when the people evinced unmistakeable symptoms in favor of prohibition, they were prepared to grant it. The Scott Act was a step in that direction, and if the people of Peterborough retained it by their votes on the 4th of April they were on the direct road to prohibition. He claimed that the country was as ready for prohibition as it ever was for any other measure of the kind; repeal of the Scott Act would not help the prohibition sentiment, but it would rather be a retrograde step. When Moses brought down the divine commandments there is no mention made of the people of Israel being ripe for the reception of the decalogue. Rev. Mr. Burns dwelt upon the moral aspect of this question at some length, urging the people to vote as they prayed.

AFRAID TO APPEAR.

Rev. Mr. Pearson was the next speaker. He would like to have seen some of the agitators of the Scott Act repeal come forward and assign some reason in justification of their request on the petition to parliament, asking that the repeal vote be taken, for none were assigned in the preliminary pleadings. If the liquor men were afraid to come out and publicly discuss this question it was an evidence that their case would not bear scrutiny. They have not yet publicly advanced any argument in behalf of the traffic, but are carrying on the contest in the dark. It is even said that some of these men who were canvassing for the repeal petition got ten cents each for every signature—perhaps this accounted for their great activity in securing the necessary number of names. The prohibition sentiment was increasing all over the land. Out here in the Roman Catholic parish of Ennismore there was no liquor allowed to be sold. This was a noble record for Ennismore, and what was good for one township should be good for another. This agitation for repeal, Mr. Pearson said, was instituted solely by these liquor men for their own financial benefit. It was, therefore, a question of home and Christianity against the liquor traffic. Mr. Pearson, passing on to some objections to the Act, dealt with the cry that a man's personal liberty could not be interfered with, and that the Act caused a vast amount of perjury. He defied his opponents to prove that the Scott Act was a failure. It was rather a question of non-enforcement of the Act than failure. Mr. Pearson dwelt upon the connection of governments and government officials with the Act, and said that if the Act had been a failure it would be because there was an organised opposition to it. Though the Act had not done all that was expected of it, it had at least acted as an educator and had advanced the sentiment of the country in favor of prohibition. The Act had not adversely affected the business or morals of the town, but had doubled the amount of money usually taken in for licenses. He considered this was a great political question, and the party that adopted prohibition for its platform was the one that would certainly gain power. It was said that there were so many hundred shebeens in the town and country in consequence of the Act; but Mr. Pearson wanted them pointed out to him before he would believe it. He would say (and he wanted the liquor men to correct him if he was wrong) that there were not 12 such places in town, despite all the stories. Mr. Pearson pointed out the

in Maine, where the people after a long trial had re-adopted it as the correct temperance measure. In Halton the Act had been repealed, and since then the amount of liquor drunk was becoming so alarming that if the Act was to be voted upon to-morrow it would be adopted again. As a moral question, however, the people should vote against a license system, even if there was as much drinking under the Act as before. Referring to the penalties for a breach of the Scott Act, which, he said, were not properly inflicted, for a third offence at least, he said it was not fair to say the Act was a failure when it was not enforced. For some reason or other, he said, there was an undercurrent of dishonest manipulation and opposition on the part of certain officials which rendered them apathetic or hostile to the Act. But amendments were now before the Legislature, which if adopted would prevent a recurrence of these official shortcomings, and the government are awaiting the result of these repeal votes, giving the assurance, Mr. Pearson said, that if it is demonstrated that public opinion is in favor of the Act these amendments will be adopted for the better enforcement of the Act. To show that the liquor sellers were galled by the Act, Mr. Pearson said he was credibly informed that an hotelkeeper had offered to pay $50 a month, which would equal $600 a year (a much higher sum than the "high license" recently adopted by the town), if prosecutions against him for violations of the Act were dropped. He said one reason why the liquor party was so anxious about the present repeal was that they realized that this was their last chance of ever getting a license law, for before another three years passed away the women of the country would have votes—and as well expect the stars to fall from heaven as for the ladies to stoop to sanction the traffic. Mr. Pearson urged the people by their votes to show that they were opposed to the traffic, and said he had strong faith in the re-adoption of the Scott Act in this and other counties.

While the collection was being taken, Mr. Holland enquired of the chairman if a Magistrate, knowing that a defendant in a Scott Act case had been fined a number of times before, had the power to change the indictment from a first to a second or third offence. The chairman replied that the rule followed out by the magistrate here had been to try a case exactly as it was brought to him; it was the duty of the Inspector or the person laying the complaint to name the charge.

At the conclusion of the meeting a standing vote was taken upon a resolution pledging those present to work and vote for the Act on the coming contest, after which the audience dispersed.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Coroner's Jury Censures the Grand Trunk—Provincial Appointments.

Toronto, March 18.—The coroner's jury which investigated the death of James Bracken, the fireman on the Northern Railway who was scalded to death the other day, returned a verdict of accidental death, with a rider attached blaming the company for not thoroughly inspecting the engine before sending her out. No blame was attached to the engine driver.

The following appointments are officially announced: Arthur W. Cox of Madoc, in the County of Hastings, to be clerk of the Sixth Division Court of Hastings, vice Dr. Loomis, deceased; Edward D. Hand of Fenelon Falls, in the County of Victoria, to be clerk of the Second Division Court, vice George Cunningham, resigned; Homer Stills of Cornwall, in the County of Stormont, to be a bailiff of the Third Division Court; W. H. McDougall of Alliston, in the County of Simcoe, to be bailiff of the Eighth Division Court, vice F. M. Woodcock.

Letter patents have been issued incorporating the Wallaceburg Electric Light Company, the Utterson Lumber Company, the Ontario Terra Cotta Brick and Sewer Company.

Late Saturday night Inspector Stephen visited a vacant house on the northeast corner of Victoria and Richmond-streets and there seized 35 dozens of beer, which he had removed to headquarters. So far no owner has turned up for it, but the police think that had the stuff been left undisturbed an ex-hotel-keeper in the vicinity might have come in on the deal.

Ellen Witouski is in the General Hospital and Jane Harding is at Police Headquarters with a charge of felonious wounding registered against her, of which the fair Ellen is the victim. On Saturday night Ellen paid a visit to Jane at the latter's residence, No. 119 Jarvis-street. A quarrel arose and Jane ordered her visitor out. The latter declined to go and Jane seized a kettle of boiling water and poured it over her enemy. Witouski's condition is somewhat serious.

Peter Glenn, a farmer from Markham township, put up at the Commercial Hotel on Friday night last. Saturday morning seeing nothing of him at breakfast, the proprietor forced open the room, to find the gas escaping at a high rate of speed and Glenn insensible on the bed. The ambulance took him to the General Hospital where he is slowly progressing back to life.

A week ago yesterday "Billy" Urjo, better known as "Pig's-foot Bill," from his peddling these succulent dainties, got into a dispute with a friend whose name he refuses to furnish to the police, in the course of which he was stabbed in the head. He neglected the wound until Saturday, when his condition became such as to necessitate his removal to the General Hospital.

At the General Sessions on Saturday John Martin, the expressman who stole a quantity of goods from a Front-street wholesale house, was sent to the Central Prison for two months. Thomas Hope, the seed wheat swindler, freely acknowledged his guilt and showed that he had made arrangements to recoup all those whom he had defrauded. He was allowed to go on giving bonds in the sum of $1000 to appear for sentence when called on. H. W. Simmons, found guilty on two charges of stealing from the trunks of fellow boarders, was given three years in the Penetentiary.

As Robert and William Parker were passing Fred Roberts & Co.'s jewelry store at 186 Queen-street west at 2.30 yesterday afternoon they saw a hard-looking man fumbling among the cases. They stopped to investigate, when the man disappeared. They ran around to the rear in time to see two men making off up the lane. They started in pursuit but had to give it up, afterwards reporting the matter to the Agnes-street Station. Policemen Tripp, Stewart and Martin proceeded to Mr. Robert's store immediately and were agreeably surprised to find the two men again in the place. Determined to make a haul they had returned just in time for the officers to catch them. At the station they gave their names as John and Patrick Doyle, and their address as the Model Lodging House. They have already served a term in prison for larceny. A number of gold rings and a silver watch were found on them.

Ex-Policeman Jarvis, who arrested Rev. F. W. Wilson because he would not move on, has been committed for trial, with his two brothers, on a charge of having, at Schomberg, Ont., brutally assaulted Robt. Hersey, a drover, who resides at Weston.

Partly Gave Up.

"In the year 1885 I coughed for six months, and having unsuccessfully tried many remedies, I partly gave up, thinking I had consumption. At last I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, less than one bottle of which cured me, leaving me as well as ever I was." Henry W. Carne, Wabash, Ont. 2w10d.

It is potent, effective, and costs but a trifle. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents. dw

A High Valuation.

"If there was only one bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil in Manitoba, I would give one hundred dollars for it," writes Philip H Brent, of Montcith, Manitoba, after having used it for a severe wound and for frozen fingers, with, as he says, "astonishing good results." 2w10d

Nothing Like It.

"I was troubled with liver complaint for a good many years, but was cured by one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters. I have never found any medicine to help me like B. B. B., in fact one bottle made a complete cure." W. J. Bust, Parkhill, Ont. 2w10d

MARCH WINDS. The March winds peculiar to our climate, as they sweep over the country, are a terror to even the most robust constitutions as they greatly increase the liability to Colds, Catarrhal Troubles and Bronchial Affections. There is probably no season of the year when Cold in the head and Catarrh is more prevalent, and it is at this time that NASAL BALM—nature's great remedy for these troubles—proves its magic powers by almost instantly curing Cold in the Head, speedily relieving and ultimately curing the most virulent forms of Catarrh. On the principal that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, every home in the land should be provided with NASAL BALM at this trying season, and its use should be freely resorted to on the very first symptoms of Cold in the Head or Catarrh. It is the only genuine remedy and certain cure for these troubles, and its claims are backed by thousands of the strongest testimonials, a few of which we append below:

Wm. Sawyer, Toronto, says:—I had a bad attack of Catarrh last winter and like many other foolish people, thought it would wear away. But it did not; instead it was wearing me away, and at last I made up my mind to try something. I got a prescription made up, a powder and snuffed it up and up until I grew weary but got no benefit. I then looked over the papers and saw your advertisement in the Mail. I seemed to have confidence in it right away and got a bottle of NASAL BALM and I can honestly say it was the best investment I ever made, and I strongly recommend it to all sufferers from catarrh and cold in the head. It helped me from the first and has thoroughly cured me. Every sufferer from catarrh should use NASAL BALM, and leave snuff, powders and douches alone.

Mrs. M. Ray, Canso, N. S., states: I have used NASAL BALM on several occasions with the children for cold in the head, and always find it effects a rapid cure.

Miss Clara MacNider, Little Metis, Ont., says:—I have used two bottles of your NASAL BALM for catarrh with the most beneficial results. To anyone suffering with this most disagreeable disease I can heartily recommend it as a radical cure. I cheerfully give you permission to use this if you desire it.

Mr. Thomas Roche, Rochefort, Ont., says:—I have suffered severely from catarrh, and never got any relief until I used NASAL BALM. I never thought I could find so sure a cure. It is a pity all afflicted with catarrh do not know of and use this wonderful medicine.

W. A. Mallory, Mallorytown, Ont., says:—My daughter suffered for years from a most distressing and annoying catarrh. Her case was under the treatment of eminent physicians in the United States and Canada. Two months' use of NASAL BALM has had more beneficial effects than all former treatment combined.

COLD IN HEAD

MARCH WINDS

CATARRH

Samuel Bolton, Caldwell Mills, Ont., writes:—It gives me great pleasure to testify to the great merit of NASAL BALM. I tried other remedies but got no relief. The disease had brought on partial deafness. Yet two applications of NASAL BALM gave me great relief and before the bottle was finished I was completely cured.

P. B. Macnamara, Merchant tailor, Brockville, Ont., says:—As an instant relief for Cold in the Head and Catarrh, NASAL BALM is unequalled. The effect is noticed as it is used.

Mr. John Brown, Kagaweny, Algoma, Detroit, writes:—I have used your NASAL BALM and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best remedy on earth for catarrh. I have only used one half bottle, and it has fully cured my catarrh. I have no hesitation in giving my name as an endorsation of NASAL BALM, as the greatest remedy yet discovered for catarrh and cold in the head.

Ex-Mayor Robert Bowie, Brockville, Ont., says:—I used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it cured me after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head.

C. McDonald, Serpent River, Algoma, says: I have used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it has done me more good than all the remedies I ever tried before. It is worth its weight in gold.

Mr. G. T. Gorrell, mail clerk on C. P. R., says:—NASAL BALM is a boon to all suffering from cold in the head. It gives relief rapidly and never fails to effect a speedy cure.

Mr. J. D. Kennedy, G. T. R. agent at Brockville, says:—A short treatment with NASAL BALM radically removed all symptoms of my catarrh. The preparation is pleasant and easy to use, and gives immediate and permanent relief.

Lewis Rosbuck, Wyevale, Ont., says:—I recommend NASAL BALM highly to all who suffer from catarrh.

Mr. S. E. Chase, Port Arthur, Ont., says:—I have been using your NASAL BALM for catarrh, and find myself cured with only one bottle. To call it the best preparation made for catarrh is scarcely strong enough.

T. H. Munroe, Parry Sound, says:—NASAL BALM has no equal as a remedy for cold in the head. It is both speedy and effective in its results.

W. H. Gabel, Bronte, Ont., says:—I feel it my duty to write to you and report the result of my using NASAL BALM. I have been a severe sufferer from that loathesome disease, catarrh, and tried several remedies, but got no relief till I purchased a bottle of NASAL BALM. I used it according to directions and it has completely cured me. I take great pleasure in recommending it to all suffering from catarrh.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS similar only in name and appearance. Ask for NASAL BALM and take no substitute recommended as "just as good." If you cannot get NASAL BALM from your dealer it will be sent prepaid on receipt of price—50 cents and $1—by addressing Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont. Send for our pamphlet "Gems of Wisdom."

ROYAL PURPLE.

CHAPTER III.

THE COMING OF ROYAL PURPLE.

At this moment the only door in the room which was not already open burst wide as if impelled by a superior strength or a veritable tornado, and disclosed to his astonished gaze a very steep stairway of rude architecture, which he fancied must lead to the remote regions of the servants' quarters. Quite forgetting for the moment his maimed condition, and excessively astonished at the circumstance, he walked to this door and looked up. It was very dark above and he could see nothing. He called aloud: "I say, there—you up above, whoever you are!" but the echo of the words only returned to his ears in hollow reverberations. He was about to go for the lamp to aid his inquiry, when immediately an immense black cat, of a wild and fierce aspect, bounded past him, followed by a destructive fall of mortar and pieces of brick as from a chimney or wall going to rack, and scudding out into the room completed three rapid circuits of the table, and then sprang out of the door with wild yellow eyes into the night.

"Entirely conventional!" said Beverlin, gazing after this object with a stunned sensation. "The black cat always plays a leading role in the spook drama!" Then, taking an explanatory view of it, added: "Fits, most likely, thoroughly natural; but how account for the mortar business? However, it is no concern of mine!" And having again fastened this door, against which he also placed a supplementary chair, turned to re-enter Carroll's library. Again the stairway door, despite the hindrances, was thrown open with extreme agitation.

"Deuce take the place!" said Beverlin, turning about hotly. "What's the matter now? Some of Carroll's old witch ancestresses must be howling around for my discomfiture! Come down!" he shouted. "I am not afraid of you!" At this a hollow, mocking sound, unlike any human laugh he had ever heard, but which seemed to express derision, resounded from the darksome aperture. Beverlin shot a piece of mortar up toward the owner of the mournful cachination, but was so quickly rewarded with such a cloud of rubbish in return that he deemed it safe to retreat. He left the dining room therefore somewhat precipitately and tried to calm his too active nerves by his former cigar. In vain; a certain debility seemed to have seized upon him and to render him apprehensive of renewed disturbances. It was necessary to investigate his environments. He re-entered the entrance hall. To the right of the front door he discovered an ample bed chamber of which the door stood ajar, and which, with its cleanly look, seemed to invite repose. "Here, at least," thought Beverlin, "is an evidence that I was expected." A little further along the hall another, similarly arranged, became apparent. A stairway ascended from the library door into the up stairs regions. There was, however, no lamplight visible above, and in his decrepit state Beverlin was not quite equal to mounting, even if he had felt that such a step were not impertinent. He was now quite assured that Carroll had left his affairs and his domicile in the hands of domestics, who had in his absence taken French leave, and were now probably sipping beer or tripping airy cotillons in the distant halls of pleasure. At any rate they were not here, nor the managing Amelia. "By the way," he said, reflectively, "I do wonder where the managing Amelia is, anyhow? Off on a visit, perhaps." Beverlin stood in the front door and looked out over the shading landscape. It was now considerably brighter, since the moon had struggled into light and the superabundant clouds had drifted away. The four tall pine trees stood out in the yard like grim unsaluting sentinels. The wind moaned desolately through the boughs; no flowers or shrubbery or even dogs were elsewhere visible, even the black cat had vanished; it was immeasurably lonely. He felt a cold shiver creep down his back at the very eeriness of his situation, and the prospect of a night in this house with its falling walls and epileptic cats. Not even a neighbor's house within calling distance; a single light which might indicate a house glimmering about half a mile down the road. The very road itself seemed peculiarly untraveled. Beverlin stood observing this scene, intensified by its very indistinctness, when his direct attention was drawn away by the manifest sound of a horse trotting, that seemed to issue from the opposite direction, in fact from the town. "Ha," said he gleefully, "at last! He is really coming now, and I'm mighty glad of it. I'll just step inside and surprise him!" Having hastily hidden his baggage, therefore, he chose an obscure position in the window by the bookcase, so that his presence would not be immediately remarked by any one entering the room. He listened. Again that hollow, unnatural laughter seemed to ring everywhere.

"What an idiot I am, to even allow it to bother me!" he said in irritation; "a lot of pigeons under the eaves, or a raven croaking its dismal tune, never before succeeded in upsetting me; it is all due to the suggestion of Carroll's letter—plague it!" He listened again. Yes, there came Carroll nearer and nearer. He would turn down the lamp a little; now he was ready. At this moment such a violent flapping of the dining room curtain took place, followed by such a crash of brick and mortar on the shady stairway that it seemed to demand his presence. He sallied out there, and, thinking to close the door leading on the portico, pushed it shut with all his might and endeavored to fasten down the bolts. Alas, they would not fasten, they had no staying powers, they seemed to spring out! He turned about in dismay to discover the wild black cat careering around the table again, and grasping at each evolution for his own gyratory coat-tail.

"Truly," said he, "this is the most remarkable place I ever struck! I do wish Carroll would spur up a little bit." Then he took a step out upon the portico commanding a view of the road whence had proceeded the sound of the trotting. In the faint moonlight there was no moving object anywhere perceptible.

"I suppose, however," said Beverlin, "he has by this time already arrived. I will [illegible] this domestic animal to repair the brick and mortar damage, whilst I repair to meet my host." He was as yet possessed with the entirely humorous view of his predicament, and quite removed from any isolated idea of trepidation, albeit in a sufficiently helpless and crippled state to know his lack of means for possible self defense. Imagine his surprise when he realized that the trotting which appeared to be always approaching, never receding, but considerably overdue in arriving, still continued its monotonous klickity klack!

HOW HE RAN THE CORNER.

Canned Goods Barons of Mexico in Quod at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, March 15.—For the past week Detectives Devine and Phillips have been working on a grand larceny case which involves the neat little sum of $37,000 in hard cash. Yesterday the detectives located the man they had been looking for on Delavan avenue. Specials Lyons and Dickerson arrested him. He was taken to No. 5 Police Station and locked up on a charge of grand larceny in the first degree. He gave his name as Wm. Burgess, a dealer in canned goods and his residence as Minden, a small village near Toronto. Last night he was brought to police headquarters and locked up in the "trooper."

There are at least a dozen Canadian firms or their representatives here who have been fleeced out of various sums of money by Burgess. Some time ago the prisoner, who is a middle-aged man with a farmer-like appearance but as the detectives say "as smart as chain lightning," conceived the idea of making a corner in the canned goods marked. He succeeded so well that he bought $37,000 worth and then seeing that he would not be able to hold his goods for his price and being closely pressed by his creditors he shipped out to Buffalo with about $15,000 of the money and deposited $10,000 in the Third National and $2700 in the Bank of Buffalo of this city. His creditors got track of his whereabouts and in order not to criminate himself in the laws of the Canadian provinces he jumped over to Clifton, Ont., on Monday and made a general assignment. Then he came back to Buffalo and finding that several of the Toronto detectives were in the city looking for him, he hastily drew the money out of the Buffalo banks and has succeeded in hiding it from the clutch of the officers.

The complainant's name as given on the report this morning, was Edgerton Decow of the Ontario Canning Company, one of Burgess' largest creditors. Among the other firms represented in the city are Samuel, Benjamin & Co., Adam Hope & Co. of Hamilton. Officer Joseph Gates of the Ontario detective force, Attorneys Arnoldi, Waddell and others representing the various firms are also in the city.

The case is a peculiar one and the detectives say they do not think Burgess can be criminally prosecuted, and it will result in a civil action. Burgess is willing to go back and settle the case, and several of the creditors have signified their willingness to take a percentage of their losses.

A Sunday Flood.

In consequence of the freshets the covered drain on Bethune street, below McDonel became choked up with dirt and the backwater flooded the yards on the east side several feet deep. The occupants had to sail into their houses or climb along the fence tops until the flood was reduced. Street Inspector Pope soon had a gang of men at work and remedied the defect.

St. Patrick's Day in Douro.

A correspondent writes the Examiner as follows:—Yesterday was a great day for Ireland in St. Joseph's church, Douro. After mass Dr. McGrath, a rising young physician of Peterborough, delivered an address on "Irishmen's devotion to Faith and Fatherland." He spoke three quarters of an hour and was listened to throughout with breathless attention. His references to Daniel O'Connell, Father Matthew and Charles Stewart Parnell elicited heartiest applause. In a few well chosen remarks Mr. Moloney, Douro's popular reeve, and Mr. Wm. Moher, one of Douro's most esteemed citizens, moved and seconded a vote of thanks to the Doctor which was carried amid the greatest enthusiasm by the very large and highly respectable audience. Senator Sullivan says that in a thorough knowledge of his profession Dr. McGrath has no superior in Central Ontario. Those who had the pleasure to hear him yesterday will say that as a popular orator Dr. McGrath has no superior in the county of Peterborough.

St. Patrick's Day in St. Peter's Cathedral —An Address by Bishop Dowling—Special Music and Church Decorations.

The birthday of glorious St. Patrick, whose memory is dear to the heart of every true son of Erin, was celebrated Sunday at St. Peter's Cathedral with a little extra pomp and ceremony, while sprigs of shamrock or bits of green ribbon adorned the button-holes of Irish Catholics as an evidence of their reverence and love for the patron saint of their native land. The altar was profusely decorated with green foliage plants, begemmed with roses, while on the walls hung banners appropriately inscribed and bearing the Irish national emblems and colors. One motto read: "Glorious Saint Patrick, pray for your children."

Large congregations attended all the services. At the eight o'clock mass the boys' choir sang specially prepared music, under Mr. Lalliberte's direction, and the organ solos by Sister St. Aubert, were of Irish composition. At 10.30 His Lordship Bishop Dowling pontificated at High Mass, assisted by Rev. Fathers Dube, Cotey and Redkine. His Lordship also preached a sermon on the gospel of the day.

After vespers in the evening, Bishop Dowling addressed the congregation with reference to the occasion being celebrated. The musical part of the services were excellent indeed. Miss McFadden sang the first Ave Maria (by Henshaw Dane), and Miss Mary Dunn the second, "O Salutaris," with violin obligato by Prof. Doucet. Both solos were splendidly given. Before beginning his sermon, His Lordship congratulated the people on the happy way in which they had been observing St. Patrick's day, and said he had been asked to speak to them on behalf of a the Ladies' Aid Society. This subject did not need much argument, he said, for they all knew that the greatest of the three graces was charity, and that any charity given with a pure motive will be accepted by God as a gift to Him. He commended the Ladies' Aid Society to them as a most worthy institution.

In beginning his sermon, His Lordship thanked God that he was an Irishman, the son of a good Irish mother, and though his father had left him neither money nor lands, he had inherited from him a still greater boon, the Irish faith. His Lordship dilated upon the readiness with which Ireland accepted the Christian faith and had ever since sought to propagate it throughout the world. Other countries had done their share in behalf of the church, and Canada was indebted, not to the Irish missionaries but to those from France for having laid the foundation of their religion in this country. But wherever else on this continent were seen the cross and cathedral spires, in them were seen monuments of this characteristic Irish faith. On an occasion of this kind many subjects presented themselves. They had the history of Ireland, and though that beloved country was now in sorrow, they lived in hope, for she was fighting the good fight. "Yes," His Lordship said, "Although Ireland is at present suffering and under a shadow, I have no doubt that, as the poet says:—

'Erin, oh Erin, though long in the shade,
Thy star shall shine out when the brightest shall fade.'"

England was rich in property, money and men, and Scotland was a favored land, but both lost the faith planted by her apostles; but thank God Ireland never lost the faith—and, if the just man liveth by faith, so does the just nation. Ireland has had her cross to bear, and has been made glorious in the cross. She has lost her schools, her buildings consecrated to God, she has lost her independent legislation, she has lost her flag, but thank God she NEVER LOST HER FAITH.

Hence it was that Irish Catholics ought to be proud of their country and grateful for this heritage of faith.

It was pleasant, His Lordship said, to notice a few of the bright epochs in the history of a country, and he would refer to a few historically renowned spots in Ireland—Tara, Iona, Clontarf and College Green, for with these places were closely associated the education, the military spirit and the patriotism of Ireland. His Lordship then proceeded to recall some of their ancient glories. Describing the landing of St. Patrick with his twelve Roman companions in Ireland in the year 42; his captivity and slavery at the age of 16 for seven years; his subsequent escape back to Rome, and his visions at night, in which he recognized the call of God to go back to Ireland; his special permit to return to the Irish people with the message of Christ, and his marvellous success, living as he did to see the whole country converted—all these incidents were eloquently portrayed by His Lordship. There was some mystery as to St. Patrick's birthplace—England, France and Scotland all claimed him, though St. Patrick in his own Latin biography tells us he was born in Brittania Majora; however, all honor to the land of his birth, Irishmen glory in the land he evangelised. This period he considered the first bright epoch in Ireland's history.

Ireland has always had to struggle to maintain her education. Though people sneer at "the ignorant Irish," His Lordship could say that they were all well instructed in the highest, purest knowledge that leads to God. If there is any ignorance in the Irish element, he laid it at the doors of Protestant England, the persecutor that robbed her of her schools and drove her young men into foreign colleges. St. Patrick always insisted that the schools should rise in the shadow of the sanctuary. There was a time, from the sixth to the eighth century, when darkness prevailed in Europe, when Rome went down in blood and the barbarians over-ran the land, that Ireland in the midst of the ocean, when scholars from all over Europe poured into Ireland and received a free education and food and clothing. Columba, the son of St. Patrick, went to the island of Iona and there laid the foundation of Scotland's greatness. The educational epoch was another bright spot in Irish history.

Finally there was the military epoch. His Lordship vividly narrated the incidents of the famous battle of Clontarf, by which Ireland was freed from the Danes. College Green was another historical place, for here in 1782 Henry Grattan, in the presence of 80,000 volunteers, declared that Ireland must have legislative independence, and it was granted. This had been again lost in 1800, when Castlereg, traitor to the country that bore him, cut her throat first and then his own. God grant, His Lordship said, that we may all live to see the restoration of the Irish Parliament. When that day comes one more bright epoch will have been marked. Meanwhile let us, he continued, conduct ourselves as true children of St. Patrick, let us practice the Catholic faith and manifest our heartfelt charity towards other citizens who have not received this faith or who have not inherited it. Why should we be bigotted with them? They are not the inventors of their heresy; they inherited it. That revolution was brought about by bad Catholics and bad priests, but thank God Ireland had some but true Catholics and true priests. His Lordship said he was proud that Ireland had priests and people that were ready to speak, fight and die for their country. Let us, he said, be true to our clergy and true to our God, and God will in His own good time restore us our nationality.

As the congregation left the church the inspiriting strains of "St. Patrick's Day", with brilliant variations splendidly performed by Prof. Doucet, pealed forth from the organ.

The collection was in aid of the Ladies' Society. It amounted to nearly $80.

A STIRRING CALL TO WORK

An Earnest Appeal to Christian Workers

Christian Co-operation Strongly and Eloquently Urged—Pertinent Questions Pointedly Put.

The congregation at St. John's Church on Sunday night was large, and the services marked by great impressiveness. The anthem sung was "Consider the Lilies," Miss Cottingham taking the solo with unusually good voice and great success. Rev. Mr. Davidson preached the sermon. He took for his text the 35th verse of the 8th chapter of St. John's Gospel:

"Jesus heard that they had cast him out, and when he had found him, he said unto him, Dost thou believe on the son of God?"

There were many simple questions in life difficult to answer, and there were many courses presented where it was hard to make a choice. There were some questions, however, we must answer, and some courses upon which we must take sides. The question of the text was an issue before each one of us. The choice was presented for us to declare ourselves for Christ or against Him. The speaker pointed to the fact that this momentous question was in these days more often heard—reiterated in every quarter. There was a more intense activity, both for or behalf and against the principles of Christianity. The question of the text was what each must answer for himself. The speaker suggested the spirit in which each should ask the question and the means of arriving at an answer. In the blind man's healing, his faith co-operated with the power of Christ. He did not stop to reason, but in simple faith did as Christ had directed him, and in spite of the suggestive malice of the Pharisees, the blind man showed his gratitude for Christ's great mercy, by acknowledging and worshipping Him as the Son of God. He knew that if he chose Christ he "should be put out of the synagogue," but his gratitude towards, and his faith in, Christ overcame the fear of persecution. It was the commonly received opinion that a man did not in this world always receive the reward of good actions—that the reward would come in a future life. But the speaker's observation and experience were that no man performed a brave or noble action but that in this life he received a reward. The blind man got his reward—he found Christ. Christ found that the blind man had been cast out—that he had suffered for his obedience and He asked him the question, "Dost thou believe on the Son of God?" The blind man confessed his ignorance, but he wanted to believe. His heart was not hardened by indifference—he wished to learn of God. "Who is He that I might believe?" and Christ was revealed to him in the flesh—though the circumstances of humility in which He appeared—to the blind man—were contrary to the general idea of the Messiah's coming—he must have felt the force of the miracle by which he had been healed. The contest between faith, his reason and his preconception of Christ was brief—"Lord I believe—and he worshiped him." He took all the consequences of his course and made in the face of Christ's enemies a bold outspoken confession. The same issue is presented to-day, "Wilt thou be on the side of Christ?" The speaker urged especially young men to make a stand at once. All half heartedness, all lukewarmness was helping on the kingdom of Satan, "He that is not for Me is against Me." They were not to think of doctrines only but to study the great benefits bestowed on them, than which the opening of the blind man's eyes was not greater. Christ has done great things for all men, in a material but especially a spiritual sense. He asked those of his hearers who had not decided for Christ—who had not felt the influence of his life, if they had used the means? The blind man had been healed by using the means Christ had provided—water and clay. They had been baptised with water and they were urged to receive the Holy Ghost by coming to the holy rite of Confirmation.

HE WAS ANXIOUS TO LEARN—

A stirring and earnest appeal was made to his hearers who had not done so, to range themselves on Christ's side. They could not be idle; they could not be neutral. They had been admitted to the Church for the purpose of work. They should regard Christianity, not as a a drudgery or as a dry system of doctrine, but as a grand cause of the right against the wrong. The speaker deplored the lack of devotion in the church to Christ cause. In the great cities of England, the church was reaching down among the filth degredation, sin and squalor of the slums and helping in the fight between light and darkness—a great work. In this country the line of battle was less distinctly marked; there was general respectability, but there was a lamentable amount of indifference and coldness a sad increase of infidelity. There was work for every Christian. His should be a life of work a struggle on the behalf of Christ's Kingdom. Referring to the hyms selected for closing the services—"O Paradise"—the preacher doubted its applicability. Had we any right to sing it? Was it a time to indulge in sentiment about the future when we found it hard to realise that there was a battle to be fought, a work to be done. We had not yet earned the right to sing of Paradise, and we had better sing "Onward Christian Soldiers." The sermon throughout was a most earnest and practical one, and he that heard it without having his faith quickened; his zeal aroused, must be singularly proof against good impressions.

Chancery Court.

Fitzgerald vs. Midland Railway Company.—This case was concluded Saturday. Judgment reserved.

Erratum.—In our report of the Chancery sittings we stated, as regards the case of Fisher vs. Fisher, that the judge had given a verdict for the plaintiff. Our report should have stated that the verdict was for the defendant. The plaintiff's action was dismissed with costs against the plaintiff, and that the defendant's counter-claim to have the registration of the will of the late Hugh Fisher against the lands in question vacated, was granted. Messrs. E. B. Edwards and J. W. Bennett, for the plaintiff; Messrs. G. T. Blackstock and W. A. Stratton, for the defendant.

News Nuggets.

—Mr. R. Walsworight, butcher, has assigned.

—At the George street church Sunday school there was an attendance of 552 on Sunday, the largest of the season.

—James Wilfred, the Eanismore youth who was arrested Saturday for the larceny of a pair of boots, confessed his guilt and was sent to gaol for thirty days by the police magistrate.

—About 150,000 brick have been laid down at the new St. Joseph's hospital, Ashburnham, and work will be commenced on the superstructure as soon as possible. About 280,000 brick will be required altogether to complete the building.

How Strange It is

To see people starting at the head of George street, passing all the grocery houses on the street, thereby giving them the go-by, and coming to a halt at the Opera House Block, to secure some of W. J. Morrow's celebrated teas. One half the population of Peterborough are using our now celebrated 25c. tea. For the next few years we will sell goods away below other houses, so you can always rely on buying goods cheaper from us than elsewhere. Watch for our Saturday bargains and be sure to call.

THE GLORIES OF HEAVEN

Eloquently Depicted by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter.

The Evangelistic Services on Sunday—Immense Congregations Afternoon and Evening—Rev. Mr. Crossley's Touching Address.

Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Crossley occupied the pulpit of the Mark street Methodist church, Ashburnham. The services partook of an evangelistic nature and were concluded by a short fellowship meeting. Mr. Crossley's subject was the sufferings and martyrdom of Peter.

Rev. Mr. Hunter in the Charlotte street church read for his lesson part of the 21st chapter of Revelations, describing the glories of heaven, and for his text he selected Matt., xxi., 22, from which he impressed upon the large congregation the power of prayer.

At the afternoon meeting for Sunday school pupils the George street church was crowded to the doors. Rev. Mr. Hunter gave the children an acrostic:

Buy a Bible.
Investigate it,
Believe it,
Love it,
Employ it.

On each of these points he enlarged at some length, giving his young hearers some sound advice for their guidance.

Rev. Mr. Crossley impressed four "B's" upon the children—Be kind, Be happy, Be teetotal, Be christian. These axioms followed each, theirs would be useful and successful lives.

AT ST. PAUL'S.

More, probably, were turned away than gained admittance to St. Paul's Church last night. This was the first of a two week's series of meetings to be held in the above church. Precisely at 7 o'clock the Revs. Crossley, Torrance and Hunter mounted the platform, and the latter opened the service with a short prayer. Hymn No. 99, "Abide with Me," was then sung, after the singing of which the Rev. Mr. Torrance led in prayer. Mr. Crossley then sang a solo, and, after Mr. Torrance had made the announcements, the choir sang "Home at Last," Miss Vair taking the solo.

Mr. Hunter then urged all God's people to speedily make themselves at home, though being in a church of a different denomination from that to which many of them belonged. He said that Mr. Crossley and he were, though Methodist ministers, perfectly at home in a Presbyterian church; as for himself, his father, grandfather and great grandfather were Presbyterians. In some places, the speaker stated, the Episcopalians worked more than other denominations in their meetings and he was sorry it was not the case in Peterborough. Mr. Hunter then read and expounded the first sixteen verses of the 5th chapter of Matthew, containing a portion of the Lord's Sermon on the Mount. "Blessed are the pure in heart for they shall see God." God can be seen in every line of the Bible. "I can see Him on every leaf on every tree, and on every blade of grass." God can be seen also in all his province. "You may it is hard to see him in some things, so it is." "Now we see through a glass darkly, but there we shall see Him face to face." "All things work together for good to them that love God." "I am not going to try to unriddle God's providences. I can lay them aside and they will be unrolled before long. I can see God in my children; I can see Him in His people. Don't mind if you are persecuted, it won't hurt you. The best people of the earth have been the most persecuted." "Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in Heaven." In this verse the speaker said, every word should be emphasized. It should be emphasized by a right life. When I want to learn whether a man is a Christian I go not to the pastor of his church, but I go to his home, I ask his little child whether her father holds family prayer and says grace at the table. Brethren there's going to be a great scattering at the judgment." Talmage tells of a man who takes religion with him to church on Sunday and after the service is over locks his pew door and says, "Good-bye religion for another week." Let us take our religion with us wherever we were, and wherever we are. "We Christians are the only Bible that some people have." "It is an awful thing to hide our lights under a bushel."

Then followed a few moments of silent prayer, while Mr. Hunter read the requests.

THE GLORIES OF HEAVEN.

Mr. Crossley then arose and said he was going to preach upon a subject in which all were deeply interested, viz., "Heaven." He took as his text, Matt. xiv.,2. "I go to prepare a place for you." He proposed to answer some of the questions asked about Heaven."

1. Is there a heaven? We answer, yes. Those who acknowledge the truth of the Bible answer in the affirmative. Those who believe not the Bible, must admit that there is a heaven, for their consciousness tells them so and consciousness never deceives. "That virtue will be rewarded, is a principle in the breast of every man."

2 Is heaven a place or a state? If it is one, then it must be the other. I want you to consider it as both. The Bible tells us that we should have the kingdom of heaven on earth.

3. Should we be anxious to go to heaven? It is not an evidence of piety to want to be taken to heaven, but rather an evidence of a lack of piety. There are in the Bible three instances where men wished to die, and it was in every case at a time when things were out of joint. I can understand the old and the weary wishing to depart, but that those in health and strength should wish to die, I cannot comprehend. Paul said:—"For me to live is Christ, to die is gain."

4. Do Christians, when they leave the body, go directly to Heaven? Some falsely believe in an intermediate state. Paul said: "Absent from the body, present with the Lord." Christ said to the thief on the cross: "This day shall thou be with me in Paradise."

(5) Where is Heaven? Some believe that our earth will be heaven. This is a most foolish belief when we think that our earth is but a drop in a bucket when compared with the vast systems there are. Another thing is that heaven is the centre of all systems. As the sun is the centre of the solar system, and some other planet the centre of a system of systems, so heaven is the centre of a system of systems, etc. This is a grand idea and one upon which I like to linger, but yet, after all, the little girl who said, "Heaven is where Jesus is," has given the best answer to this question. It is a question that cannot be answered. Mr. Crossley then sang a song entitled "Where is Heaven?"

(6) Will the friendships of earth be remembered and cherished there? When Christ said, "Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; that when ye fail they may receive you into everlasting habitations," answers this question. Then comes the question, Will we know each other there? It is absurd to think we won't know as much there as on earth. Yes Presbyterians will recognize Horatius Bonar; yes Episcopalians, Archdeacon Farrar, and so on, without reading any introduction. There we shall "know each other as we are known."

7. Will we be all alike happy? We shall all be as happy as possible, but our capacities being different our degrees of happiness will differ. There will be as much difference in this respect as in our degrees of holiness and faithfulness here.

8. Will any of us miss Heaven? In Hebrews III it says:—"So I sware in my wrath, they shall not enter into my rest." As many Israelites were kept out of the promised land because of unbelief, so many will miss the heavenly Canaan for a similar reason.

9. What kind of a place and state is Heaven? There will be no sin, no sorrow, no dying, no pain, no ache, no tear, no death, no mourning. This earth is the land of the dying; yonder they live in perpetual bloom. "He that liveth and believeth in me shall never die." Sorrow and sighing shall flee away." The glory of heaven is indescribable. There will be constant activity there. A healthy mind would not be happy if there was nothing to do. If for no reason I should like to go to heaven because of the music that will be heard there. Oh what will the singing of heaven be? There will be no devils in heaven.

Some people believe that God will be too merciful to punish forever in hell. It would be no act of mercy to allow sinners into heaven. If the Lord would let all the scum of the earth into heaven it would be worse than hell. Some sinners would be happier in a brothel or a bar-room than in heaven; you would be no more comfortable in heaven than a tramp in a gorgeous parlour surrounded by beautiful pictures, etc. You moralists would escape at the first opportunity and the deepest hell would be your retreat. Heaven is the place for the survival of the fittest or the aptest. Jesus will be the great attraction there. Mothers, be comforted by knowing that your children are all there. The most important question is, "Shall I be there?" When the roll of heaven is called may we all be there to answer to our names.

Mr. Crossley then sang "Shall We Meet in Heaven," after which Mr. Hunter led in prayer.

Two after meetings were held and many souls were convicted of sin and their need of a Saviour.

THE TORONTO BUDGET.

CONSTABLE DUNCAN EXPLAINS HIS LITTLE WHEAT DEAL.

Alleged Bucket Shop Men Held for Trial—Skinner Republicans's Damage Suit—"Move-on" Jarvis Still in Jail.

TORONTO, March 19.—Broker Joseph Priestman proposes to his fellow brokers in town that they all join hands and pockets to see if a man who does a "commission" business violates the Abbey Act. With that object in view he yesterday addressed a strong letter to all the brokers in the city. It is thought that many of the city brokers will join Mr. Priestman with a flourish and a fat purse.

Mr. Priestman was in the Police Court yesterday on a charge of keeping a gaming house at No. 71 Yonge-street, which was raided by Inspector Archibald and his men on March 9. Charles Priestman, J. C. Millichamp, Francis J. Spear, Walter Armour, Thomas Galbraith and Geo. B. Foster were arraigned for frequenting the place. Mr. Galbraith and Mr. Armour were discharged. Inspector Archibald and Policeman Duncan told of what they saw at No. 71 Yonge-street when the police visited the place. There was a blackboard on which was written quotations coming in over the "ticker." Officer Duncan had been put as a "capper" to catch Priestman, and he explained the mysteries of his dealings in the place. On a deal of 10,000 bushels of wheat in Chicago Priestman told him that he would be charged ¼ cent commission. The witness told the Magistrate that when he bought the wheat it was not for delivery. After considerable further evidence the Magistrate committed Priestman and the other defendants for trial at the Assizes, their own bail being accepted in $200 each. Mr. Priestman was told that he must close up his place, as he would be arrested again. Mr. Priestman's telephone was ordered to be released.

On motion of Ald. Hill the City Council last night fixed Monday, Aug. 12, as the Civic Holiday for 1889.

S. Napolitano, a teacher in the Italian night school, has entered an action for $10,000 damages against 18 signers of a petition for his removal. The petition alleged that he had served several years confinement for a criminal offence in his native town. Signor Napolitano admits that while in Italy he was arrested and confined on a serious charge, but says that after one or two years in prison he was released, the true culprit having confessed the deed, and that furthermore he is now in receipt of an indemnity pension from the Italian Government as a solace for his sufferings.

Although the time for receiving applications for liquor licenses does not expire till March 31, the License Commissioners have already received 160 applications.

Ex Constable Dick Jarvis of "move-on" notoriety and his brothers Louis and Daniel, who assaulted Robert Hershey at Weston last Thursday night, are in jail, no one coming forward to bail them out. They will appear before Judge McDougall to-morrow to answer to the charges of assault with intent to rob and assault with intent to do grievous bodily harm.

The Police Magistrate yesterday sent John and Patrick Doyle to the Penitentiary for three years for breaking into the jewelry store of Mr. Fred Roberts, Queen-street west, and stealing therefrom. Hugh McKay, for keeping $100 given him by his employer in mistake for $10, was sent to jail for 60 days.

The Irish Catholic Benevolent Union's annual lecture and concert in Temperance Hall last night was disturbed by juvenile partisans on the outside who, not content with hooting threw stones at the building, one of which cracked the thick frost window, and another struck Inspector Stephen on the side of the head, cutting his ear severely. Several ladies in the hall fainted.

The latest sensation in Queen-street Methodist Church circles is the elopement of an ex-pillar of the sacred edifice, J. C. Munson, a man of 40 who leaves behind a wife and three children, with 19-year-old Milly Spanner.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, March 19.—St. Lawrence market was very flat yesterday morning. There was almost nothing offered. Dressed hogs are quoted at $7.25 per 100 lbs.; beef, forequarters, $4; hindquarters, $6 50; geese, per lb., 9c.; turkeys, 14c.; ducks per pair, 70c.; chickens, 35c.; butter, rolls, 22c.; tubs, 18c.; lard, 13c.; eggs, 20c.; potatoes, bag, 50c.; apples, barrel, $1.25.

Receipts of hay were fair, the demand poor, and prices easier at $17 to $20. Three loads of straw were offered and sold at $10.

Receipts of wheat were 200 bushels, that sold at $1.08 to $1.10 for fall and spring and 86½c. for goose. Receipts of barley were 1,000 bushels, and the prices lower at 45 to 54c. One load of peas sold at 56c. and 200 bushels of oats at 37 and 38c.

On change No. 1 hard, Winnipeg inspection, was offered on track to arrive $1.33, with $1.30 bid. Frosted wheat was offered by sample at 90c. on track, with 80c. bid. No transactions.

The stocks in store at the Toronto elevators yesterday were as follows: Flour 1500 bbls., fall wheat 33,080 bushels, spring wheat 95,852 bushels, barley 203, 994 bushels, peas 1907 bushels, oats 3994 bushels.

Woodstock News.

WOODSTOCK, March 18.—The time during which the candidates nominated for St. John's and St. George's Wards might withdraw expired at noon to-day. Contrary to expectations there will be a contest in both wards. J. R. Oliver, John Pascoe and R. Melville have withdrawn from St. John's, leaving Charles Allen and Edward West to contest the seat. James Bell has withdrawn in St. George's Ward, leaving Charles Oliver, James Rippon and S. J. Cole in the field. J. J. Hall and J. M. TOPICS FROM THE CAPITAL

A SIDE GLANCE AT THE JESUITS ACT IN THE HOUSE.

Col. O'Brien's Motion Likely to Come Up on Thursday—Chief Engineer Page Attacked and Defended.

OTTAWA, March 18.—The Jesuits Estates Act occupied the attention of the House for a few minutes this afternoon before the orders of the day were taken up. Mr. Laurier rose to question Col. O'Brien as to when he intended to proceed with his promised motion. The Colonel replied that it would be taken up on the very first motion to go into committee of supply after the Budget debate was finished, and he understood this would be wound up to-morrow. Wednesday was being a Government day this would bring on Col. O'Brien's motion on Thursday. Next questioning the Premier, Mr. Laurier asked if the Government would move to go into committee of supply on Thursday. They would know better later in the week, Sir John replied. Mr. Laurier then inquired if in view of the discussion expected the official papers in connection with the bill would be brought down. The Premier said they certainly would. He thought they would be ready to-morrow.

Mr. Cook's question respecting the identity of Senator Gowan and ex-Judge Gowan and the judicial pension received brought the answer that they were one and the same person. Judge Gowan had been County Judge from 1843 to 1883 and when he retired he got a pension of $1783 as allowed by Statute. He commenced to receive this before his appointment to the Senate.

Mr. Bowrin, resuming his adjourned speech on the motion for the Cornwall Canal Correspondence, continued the lively attack upon Chief Engineer Page which he had commenced on Wednesday last. He asked for the appointment of a commission to investigate the several matters of complaint which he had laid before the House.

The engineer found a champion in Mr. Mulock, who said Mr. Page's professional record was of the very highest standard, not only in Canada but abroad.

Sir John Macdonald said there was no objection to bringing down the papers asked for. The Government were bound to get the best scientific help they could and he thought they were very well off in their chief engineer of canals.

An animated debate upon this resolution offered by Mr. Platt followed:

That it is expedient to remove the duty on and place upon the free list all grains and seeds which do not ripen in Canada, but which are now largely imported and grown for the production of feed for cattle under the system of feeding called ensilage and ensilage now largely adopted by the farmers of Canada.

Mr. Platt emphatically declared that this resolution was no part of a conspiracy against the National Policy. He aimed chiefly at the free importation of sweet corn for seeding purposes for the development of the ensilage system, found to be so profitable to the farmers.

Hon. Mackenzie Bowell opposed the resolution because it was altogether impracticable, not being specific enough in its terms. If 40 was only seed grain for which free admission was sought, the amount of duty involved was infinitely small. He was rather inclined to believe that the agitation on this subject had been raised by politicians as a piecemeal attack upon the National Policy.

Mr. Tavier also opposed the resolution, declaring that the effect of it would be to reduce by 7½ cents the price of every bushel of coarse grain grown in the country.

Several Opposition members spoke in favor of Dr. Platt's resolution, and when the House came together after recess a staunch Conservative, Gen. Laurie, led off with a speech warmly supporting the request.

Then the Finance Minister rose with the statement that the matter was one well worth looking into and he would consult with the Minister of Customs to see what could be done about it.

In advocating that the Ministers of Finance and Customs should as promised put their heads together to devise a resolution dealing with the matter, Mr. Kirkpatrick made a warm speech in support of affording the encouragement to the farmers.

On the other side Mr. McNeill contended that the free importation of sweet corn would save to the average farmer just 40 cents a year, while it might have the effect of lessening the value of all coarse grain grown in the country.

Dr. Platt withdrew his resolution on the understanding that the Government would give attention to the matter.

The next subject before the House was introduced by Mr. Bardett, who wants a grant in aid of the Belleville Drill Shed. Hon. Mackenzie Bowell said if such aid had not been already given it was because the city had refused to make any grant, declining to follow the example of other towns and cities. For instance Brantford, which now had in an application for a drill shed grant, had itself liberally supported the institution.

This reference to Brantford brought a few words from Mr. Paterson of Brant, who was glad that the Minister of Customs had made the reference and who advocated liberal treatment of the volunteers as a class who serve their country at very great expense to themselves.

The House adjourned at 10.45 because, as Sir Hector Langevin said, it was expected that they would sit to-morrow until long past midnight in order to get through with the Budget debate.

An Admiralty Decision.

CHICAGO, March 19.—The admiralty claim of M. A. Bradley against the propeller John Pridgeon, jr., was decided yesterday by Judge Blodgett in favor of the libellant. The Pridgeon and the propeller Lelah Chamberlain collided off Sheboygan, Wis., in October, 1886. The Chamberlain sank and proved a total loss. The court held that the Pridgeon was solely at fault. The court limited the liability of the Pridgeon to $27,500. An appeal was taken to the United States Supreme Court.

Sorosis' 21st Anniversary.

NEW YORK, March 19.—Sorosis yesterday celebrated its 21st anniversary and 325 delegates representing various states attended the convention and banquet. It was a representative gathering of women of intellect, culture, wealth and social standing. Addresses were made by Julia Ward Howe, Mary Wright Sewall and others. Ellen D. Clymer was installed as President.

FIRE AT LONDON.

A $12,000 Blaze in the Factory of the London and Petrolea Barrel Company.

LONDON, Ont., March 18.—Fire broke out shortly after 9 o'clock this morning in the factory of the London and Petrolea Barrel Company at the corner of Adelaide and Simcoe streets and was not extinguished until 1 p.m. Loss $12,000; insurance $6,000, divided between the Queen's, Commercial Union, Royal Canadian and City Mutual.

THEY SAT TILL MIDNIGHT.

THE LEGISLATURE BUSY CLEARING OFF THE ORDER PAPERS.

Bills That Were Advanced, Bills That Were Passed and Bills That Were Slaughtered—Three Divisions.

TORONTO, March 19.—A dull session was that at the Assembly yesterday. The proceedings in fact were purely routine. Rushing bills and considering measures in committee occupied the afternoon. These bills were read a third time:

To give representation in the Legislative Assembly to the District of Nipissing—Mr. Hardy.

Respecting suits under the Manhood Suffrage Act—The Attorney-General.

Respecting steam threshing machines—Mr. Drury.

Respecting the City of London—Mr. Meredith.

To incorporate the Ontario Inland Marine Mutual Insurance Association—Mr. Leys.

These bills were passed in committee:

Respecting registry offices—The Attorney-General.

To amend the act respecting the study of Anatomy—Mr. McKay.

To protect the beaches and shores of the Province against depredations—Mr. Drury.

The Provincial Treasurer moved that the House go into committee to-day to consider the railway resolutions.

The Provincial Treasurer moved that the House go into committee to-day to consider the railway resolutions.

These Government orders were considered and passed in committee: Respecting damage to Canada by flooding in new districts—Mr. Drury; to amend the Division Courts Act—Mr. Gibson (Hamilton.)

The Provincial Secretary's bill to amend the Public Health Act was then read a second time.

The second reading of the bill to amend the Free Libraries Act was moved by the Minister of Education. Mr. Ross explained that before this bill had been brought down every free library board in the province had been notified and had approved of its provisions. Formost amongst these is the clause providing for the organizing of evening classes for mechanics and laboring men in connection with the libraries. This is an outcome of the conference called by the Minister of Education and held in the Normal School some months ago. The bill passed.

The Provincial Treasurer introduced a bill to amend the Ontario Insurance Act.

Among the public bills considered in committee was Mr. Bishop's measure to amend the act respecting insurance companies. There was considerable discussion on the provision which proposes to enlarge the time of insurance for mutual insurance companies to four instead of three years. The measure, however passed in committee.

The following public bills were then passed in committee:

To amend the Building Societies Act—Mr. Meredith.

Respecting Arbitrations and References—Mr. Meredith.

Mr. Whitney, on moving the second reading of his bill to amend the Election Act, explained that the object of the measure was to add imprisonment to the penalty of a fine for bribery.

The Attorney-General objected to the measure on the ground that if the penalty were increased the present difficulty of securing a conviction would be increased.

The bill was voted down, 30 to 15.

The second reading of the bill respecting actions at law was moved by Mr. French. The House divided and the bill was voted down by 43 to 24.

Mr. Meredith's bill to amend the Ontario Judicature Act was also voted down by a majority of 30.

A number of other bills were dropped and the House adjourned at midnight.

A Scott Act Witness Indicted.

WHITBY, March 18.—At the assizes convened here to-day by Justice Falconbridge, the grand jury brought in a true bill for perjury against F. Williyman, a witness in a recent Scott Act trial, resulting in the conviction of J. M. Brooks of Oshawa, before Police Magistrate Grierson of that town. The liquor party are intensely interested in the result, as it will have an important influence in the contest now going on for the repeal of the Scott Act in this county.

Signs of Spring.

MOUNT FORREST, March 17.—Blue-jays, robins and dainty little bonnets have made their welcome appearance here already.

A sacred concert was given in the Roman Catholic Church to-night. A lecture by Father Burk of Arthur was on the program and was much appreciated.

THE BLOOD OF THE LAMB

Which Cleanseth Us From All Sin.

The Subject of Rev. Mr. Crossley's Address — Mr. Hunter's Exposition of Peter's Seven Downward Steps—An Other Large Congregation.

St. Paul's Church was filled last evening, when another of Messrs. Crossley and Hunter's evangelistic meetings was held. After the opening songs and prayers, Rev. Mr. Hunter made a call for 100 volunteers to go out and work for the Master. He said there were many in the church who had not spoken to a soul for ten years, and he was afraid a great many of them would not awake until the judgment day. Though the call was not intended to be a responsive one, there stood up a man who was only converted a week or so ago. Mr. Hunter remarked this, and to show how earnest some young converts were, he told of how one young man who had received grace in his heart Friday night was in St. Paul's Church Sunday evening with a friend, and, calling to Mr. Hunter that his friend would not be able to attend any more meetings this week, he said, "He must be saved to-night." And Mr. Hunter and a few Christian people gathered around, and before the meeting closed the young man had the satisfaction of seeing his friend converted. He urged these examples upon the older ones in the church, who were sleeping instead of working.

SEVEN DOWNWARD STEPS.

Mr. Hunter spoke of the seven downward steps of Peter as outlined in the 22nd chapter of Luke. First, Peter slept. There were many fathers and mothers sleeping to-day whilst their children's souls were unsaved, and if they died in their sin who would be responsible? Peter's second downward step was that he got angry and cut off the servant's ear. No doubt he intended to take his head off, but the man dodged and he only took off his ear. But by the magic power of Jesus the ear was healed, and this same power could heal the dead souls about us. Third, Peter followed afar off. That was just where a great many were, followers of Christ, but afar off. Keep close to his side, he said, for away from it there is danger. The next downward step was when he sat among Jesus' enemies, and by that act practically denied Him. People who ran around to theatres, ball-rooms and card parties were sitting down among the enemies of Jesus Christ. They are on Satan's territory, and if they die there Satan will claim them. Then Peter denied Jesus, and by act and word many of us are denying Him every day. Again he "cursed and swore." No Christian could curse or swear. And when Peter denied Jesus the cock crew thrice, and Peter, recollecting the words of Jesus, went out and wept. How many have done that since? They have denied their God and then gone to their rooms and wept in bitterness of spirit and became reconciled to God. Blessed thought. All those who seek Jesus in Peter's spirit will, like the Apostle, be forgiven In conclusion Mr. Hunter gave his hearers three "looks" for their guidance: Look out for chances to do good; look to Jesus in heaven; look forward to the time when they shall rest from their labors with Him there.

THE BLOOD OF THE LAMB.

In the book of Exodus, xii, 13, is this passage:—

"When I see the blood I will pass over you."

Pharoah hardened his heart and the Lord softened it by plagues; but Pharoah, like the iron that is soft with heat, metaphorically speaking, plunged himself into cold water and became hardened. In this sense alone can it be said that God hardened Pharoah's heart. After outlining the provision made by God for the escape of Israel from all consequence of Pharoah's obstinacy, by the sprinkling of blood on their doorposts, Mr. Crossley said this was intended to illustrate how we to-day might be saved. Christ was the great anti type of the Paschal lamb in Egypt, but he would only refer to it in its connection with the blood. The blood in Egypt was innocent blood, it was vicarious blood, and in it was Jesus exemplified, for He is pure and without blemish, and He was the vicarious sacrifice for all mankind. The blood of the Paschal lamb was saving blood; so the blood of Christ saves us from the death of sin. Those not now Christians are dead in sin, but the blood of Christ can save them from its dreadful consequences. As the blood on the lintel was the only thing that saved the Israelites, so the blood of Christ alone can save sinners. Some people say they are saved by faith and works; not so, the works is not a means of salvation but rather an evidence of faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. Then this blood in Egypt was sprinkled, and so the blood of Christ is sprinkled on the mercy seat for the salvation of men. The Israelites were sheltered behind this sprinkled blood; it was the only thing that could protect them. Just so was it with people to-day. Imagine a family gathered around the hearth with a child outside the threshold, beyond the sprinkled blood. Some people are quite at ease about these children, and careless of the danger to their souls. And some of these young people outside the sheltering blood are so flippant and careless about it; they know they are in danger, but they say "Oh, God is merciful." Now here was where God's mercy came in. He was merciful and in mercy provided a way to be saved by affording protection behind the sheltering blood. Or they may say, "Yes, the blood was shed on Calvary and it has been sprinkled, I know;" but that fact alone is of no use. They must take refuge behind the sprinkled blood.

Then they say "Jesus died for the sinner and I am a sinner and expect to be saved," To the invitation to come into the church, they refuse to come because par chance there are some persons they object to in the church. What is their's. Speaking to this young man, he says, "Yes I intend to"—but when? You dame know, said Mr. Crossley, that you will be alive to-morrow. Yet here you are resting in good intentions and neglecting the present. Or the young man says, "I don't feel like it." How foolish and stupid! Animals are supposed to be guided by feeling, but men are moved by intelligence. The less feeling he has the more important it is that a man act on his intelligence. Don't wait for animal impulses to stir you, Mr. Crossley urged, but act on your better sense. But if the young man sees his stupidity in these things he comes to God and gets behind the sheltering blood, and he experiences salvation. He might say, "If I could be saved as easily as the Israelites, I would be." Now he has to do just the same as the Israelites, have faith in the blood of Jesus, which was shed for him, and, believing it, surrender his heart to God. That was all. The acts of mind are just the same without the physical acts corresponding. And, also, the certainty of salvation is illustrated in the blood of the paschal lamb. The Israelites did not question how they were to be saved; they knew God had ordered it and they had faith. So with faith in the blood to-day; God does not intend us to understand it philosophically, but to accept it as a fact, that the blood of Jesus cleanses us from all sin. Some might say, "How do I know I am to be saved if I have faith and yield?" If they doubted this they doubted Jesus' word. He plainly says that is all that is required. And even to persons behind the blood, the thought might come that they are not saved; but if they yield and trust in God they should know that their sins were put down. Some come to the front and say they feel no different; but if they went no further, and did not cross the threshold behind the blood, they would never be saved. After crossing the threshold, the repentant sinner says:—I'm saved, I know I am. His assurance of pardon is sufficient for all my sins. I am my Lord's and He is mine.

NOTES.

Rev. Mr. Crossley requested more members of the union choir to assist in the lecture room every evening, as more accommodation could be provided.

To-night there will be several duets and quartettes in addition to Mr. Crossley's solos.

Rev. Mr. McKwen, of Lakefield, was present last night.

An acute observer says that Mr. Hunter is losing the slight Yankee tone in his voice that he brought over from Detroit. When he first began in Peterborough he would say "man" for my and "finde" for like. He is beginning to pronounce the i properly again.

Mr. Crossley's solos last night were entitled "Rescue" and "Abide with Me."

This afternoon the meeting for Christian workers is being held in the Charlotte street church.

As usual a large number of requests for prayer were read.

CANADIAN COMPANIES ABROAD.

Chignecto Marine Railway Prospectus—Northwest Land Company.

LONDON, March 18.—The prospectus is issued of the Chignecto Marine Transport Company, with a capital of £300,000 in 15,000 seven per cent. preference shares of £20 each, and £10,000 in 5000 ordinary shares of £20 each. The company is also authorized to issue £700,000 of five per cent. mortgage debentures. Only preferred shares are now offered. Mr. Provand, M.P., is among the directors.

Sir George Warrender, chairman, has intimated his desire to retire from the board of the Canada Northwest Land Company as soon as suitable provision is made. The board recommends the election of Thomas Reynolds of London to fill Mr. Peacock Edwards' place on the board. Mr. Edwards has hitherto been managing director in Scotland. These changes are taken to indicate the intention of the board to infuse fresh life into the affairs of the company.

The Canada Company's report shows that land sales and leases decreased 854 acres, as compared with 1887. Receipts decreased £11,307. The average price, however, increased from 30s to 36s 8d/stg. The board expect activity in mining. The cost of management was reduced by £350.

The Standard's financial editor, commenting on the Canadian Pacific Bill now before the Dominion Parliament, says if the bond and share holders are not to sit still till they are ruined they ought to organize determined opposition to the proposals at once. It is not likely the suggestions will be acted on.

TWENTY-SIX YEARS A P.M.

Mr. Cahill's Anniversary—Attempted Burglary at Hamilton—Accidental Death.

HAMILTON, March 18.—There were more than the usual number of members of the legal profession at the Police Court this morning, and when the Magistrate took his seat Mr. G. A. Reiffer, on behalf of the members, made a brief speech complimenting him upon having completed twenty-six years as Police Magistrate.

Sidorski & Rzesnia's rag warehouse was entered by thieves yesterday and an attempt was made to force open the safe, but without success. Postage stamps and postal cards to the value of less than $2 were taken from the office. The would-be cracksmen got into the place by a rear window.

Yesterday morning Bishop Hamilton held an ordination service at Christ Church Cathedral, and ordained Mr. L. I. Smith of St. Matthew's Church as a priest.

Mr. Peter Ryan of Toronto delivered a lecture at Grand Opera House to-night on "The Church of Dungeness."

Mrs. Dubbin accidentally smothered to death her 6-months-old child one night last week.

The Police Magistrate reserved judgment in the provoke case of Morton v. Gane this morning.

Henry Walters, manufacturer of ladies' mantles, etc., is missing and his creditors, who include a number of Toronto and Montreal merchants, are uneasy.

THE N.P. AND M.

Contemplated Extension of the System in the Province.

WINNIPEG, March 18.—President McNaught of the Northern Pacific and Manitoba Road reports that the company has negotiated with a New York syndicate for $6,000,000 on bonds of the road. The intention is to extend the system extensively in the Province. The indications are that the Emerson branch will shortly be reopened.

A farmer named S. A. Rise of Richland was killed to-day by a kick of a horse.

The Toronto pot hunters who are preparing for a big hunt next fall will be prevented if possible by the Game Prevention Society from indulging in indiscriminate slaughter of game.

McGarigle will not return to Chicago shortly as reported.

Hallett, charged with wife murder, was found guilty this evening of manslaughter.

Parry Sound Colonization Railway.

PARRY SOUND, March 19.—A meeting of the directors of the Parry Sound Colonization Railway Company was held here yesterday for the purpose of securing an additional bonus to construct the line from here to Burk's Falls. The Ontario Government purpose granting $3000 a mile, and it is thought that if the Dominion Government will renew a bonus formerly granted of $3000 per mile the road can be built. With this end in view a deputation of influential business men was appointed to go to Ottawa forthwith and represent to the Government the position of affairs.

Railway Consolidation.

SIMCOE, March 18.—At the meeting of shareholders of the South Norfolk Railway and of the Georgian Bay Division of the Grand Trunk held here yesterday it was unanimously resolved to incorporate the South Norfolk extension into the Georgian Bay division under the special provision of an act of the Dominion Parliament passed at the session of 1888. All the necessary resolutions were passed and agreements unanimously approved for the consolidation.

Partly Gave Up.

"In the year 1885 I coughed for six months, and having unsuccessfully tried many remedies, I partly gave up, thinking I had consumption. At last I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, less than one bottle of which cured me, leaving me as well as ever I was." Henry W. Carne, Wabash, Ont. 2w10d.

A High Valuation.

"If there was only one bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil in Manitoba, I would give one hundred dollars for it," writes Phillip H Brant, of Monteith, Manitoba, after having used it for a severe wound and for frozen fingers, with, as he says, "astonishing good results." 2w10d

Nothing Like It.

"Well, now, this is very strange, I must confess," he stammered in bewilderment. Returning into the library in a mingled state of anger and perturbation he banged the door after him and rubbed his eyes to induce calmness. He turned the key; fortunately here was one door at least which understood the meaning of that mystical little instrument. He was solaced with a momentary assurance of confidence, but not for long. Scarcely had he resumed his seat before the wild eyes of the ferocious cat began to stare at him through the glass door, with frantic pawings and efforts to enter. He pulled down the blinds and shut out the unwelcome sight with a vindictive "S-s-scat!" This after all was the only room in the house where everything seemed to work properly; if things did not shortly improve he would remain just here during the night. Again the mysterious trotting, now nearer, much nearer, at the gate; surely he has stopped, and now after a long delay, yes, the bridle is drawn through the ring and the traveler has entered the gate. "Carroll has arrived!" he said with a sigh of relief, and looked expectantly toward the door. At this moment a tempestuous wind shook the glass door, which, bursting wide open, so great a volume of gust was thrown into the room that it extinguished the lamp; nothing but his ashen cigar served now to enlighten the utter blackness within, and he knew not where to find a match. He felt very helpless; the moon seemed again to have undergone total obscuration. He was attracted by the sound of footsteps approaching up the pathway to the house: but their approach only gave him a vague, indefinite feeling of dread; there was an odd halting, clanking sound in those coming footsteps which filled him with no assured sense of safety, but rather a nervous timidity. It is true he had always scoffed at the supernatural; his belief was that all phenomena were subject to realistic explanation; and yet, yet, what a strange inexplicable sound was this which grew upon his strained, unquiet ears? Beverlin crouched far down in his armchair, as if to ward off a possible assault, and then, drawing himself up suddenly, thought with shame of this craven attitude. He listened keenly. There was yet a light in the hall, flickering and low, but he was not entirely destitute of illumination. The terrible wind now continued to sweep through the doorway, tossed about the music on the rack in a vast flutter of flying papers and shook all the casements distractedly. His nerves quivered with apprehension; he had no power to move. Suddenly, above the wild roaring, above the sound of those unearthly footsteps, ever drawing nearer, and yet never arriving, and which he still hoped might prove an auricular delusion, came a faint, low, unmistakable moan, a voice of distress near at hand! Whence came it? Was it an animal in pain—the ubiquitous cat, perhaps? Ah, no, it was a woman's voice, plainly that, as the repetitions impressed the novelty upon his notice. "Oh, Willie, Willie!" was the sound, now growing louder.

"Poor thing," he said in a sympathetic burst, while great beads of perspiration started to his brow. "Poor, poor thing!" He must go to her, she was wounded, she was in excruciating agony, she required assistance. Oh, what a "Walpurgis nacht" was this! What sounds, sights, imaginations forced themselves upon his ken! He shivered from head to foot, but, with a certain forethought, drew himself together, whipped out a revolver he had almost forgotten he possessed, cocked it and determined to afford relief to the unhappy one, whoever she might be. While he was struggling toward the hallway (where he presumed he would find an inner entrance to the cellar), he was a second time overwhelmed with the creeping sensation which seemed to climb along his joints and muscles and benumb him into powerlessness.

"Pshaw!" thought he, mastering himself with an effort. "Perhaps this one may be only a maniac patient of Walter's whom he indulges in straitjackets and the punitory bath tub in the private sanitarium of his cellar! I had better not meddle; or perhaps it may be the doroloua Amelia." This thought was inspiration.

"Miss Carroll!" he called in a loud, polite voice, "Miss Carroll!"

No answer. And now, quite distinctly to be heard was the clanking of many chains, the rattling as of bones rudely jostled, the awful, uncertain footstep, the nearing presence even now upon the veranda! Nearer, nearer yet, a trifle slower but still onward. Must he face it, meet it, realize its strange, fascinating power, fall before it as before a Juggernaut of Fate and be ground to atoms where he stood? He grasped his pistol somewhat tighter, determined that if flesh and blood confronted him it must meet the fate of depredatory, lawless flesh and blood; if otherwise, then so be it, good-by to himself! He would at least summon all his courage and face the invader. Almost restored to calmness he entered the hall; the air seemed charged with electricity and innumerable sparks like the iridescent eyes of peacock feathers danced before his sorry vision. He could not bring himself to flick the awesome object, now so near; his courage had oozed away with the prospect of so terrible a relative position, and he fled back into the darkened library, into the remotest corner—anywhere, anywhere away from the reach of that appalling doom! He called himself a coward, a poltroon, a pusillanimous puppy (he was too far gone to smile at the alliterative thought), but Oh! that this night were ended, these signs, groans (rapidly increasing), these grating foot steps become but a memory? He closed his eyes as if to avoid realization, and listened in frantic patience for that slow, advancing specter, whose aspect he could now almost prefigure. Pshaw, perhaps after all these multiform sensations were but the reflex action of his last hypodermic injection, administered prior to his departure from home; morphine often played illusive pranks; why might not his state of mind, the solitude, the wild night, Carroll's letter, coupled with his freshness, account for everything? He had read that such delusions were not uncommon in certain forms of disease.

No! What do his reopened eyes behold, now standing in the entrance door-way! Now with slow, positive steps nearing the library! and now entering the very room! No delusion this, but actuality. With fixed gaze and rapidly pulsating heart Beverlin stared at the ghastly apparition; he could not withdraw his eyes from that unnatural visage responding to his own.

The popular hostility against syndicates is growing. In the House of Commons W. H. Smith, the Government leader, while refusing to interfere with the salt syndicate, declared that such combinations worked their own cure, and tended ultimately to reduce the price of articles the rates of which they temporarily raised.

My Toothache

is an exclamation heard every hour in the day. Toothache is the most common ailment of young and old, and in the aggregate inflicts more suffering than perhaps any other single complaint. A one minute cure is just what every person desires to possess. Nerviline—nerve pain cure—acts almost instantly in relieving the agony, and as a sample bottle affords a quantity sufficient for 100 applications, 10 cents fills the bill. Polson's Nerviline is the only positive remedy for toothache and all nerve pains. Sold by druggists and all dealers in medicine. 6w12d

Health Failing Fast.

"I was swollen from head to foot from dropsy of six months' standing, and my health was failing fast, but after taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters I am quite well, and think there is no medicine equal to B. B. B., and to it I remain a true friend." Joseph Heric, Linwood, Ont. 2w10d

A Dreadful Doom.

To be unable to satisfy hunger without being distressed by heartburn, indigestion, sick stomach, dizziness or faintness, seems a dreadful doom. All who suffer thus will find prompt relief and permanent cure in Burdock Blood Bitters. B. B. B. positively cures dyspepsia in any form. 2w10d

Common Croup

is often fatal when not remedied in time. Leslie B. Nicholson, 19 Wellesley avenue, Toronto, says:—"As a quick cure for croup, colds, sore throat, chilblains, etc., I can recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil." It is a sure cure. Directions accompany each bottle. 2w10d

DR. DORENWEND'S

HAIR MAGIC.

The equal of this great preparation is yet to be found. It is an unfailing Restorer for gray hair—it stops all failing out of the hair—it removes all dandruff and keeps the scalp clean. On bald heads (if there are but the faintest traces of roots) the Magic will produce a fine growth. Will you try it? Or will you let your hair go, and become prematurely old? What do you say? All druggists everywhere have it for sale. Ask for it. Do n t let the druggist tell you he has something just as good—many have dead stock of other hair tonics on hand and try to shove them off in this way.

The Queen's Birthday.

Yesterday a meeting of the hotel keepers and horsemen of the town was held for the purpose of discussing the advisability of holding races here on the 24th of May. It was decided to have a grand meet on that day, and the managers, in taking hold of affairs thus early, are determined to make it a great event.

The Talk of the Town.

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 18 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

"Don't Tease me no More," but go and get me a 5 pound package of that fine tea for $1 at M. R. Kidd's.

A Dummer Fraud Case.

On Monday afternoon a man named Faxton Brown, of Dummer, was lodged in gaol to await his trial at the coming assizes on a charge of fraud. It seems that Brown, who was a farmer, got into financial difficulty and gave Mr. D. Ross a bill of sale on his property. On the 7th of March, when the goods were to be sold, it was ascertained that they had been removed and could nowhere be found. Brown was arrested therefor and committed for trial by Mr. A. R. Kidd, J. P.

How Strange It is

To see people starting at the head of George street, passing all the grocery houses on the street, thereby giving them the go-by, and coming to a halt at the Opera House Block, to secure some of W. J. Morrow's celebrated teas. One half the population of Peterborough are using our now celebrated 25c. tea. For the next few years we will sell goods away below other houses, so you can always rely on buying goods cheaper from us than elsewhere. Watch for our Saturday bargains and be sure to call.

The Canoe Meet.

Mr. H. C. Rogers, of Peterborough, Commodore of the American Canoe Association, was in Ottawa a few days ago, and, accompanied by Mr. Taylor, M.P., had an interview with the postmaster general, relative to securing direct postal service to the Association's camp, which is to be held on the Canadian inland in the St. Lawrence, near Gananoque, next summer. He also saw the Minister of Customs relative to having a special officer placed on duty at the camp, in order to facilitate the entry of outfits, etc.

Improving the Central.

Mr. J. J. Daly, of the Grand Central hotel, is about to still further improve the place by having the entire front re-touched and a 60-foot balcony erected on the second story. Besides, the interior will be repaired and refitted considerably. The work will be begun at once. Mr. J. L. Hughes has the contract.

Repeal Voting.

On the 4th of April the repeal of the Scott Act will be voted on in two cities, St. Thomas and Guelph, and thirteen counties, Colchester, in Nova Scotia, and Wellington, Brant, Kent, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Northumberland and Durham, Peterborough, Lanark, Carleton, Ontario and Lincoln, in Ontario. In three other counties, Victoria, Ont., Leeds and Grenville, and Drummond, also petitions for repeal have been presented, but the dates on which the voting will take place have not yet been fixed. The result of these votes will be awaited with much interest.

Father Conway Ill.

Monday afternoon Rev. Father Conway, of Norwood, was prostrated on the streets of the village with an epileptic seizure, probably the sequel to the accident he met with by a fall from his horse in the fall of 1887. He was carried into the parsonage and Dr. Pettigrew summoned, who pronounced his condition dangerous. Last night Doctors King and Brennan, and Rev. Father Dubie went down to Norwood to attend upon the stricken priest. Rev. Father McEvay went down to-day. Father Conway is reported to be better to-day. At St. Peter's Cathedral this morning prayers were offered for his speedy recovery. At last reports there was an improvement in his condition, but he is not yet out of danger.

A Peterborough Organist Abroad.

The St. Thomas Daily Times has the following in reference to the appearance of Mr. J. S. Parker at a sacred concert in St. Thomas:—"Mr. J. Edmund Jaques, the talented and popular young organist of Knox church, has been busy at work for some weeks past arranging a service of praise, and last evening must have been gratified to see one of the largest audience which ever attended an affair of the kind in the city, assemble in the church to witness the performance he had arranged. The organ solos by Mr. J. S. Parker, organist of St. Paul's Presbyterian church Peterborough, who is a thorough master of the keys, were highly appreciated by lovers of classical music, his "Fugue in D Major" and the overture "William Tell" being particularly acceptable.

The Late Mrs. Montgomery.

The readers of the Examiner, especially the older ones, will learn with deep regret of the death of Mary McKeone, relict of James Montgomery, which sad event took place at her late residence, 348 Charlotte street. The deceased lady was born in Isle McGee, County Antrim, Ireland, 77 years ago. In company with her husband she came to Canada in 1841. After remaining in Newcastle one year Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery came to Peterborough to reside in the house, where Mrs. Montgomery lived till her death. Mr. Montgomery dying fifteen years ago last October. Mrs. Montgomery leaves behind her five sons and one daughter—Mrs. Wm. McKee, British Columbia. The deceased was a member of the Baptist church and was greatly beloved and respected. The funeral takes place from the family residence 348 Charlotte street on Wednesday at 2 30 o'clock.

Nearly Gouged his Eye Out.

P. C. Stewart attempted to arrest one Charles Wesley on the street about two o'clock this morning for being drunk and disorderly. Wesley resisted and in the struggle nearly gouged the officer's eye out with his thumb. He escaped from the constable's custody, but the latter, though half blinded by the blood which poured from the injured optic, pluckily pursued him down Water street, and, in passing the police station, the fugitive ran right into the arms of P. C. Adams who, hearing the shouts of the chase, stepped out just in time to intercept him. Dr. Clarke, who has Constable Stewart's case in hand, does not fear loss of sight, but the exact extent of the injury cannot be ascertained till the inflammation subsides. Some of the tendons and veins behind the eyeball are injured, but it is thought the ball itself is uninjured. The wound is, however, a very painful one. Constable Stewart not being able to appear at the police court this morning, Wesley was remanded till to-morrow, being given the option of $200 bail. P.M. Edmison presided in the absence of Mr. Dumble. County Crown Attorney Wood has the prosecution in hand.

The Opera House Crush — The Irish National League Concert—A Brilliant Success—Eloquent Address by J. J. Curran—Complimentary and Complementary Addresses by Local Men.

Last night the Opera House was crowded to its utmost capacity on the occasion of the Irish National League concert. At an early hour every available seat was occupied. The occasion was in every respect a magnificent success, worthy of the illustrious patron saint in whose honor the day was observed with so much enthusiasm. The concert preceded the address by Mr. Curran, and it was in every respect a gratifying success, reflecting the greatest credit not only on those who contributed the programme, but on those concerned in its preparation. An orchestra of eight pieces opened the programme with a splendidly executed overture. Miss Waltz, of Belleville, made her first bow to a Peterborough audience. Her singing of Millard's "Judicabis" was simply magnificent. She has a voice of great volume and compass, rich and fruity, so to speak, in the lower register, and clear and liquid in the higher tones. To its natural capabilities were added the most perfect culture and control, and an expressiveness, which made her singing exceedingly effective. It goes without saying that she was heartily encored, and she responded with "Tell me Beautiful Maiden. Miss. Waltz's second number, Barthold Tours' "Because of Thine" was equally well performed and received an equally warm recognition and a recall which she splendidly honored by a most pathetic singing of "The Song that Reached My Heart." Miss Waltz is a vocalist of the very highest order and her equal is seldom heard in Peterborough. Mrs. W. J. Morrow's pianoforte solo, "Irish Airs," was a revelation, even to those who have had the pleasure of hearing her before. Her excellent performance combines strength of touch, brilliant dugitation and great expression. She was most deservedly encored. Mr. T. Dunn's difficult selection, "I am a Rover Bold," received full justice; he was in splendid voice and sang with great taste and with a clearness of enunciation which is not the least charm of his singing. For the inevitable encore he sang in equally fine style. "The Pedlar." Mr. M. J. Tierney gave "Killarney" with so much merit that he was recalled and gave a humorous selection, "A Tipperary Christening." The gem of the evening, in popular opinion was the duet by Miss Waltz and Mr. Dunn, "I Feel Thy Angel Spirit." It is much easier to say that it was simply magnificent than to critically commend it. A splendidly performed selection by the orchestra brought an unusually excellent programme to a close.

Mrs. T. Dunn is worthy of high praise for her excellent accompaniments; she showed a delicate subordination of touch to the requirements of the selection and was content to accompany—not lead. The pianoforte used was an upright Stevenson kindly furnished gratis by Mr. J. W. Crosby.

At the conclusion of the concert followed the lecture on "Ireland and Her Cause," by J. J. Curran, Esq., Q.C., M.P., of Montreal. The chair was occupied by Thos. Cahill, Esq., President of the local branch of the Irish National League, who introduced the speaker in a few felicitous remarks. On the platform were: James Stevenson, Esq., M.P., D. W. Dumble, Esq., Wm. Cluxton, Esq., ex-M.P., J. R. Stratton, Esq., M.P.P., Thos. Kelly, Esq., Town Councillor, and J. D. McIlmoyle, Esq., secretary of the local branch. The speaker was enthusiastically received. He pleaded the multiplicity of his duties as a reason why too much should not be expected of him, but what he would say in behalf of the noblest cause possible, would come from the heart of a son of an Irish father and mother. (Applause.) In reference to the worthy nature of the day, he said the Irish could point with pride to the great victory of St. Patrick over paganism. The first and only glorious exodus from Ireland, took place when the Christian scholars, as missionaries left Ireland to spread the blessings of civilization, Christianity and learning to every country in Europe. The second exodus was made under darker auspices. The Irish at home were downtrodden, but their brave statesmen and soldiers leaving their native land, made Ireland known and the bravery of her sons respected in all the courts and the battle fields of Europe. With all its dark features, this exodus had a Providential tendency. The speaker asserted that every department of literature, science, oratory, poetry and statesmanship, felt the impress of Irish intellect. In contradistinction to this brilliant record, we saw Irishmen of to-day suffering under penal laws, and legislative disabilities that should make every Englishman blush. But in the darkest days of Ireland Heaven raised up one noble and patriotic man, the GREAT LIBERATOR DANIEL O'CONNELL.

The speaker depicted, in touching terms, a synopsis of the events that led up to the Irish famine and the abortive rebellion of '48, and asserted that, as their result, over two millions of Irish men and women were driven from the soil of Ireland. This was the third exodus, and it was over-ruled for good, for the sons of these fathers had raised up a greater Ireland in other lands than existed in the mother land—raised up in Canada and other lands friends many and zealous for the sacred cause of Ireland. (Cheers.) At this time all hope from constitutional agitation seemed to be dead, and that was not the worst, for a band of traitors, led by Saddler and Kehoe, whom the speaker denounced in scathing terms, struck a serious blow to the credit of constitutional agitation. Dark days followed for Ireland, till Isaac Butt (cheers) took up the cause of Home Rule. The memory of the noble efforts he made will form a lasting monument to this great statesman. His eloquence and patriotism were eulogized, but the British Parliament laughed at his efforts, claiming that his plan of Home Rule would bring about Imperial disruption. But he was laying the foundation of a noble work, and when he stepped aside, Providence raised up that great man, the greatest strategist in the British Empire, Charles Stuart Parnell. (Cheers.) But even his first attempt at speaking was a failure, and it was humanly prophesied that, even if he got to parliament, he would be a silent member, or be known as single speech Parnell. Parnell began his system of obstruction in Parliament determined, if that body would not listen to Ireland's cause, no other business should be done. The incarceration of Parnell and his colleagues in Kilmainham jail marked in English history. While in Kilmainham Parnell made a convert of his jailer, and there was not a grander and nobler name on the roll of Ireland's friends than William Ewart Gladstone, (loud cheers.) The prophecy of William O'Brien on St. Patrick's Day, 1886, of a parliament on College Green had not yet been fulfilled, but the day was coming. Gladstone passed from power and was succeeded by a government which was inflicting on Ireland one of the worst of the one hundred co-ercion acts that had been imposed on that unhappy country. The suppression of free speech, and the sufferings of imprisoned champions of Ireland, were endurable, compared to the dastardly act of the publication of the "Forged Letters" on the eve of the vote on that co-ercion act. What Parnell suffered subsequently up to the Commission, were outlined. The speaker firmly declared his belief that that foul conspiracy, buttressed by the greatest powers, could not have been exposed except by the direct intervention of Divine providence. The darkest hour was just before the dawn, and the speaker believed the hour of triumph was at hand. What did Ireland demand? Was it separation? Was it severance from England? By no means. They demanded that Ireland should be governed by Irish law made by an Irish parliament. The Irish were a people of noble impulses—they were and would be grateful for benefits. They did not wish to dismember the Empire; they wished to develop the resources of Ireland. The indications were that the dawn was on the eve of triumph. Now not Irishmen alone were friends to Home Rule for Ireland. Now, the aim of our leading men was to prove who was the warmest friends of Home Rule, that been which the people of Canada won by a long struggle. The speaker concluded by praying that before long there would be

ONE OF THE GREATEST REVOLUTIONS

A PARLIAMENT OF COLLEGE GREEN.

His admirable address was frequently interrupted by hearty applause.

Mr. D. W. Dumble, in moving a vote of thanks to Mr. Curran, spoke of the condition of affairs in Ireland in the memory of his father, and the tardy concession of a few imperfect and inadequate reforms. While England and Scotland were happy and prosperous, Ireland was bowed down—Ireland, which had done as much as either for the glory of the Empire—because it suffered injustice. The English mind was becoming permeated with the belief of the justice of Ireland's cause. He was glad to see that there was no talk of separation from the Empire. Ireland was the brightest gem in the British crown, and the British crown was the fittest setting for it. (Cheers.) He claimed for Ireland the right to the self government we enjoyed in Canada.

Mr. James Stevenson, M.P., was agreeably surprised at the pleasure he had enjoyed to-night. He was pleased with the speech of the evening, he had received new light, and from all he had heard, he had no doubt that the claim of Ireland to Home Rule was a just one and that Ireland would soon enjoy Home Rule. He thought if Ireland had a similar form of government to that of Canada, it would be a happy and loyal part of the Empire. He wished to heartily second the motion.

Mr. Cluxton took the opportunity of declaring his adherence to the principle of Home Rule for Ireland (cheers). He had changed his mind on the subject and any one studying the subject must come to a similar conclusion. He believed the days was close at hand, when the reins of power would pass from the hands of Salisbury to those of the Grand Old Man. He was glad to support the motion.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, had received great pleasure in being present. He was not a home ruler of to-day. When only one or two papers in Canada had the courage to speak up for Home Rule for Ireland, his paper the Examiner, had advocated it as a measure of justice, and since that time it had spoken out for Home Rule. He had in the Legislature supported the vote of sympathy with the struggle of the constitutional party, and it might be a proof that "great minds run in the same channel," (laughter) but in speaking in support of the resolution he had used the same line of argument as Mr. Curran, only he (Mr. Stratton) has tried to show and had shown that the Home Rule agitation was not a Roman Catholic agitation; for most of the great leaders of the movement were and had been Protestants. (Cheers). He had great pleasure in supporting the motion of thanks, and concluded by asserting that ere long we should be able to read the report of the opening of an Irish parliament on College Green. (Cheers.)

Mr. Curran briefly acknowledged the vote of thanks and expressed his high opinion of the town of Peterborough, and gave great praise to the excellence of the musical programme presented.

Ashburnham Brevities.

Four or five boys on Saturday had a good deal of sport trying to get a twenty-five cent piece out of the river at the bridge. One of them dived in up to his waist out of a boat and got a good ducking. They had to give it up without success and went home well drenched.

The last load of ice was taken out of the lake yesterday by Mr. R. Wainwright. He removed all his apparatus and the ice harvest for 1889 is at an end. The amount taken out will be the means of cooling many a parched tongue.

Mr. John Anderson, eldest son of Mr. J. Anderson, ex-councillor, has taken charge of the typewriting and shorthand department in the office of Mr. P. Hamilton, town. Mr. Anderson is a graduate of the Peterborough Business College.

It's about time that the town would do something with the sidewalk on Hunter street, between the bridge and the blacksmith shop of Mr. Heffernan. This part of the street is nearly impassible at this season owing to the bad walk and to the snow being allowed to accumulate on it during the winter. It would not cost much to keep it in good repair, and it seems a little spiteful to keep it in such a state when there is so much passage over it.

DRESS GOODS

SATEUR CLOTH, commonly called HENRIETTA. It is almost a joke the way these Goods have jumped to popularity at a single leap, but it is now at the zenith, entrenched, fortified public favor decrees it. We have never had the like before under 90c., the price 75c. We are showing 36 distinct shades. Litt a told, every ounce of the weight comes from good fine wool, honestly put together, by the yard stick 46 inches plump. Test the dye, every shade shows as evenly as the sun on a quiet pool, and are going out like the rolling sea—evenly and constantly. See them, they are on the move. In the last week, heaps of New Dress Goods have come in. The Spring gathering is at its flood. Take any sort you choose, Cottons or Woollens, Silks or Satins. Another family of Cashmeres. We show 15 Colorings, most of which are entirely new, 44 inches wide, price 50 cents.

Cast your eye to the end of our Dress Goods counter, and you will find a range of French Stuffs in 20 shades. We have never had the like before under 25c., but have bought them low and are selling them close price 20 cents.

Bradford Goods in stripes and checks, at 10 cents a yard, fresh goods, new colors.

Those wishing to have their dresses made up can have them done on the premises if necessary by our Dressmaker, Miss Mercier, who has given up her own business to take charge of this Department.

No Department in our Store has received more marked attention than our Dress Goods Department. Every shelf is laden with the latest production of the English, French and German looms. For style, colorings and elegance in design, nothing has ever been seen like them for cheapness. Every new wearing combination and texture just as cheap.

Our display of Silks in Printed Pongee and Chinas is unusually large.

DRESS TRIMMINGS.

We show Dress Trimmings in every conceivable design, to match any coloring in Dress Goods, and you will see Novelties in these Goods with us not shown by anyone else, as they were made to our own order.

Our Dress Making Department is busier than we usually find it at this time of year. This is due to the fact that our Miss Neill's abilities in this line are abreast of the times.

is always a subject for sighs with a housekeeper and she often wishes that the law settled the question of "What shall we have for dinner," and prescribed certain dishes for certain days. Such a law would certainly save a great deal of worry and questioning to many tired women. But it is not such a difficult problem to solve after all especially in Peterborough, where we have such a good market, besides at China Hall you can secure full Dinner Sets that will grace any table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE BUDGET DEBATE BROUGHT TO A CLOSE.

Sir Richard Cartwright's Amendment Defeated on Division—A Lot of Deputations at the Capital.

OTTAWA, March 20.—In the House of Commons yesterday Sir John Macdonald laid on the table the correspondence and other papers relating to the Jesuit Estates Bill, which were called for under Mr. Barron's motion.

The Budget debate was resumed and continued throughout the day, it being the day when, under the arrangement across the floor of the House, the debate was to be concluded. Mr. Cockburn, the member for Center Toronto, was the first speaker. He tackled his brither Scot, Mr. McMillan of Huron, and sought to turn into ridicule some of the statements he had made based upon figures. He read Mr. Hitt's resolution and his speech to show that the idea of international Free Trade as known in the United States involved American control of the Canadian tariff. On the strength of this he denounced the whole proposal and held up to the scorn of loyalists those who made it. He hoped devoutly never to live to see the day when Canada would be joined to the United States.

Mr. Davies followed. He said he had no doubt that on a question of what taxation the farmers had to bear nine men out of ten would rather accept the statement of a practical man like Mr. McMillan than of Mr. Cockburn, a resident of a city. He took Mr. Cockburn to task for his imputations as to Liberal loyalty, declaring that Liberals did not hold loyalty to the Queen to involve loyalty to that particular fiscal policy which the member for Toronto might think best. He reviewed the question from a maritime provinces standpoint at length, and in conclusion showed what reason there was to believe that the Americans would negotiate with Canada for a trade treaty which would be mutually advantageous, and urged the importance of taking the step proposed by the amendment.

Mr. Madill and Mr. Cargill followed from the Conservative side of the House and Mr. Semple argued in support of Unrestricted Reciprocity.

Mr. Haggart, the new Postmaster-General, spoke, but not at great length. He condemned the amendment and referred to the loyalty of the Canadian people to the British flag. He contended that the Liberals had noticed how their proposal flew in the face of the loyalists and had changed it. They would drop their present policy for another session. They did not know what they wanted. He held that Canada could do well under present conditions.

Mr. Paterson of Brant ridiculed the Conservative claim that they did not understand the Liberal proposal. It meant just what it said, to negotiate for a treaty of free trade with the United States. On the other hand, could a single Conservative say what their view on the subject was. They contradicted themselves, sometimes alleging that Canada could get along best by herself and then declaring that they wanted freer trade with the United States.

The debate was continued by Mr. Dickey and Mr. Weldon (St. John) and then the House divided on Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment, which was as follows:

That all the words after "that" be struck out and that it be resolved that "Mr. Speaker do not now leave the chair but that in the present condition of affairs, and in view of the recent action of the House of Representatives of the United States, it is expedient that steps should be taken to ascertain on what terms and conditions arrangements can be effected with the United States for the purpose of securing full and unrestricted reciprocity of trade therewith.

The amendment was lost, 77 to 121.

MANY DEPUTATIONS.

The Government Interviewed About Combines, Postage, Fiscal Duties, etc.

OTTAWA, March 19.—Clarke Wallace's anti-combines bill was the subject of a protest made to the Government to-day by a large deputation including representatives from the principal cities of the Dominion. From Toronto there were A. M. Smith, J. J. Kenny, W. D. Matthews, Wm. Ince, M. McLaughlin, James Carruthers, S. F. McKinnon, E. C. Boomer, E. A. Wills, Alex. Nairn, Hugh Blain, Ald. T. Davies and W. Roaf. Hamilton was represented by J. Glargow and J. N. Sterling and London by A. M. Smith. The deputation asked that the bill should be referred to the Committee on Banking and Commerce so that they might state their objections there. They claimed that there was no necessity for the passage of such a measure and that if it were passed the uncertainty as to its meaning would seriously hamper commercial operations. The deputation had able supports from Senator Drummond. He is specially interested in the sugar combine. Adam Brown, M.P., was spokesman for the cotton and iron industries and Mr. Kenny spoke for the Underwriters' Association.

A deputation from the Toronto and Hamilton Boards of Trade in company with Messrs. Brown, Mason, Roome and Curran, M.P.'s, waited upon the Postmaster-General to-day to protest against the proposed increase in the rate upon drop letters and also against the proposed increase for registered letters. Lastly, they asked that a better quality of mucilage be put upon the stamps. Hon. John Haggart said he would lay the views of the deputation before the Government, but the department must be made as nearly self-sustaining as possible.

Ex-Mayor McMurrich of Toronto formed the head of the deputation which to-day interviewed the Government in the interest of a grant to the Nipissing and James' Bay Railway. They were accompanied by Messrs. Brown, Small Cockburn, Denison and White of Cardwell. They asked a Dominion Government subsidy for the first 80 miles of the road, which with other subsidies promised would suffice to build it from North Bay to Lake Temiscaming. Sir John promised consideration, but said the Government could not satisfy everybody in the matter of railway subsidies.

The Toronto Board of Trade deputation interviewed the Government on the matter of wheat and flour duties, asking a readjustment. Sir John in reply admitted the force of the claim made and said the question was at present receiving the consideration of the Government.

Ida's Revenge.

DETROIT, March 20.—Miss Ida Cornean has entered a complaint in the Police Court against Joseph Brule for intent to kill and murder. Brule is the young man who about two weeks ago shot at Miss Cornean, after which he tried to put a bullet in his own brain. He is still at the hospital but will probably recover.

Fuel Reform Convention.

BRANTFORD, March 19.—The Reformers of Fuel met in convention here to-day, 120 delegates being present. Mr. E. Chisholm, M. P.A., was selected as the party standard-bearer for the Local House, and Mr. Joseph Featherstone of Toronto Township for the Dominion House.

Oklahoma Boomers Fired Upon.

CHICAGO, March 19.—A Topeka (Kan.) special says: "The United States Deputies Attorney has just received a telegram from Oklahoma Station stating that the boomers at that point had been fired upon by the regular troops and that further violence was hourly expected."

The Oshawa Separate School Feud.

OSHAWA, March 19.—The controversy over the Oshawa Separate School and its funds has not abated any and formed the sole topic of conversation throughout the town to-day. Some of the Roman Catholics are now sorry they did not follow Mr. McEvenny's course five years ago. It is said that nothing will settle the quarrel between some of the members but a court of justice.

MATTERS IN MONTREAL.

TWO MEN COMMITTED FOR TRIAL ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

An Iron Merchant Arrested on a Capias—Murderer McGrath's Wife Seriously Ill—The French Defaulter's Case.

MONTREAL, March 20.—Alexis Gregoire, boot and shoe manufacturer of St. Henri, assigned yesterday with $22,000 liabilities.

John Hennessy and Michael Mulcahey were yesterday committed to the Court of Queen's Bench on a charge of criminal assault on a young girl named Roberts.

Frederick A. Lallamand, wholesale iron merchant, has been arrested on a capias at the instance of the Bank of Nova Scotia for $12,083 promissory notes endorsed by him. He is accused of secreting his property.

Mrs. Magrath, wife of the murderer of Holden whose plea of guilty of manslaughter was accepted yesterday, is lying in a serious condition in the general hospital from prostration. She is not yet aware of the turn of affairs in her husband's case.

John Baylis of the Provincial Police has been instructed by friends of Holton to look after his affairs. Baylis has a letter from the sister of deceased in which she states that his aged mother is longing for him to return home and if he does not it will kill her. It is stated that Holden is highly connected in England, was heir to a considerable sum of money and instead of being a mere house decorator was an artist of considerable promise.

In connection with the proposed amendments to the license law this telegram was sent to the Quebec Government by the Dominion Alliance: "The Dominion Alliance protests against the granting of special licenses to fairs, races, etc., as immeasurably mischievous and demoralizing; and against the monstrous assertion that this is done in the public interest; and also against the word "knowingly" as applied to minors, removing as it does all hope of the enforcement of the provision protecting them."

Victor Emil Michea, the young French deserter, was again committed for extradition by Commissioner Dugas on a charge of appropriating to his use a bond worth 2000 francs and collecting that amount on it, the bond having been in his possession simply in trust. A writ of habeas corpus will be applied for.

MALONEY AGAIN REMANDED.

Bail Refused—What the Defence Will Try to Prove.

MONTREAL, March 19.—Detective Hewie and Jeweler P. W. Ellis of Toronto arrived to-day in connection with the Maloney case. Reinholts is stated to be in New York. Mr. Greenshields this afternoon argued that Maloney should be set free under bail, as it was not fair to hold his client under arrest simply in order to give the detectives a chance to work up a case against him. He offered any bail the court would ask.

Judge Desmoyers replied that such an outrageous act as the one of which Maloney stood accused, namely, of appropriating $14,000 worth of jewelry in the manner charged, was not one for which he could accept bail. Of course Maloney might be innocent of the crime as charged but the suspicion was against him, the goods or a large portion of them having been found in his possession. He would therefore remand him until next Friday but he would take bail on that day if nothing special turned up.

It is stated that a bill of sale of the jewelry from Mr. Ellis to Van Reinholts, showing it was the property of the latter, will be produced. The defence also stated that Van Reinholts was offering the jewelry all through the city and that among the articles he offered to a well-known jeweler a $600 gold watch for $300.

FROM THE PRAIRIE PROVINCE.

Indications of a Cabinet Shuffle—An Elevator at Carberry Burnt.

WINNIPEG, March 19.—Hatfield, the wife murderer, was sentenced this morning to fifteen years' imprisonment for manslaughter.

Spence, charged with criminal assault on his step-daughter, was found not guilty.

There are indications of a general re-construction of the Provincial Cabinet before long.

Rosison & Co.'s elevator at Carberry, with 12,000 bushels of wheat belonging to Adam Mackenzie of Brandon, was destroyed by fire to-day. The loss is $17,000, on which there was a light insurance.

Two Mennonites nearly killed an old lady named Mrs. Herbert, living near Gretna, yesterday during her husband's absence.

Donald McQueen of Wapella yesterday lost a little boy by drowning in a pool of water two feet deep in which he was playing.

Found in Niagara River.

NIAGARA, March 20.—Arthur J. Powell, aged 48, was found floating in the Niagara River near Olden's dock, Youngstown, on Monday. It is supposed that he fell in by accident. Powell was weak minded. In September, 1887, in Michigan while felling trees, a tree crushed upon him, severely injuring him, and his mind never fully recovered from the shock. He was married, but was not living with his wife. No one believes that he committed suicide.

Belleville Briefs.

BELLEVILLE, March 20.—A 6-year-old boy who fell into the river Monday evening was rescued by Mr. H. W. Bell, who at the peril of his own life jumped from a wall 12 feet high into a swift current 6 feet deep and saved the child.

The City Council last night passed a by-law requiring all bread to be of full weight.

There are eleven cases to be heard at the chancery sittings which will be open on Thursday.

W. H. Garrat of Trenton has prepared a charge against License Inspector Granger and an examination took place at Trenton yesterday.

Hamilton Presbytery.

HAMILTON, March 19.—At the meeting of Hamilton Presbytery to-day it was decided to apply for three home mission grants: Niagara, $150; Blackheath, $65; Merritton, $100; Wentworth-street, Hamilton, $80; Port Dalhousie and Louth, $150; Haynes-avenue, St. Catharines, $150; St. David's, $180; Dunnville, $200; St. Ann's, $100. A call from Ancaster and Alberton was sustained and accepted by Rev. John McClung, formerly of Shakespeare. The induction will take place on April 5 at Alberton. Rev. D. H. Fletcher nominated Rev. Dr. Laing of Dundas, on behalf of the Hamilton Presbytery, for the position of moderator of the next general assembly. The nomination was carried unanimously.

Where is Walter?

HAMILTON, March 19.—A warrant was issued this morning for the arrest of Henry Walter, who came here from Cincinnati last fall and opened a mantle store in Copp's block. He is charged with receiving money by false pretence from John Malloy, from whom he got a phaeton valued at $165. It has also been reported to the police that a horse and set of harness he got from F. W. Ware have disappeared and have not yet been paid for. Walter cannot be found. His store is empty. The police believe he will not go back to the United States. He has been heard of there under the name of Henry Novack, Henry Wise, Frank November and Henry Eagleman, in addition to Henry Walter.

Local Option Repeal in New Jersey.

TRENTON, N.J., March 19.—In the Assembly to-day the Werts local option repeal bill was passed. All the Democrats and one Republican voted for it.

The Cornwall Weavers' Strike Over.

CORNWALL, March 20.—The weavers who have been out on strike for the past four weeks have decided to return to work.

Burnt at Sea.

NEW YORK, March 19.—A cable received here from Rio Janeiro states that the steamship St. Cloud, which left here for Batavia Jan. 21, had taken fire and been abandoned near that port and the crew landed there. The vessel carried a cargo of oil but no passengers. The vessel was totally destroyed.

LIBERALS WANT TO TALK.

HARCOURT AND GLADSTONE OBJECT TO BEING MUZZLED.

Lord Salisbury Speaks at Watford—Exciting Scenes in the Hungarian Diet—General Cable News.

LONDON, March 19.—Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, in opposing the motion of W. H. Smith, the Government leader, to give precedence to the vote on account until it was passed, accused the Government of shirking discussion and of trying to introduce a new and surreptitious form of closure. He said the time was drawing near when the House of Commons would become simply a vestry for the registering of Government transactions. Sir William announced that he intended to challenge the conduct of the Government in placing Irish officials, paid by the public, at the service of The Times in connection with that paper's charges against the Irish members of the House. He also announced that on the vote for Attorney-General Webster's salary he should ask what state services the Attorney-General had rendered during the last nine months and why any salary should be paid to him.

Mr. Gladstone denied the right of Mr. Goschen, Chancellor of the Exchequer, to calculate beforehand what time should be allowed for the discussion of the vote. He said that questions of great delicacy must be discussed. He denied the right of the Government to take away the right of the House to the time necessary for a full discussion.

Lord Salisbury Will Stick it Out.

LONDON, March 19.—In a speech at Watford this evening Lord Salisbury stated that nothing short of a vote of want of confidence would bring the Government to a premature end and that those who thought otherwise were amusing themselves with vain dreams.

Stocks Firm in London.

LONDON, March 19.—The stock exchange closed firm.

The Paris Bourse Quiet.

PARIS, March 19.—Societe des Metaux shares closed at 40f. and Rio Tintos at 379f. The Bourse closed quiet.

The U. S. Copper Market Not Affected.

NEW YORK, March 19.—There was practically no interest in copper on the Metal Exchange here to-day. Cables from London and Paris indicate a quieter and easier market.

The Bank of Paris Shaken.

PARIS, March 19.—A pessimistic feeling prevails regarding the position of the credit houses, especially of the Banque de Paris, which is much discussed. It is reported that the bank is deeply involved in the copper troubles and is not expected to pay a dividend for the past year. Moreover it is stated that the directors of the concern announced at the bankers' meeting last evening that they were unable to subscribe for the relief of the Comptoir d'Escompte, having themselves lent 27,000,000 francs on copper warrants. The decline of Societe des Metaux shares is attributed to a report that the concern had definitely suspended payment and operations. Nevertheless there was a large amount of buying and re-purchasing in the copper mine market to-day, the demand for Rio Tintos being especially strong.

Defiant Deputies.

PARIS, March 19.—Senator Naquet and Deputies Laguerre and Turquet, who are being prosecuted by the Government for their connection with the Patriotic League were arraigned before an examining magistrate to-day. They refused to answer the questions put to them and declared that as their prosecution was of a political nature and illegal they would only justify themselves publicly before the Correctional Tribunal.

An Exciting Day in Hungary's Diet.

PESTH, March 19.—In the lower house of the Diet to-day Herr Kostoves, a member of the Opposition, charged Premier Tisza with procuring the construction of railways where he owned estates, for the purpose of increasing their value. Herr Tisza, who was received with cheers, refuted the charges. Herr Berzeo, Minister of Public Works, also repudiated the charges and condemned the attempt to slander the ministers. The House, only the Independents dissenting, resolved to take formal notice of the replies of the ministers. Count Stefan Karolyi said that although he was opposed to Premier Tisza he did not approve Kostove's tactics and he moved a resolution that the House emphatically repel the calumnies against Herr Tisza. The House applauded but the resolution was not put, Herr Tisza declaring that the manner in which he had been received completely satisfied him.

In the vestibule a man supposed to be a lawyer insulted Herr Rabonczy, a Liberal deputy. The latter fired a revolver at the man, hitting him in the thigh. The wound is not serious. The shooting caused great excitement among the students, who had assembled in large numbers outside, but they dispersed quietly.

The Pope and the Universities.

ROME, March 19.—The American College gave a grand dinner this evening in honor of the leaders of the American pilgrims. Many prelates were present. Bishop Keane, President of the new Catholic University at Washington, spoke in English, Latin and French. His remarks were much applauded. The Pope's niece, Cardinal Parocchi, delivered a powerful Latin oration on behalf of the Pope. He expressed the Pope's admiration of American institutions and spoke of the deep interest taken by His Holiness in the birth of the Washington University, which he regarded as one of the chief glories of his pontificate. Cardinal Schiaffino spoke in Italian. He sketched the work of the Catholic Church in establishing universities in all ages and in all countries.

Rector Pacquet of the Quebec University tendered his congratulations on the birth of a sister university, and wished it prosperity.

The Pope presented his portrait by Ugolini.

A Change in Saturn's System.

GENEVA, N.Y., March 19.—Prof. Brooks, director of the Smith observatory, has obtained several observations of the new white region on Saturn's ring and announces his discovery that the light is variable and that pulsations of the light at irregular intervals have been detected by him. This evidence of a change in Saturn's system is of the highest scientific interest.

To Investigate Canadian Railways.

WASHINGTON, March 19.—At a meeting of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce to-day arrangements were made for pursuing the investigation of Canadian transportation matters ordered by resolution of the Senate Aug. 2, 1888. It was determined to meet in New York City May 15 and spend a week there examining witnesses. It is probable that before the summer is over the committee will go as far west as Duluth, if not over the entire length of the Canadian Pacific road.

Woodstock Notes.

WOODSTOCK, March 19.—The temperance people are taking a verbatim copy of the petitions for the repeal of the Scott Act. They report that nearly one-third of all the names are from the town of Woodstock, although the whole county was thoroughly canvassed by the repealers. At least 100 of the Woodstock names are duplicates, some of them quadrupled. A large number of Scott Act meetings are being held just now throughout the county and the temperance people are resolved that the white flag shall not come down in Oxford.

WHAT CONVERSION MEANS.

Rev. Mr. Crossley's Definition of the Term.

Mr. Hunter's Exposition of the Parable of the Two Debtors—The Three Steps from Earth into Heaven—Special Hue to at Last night's service.

Last night's song service in St. Pauls church was particularly interesting. Several quartettes were rendered by Rev. Mr. Crossley, Miss Nellie Wrighton and Messrs. Wilber Daly and John Crane. Their songs were interspersed throughout the addresses at appropriate points. The congregation was again a large one.

Rev. Mr. HUNTER, in his address, first pointed out to unconverted souls three steps which led from heaven to earth—out of self, into Christ, into heaven. He hoped that many of them would take the two first steps there and then. He read the 7th chapter of Luke, from the 36th verse, containing the parable of the two debtors. Mr. Hunter drew the attention of his hearers to the fact that Jesus sat down among the Pharisees, amongst sinners, which was just what Christians had to do. Jesus went with sinners to do them good, and if Christians went amongst sinners with the same pure motive, they had a right to be there. He pointed out the great affection and faith of the woman who washed Jesus' feet with her tears and dried them with her hair. The disciples said, "She is a sinner," thinking that Jesus should not associate with her; but it comes to this, Mr. Hunter said, that none of us are any better than the man in prison but for the grace of God. He urged the Christians to get fired up. Some men say, "Oh, be quiet, I don't like this excitement." They will shout like wild at election time, and yet they don't want to see any enthusiasm in religious matters. This parable of the two debtors illustrated to us how ready God was to cancel all our sins, the greatest as well as the least. Debtors of Christ had but to come to Him and all their sins would be cancelled. In conclusion Mr. Hunter pointed out the three conditions through which this woman passed in order to be saved—first, the lost sinner, then the weeping sinner, and, last, the saved sinner. This was just the way sinners to-day had to approach Jesus and receive His blessing.

The quartette then sang "Safe in Thy Arms."

CONVERSION.

Mr. Crossley's subject was "Conversion." The term, he said, was usually accepted as synonymous with pardon, justification, and other terms, but he would try to define it in its Scriptural meaning. He took for his text Acts iii, 19:—"Repent ye therefore that ye may be converted and your sins blotted away." What was conversion, or, first, what was it not? Morality was not conversion, nor was "doing better," which was simply the stopping of certain habits; neither was saying prayers sufficient. It was not baptismal regeneration, because there is no such thing. It is not in simply joining the church, for unless there was a regeneration of soul there could be no salvation. A sinner on joining the church, if he remains in his sin, becomes simply a confirmed sinner, but is not converted. Again, conversion did not consist in believing certain doctrines. Then what was conversion? There was the Bible term, "alienated," but Mr. Crossley said he liked the word of Aitken, the English Churchman, who used "averted" as being the opposite of converted. Therefore, if one was averted from God, conversion was a turning to God, a turning from sin to travel on the right road.

The quartette sang, "Come Summer Come."

A person may readily know whether he is converted or not, Mr. Crossley said, because conversion is a conscious experience. Some can point out an exact time and place where they were converted. Others cannot do this. They have been brought up in the fear of the Lord and their love of God has been so inwrought from childhood that they did not know when their conversion took place. They don't know when they began to love the Lord any more than they could tell when they began to love their parents. But it was a disgrace to anyone to know the time and place they were converted, because it implied that there was a time when they did not love the Lord as they should have. But the disgrace did not so much belong to them as to those who were responsible for their training in youth. Then others, like a flower gradually turning to the light, are slowly brought around to Christ and do not know when their salvation is fully secured. Some people say they don't believe in conversion, but if they would investigate it they would see there was a reality in it. There was no other way of accounting for the of heart and habit in people they all knew—complete changes of life that only conversion could bring about. Then there was a vast difference in detail in the conversion of different persons. One is saved from murderous thoughts, another from drunkenness, and still another from licentiousness, and so on. So, he urged, don't think of others but of your own conversion, and, if your trust and love and obedience are averted from God, convert them to God, so that where you instinctively went one way before you instinctively go Godward now. He urged his hearers to examine themselves and if they were alienated from God make up their minds to be converted that very night.

The quartette at this juncture sang "The Song of Calvary."

If people would only think of Calvary, Mr. Crossley said, they could not help being drawn to the cross. Christ died for us and loves us still, and as the thought dwells upon Him, the desire will go out to Him. This will be followed by love, and then the will becomes melded to the promptings of love, and complete surrender is made to God. "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me." There were very few, Mr. Crossley say, who did not feel the drawing of the cross, and he urged them not to resist the attraction but yield entirely to Him.

Rev. Mr. Hunter as usual closed the meeting with an earnest appeal to the unconverted to make up their minds to henceforth travel on the right road. He requested all those who had been converted since January first of this year to stand up, and quite a number rose to their feet. Then he asked those who wished to join the ranks of Christ's followers to stand up with them, when about a score responded. At the after-meeting many were brought to Christ.

ONTARIO'S LEGISLATURE.

Another Debate on the Teaching of French in the Public Schools.

TORONTO, March 20.—There was another debate in the Assembly yesterday on the subject of the teaching of French in the schools. When the Provincial Treasurer moved the House into supply, Mr. Craig moved an amendment that all the words after "that" be struck out and that there be substituted therefor the following:

"In the opinion of the House it is the imperative duty of the Government, and an object of public importance, that steps be taken to secure that in every school aided by Provincial funds or supported by whole or in part by local taxation, the teachers employed are capable of imparting instruction in the English tongue and that not recognition or aid be given to any school of such character and require that the books in use in them, except those employed in giving religious instruction when and where such instruction is permitted by law, shall be approved of by the Department having the charge of educational affairs; in satisfactory to this House or will meet with the approval of the people of this Province."

Mr. Craig said that he wished to provide not only regulations and laws but to see that they were carried out. Such regulations did indeed exist making the teaching of English obligatory. But unfortunately these regulations had not been carried out. He asserted that there were schools in the Province where English was never taught, and contrary to the claims of the Minister of Education the teaching of English was not increasing in these schools and was being gradually driven out.

The Attorney-General replied that while, perhaps, as he understood the motion there might be no objection to it, brought forward as it had been an insuperable difficulty was created. It had been offered as an amendment to go into supply and therefore forced a division upon the House. Secondly, the amendment asserted the right to legislate in regard to the text books used in the Separate Schools. The Attorney-General was not prepared to say that the House had that jurisdiction. It seemed to him that it had not.

Mr. Meredith contended that in all matters of a non-religious character the state should be supreme. He hoped Mr. Mowat would recede from his position, and that it would not go forth that the educational interests did not belong to the people of the country. There was no reason why this question should not be considered on its merits exclusive of party feeling.

The Minister of Education characterized the amendment as a parliamentary trick by which a censure upon the Government might be secured. With regard to that portion of the motion which stipulated that every teacher should be able to teach English, the fact was, said Mr. Ross, that all these teachers could teach English.

Mr. Evanturel claimed that the French of Quebec had made far greater concessions to the English minority there than did the English of Ontario extend to the French minority in this Province.

Messrs. Fraser, Clancy, Caldwell, Creighton and Hardy also spoke and the amendment was voted down on this division:

In the evening the House went into supply. A number of items were passed, after which the estimates with the exception of a few items were concurred in.

In the discussion in committee on Mr. French's bill to amend the law of slander Mr. Meredith contended that the provisions contained in that amendment should extend equally to men as to women. To discriminate against men would be unjust and unfair.

The Attorney-General was of opinion that whatever merits the provisions might possess it would be out of the question to extend them to women. It was decided that the provisions should apply only to women. But little of the original measure could be recognized when the committee rose.

An assorted lot of other bills also received consideration in committee.

Mr. Ley's bill to prevent the spread of contagious disease among horses and other cattle was read a second time. On motion of Mr. Ostrom, his bill to amend the Saw Logs Driving Act was discharged.

The House adjourned at 10.40.

DUE TO DRINK.

A New Yorker Cuts his Throat with a Pen-knife at Belleville.

BELLEVILLE, March 19.—A man named H. D. Smith, aged about 32 years, from Gloversville, N.Y., committed suicide at the Henderson House in this city at 9.30 this evening. He had retired to his room in the second story of the hotel about 9 o'clock and in about half an hour he committed the deed. The instrument used was a small pen-knife, which he thrust into his neck in close proximity to the right ear, cutting the jugular vein. He then raised the window and jumped to the sidewalk below, a distance of about 15 feet. He was immediately carried into the hotel, but breathed his last before medical aid could be summoned. The cause which led him to commit the deed is unknown, but it is supposed to be drink.

BALTIMORE, March 18.—At the trial of Captain C. T. Beachamp of the oyster boat Z. E. Beachamp for cruelties to sailors to-day, John Kavalek, a sailor on Beachamp's boat, stated the captain offered to increase his pay if he would throw two worthless hands overboard. Kavalek told how the captain beat John Steiner with a stick without provocation, and forced him to work when his face was so sore he could not put it to the ground. He also testified that the captain spread blotner on the mouth with an oyster. Beachamp, according to the testimony, seemed to claim the privilege of beating anyone in his employ. Kavalek said the fare consisted mainly of half spoiled beans with sometimes cabbage, meat, white potatoes and corn bread.

Mary Anderson's Illness.

PHILADELPHIA, March 19.—It was stated at the Stratford Hotel yesterday that Mary Anderson was somewhat better, but was as yet unable to see anyone. An attendant said that Miss Anderson was a very sick woman, but it was not true that she had become insane.

BALTIMORE, March 19.—Dr. John Van Bibber, who attended Miss Anderson during her stay here last week, denies that her mind is affected. He says Miss Anderson is in a nervous condition from overwork and insomnia and is suffering from a nervous trouble that has given her great pain. She is not suffering from any mental ailment whatever.

The Mutual Benefit Frauds.

ALBANY, N.Y., March 19.—The charges made by Anthony Comstock and other policy holders of the Mutual Benefit Life Association of America at their annual meeting held in New York, March 12, that the management of the organization is corrupt and that its funds have been misappropriated, are the subject of a report made yesterday to the Insurance Department by its examiners. They report that the bylaws have been of late continually violated by using for expenses the moneys contributed by members for the payment of death claims.

Proposed Ship Canal.

LANSING, Mich., March 19.—W. H. Morrell of New York arrived here yesterday to endeavor to induce the Legislature to grant a charter for the proposed ship canal across the upper peninsular connecting Lakes Michigan and Superior. The route selected is 37 miles long and begins at Bay au Train, about 15 miles east of Marquette. Its southern terminus will be Little Bay de Nocquet, near Gladstone. Two locks will be necessary and its projectors state that the cost will be less than the proposed canal improvements at Sault Ste. Marie. It will save to ship commerce a distance of 271 miles each way between Duluth and Chicago. Mr. Morrell says that he has an abundance of New York and Chicago capital interested and that the ship canal company will be organized within sixty days after a charter is granted.

The Hatfield Murder Trial.

WINNIPEG, March 17.—The medical testimony in the Hatfield murder trial yesterday supported the theory that Mrs. Hatfield died from suffocation after falling against the house. Counsel for the defence had not finished addressing the jury when the court rose.

McGarigle, the Chicago boodler, leaves shortly for Toronto. He speaks of the Weldon Extradition Bill in contemptuous terms and says it would not affect his case.

Cordial Reception of the Pilgrims.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The Catholic News has received this cablegram from Rome: "The pilgrims will be received by the Pope Monday. Yesterday morning the leader of the pilgrims, Very Rev. Charles A. Visnai, O. S. F., was received by Cardinal Rampolla, Papal Secretary of State. The Vatican authorities gave him a cordial welcome and expressed themselves pleased at the visit of the Americans."

Patriotic League Plots Revealed.

PARIS, March 17.—The police have made further searches of the residences of members of the Patriotic League. It is reported they have seized papers showing that a plan had been matured for a descent by members of the league upon the Palais Bourbon where the sessions of the legislative chambers are held and the Elysee, the residence of the president.

My Toothache

is an exclamation heard every hour in the day. Toothache is the most common ailment of young and old, and in the aggregate inflicts more suffering than perhaps any other single complaint. A one minute cure is just what every person desires to possess. Norviline—nerve pain cure—acts almost instantly in relieving the agony, and as a sample bottle affords a quantity sufficient for 100 applications, 10 cents fills the bill. Fahnestock's Norviline is the only positive remedy for toothache and all nerve pains. Sold by druggists and all dealers in medicine. 6w12d

Health Failing Fast.

"I was overcome from head to foot from dropsy of six months' standing, and my health was failing fast, but after taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters I am quite well, and think there is no medicine equal to B. B. B., and to it I remain a true friend." Joseph Herle, Linwood, Ont. 2w10d

A Dreadful Doom.

To be unable to satisfy hunger without being distressed by heartburn, indigestion, sick stomach, dizziness or faintness, seems a dreadful doom. All who suffer thus will find prompt relief and permanent cure in Burdock Blood Bitters. B. B. B. positively cures dyspepsia in any form. 2w10d

Common Croup

is often fatal when not remedied in time. Leslie B. Nicholson, 19 Wellesley avenue, Toronto, says:—"As a quick cure for croup, colds, sore throat, chilblains, etc., I can recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil." It is a sure cure. Directions accompany each bottle. 2w10d

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture, intense itching and stinging, most at night, worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. MARCH WINDS.

The March winds peculiar to our climate, as they sweep over the country, are a terror to even the most robust constitutions as they greatly increase the liability to Colds, Catarrhal Troubles and Bronchial Affections. There is probably no season of the year when Cold in the Head and Catarrh is more prevalent, and it is at this time that NASAL BALM—nature's great remedy for these troubles—proves its magic powers by almost instantly relieving Cold in the Head, speedily relieving and ultimately curing the most virulent forms of Catarrh. On the principal that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, every home in the land should be provided with NASAL BALM at this trying season, and its use should be freely resorted to on the very first symptoms of Cold in the Head or Catarrh. It is the only genuine remedy and certain cure for these troubles, and its claims are backed by thousands of the strongest testimonials, a few of which we append below:

COLD IN HEAD
MARCH WINDS
CATARRH

WM. SAWYER, Toronto, says:—I had a bad attack of Catarrh last winter and like many other Canadian people, thought it would wear away. But it did not; instead it was wearing me away, and at last I made up my mind to try something. I got a prescription made up, a powder and snuffed it up and up until I grew weary but got no benefit. I then looked over the papers and saw your advertisement in the Mail. I seemed to have confidence in it right away and got a bottle of NASAL BALM and I can honestly say it was the best investment I ever made, and I strongly recommend it to all sufferers from catarrh and cold in the head. It helped me from the first and has thoroughly cured me. Every sufferer from catarrh should use NASAL BALM, and leave snuff, powders and douches alone.

MRS. M. RAY, Cayuga, N. S., states: I have used NASAL BALM on several occasions with the children for cold in the head, and always find it effects a rapid cure.

MISS CLARA MACNIDER, Little Metis, Ont., says:—I have used two bottles of your NASAL BALM for catarrh with the most beneficial results. To anyone suffering with this most disagreeable disease I can heartily recommend it as a radical cure. I cheerfully give you permission to use this if you desire it.

MR. THOMAS ROCHE, Rochefort, Ont., says:—I have suffered severely from catarrh, and never got any relief until I used NASAL BALM. I never thought I could find so sure a cure. It is a pity all afflicted with catarrh do not know of and use this wonderful medicine.

W. A. MALLORY, Mallorytown, Ont., says:—My daughter suffered for years from a most distressing and annoying catarrh. Her case was under the treatment of eminent physicians in the United States and Canada. Two months' use of NASAL BALM has had more beneficial effects than all former treatment combined.

EX-MAYOR ROBERT BOWIE, Brockville, Ont., says:—I used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it cured me after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head.

C. MCDONALD, Serpent River, Algoma, says: I have used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it has done me more good than all the remedies I ever tried before. It is worth its weight in gold.

MR. G. T. GORRELL, mail clerk on C. P. R., says:—NASAL BALM is a boon to all suffering from cold in the head. It gives relief rapidly and never fails to effect a speedy cure.

MR. J. D. KENNEDY, G. T. R. agent at Brockville, says:—A short treatment with NASAL BALM radically removed all symptoms of my catarrh. The preparation is pleasant and easy to use, and gives immediate and permanent relief.

SAMUEL BOLTON, Caldwell Mills, Ont., writes:—It gives me great pleasure to testify to the great merits of NASAL BALM. I tried other remedies but got no relief. The disease had brought on partial deafness. Yet two applications of NASAL BALM gave me great relief, and before the bottle was finished I was completely cured.

P. B. MACNAMARA, Merchant tailor, Brockville, Ont., says:—As an instant relief for Cold in the Head and Catarrh, NASAL BALM is unequalled. The effect is noticed as it is used.

MR. JOHN BROWN, Kagawong, Algoma, Detroit, writes:—I have used your NASAL BALM and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best remedy on earth for catarrh. I have only used one half bottle, and it has fully cured my catarrh. I have no hesitation in giving my name as an endorsation of NASAL BALM, as the greatest remedy yet discovered for catarrh and cold in the head.

LEWIS ROEBUCK, Wyevale, Ont., says:—I recommend NASAL BALM highly to all who suffer from catarrh.

MR. S. E. CHASE, Port Arthur, Ont., says:—I have been using your NASAL BALM for catarrh, and find myself cured with only one bottle. To call it the best preparation made for catarrh is scarcely strong enough.

T. H. MUNROE, Parry Sound, says:—NASAL BALM has no equal as a remedy for cold in the head. It is both speedy and effective in its results.

W. H. GABEL, Bronte, Ont., says:—I feel it my duty to write to you and report the result of my using NASAL BALM. I have been a severe sufferer from that loathesome disease, catarrh, and tried several remedies, but got no relief till I purchased a bottle of NASAL BALM. I used it according to directions and it has completely cured me. I take great pleasure in recommending it to all suffering from catarrh.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS similar only in name and appearance. Ask for NASAL BALM and take no substitute recommended as "just as good." If you cannot get NASAL BALM from your dealer it will be sent post-paid on receipt of price—50 cents and $1—by addressing FULFORD & CO., Brockville, Ont. Send for our pamphlet "Gems of Wisdom."

How Strange It Is

To see people starting at the head of George street, passing all the grocery houses on the street, thereby giving them the go-by, and coming to a halt at the Opera House Block, to secure some of W. J. Morrow's celebrated teas. One-half the population of Peterborough are using our now celebrated 25c. tea. For the next few years we will sell goods away below other houses, so you can always rely on buying goods cheaper from us than elsewhere. Watch for our Saturday bargains and be sure to call.

Remanded Till To-morrow.

The young man who gouged Constable Stewart's eye Monday night, was again remanded for a day. He now gave his name as Charles Wesley Hazzard. He is charged with resisting the police, a criminal offence. The three companions who were with him at the time of his arrest were also in court this morning, charged with a similar offence, and they too were remanded till to-morrow, being admitted to bail in $300 each. Their names are Angus Dow, Jos. Whitehair and Hugh Robertson. Mr. W. A. Stratton has the defence in hand and County Crown Attorney Wood the prosecution.

Masonic.

A meeting of Corinthian Royal Arch Chapter No. 36 was held last night, when an official visit was received from R. E. Comp. W. R. Howse, Grand Superintendent of Ontario District. The visitor was well entertained by the Masons. The following officers were elected; these, with the appointed officers will be installed a month hence:—

Married at Toronto.

On Thursday evening, March 7th, a very pleasant event occurred at the residence of the Rev. T. Westcoy, being the marriage of Miss Addie A. Hunter, third daughter of Mr. Wm. Hunter, Otonabee, to Mr. J. E. Chapman, of the C. P. R., Toronto. The bride was hemmingly assisted in a cream colored dress and was assisted by her sister Mary. The groom was supported by Mr. A. T. Banks of Toronto, but formerly of Caithness, Scotland. The bride was the recipient of many handsome and costly presents from different parts. The groom was in former years a native of the County Tyrone, Ireland, from which the happy couple received many congratulations. The Examiner also extends to Mr. and Mrs. Chapman its best wishes.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean contains a lengthy account of the preparations made by the Commercial and Travelling Men's Republican Club, of Chicago, to present President Harrison, of the United States, with a handsome toilet satchel. Mr. Tom S. Quiney, president of the club, acted as the emissary of the organization and presented the President with the hand-satchel at his home in Indianapolis. Tom's many friends in Peterborough will be pleased to hear of his taking such a prominent part in affairs across the border. Mr. Quiney came here from Belleville and was for a number of years with McKee & Davidson. He will be remembered as an energetic and enterprising man and one who was always to the front wherever he went. He has now one of the best travelling situations in the States, and is President of the Travellers' Club.

New Lodge Room.

Monday night a joint meeting of Peterborough and Lansdowne lodges, Sons of England, was held for the purpose of selecting a new lodge room. At present both lodges meet in the Forester's Hall, but, as becomes such a large and prosperous Society, they have decided to have quarters for themselves. The most commodious premises available in town have been secured, the rooms over Mackleston's hardware store, which will be leased from Mr. Geo. A. Cox for ten years. Mr. Cox will fit them up to meet the requirements of the Society. There will be a main hall 100x27 feet and a dining hall 35x27, which can be thrown into one room by the opening of folding doors. There will also be a kitchen, ante-room, reading room and lavatory in connection. The Sons of England will furnish the apartments elegantly throughout, and when completed expect to have one of the finest lodge rooms in town. The two lodges will arrange separate meeting nights. They will enter into possession of their new quarters the first of June.

The Late Louis Garland.

The subject of the following obituary sketch at one time lived in Peterborough, and during his two or three years' residence here became widely known and respected. He was employed in Mr. Kempt's drug store. The Hamilton Times says:—"Mr. Louis Garland, late of the firm of Garland & Rutherford, druggists, of this city, died in Toronto Friday. Mr. Garland had been in very poor health for about two years. Last summer he retired from business and, accompanied by Mrs. Garland, took a trip to the Old Country in hope of regaining his lost strength and vigor, but returned in a few months unimproved. Mr. Garland was a native of Yorkshire, England, and came to this country about twenty-one years ago, settling in Peterborough, then in his 25th year. Subsequently he came to this city, and entered the employment of Messrs. A. Hamilton & Co., druggists, where he remained a couple of years, and fifteen years ago joined with Mr. Andrew Rutherford, under the style of Garland & Rutherford, druggists, successors to Messrs. T Bickle & Son. Mr. Garland was of a quiet, retiring disposition, and took little interest in public affairs till a few years ago, when he was appointed School Trustee and served with much acceptability as Chairman of Finance. In 1880 he married a daughter of the late Mr. M. W. Browne, and the widow and one daughter survive him." The funeral took place Sunday afternoon and was very largely attended. Mr H. Rush, of Peterborough, was among those who followed the remains to their last resting place in Burlington Cemetery.

Robt. Wainwright's Punishment For Assaulting John Kincaid—Bound over To Keep the Peace for a Year.

The police court room was this morning crowded to the doors, when the assault case of Kincaid vs. Wainwright was heard before P.M. Dumble. Mr. R. E. Wood, C.C.A., conducted the case for the Queen, and Mr. E. H. D. Hall represented the plaintiff. Defendant's counsel was Mr. W. A. Stratton.

Following is a resume of the evidence given:—

Mr. John Kincaid said that on Thursday, March 14th, he was passing Mr. Wainwright's shop when the latter hailed him and said he was "going for us freely." Mr. Kincaid replied that he didn't know what he meant, and Wainright said, "Mr. Roper has gone as a consequence of your brother's (Dr. Kincaid's) trouble." Mr. Kincaid replied that he was sorry, but he could hardly think that was the case, and then Wainwright began to abuse him (the complainant) as badly as he did the Doctor, accusing him of stealing all that he could lay his hands on about the Doctor's house after the Doctor left. Mr. Kincaid told him it was a lie, and immediately Wainwright struck him in the right eye with his fist and knocked him down. Witness was stunned, but felt several other blows on his arms and body, from whom he could not say, but Wainwright continued to abuse him with his tongue. Afterwards he got up and walked to Dr. Bell's office, though he could scarcely reach there, being nearly blinded with blood. The cut over his eye had to be stitched, and besides he felt "all broke" from the effects of blows on on his arms, shoulder and side. He had not been able to be around until Monday in consequence of his maltreatment.

To Mr. Stratton—Mr. Kincaid said he had heard that Mr. Wainright was in financial difficulty and was a large creditor of Dr. Kincaid, but did not know it for a fact. Whilst they were talking about Mr. Roper, what witness said was that "he did not know any more about the Doctor's affairs than he (Wainright) or not as much, for he (the latter) was mixed up in it." Wainright might have understood from that that he (Kincaid) meant to say that Wainright knew what the Doctor was doing and helped him. Mr. Wainwright did not deny that he was mixed up with the doctor's affairs. Witness did not say to him, "That's a lie," until Wainwright accused him of stealing. Mr. Wainwright was very excited, but witness did not know that he had resolved on business suspension. He was very careful in his conversation with Wainwright.

To Mr. Wood—I made an effort to get away from Mr. Wainwright before he struck me.

Dr. Bell testified to having dressed Mr. Kincaid's wounds, which were so severe that his attendance was required up to Sunday night. Slight concussion of the brain had resulted from the blow over the eye.

Dr. Fitz testified that he had witnessed the fracas, and saw Wainwright kick Mr. Kincaid while down several times. To Mr. Stratton, he said that there were loud, angry words by both parties, though Mr. Kincaid did not speak loud till he said "It's a lie," which he emphasized by additional force. He did not hear the conversation, but saw that Wainwright was very angry. He also heard Kincaid say "I defy you to prove that I have rogued any man."

For the defence Mr. Yelland was called. He had heard part of the conversation when the men were talking loud and excitedly. He came through his shop and looked out the door. Wainwright was accusing Kincaid of taking things away from the Doctor's. He thought Wainwright used the word "steal." Mr. Kincaid said he didn't and Mr. Wainwright said he did. This passed between them three or four times, and Mr. Kincaid said, "You're a liar." That was the word witness understood him to say, and Mr. Yelland at once drew his head inside the shop. In about a minute he looked out and saw John Kincaid down on the sidewalk and Wainright striking him. When Kincaid got up and walked away Wainwright shouted after him, "Will you say I helped your brother to cheat the public now?" He saw Wainwright have Kincaid by the collar and saw him kick him several times. Mr. Yelland saw several people trying to pull Wainwright away from Kincaid, and when the latter got up he was covered with blood. Wainwright struck him several times in the face and kicked him several times on the thigh. Mr. Kincaid did not resist any.

THE ARGUMENT.

Mr. Stratton urged the exceptional circumstances on behalf of the defendant, who had suffered irreparable financial injury on account of the fraud of the brother of the defendant, and who was in consequence verging almost on a state of insanity. While in this frame of mind he should not have been provoked, and he considered the evidence showed that the plaintiff had provoked him, and almost invited the assault by his conduct. There was, also, an entire lack of premeditation of assault on the part of the defendant, and in view of these circumstances the offence was really no more serious than common assault, to which charge they were ready to plead guilty.

Mr. Wood replied that the plaintiff had no means of knowing Wainwright's frame of mind, or that he had lost by the doctor. The fact was that plaintiff himself had been considerably taken in in the same way. It was aggravated assault, for Wainwright accused him of stealing and then attacked him. He considered Wainwright's attack and the un-British like way in which he followed it up very unmanly.

Mr. Dumble said he would decide this case on the evidence. He had no judicial knowledge of Dr. Kincaid's troubles, or the connection of any of the parties with it; he only knew the plaintiff was stopped on the street, accused of theft, and knocked down because he denied it. There seems to be an opinion, Mr. Dumble said, that no matter what blackguard conduct one man may use towards another, if the other calls him a liar he has a right to knock him down. This was nonsense. In this case there was no justification. The prisoner, not content with knocking the plaintiff down, kicked and brutally beats him while down. The Magistrate said he would inflict a punishment that would teach him not to repeat the offence again. He sentenced the prisoner to one month in gaol at hard labor, and farther bound him over to keep the peace for one year, himself in $500 and two sureties in $250 each.

Enlisting the Young Men.

Meeting to Secure Their Co-Operation in Church Work in St. John's—A Guild Organized.

Last night a large number of the young men of the congregation of St. John's and several of the more active of the older members assembled in the school room. It had been expected that Rev. Mr. Moore, of Toronto, would be present to give an address, but he did not arrive in town. In his absence, Rev. Mr. Davidson organized the meeting, and Mr. W. D. Parker was appointed secretary pro tem.

Rev. Mr. Davidson stated that the object of the meeting was to discuss the position and work of young men in the church. The speaker stated that he had a great partiality for young men and he took that occasion to tender to the young men of St. John's the thanks of himself and Mr. Kenrick for the heartiness and kindness with which they had been received. And he wished this kindness to take a practical direction. They certainly did not expect himself and Mr. Kenrick to work the entire parish. He referred the audience to a minister's definition of being installed—harnessed to a church and expected to draw it along. Young men could not expect the clergymen and ladies to do all the drawing—though the latter's power of drawing upon the pocket was not to be disputed. The question for young men to consider was, how could Church work be promoted by co-operation and united work? It was a poor, half-hearted business for the clergyman to do all the work, while united work made everything go with a swing. There should be far

MORE SYMPATHY BETWEEN CLERGY AND PEOPLE.

The clergyman was not a man apart—to be approached with awe and diffidence, he had only an equal share with the congregation in church work. To accomplish this young men should, First, attend church, not aimlessly and desultorily but with definite purpose—with an interest in the worship—to be there on principle. This young man can be relied on to be in his place in church as at his place of business. Second—the young man can take an active part in securing the attendance of others at church. Third—A most important point was the showing of sociability in church. Every member should take an interest in every other member, every member has a claim upon another. Young men were urged to have and exercise more sociability and fellow feeling. Fourth—The lack of ushers was to be deplored. Visitors to the church should be made to feel welcome. A systematic attention to this subject was urged. Fifth—Young men could effectively work for church interests by actively assisting in the choir.

Mr. J. H. Burnham pointed out that the young men of St. John's had not understood before that the church of England recognized that there was a distinct work for young men. He referred to the fact that the old men of the congregation had done a noble work and young men should put themselves in training to take their places. He concluded by moving, seconded by Mr. Heathcote, that as the church distinctly recognizes the work of young men in the church, that this meeting pledge itself to use its best endeavours to promote the interests of the church by all means in its power.

Mr. A. P. Pousssette referred to the diffidence of young men in declaring themselves Christians. He condemned the form of Sabbath desecration implied in lying in bed and refraining from church attendance. Profession in words was good but profession by deeds was better.

Mr. J. H. Long gave a delightful address. He spoke of the greatness of the privilege of working for for it was a grand old church. It was an historical church—and had been the bulwark of Christianity since the days of the Apostles. It preserved to the Bible, and was an antidote against ecclesiastical error of both kinds. One point in favor of the Church of England was the large share of personal liberty she allowed her children. She did not unduly interfere with individual action, but permitted an awakened and enlightened conscience to guide the individual. The speaker showed that the Church of England, tracing her history in unbroken sequence from soon after the time of the Apostles, should necessarily hold the true faith in a purer form than those sects which have sprung up spontaneously. He suggested that more than four ushers should be appointed and also that young men should visit other young men and take an interest in them show a fellow piety, and by practical example repel the accusation that the church of England was cold and unsympathetic.

Mr. Burnham's resolution was adopted.

The discussion of ways and means of giving effect to this resolution followed, Messrs Ellis, Pousette, Dr. Boucher, Dr. Halliday, Fred. Fooks, Mr. Hodge, Mr. Heathcotte, R. E. Hamilton, W. Brandrette and others.

A resolution moved by Mr. Parker, seconded by Mr. Harold Morrow, that a society be formed, the pledges and course of work to be adopted later, was carried, and after spirited discussion the name of the society was fixed as the "Young Men's Guild of St. John's."

A committee composed of Rev. Messrs. Davidson and Kenrick, Messrs. A. P. Pousette, Harold Morrow, Parker, Bell, Burnham, Long, J. H. Long, and H. Ellis, was appointed to draft a constitution, the committee to report at a general meeting on Monday evening next.

After prayers and the benediction by Rev. Mr. Davidson the meeting, which developed a feeling and working spirit in the young men present, came to a close, and signatures were affixed to the membership roll.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER
THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

Promotion of Industries.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I see by the Belleville papers that the contract for the building of the Bay of Quinte bridge superstructure has been awarded to the Brown Manufacturing Co., the price agreed upon being $36,925.00, notwithstanding the fact, as I am informed upon enquiry, that our own enterprising firm, the Central Bridge Works, had tendered to do the work for $34,146.00, a sacrifice of $2,679.00 being made in favour of the local industry. However unfair this may be to other competitors, the award shows a laudable desire on the part of the Bridge Committee to encourage and help their own industries and I am inclined to think our own council might take a leaf out of the Belleville people's book and give more generous patronage to Mr. Law. Our county may not have such an extensive contract to give as that for the Bay of Quinte, but there are many places where new bridges are much needed and it would only be exercising true economy, whenever a new bridge has been decided on, to give Mr. Law the order instead of, as in many cases since the bridge works were established here, erecting wooden structures at which the antiquated fogies of a thousand years ago would smile very audibly. It is the tenet of some people's belief that town, and even county, councils are composed only of "old fogies." I would not cast such an aspersion upon either of our local bodies, but the vast superiority of iron bridges has so long been an established fact that it may very reasonably be asked why such meagre patronage has been accorded to our local works when wooden bridges have in many cases been built which might, with ultimate advantage, have been built of iron.

By most of our councillors the prospect of a good industry coming to town is regarded as a glorious opportunity—not for offering generous substantial assistance to the proposed industry, but for council oratory, in which a pretence of booming the interests of the town is made the opportunity for gaining popularity with a view to re-election, and serving the still more important purpose of booming the individual interest of the members of the council, and unless the chance of the latter interest being well served be reduced to a "moral," the prospect of the proposed industry is exceedingly slim.

Excuse me for troubling in this matter. I do so in, I believe, the "interest of the town," and I am not seeking election to anything. There is no reason why Peterborough should not become one of the most important industrial towns in the Dominion, but manufacturers require something more substantial than an invitation, a surfeit of "taffy," and an air castle built by our municipal wind bags. Already several important industries have been lost to the town through the refusal of assistance which might easily have been given. I do not consider it the duty of our city fathers to locate industries and then maintain them. I merely argue that it is in the interest of the town that every good industry that is obtainable should be secured, and that whenever our councillors have it in their power to assist their industries they should do so. To be a benefit an industry must also be a success.

Yours truly,
O. K.

DECIDED TO AMALGAMATE.

St. John (N. B.) and Portland Vote for Union—48,000 Population.

St. John, N.B., March 19.—The electors of St. John (east and west) and Portland by their vote decided to-day on amalgamation, by which the united population of the new city, which will be called the city of St. John, will be about 48,000.

The Atlantic Mail Service.

Ottawa, March 19.—Since Sir Charles Tupper's arrival there has been a general understanding that the contract for the fast Atlantic service would be awarded to the Andersons, who have the Canadian Pacific Railway at their back. This means a quasi-amalgamation of the Pacific and Atlantic services and subsidies, and a handsome thing for the Andersons, who as agents will get ten per cent. on the gross earnings of the new company, including the subsidies. The shareholders are not likely to realise a fortune, but the agents will. Such a service as that of the Umbria and Etruria to New York will not at the start pay to Halifax for half the year, even if it should do so in the summer months to Quebec. But it will boom Canada and our transcontinental highway, and as long as it lasts will be a-so-far-so-good sort of arrangement. The introduction of a new and powerful corporation as a candidate for its share in the trade of the St. Lawrence will not be welcomed by the Allan and Dominion lines, which have done so much in the past to build up a business which of late years it is understood has been the reverse of lucrative.

The Sentry Shot Himself.

Halifax, March 20.—The result of the military court of enquiry which investigated the case of the sentry of the West Riding regiment who was shot while on duty at the Richmond magazine is now made known. The military are of opinion that the injuries were self-inflicted, but that there is not sufficient evidence to show whether it was done by accident or design.

Fire at Quebec.

Quebec, March 20.—Garrigue & Co.'s novelty store in St. John street was badly gutted yesterday through a defective chimney. The stock is a complete loss, uninsured. The building is owned by Judge Tessier whose loss will be about $1000, insured. There was a small insurance on Garrigue's furniture.

DRESS GOODS

AMATEUR CLOTH, commonly called HENRIETTA. It is almost a joke the way these Goods have jumped to popularity at a single leap, but it is now at the zenith, entrenched, fortified public favor decrees it. We have never had the like before under 90c., the price 75c. We are showing 36 distinct shades. Lift a fold, every ounce of the weight comes from good fine wool, honestly put together, by the yard stick 46 inches plump. Test the dye, every shade shows as evenly as the sun on a quiet pool, and are going out like the rolling sea—evenly and constantly. See them, they are on the move. In the last week, heaps of New Dress Goods have come in. The Spring gathering is at its flood. Take any sort you choose, Cottons or Woollens, Silks or Satins. Another family of Cashmeres. We show 15 Colorings, most of which are entirely new, 44 inches wide, price 50 cents.

Cast your eye to the end of our Dress Goods counter, and you will find a range of French Stuffs in 20 shades. We have never had the like before under 25c., but have bought them low and are selling them close price 20 cents.

Bradford Goods in stripes and checks, at 10 cents a yard, fresh goods, new colors.

Those wishing to have their dresses made up can have them done on the premises if necessary by our Dressmaker, Miss Mercier, who has given up her own business to take charge of this Department.

Artificial Flowers—They will gladden your eyes, perhaps cheer your hearts, and touch your pocket book. Gently have you noticed the progress in the art of making them so natural. They cheat you into touching or smelling to test their reality.

Lilacs, Tulips, Roses, Lilies of the Valley, to be worn in profusion on Millinery this season. Case after case of Black and Colored Straw Hats, Bonnets, Trimmings, &c., have arrived, in fact nearly all the Spring Millinery is now opened out and ready for inspection.

No Department in our Store has received more marked attention than our Dress Goods Department. Every shelf is laden with the latest production of the English, French and German looms. For style, colorings and elegance in design, nothing has ever been seen like them for richness and cheapness. Every new wearing combination and texture not as cheap.

Our display of Silks, in Printed Pongee and Caimas is unusually large.

DRESS TRIMMINGS.

We show Dress Trimmings in every conceivable design, to match any coloring in Dress Goods, and you will see Novelties in these Goods with us not shown by anyone else, as they were made to our own order.

Our Dress Making Department is busier than we usually find it at this time of year. This is due to the fact that our Miss Neill's abilities in this line are abreast of the times.

ONTARIO'S LEGISLATURE.

THE GOVERNMENT'S RAILWAY POLICY UPHELD.

Hon. A. M. Ross Explains the Resolutions—Four of the Liberal Members Vote with the Opposition.

TORONTO, March 21.—For the first time this session there was a morning sitting of the Assembly yesterday, at which Mr. McKay's bill to amend the act respecting the study of anatomy, and the Attorney-General's bill respecting the administration of justice in certain cases, were read a third time and passed. The rest of the morning was consumed by a discussion on Mr. Hardy's Municipal Amendment Act. The city's claims for the rectification of evils incidental to the present system of arbitration were adopted.

At the afternoon session the Attorney-General moved the third reading of the bill respecting registry offices. Mr. H. E. Clarke moved in amendment:

"That the said bill be not now read the third time but be forthwith referred back to the committee of the whole House with instructions to strike out all the provisions thereof relating to the division of the city of Toronto for registrative purposes and by adding thereto the following section:

"'Sec. 106 of the Registry Act is hereby repealed and the following substituted therefor:

"'Of the further fees and emoluments received by each registrar in each year in excess of $4500 not exceeding $15,000 he shall be entitled to retain to his own use 10 per cent. and no more, and of the further fees and emoluments received by each registrar in each year in excess of $15,000 he shall be entitled to retain to his own use 15 per cent. and no more.'"

Considerable discussion followed in which Messrs. E. F. Clarke, Smith, Ballantyne, Leys, Meredith, O'Connor, Wood, Creighton, the Commissioner of Crown Lands and the Attorney-General participated, after which the amendment was voted down, 53 to 33.

Mr. Meredith proposed another amendment which was declared lost on the same division.

Mr. E. F. Clarke's bill respecting the City of Toronto was about to be read a third time, when Mr. Garson objected to the clause giving Mr. Harman an annuity of $2000. He did not think it a wise precedent to create for other councils. He therefore moved an amendment that the bill be not read a third time and be referred back to committee, and the obnoxious clause struck out. The amendment was lost, 68 to 13.

Mr. Gibson moved the second reading of the bill to amend the Liquor License Act. It provides "that the purchaser of any intoxicating liquor from a person who is not licensed to sell the same, or any person who drinks upon the premises liquor so purchased at the time of the purchase thereof, shall be guilty of an offence under the act." Another provision is that all sums imposed by the municipality in excess of $200 mentioned in sec. 42 of the act shall be divided equally between the Province and such municipality. There was a good deal of opposition to the measure, but after considerable discussion it was read a second time.

Hon. A. M. Ross, in rising to introduce the Government's railway resolutions, referred to the aid given to railway enterprises in the past and the benefits resulting therefrom. He pointed out that of the $6,000,000 granted by the Government up to 1881 $4,000,000 had already been paid. He then gave figures to show the small amount received by Ontario in comparison with that received by Quebec in railway aid. The scheme which the Government proposed, Mr. Ross continued, was essentially a colonization scheme. The Province, he said, owed a duty to these new sections. Mr. Ross then referred to the Government's policy of granting land subsidies. Although they proposed to grant land they also proposed to retain the control of it. He then enumerated the roads and their bonuses, as follows:

Name of Railway.	Miles.	Cash Bonus or	Per Year.
Ont. & Rainy River R.R.	80	$150,000	$6000
Manitoulin & North Shore..	28	84,000	3917
Parry Sound.	45	135,000	5766
Nipissing & James' Bay.	33	150,000	6000
Brockville Westport & Sault Ste. Marie.....	55	165,000	7000
	239	$684,000	$31,683

Mr. Balfour of South Essex read a list of the sums of money which all the counties of the Province had received from the Government to aid railway projects and to pay railway rebates. The counties of Essex, Prescott, Lennox and Lanark were the only ones which had never received a single cent of aid from the Government. He did not think that this was a fair deal to these counties, and more particularly to Essex. He had made a solemn pledge to his constituents that if he were returned to the Assembly he would insist that Essex gets its fair share of railway aid, and if it did not he would certainly oppose the present or any other Government that refused it. He then announced that he intended to resign and ask his constituents if he had not done right.

Mr. Evanturel thought that Prescott had been badly treated and said he would vote against the Government's railway policy.

The Commissioner of Crown Lands said the Government's railway policy was a well-defined one. Had they gone in to aid all the railways that they had been requested to it would have cost between two and three millions.

Mr. Caldwell of North Lanark said he was satisfied with the decision that the Government had made. It was a colonization policy. His constituency had no grievances that he knew of.

Mr. Murray, whom Mr. Evanturel claimed had crowded his (Evanturel's) road out in the cold, said this was not the case. He would like to have seen all the roads obtain aid.

Mr. Meredith said there was no country in the world that had done so much for their railways as had the Dominion and the Province. He said the question of granting aid to railways ought to have been considered at an earlier stage of the session and concluded by moving this amendment:

That all words after "that" be struck out and that there be inserted the following: This House regrets that in opening the question of aiding out of provincial funds the building of railways a more just, equitable and satisfactory scheme has not been submitted for its consideration.

Mr. Balfour moved as an amendment to the amendment:

That this House, while approving the policy of granting liberal aid to deserving colonization railways, is of opinion that provincial aid should also be granted at the same time to deserving railway projects in the older counties, and especially to those side projected railways through those counties in which railways have not before received provincial aid.

Only four members supported this amendment. They were Messrs. Balfour, Evanturel, Monk and Robillard. Mr. Balfour then moved another amendment of a somewhat similar nature. This was also declared lost on the same division, 70 to 4.

Then Mr. Fraser moved in amendment to the amendment that all words of the amendment after the first word 'that' be omitted and instead there be inserted these words:

This House approving of a reasonable amount of provincial aid being given to needful and desirable colonization railways within this Province do forthwith resolve itself into committee to consider the resolutions relating to railway aid heretofore ordered to be considered in committee of the whole House, and that Mr. Speaker do accordingly now leave the chair.

This amendment was carried by a vote of 54 to 28, Messrs. Balfour, Evanturel, Robillard and McAndrew voting against the Government.

The House then went into committee on the resolutions and reported them back to the Speaker. Then the Treasurer at once sent up a bill giving effect to the resolutions and granting the aid to the railways named. The bill was read a first and second time without dividing.

It was midnight when all this was accomplished and the House adjourned.

STATE-AIDED EMIGRATION.

The Crofters' Colonization Vote Passed—Dr Barnardo and His Boys.

LONDON, March 21.—In the House of Commons last night Sir George Campbell, upon the report of the Crofter Emigration Committee, condemned the decision of the Government to appoint a committee to inquire into the question of emigration from the congested districts of England and Ireland, as well as of Scotland, to the colonies or elsewhere. He demanded that the enquiry be restricted to crofter emigration and migration. The Government, however, made no reply. The report was then adopted, and the £10,500 vote for crofter colonization in the Northwest is therefore finally passed.

The Colonization Board has nearly completed arrangements for this season's settlement at Wolseley. Outside the House the opinion is frequently heard that the new committee of enquiry is merely a method of shelving for another session the difficult question of general State-aided emigration. It is difficult to see what new light the committee can elicit. The crofter members, however, express pleasure over the Government pledge that no further crofter emigration will be made until the committee reports.

Dr. Barnardo's first party of 200 trained and tested boys will leave next week, 70 going to the Industrial Farm in Manitoba and the balance to Ontario. The whole party is already applied for by farmers twice over.

Canadian Pacific shares are flat, having fallen during the week upon wild statements respecting the company's new bill. Full details are awaited from Canada.

THE WINNIPEG MOCK MARRIAGE.

Deegan Convicted of Forgery—Bigamy of McLeod—Another Elopement.

WINNIPEG, March 20.—At the Assizes to-day Tom Deegan, who acted as magistrate in the mock marriage last summer, was found guilty of forgery in connection with the event, but sentence was suspended.

A bigamy case has been brought to light at McLeod, a man named Cook having married a Metis girl there while having another wife in Oregon. He has skipped to Montana.

It is expected that the new organ of the Local Government will appear in about two months.

Another elopement is reported from St. Paul's Parish near Winnipeg.

Brutal Assault at the Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 21.—The hotel kept by Mrs. John Leech at Falls View was the scene of a cowardly assault on Wednesday. A young girl named Maggie Heximer, employed in the house as a servant, while washing dishes in the kitchen was accosted by a young man named John McLeod who asked her to get him something to eat, and upon resuming the task of washing dishes McLeod grabbed her around the waist, threw her upon the floor and attempted to ravish her. The screams of the girl attracted the attention of one of the male servants who came to her rescue, whereupon McLeod ran into the bar. The girl hastened upstairs and was pursued by the scamp who tried to catch hold of her again, but she managed to get to her room and locked the door, where she remained until Mrs. Leech returned from Clifton. A charge of indecent assault was made by the girl's father against McLeod and he was arraigned before Police Magistrate A. G. Hill to-day, who after hearing both sides of the case imposed a fine of $25 and one day imprisonment. McLeod is a married man and is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Leech.

Halifax News.

HALIFAX, March 21.—The price of ice will be 25 or 30 per cent. higher in Halifax the coming season than for years past, owing to the limited crop.

L. J. Hemelein, W. K. Reynolds, H. N. Wallace and B. F. Parson have applied to the Local Legislature for the incorporation of the Bedford Hotel Company (limited), for the purpose of developing and improving the land and the natural advantages of the village of Bedford and shore of Bedford basin and making the same eligible as a summer resort, for affording facilities for stimulating travel thereto by land and by water and for promoting the general growth and wealth thereof and of the City of Halifax. The company are to have a capital of $12,000 with power to increase to $50,000.

Shocking Suicide at Montreal.

MONTREAL, March 20.—A shocking suicide took place to-day in the west end of the city. Mrs. Throsby, whose husband is employed at McDougall's mills, has for some time suffered from acute epileptic mania. Shortly before 5 o'clock this morning she slipped out of bed and going down into the kitchen inflicted several terrible wounds on her throat with a large meat knife, the head being almost severed from the body. Deceased leaves a grown-up family.

Three Buildings Burnt at Meaford.

MEAFORD, March 20.—A fire occurred here last night about 10 o'clock, completely destroying three buildings and damaging two others. The fire started in Sydie's harness shop, two doors north of Molson's Bank, spreading to Shouldice's butcher shop, completely demolishing it and the old auction mart occupied by Hepenstall & Spike, both shoe shops. Loss about $3300, insurance $2000.

A Victim of Remorse.

BELLEVILLE, March 20.—Facts brought out in connection with the suicide of A. D. Smith show that the act was caused either by remorse for having seduced a woman at Syracuse, N. Y., or from a morbid fear of arrest for his misdeing. He came to Canada in February because of this trouble and after staying for some weeks at St. Catharines and in Toronto, where he drank heavily, he came to Belleville on March 11. He lived quietly here, drinking but little. No inquest will be held

DISOBEYED ORDERS.

The Disastrous Collision on the Intercolonial—The Dead Terribly Mangled.

QUEBEC, March 20.—The collision reported on the Intercolonial yesterday is the worst as regards loss of life that has ever taken place on the line, four persons being killed and several injured. The collision took place while rounding a curve 1½ miles north of Rimouski and is attributed to the non-observance of orders by the down special, which, having lost time through sticking in the snow, should have stopped and sent out signals.

The position of the killed showed that their death must have been horrible but instantaneous. One was entirely disemboweled, another was hung up by the neck and still a third was crushed in a horrible manner. An inquest on the remains was commenced at Rimouski to-day. Of the killed Whitney was a son of the General Superintendent of the line. Jolivet, who was among the wounded, is said to have since died from his injuries. He belonged to River du Loup. Till, another of the wounded, belonged to St. John. The two Levesques are supposed to have belonged to Rimouski. Michaud, who was also among the dead, lived at Rimouski.

CHAMBERLAIN ON IRELAND

THE BIRMINGHAM M.P.'S LETTER TO HIS CONSTITUENTS.

Renewed Scenes of Disorder and Violence in the Hungarian Diet—Antoine's Enthusiastic Welcome at Paris.

LONDON, March 20.—Mr. Chamberlain in a letter to his electors says he thinks the time has arrived when the Government should prove its readiness to propose a substitute for Mr. Gladstone's rejected Irish bill. He thinks that if a large and final land purchase measure were passed with the consent of all parties it would immensely lessen the difficulty of giving Ireland a liberal local government measure. This matter, he says, will be openly discussed at the coming Easter conference.

Prof. Gerhardt, the eminent physician of Berlin, was entertained at dinner this evening by Sir Andrew Clarke. Twenty-four leading London doctors were present and 200 attended the reception after the dinner. Prof. Gerhardt was given a most cordial welcome.

A Blue Book on Samoan Affairs.

LONDON, March 20.—A blue book on Samoan affairs was issued to-day. It contains 356 despatches, the dates ranging from April 29, 1885, to Feb. 28, 1889. The despatches show that England has been throughout in cordial accord with America and that she declined to accede to Germany's request for assistance and co-operation in the restoring of order in Samoa until she had learned the American Government's views on the subject. On Jan. 29 last Lord Salisbury complained to Count Van Hatzfeldt, German Ambassador at London, concerning Prince Bismarck's statement in the Reichstag that in Samoa Germany and England were advancing hand in hand. The British Prime Minister said the views of the two countries were identical as far as the future government of Samoa was concerned, but not otherwise.

British Iron Clads Off for Tangier.

GIBRALTAR, March 20.—Two British iron clads have sailed to join the squadron at Tangier. The Sultan's reply to England's claims regarding the cable and other matters is daily expected.

London's Latest Sensation.

LONDON, March 20.—The sensation of the hour in theatrical and club circles is the mysterious disappearance of Miss Mabel Love, a beautiful young actress at the Gaiety Theatre. Miss Love is only 14 years of age, but she is credited with having already shattered several hearts. Detectives are scouring the country in search of her, but knowing ones intimate that a certain young nobleman could give accurate information as to her whereabouts if he would, and that she would be found not far away from the scenes of her triumphs over the affections of susceptible young men who nightly haunt the Gaiety.

Premier Tisza Hooted.

PESTH, March 20.—When Herr Von Tisza arrived at the lower house of the Hungarian Diet this morning a large crowd groaned and hissed at him, shouting "Get Out," "Resign." An altercation took place in the House between Herr Polonyi and Herr Kroitzik. The quarrel will probably lead to a duel. The House held a secret sitting to discuss the matter.

The Paris Bourse Unsettled.

PARIS, March 20.—The Bourse was unsettled at the close. Influential buying supported foreign securities and rentes, but shares of French financial concerns were heavy and unsettled the market.

To Limit Copper Production.

PARIS, March 20.—It is stated that the holders of copper warrants have decided not to sell them but to continue negotiations with the mine owners with a view to reaching an agreement for a diminished production.

Antoine Enthusiastically Welcomed.

PARIS, March 20.—M. Antoine was enthusiastically greeted on his arrival here this evening. Five thousand persons were assembled at the depot and there were frequent shouts of "Vive Antoine," "Vive La France," "Vive La Republique," etc. There were several deputies and members of the municipal council present. Delegates of various patriotic societies cordially welcomed M. Antoine, who in the course of his reply said that to Alsace was due all the honor of his reception. The crowd was so demonstrative in welcoming M. Antoine that great difficulty was experienced in passing through the streets. A banquet will be given to him on Friday.

THE NEW SOUTH.

Andrew Carnegie's Opinion of Its Iron Interests—Pennsylvania's Rival.

BALTIMORE, March 20.—The Manufacturers' Record will publish a letter from Andrew Carnegie giving his views upon the iron interests of the south, based upon his recent investigating tour. Mr. Carnegie states that the first feature which impressed him was the general excellence of the plants in the South. The blast furnaces, the machinery in the mines, the mode of opening, handling facilities, etc., are all of the latest pattern. The character of the coal, iron ore and limestone and the ease and cost of mining are all better he says than he had expected.

As to the cost of pig iron production in Alabama Mr. Carnegie says $10 a ton for foundry iron, which is the highest grade, is a liberal estimate. Some of the best located furnaces may be able to do even better. The ability to manufacture at this price must give southern manufacturers a large market for their pig. When they seek to manufacture the pig into more advanced forms Mr. Carnegie believes it will be converted into steel by means of bessemer and open hearth basic processes.

Speculation he says has entered more or less into this southern field. Some ill-advised enterprises have been undertaken and considerable reaction may take place. Mr. Carnegie regards the south as Pennsylvania's most formidable industrial rival in the future.

Found Dead in the Road

COOKSVILLE, Ont., March 21.—Last evening about 8.30 a lady who was driving along Dundas-street observed a horse and rig in the ditch about 100 yards from the railway crossing east of Cooksville station. On closer examination she found a man by the name of Robert Spiers lying under the rig dead. It is supposed the horse took fright from a passing train and ran away.

It Comes Too Late.

MONTREAL, March 20.—Detective Baylis, of the Provincial Police, has been notified that £1000 was on the way out from England to Holden, who was murdered by McGrath. It is thought Holden was not his real name.

Trouble for a K. of L. Assembly.

CHICAGO, March 13.—In the presence of General Worthy Foreman Wheal and District Master Workman Mrs. Rogers, Worthy Foreman Linhoin, of District Assembly 24, Knights of Labor, was yesterday forcibly ejected from a meeting of Waiters' Local Assembly 7475. Mr. Wheal and Mrs. Rogers were then told by the irate waiters to "get out." The two retired, after suspending the Assembly, which now proposes to secede permanently

SOME SQUEALING SINNERS

Mr Hunter Says Some of Them Have Been Hit.

And They're Swearing About It—Mr. Crossley's Account of the Greatest Revival—"Choose Ye This Day Whom Ye Will Serve

Rev. Mr. Hunter last night took occasion to reprove bigoted Christians for their unreasonable prejudices against other churches. Some of them are afraid to enter any church but their own. Mr. Hunter said he wanted people of all creeds to attend these services, for their object was simply to save sinners and not to preach any particular doctrine. And, he said, they were hitting some sinners pretty hard, for a few of them were beginning to squeal. There was one man across the river in Ashburnham and another down by the station who were swearing about something they heard in one of these meetings. You can always tell when you hit a sinner, he begins to squeal right away. "Oh," Mr. Hunter said, "God help the old drunken blasphemers who are members of the church in this town. They are going to hell if nothing wakes them up." Continuing, Mr. Hunter said they had not yet begun to talk plain to the people. They were coming down on them one of these days like an avalanche, so the people had better look out.

ROBBING GOD.

Reading the third chapter of Malachi as a lesson, Mr. Hunter rested upon the passage: —"Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings." Some sinners, Mr. Hunter said, had robbed God of 20 years of their lives, while other professing Christians were robbing Him of tithes and offerings. For himself, Mr. Hunter said, he would be ashamed to give anything less than a tenth of his income to God, but to make their position secure, he and Mr. Crossley had doubled the amount, and for every $100 they got they laid by $20 to the service of Christ. Again Mr. Hunter pointed out that "consecration" did not consist in going to the church, or prayer meeting, in crossing oneself a certain number of times or in studying the catechism. Talmage says a man may go to hell with a catechism in each pocket and a church roll under his arm. The reason, he said, why some men don't belong to the church is the fear that they may have to give something. The 16th verse indicated the necessity of religious conversation—in the family, in the church and with sinners, about Jesus Christ. Mr. Hunter impressed upon parents the responsibility that rested upon them with regard to their children, who were following in their footsteps, and unless the parents change their ways their children will surely be damned.

A GREAT REVIVAL.

Mr. Crossley sang with much feeling, "Ashamed of Jesus," and announced that he would speak about the greatest revival he knew of—not Pentecost—though, to be sure, that was a great revival when three thousand souls were turned to God in a day; but of Shechem, where hundreds of thousands were saved at the one time. Mr. Crossley epitomized the circumstances which led up to this great revival, the gathering of the tribes of Israel at Shechem and Joshua's recital of all God's benefits, at the conclusion of which he uttered the words of the text, (Josh., xxiv, 15): "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve. * * * As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." Some people say that these revivals where so many are saved never amount to anything; but evidently this revival at Shechem was not ephemeral, for the 31st verse says, "And Israel served the Lord all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that overlived Joshua." The fact was that large revivals were the more liable to be permanent because of the greater help and sympathy the converts receive. Here at Shechem was an evidence of the reality, permanence and stability of revivals.

This question and answer of Joshua's was, Mr. Crossley said, a suitable exhortation and resolve for everyone unsaved before him. The first lesson that he drew from it was that every person is either

FOR OR AGAINST GOD.

No one after carefully considering the matter would have the impudence to declare against God; yet they must be either for or against Him. Their it is learned that every person has a choice in the matter, and they must choose. There was no shirking it. Like Joshua, Mr. Crossley said, we should be independent in our choice and have moral courage enough to make our choice known. A great many don't like to choose because this, that or the other one has not been saved; all the more reason for them to come out on the Lord's side that they may influence the others. Some offer as an excuse that there are so many hypocrites in the church; again all the greater reason for their conversion that they may show these unfaithful ones how to be true to God.

Joshua, in openly stating his choice set an example all converts and Christians should follow. It had an inestimable influence upon others sometimes. There was no doubt Joshua's declaration led a great many Israelites to decide the momentous question there and then. "Him that confesses Me before men him will I confess before the Father and the holy angels." But also for themselves should converts make their position known; it would strengthen them in their decision and purpose. If Joshua hadn't confessed he would have been used against God, for they would have said; "There's Joshua, he lives a better life than some of them that profess." A great many but when Joshua put the question to the Israelites and announced his own decision, they were led to see their position and they too came out on the Lord's side. As an evidence of the effect an open confession has, Mr. Crossley said that last night a young man who had been converted only a few weeks ago stood up on the platform in that church, and his example had so influenced others that they were talking about it. They would not believe it before, until he stood up and publicly confessed his master. Then in making a choice, converts should endeavor to bring in others, and older Christians saved long ago should help also, Mr. Crossley said he wanted 500 of them to say that night that they would each bring one soul to God.

Again, the text taught that they should all choose to-day. Every invitation in the Bible to the sinner is for to-day—none for to-morrow. Every man, woman and child in the congregation, Mr. Crossley said, will choose to-night before they leave the church. You can't help it. Not to decide to serve the Lord is to decide to remain serving your present master. It is a passive condition, but just as positive as an active one. There were hundreds there unsaved in the congregation before him, and on this decision that hour might depend all their future and the eternity to come. Mr. Crossley related a pathetic anecdote of a miner who at a prayer meeting wrestled with the spirit till three o'clock in the morning before he found peace. As the hour grew late he was urged to go home, but he refused saying "to-morrow might it may be too late," and it would have been, for the next day he was killed in an explosion, but his last words as he passed away were:—"I'm so glad—I settled it—last night."

Rev. Mr. Hunter brought the proceedings to a close by an earnest exhortation to the unsaved to decide at once whom they would serve.

NOTES.

To-night a song service will be held.

Mr. Crossley repeated the beautiful solo, "Pass, Come this Way," last night.

The usual number of requests for prayer were read.

In the congregation last night was Rev. Mr. Rose, the Welland missionary so well known here. Rev. Mr. Mr. Hay, of Campbellford, McCamus, of Fraserville, and Bennett.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Big Blaze in the West End—Hess' Chair Manufactory Burnt.

TORONTO, March 21.—Unlike Montreal Toronto is fortunately free from disastrous fires, the conflagrations that cause the loss of so many thousands being few and far between. Till last night the most recent fire of any magnitude had been that of Samuel, Benjamin & Co.'s premises in Yonge-street, last October, but last night there was a flame that wiped out $30,000 worth of property and came near causing much heavy damage to other property. The fire was in the premises of Hess Brothers, chair manufactory at 46 Strachan-avenue, just north of the bridge crossing the railway tracks and leading to Exhibition Park. The destroyed buildings have been land marks for some time. They were originally built for the Canada Car Works, later used by the Toronto Reaper and Mower Works Company and two years ago the Hess Brothers went into occupation, the firm consisting of George Hess, M.L.A. for North Perth, Wm. Hess and Adam Hess, who have their chief furniture factory in Listowel. Mr. George Hess, who was in attendance at the Legislative Assembly, when he was summoned to the fire said that he estimated the loss on buildings, stock and machinery at $60,000 in round numbers. On this there is an insurance of only about $30,000. There was a stock of between $30,000 and $40,000. No less than 140 men are thrown out of work. Neither Mr. Hess nor anyone connected with the firm could account for the cause of the fire. The majority of the men had quit work at 4 o'clock and a few varnishers had worked till 6 o'clock. The glare of the fire could be plainly seen at Hamilton and Whitby and telephone messages of inquiry were received from both of those places.

The three Jarvis brothers, ex-policeman Dick, Daniel and Lewis, were before Judge McDougall yesterday to answer to the charge of feloniously wounding Robert Hershey at Weston last Thursday night and of having robbed him of an overcoat. They pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by a jury but when Crown Attorney Badgerow declined to consent to bail they said they would rather be tried at once by His Honor. The Judge however read the depositions and decided to grant bail, fixing Daniel's and Lewis' at $300 each and Dick's at $1000. His Honor gave the ex-constable a good talking to and told him he had not been taught on the Toronto Police Force that three men ought to pile on one. He thought Hershey had been unwarrantably and maliciously attacked. The father of the trio was present and seemed to feel keenly the disgrace brought upon him. It is likely that he will secure bail by to-day. The trial will be at the forthcoming criminal assizes.

WHAT'S IN IT?

A Very Secretive Railway Deputation Visit the Ambitious City.

HAMILTON, March 20.—The Spectator this evening says: At the Royal Hotel this morning three names were registered by four wealthy-looking strangers: E. A. C. Pew, Toronto; E. John Miller, New York; F. C. Helm, Toronto, and C. H. Ritchie, Toronto. The gentlemen waited upon Mayor Doran this morning and arranged for an interview on railway business at 2 o'clock, but they did not enlighten His Worship as to the nature of their business, nor did they enlighten anybody else. Shortly after ex-Mayor Henry and Mr. Elliott of Brantford arrived in the city, having been asked to come here to meet the strangers. About noon Mayor Doran was called away to Toronto by a telegram from Hon. J. M. Gibson, and he left Major Moore as his deputy.

A reporter saw Mr. Pew this afternoon, but he was not very talkative. "All I can say is that we don't represent the Niagara Central nor the South Ontario Pacific company," said Mr. Pew. "We have some idea of running a line from the Niagara River to connect Hamilton with the eastern system of United States roads. We are just here looking around and to have a talk with Brantford and Hamilton railway men, but there is nothing definite yet to be given to the public."

The other members of the deputation were equally uncommunicative and referred everything to Mr. Pew. It was learned that "F. C. Helm, Toronto," is a well known Chicago capitalist, [illegible] on the line of the Central Pacific and is presumably the financial vertebra of the new scheme. Mr. Pew is also well known in railway circles as an organizer of roads having had considerable experience in the Northwest.

Mr. Henry and Mr. Elliott are the principal owners of a road now under construction, known as the Brantford, Waterford and Lake Erie Road. It is to connect Brantford with the Canada Southern Railway, and the charter extends to within nine miles of Toronto, via either Hamilton or Dundas. The Brantford gentlemen were equally ignorant of the project which Mr. Pew et al. have under way, and said they had merely come to Hamilton to have a conference with them.

Ambitious City Notes.

HAMILTON, March 20.—John Dickenson was to-day elected secretary-treasurer of the South Wentworth Agricultural Society and C. R. Davis was chosen secretary of the Central Fair Board, both offices having been made vacant by the death of the late Jonathan Davis.

At the Police Court to-day Susan Knoll charged John E. Harris with obtaining $8.50 from the Grand United Order of Oddfellows by fraud. The case was adjourned until to-morrow.

Last night about 11.30 Levi Potruff of 7 Wood-street east died very suddenly of apoplexy or heart disease. He had retired for the night, but, feeling unwell, got up to get a drink. He fell unconscious, and before a doctor arrived was dead. The deceased was about 40 years of age, and leaves a wife and several children.

About 180 or 200 men gathered at the City Hall to-day to try to get tickets for work on the brick sewer to be built in York-street from Inchbury to Queen. Twenty men were started on the job yesterday and 40 more were given tickets this morning, leaving more than 100 men anxious but unable to get work.

Partly Gave Up.

"In the year 1885 I coughed for six months, and having unsuccessfully tried many remedies, I partly gave up, thinking I had consumption. At last I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, less than one bottle of which cured me, leaving me as well as ever I was." Henry W. Carse, Wabash, Ont. 2w10d.

A High Valuation.

"If there was only one bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil in Manitoba, I would give one hundred dollars for it," writes Philip H. Brant, of Monteith, Manitoba, after having used it for a severe wound and for frozen fingers, with, as he says, "astonishing good results." 2w10d

CHAPTER IV.

THE HORROR IN THE NIGHT.

The figure (which now stood impressively still) arose to an imposing height, and was forced to bow in entering the low doorway, a circumstance adding to its general frightfulness. It appeared possessed of bodily substance, and yet seemed again to consist of only a frame work of bones. Perhaps this idea was heightened by the intrusiveness of the head, which was turned toward Beverlin, transfixing him. The head was plainly that of a human skull, the jaws of which chattered up and down incessantly as if from intense cold, while the hollow of the eyes emitted, instead of the human glance, a strange, red, restless glitter, not unlike that seen in ruby tinsel. Depending from the head, under the confinement of a peculiar crown like affair which encircled the cranium, giving forth frequent green sparks like forked snakes' tongues, fell a long veil mantle of purple material, down on to the gibbet like shoulders. The shoulders were further covered with a cape composed of innumerable links of iron, which, working into each other, produced the constant metallic sound to which he had been harkening. A shadowy drapery seemed to enshroud the lower figure, and he became cognizant of long, lank hands without flesh, and feet heavily pendant with chains, which gave out a harsh, scraping clank with every movement. The hands appeared to be dripping and reeking with human blood.

"Very spectacular! Very fine indeed!" muttered Beverlin, summoning some of the bravado of skepticism to his aid, yet inwardly wrought up to an inconceivable pitch. "Quite the proper thing indeed!" (striving to calm himself in speech and thus rid himself of the horrible petrifaction stealing upon him); "the black cat, the sobbing woman, the—the —Oh!" He could say no more—language had forsaken him. He was not, however, entirely destitute of maneuver as yet, and bringing his revolver again into play he held it up, in desperation, and took a trembling aim. With a sudden move, immeasurably rapid, the figure approached him until the gory, dripping fingers hung suspended just above his starting eyeballs. Heavens! the next moment the blood must drop in murderous tokens upon his brow beneath those awful facts. An icy atmosphere surrounded him; he was enveloped in it; it chilled him to the marrow of the bones so that the uplifted pistol dropped incontinently upon the floor as if itself too paralyzed to explode. Beverlin, now more racked with absolute fear and apprehension than he had ever been with sciatic pain, shrank away terrified from his ghastly neighbor as if to evade imminent peril. The execution of these events had been so rapid that his wits seemed departed. In the meantime there had been no abatement of the other annoyances; everything was the rather intensified by the recent arrival. Quite as rapidly as it had advanced the figure withdrew from him a pace or so; he could hear those frightful jaws chattering as if grinding out anathemas, although none were spoken, one impressive index finger still continuing to point toward him as an unfortunate object for persecution. How long they continued in this mutual position Beverlin could not have known; it seemed cycles to him. He felt like one turned to a mummy or long disembodied. His head, when he attempted to turn it, appeared to work on a massive brass hinge grown rusty or an intricate combination lock. His eyes, fixed and immovable, had forfeited the power of winking any longer; his mouth was as if sinewed together, his limbs stiff and inflexible like frozen members. The only light in which his companion stood—that from the hall—was so uncertain and dim that had it not been for an occasional phosphorescent glow which emanated from the bony anatomy of the creature it must have continued quite indistinguishable in the general gloom. Beverlin, somewhat reassured by the slight barrier of distance thus interposed, sat up in his chair a little and tried to frame his mouth into a question. The faint, gasping sound emitted left no possible doubt as to his complete fright.

"Oh, Willie, Willie," came the wailing voice from down below, and now, Oh climax of horrors! the distinct sound of a struggle; crime was being committed and he a man, a defender, could not prevent it! He was powerless while foul murder was dealing upon pure innocence its cruel stroke.

Appearance of Royal Purple.

Beverlin drew himself together with a giant throe and [illegible] at his visitant, said with parched throat and incoherent voice: "Who are you? Tell me, and release me from this vile situation; I have no time to daily here—something must be done, I tell you; something must be done—don't you hear that awful cry—and that? Oh, don't you hear it! spirit, animal or devil, who are you and wherein lies your power?" The weird head with its Medusa crown moved up and down, affirmatively, while the drapery flapped about the skeleton ankles in a manner very damaging to the apparitional toilet. It seemed as if anything so diaphanous would be at once wafted to the distant ocean. Again the specter moved; but this time to the other side of the room, never removing its bloody finger of indication nor the fiery gaze of those cyclone eyes. It paused again.

My Toothache

is an exclamation heard every hour in the day. Toothache is the most common ailment of young and old, and in the aggregate inflicts more suffering than perhaps any other single complaint. A one minute cure is just what every person desires to possess. Nerviline—nerve pain cure—acts almost instantly in relieving the agony, and as a sample bottle affords a quantity sufficient for 100 applications, 10 cents fills the bill. Polson's Nerviline is the only positive remedy for toothache and all nerve pains. Sold by druggists and all dealers in medicine. 6w12d

Health Failing Fast.

"I was swollen from head to foot from dropsy of six months' standing, and my health was failing fast, but after taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters I am quite well, and think there is no medicine equal to B. B. B., and to it I remain a true friend." Joseph Herle, Linwood, Ont. 2w10d

A Dreadful Doom.

To be unable to satisfy hunger without being distressed by heartburn, indigestion, sick stomach, dizziness or faintness, seems a dreadful doom. All who suffer thus will find prompt relief and permanent cure in Burdock Blood Bitters. B. B. B. positively cures dyspepsia in any form. 2w10d is often fatal when not remedied in time. Leslie B. Nicholcon, 19 Wellesley avenue, Toronto, says:—"As a quick cure for croup, colds, sore throat, chilblains, etc., I can recommend Hagyard's Yellow Oil." It is a sure cure. Directions accompany each bottle. 2w10d

Common Croup

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture, intense itching and stinging, most at night, worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. St. Patrick's Day at Norwood.

At St. Paul's R. C. Church, Norwood, on Sunday, at the 10.30 o'clock mass, Rev. Father Conway delivered an address on St. Patrick, and special music was rendered. Irish selections were rendered by an instrumental trio—Miss Begley, organ; Mr. C. A. Brennan, violin, and Mr. W. Mullins, cornet. Mrs. C. A. Brennan also sang "Ava Regina," and Mr. McCarthy, "O Salutaris." The choir rendered Weber's Mass.

How Strange It is

To see people starting at the head of George street, passing all the grocery houses on the street, thereby giving them the go-by, and coming to a halt at the Opera House Block, to secure some of W. For the next few years we will sell goods away below other houses, so you can always rely on buying goods cheaper from us than elsewhere. Watch for our Saturday bargains and be sure to call.

Explanatory.

The Examiner is requested by Mr. Wainwright to say that his recent assignment to his creditors was wholly due to his having endorsed Dr. Kincaid's paper to the extent of $3,000. Mr. Wainwright was able to pay one hundred cents on the dollar on his own personal liabilities, but when he was forced to pay Dr. Kincaid's paper to the amount of $3,000, he felt that in justice to his creditors he should make an assignment. All his debts for which he was responsible in the ordinary way of business, he was fully able to meet.

Smoke Gladstone, 5 for 25c. at Legros'. Cheap smokers should use Legros' Best, 2 for 5c.; very fine imported cigars, 3 and 4 for 25c. He is selling all best Havana cigarettes that cost 15c. per packet, at 10c. El Padre, 4 for 25c.; Creme de la Creme, 4 and 5 for 25c.

Police Paragraphs.

Constable Stewart's eye is improving steadily and only time and care are required to secure its complete restoration.

Old William O'Brien, who lives in Ashburnham, was found by P. C. Adams last night near the old flour mills, where he had hung himself up on a wire fence. Being enable to take care of himself, the constable brought him to the station. This morning he was dismissed by the magistrate.

A row took place near the market square about one o'clock this morning amongst some young men who were attending a dance at the "stone front." In the quarrel, which was over a dollar, one of them was pretty badly beaten, but as he would not lay any complaint the police, who heard the noise of the fracas and dispersed the crowd, did not feel justified in pushing it.

The Objects of Lent,

And How They May be Attained—A Splendid Address on the Subject.

Rev. R. J. Moore, of St. George's, Toronto, was the special preacher in St. John's church last night. The large congregation was delighted with his sermon on "Lent, its objects and how attained." Rev. Mr. Moore possesses a melodious voice and pleasing address, and speaks with ease and force. He took for his text the 46th and 48th verses of the second chapter of St. Luke, in which the parents of Jesus find Him in the temple. The speaker said that many conscientious and earnest Christians object to Lent and other set seasons of the church and to the forms which the church employed, but they do so from a misapprehension as to the objects aimed at and a misunderstanding of the means employed. The season of Lent is systematized and made definite Christian discipline, so that there was a time in the life of every man who observed it in which he could say he had made a special effort in the religious part of his life. The tendency was for men to become so engrossed in business and for women to become so occupied with domestic cares that religion became practically excluded from their lives, and if they allowed this state of affairs to exist they became mere toiling machines for the world. Our Lord's injunctions were still, 'Come ye into the desert place and rest awhile." They should take some time when they could be free from business or care, and give it to the contemplation of Christ and their own personal spiritual needs. And if they were to contemplate they must first seek Him out. The speaker directed particular attention to the search which the parents made for Jesus, and after three days they find Him. So Christians might still find Christ in His church where two or three were gathered together in His name. Rev. Mr. Moore said people did not appreciate their privileges of gathering together in Christ's house, not only on Sunday, but on other days of the week as well. One indication of finding Christ was the desire to bring others into the church. Thus, when St. Andrew had found Christ, the first thing he did was to call his own brother Peter. Here the speaker strongly urged that those who appreciated the services and worship of the church, should make practical efforts to induce others to take advantage of the same privilege, who, through habits of negligence or lack of comprehension were not attendants at any house of prayer. Again, Christ must be sought as His parents sought Him, "sorrowing," with not only an earnest desire but oftimes with a broken heart. The heart must be sorrowing for its own indifference and frequently for its own pain, for there were those who, being crushed by the world, must approach Christ in that spirit. The speaker further drew attention to other forms of the church. He reminded his hearers that in the passages he referred to, Christ had gone up to Jerusalem for the purpose of being made a "son of the law," as the Jewish term put it. He was 12 years of age when He attained the right to eat the Passover, which corresponds to the present rite of confirmation in the church. In all the rites and ceremonies and seasons of the church they should remember that there was form as well as spirit. It was possible there could be a great deal of the form and little spirit, but the spirit could not exist apart from the form. The speaker urged that in all their services and rites and in this season of Lent they should infuse the spirit into the outside form in which it was intended to be expressed.

Assaulting an Officer.

Chas. W. Hazzard Sent to Gaol for One Month—A Warning to Young Men—Interference With a Constable is a Crime.

Only one month in town, a stranger, and already in gaol. Drink did it. Charles Wesley Hazzard came to Peterborough from Bowmanville a few weeks ago, and has since been working at his trade as moulder in the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company's Works. He is a young man of splendid physique and a good mechanic, but while in a drunken passion Monday night he committed the crime for which he is now languishing in prison. He felt the disgrace keenly, for when the sentence was pronounced relegating him to the shades of Castle Nesbitt for thirty days, he bowed his head upon his arms and wept. He is beginning to realize that the way of the transgressor is hard, and the knowledge is most bitter fruit. It is to be hoped the lesson will be an effective one, and not only prevent him from again assaulting a police officer, but, as the magistrate remarked, that the example made in his case may deter others from committing a like offence.

The case was tried at the police court this morning and excited great interest. The Examiner has already published an account of the affair, so that a rehash of the evidence will not be necessary. P. C. Stewart told of his encounter with Hazzard Monday night. The prisoner was sitting on a doorstep, having just come out of Welsh's restaurant, when the officer came along, was assisting him to rise when Hazzard jumped on him and tried to throw him down. Falling in this he deliberately jammed his thumb in the constable's eye and gouged it badly. Patrolman Gordon corroborated Constable's Stewart's evidence, but the four young men who were with him and interfered with the officer say that the affair was all an accident, and that Hazzard had no intention of doing anything more than resist his attempted arrest. The constable, on the other hand, says he did not intend to arrest the prisoner, but merely to assist him to his feet and start him home; but the latter, being drunk, resented the interference and savagely attacked him, with the result already know. The magistrate, in delivering sentence, commented severely upon the prisoner's brutal conduct in deliberately gouging the constable's eye, and sentenced him to one month in gaol at hard labor for assault. The other charge which had been laid against the prisoner he would not push further in view of his previous conviction. The prisoner, when the handcuffs were put on him, cried and sobbed in court before being taken away.

His companions, Messrs. Whitehair, Dow and Robertson, were let off with a reprimand from the magistrate, who told them they were guilty of a serious offence in resisting the officer while in the discharge of his duty; furthermore, if they were called upon by an officer for assistance they were guilty of a crime in refusing to help him. The charge against them was dropped.

County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution in the case; Mr. W. A. Stratton defended the prisoner.

St. John's Church Notes.

While in town Rev. R. J. Moore was the guest of Dr. Boucher. He returns to Toronto to-night.

The special preacher next week will be Rev. J. P. Lewis, of Grace church, Toronto.

This afternoon the first confirmation is being held in St. John's church for women and girls. To-morrow night the first class for men and boys will be held in Rev. Mr. Kenrick's rooms at 8 o'clock.

The committee of the Young Men's Guild appointed at the meeting Tuesday night will meet to-morrow evening in Mr. A. P. Poussette's office at 8.30 o'clock. A general meeting of the Guild will be held in the school room next Monday evening. Rev. Mr. Moore reports excellent work done by the St. Andrew's Brotherhood (a similar institution) in his parish, a society which has been in operation for some time. Their meetings are most interesting and church work has been advanced in every direction through the efforts of the young men in the Brotherhood.

Trial for Fraud.

Paxton Brown, who was brought in from Dummer this week to stand his trial for fraud, has elected to be tried summarily by Judge Weller. His trial will take place next Wednesday, 27th inst.

Lakefield Lumber Company.

Roy on the Strickland's "Limits."

This winter Mr. R. M. Roy took a trip to the Strickland's timber limits and secured a series of capital photographic views. These, excellently finished, present striking pictures of these examples of our great lumbering industry. The views are of different "dumps" including about 30,000 logs, two-thirds of which are 16 feet long. In the Deer Bay region we have a striking picture of a 35,000 dump, on Strickland's Creek and on Long Lake a lofty dump, a veritable avalanche of lofty piled logs. A view of one dump on Eel's Creek, shows 15,000 logs. On Jack's Creek two splendid views of a magnificent dump were secured. There are on this creek fully 100,000 logs, including 60,000 of Gilmour's. On Jack's Lake a view is given of a grand dump of about 20,000 logs, the finest the Strickland's have ever cut. These and other views include pictures of over 80,000 out of the 120,000 logs cut this season by the Stricklands, which involved the employment of between 150 and 200 men and from 60 to 80 teams. Additional views are two of a shanty placed in the midst of a dense pine forest, which is now swept away by the lumberman's axe, leaving only a few shaky, worthless pines to represent the magnificent primeval forest; and another of the interior of the shanty—the typical winter home of the lumbermen; and one of Mr. J. E. McIntyre's crag-set summer cottages on Stony Lake, completes the list of a series of striking and faithful photographic views. The ordinary stay-at-home citizen can hardly, without going into details, going over the grounds or viewing a series of views like those caught and fixed by Mr. Roy's artistic camera, form any approximate idea of the extent, importance, and, withal, romantic nature of lumbering industries of Canada.

The Lakefield lumber company's men are withdrawn from the limits but will be sent up soon to start the logs in the "dumps" down to the front. The company's mills at Lakefield have begun sawing on their reserve stock from last season. They expect to cut ten million feet this season. Their present winter cut of logs was all on their Burleigh limits, near their mills at Lakefield. The first of the drive is expected to reach Lakefield early in May, so that the mills will have continuous cutting from now till the end of the season.

Golden Wedding.

1839—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Howson—1889.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Howson, of Otonabee, celebrated that unusual event in the lives of wedded persons—the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage—their golden wedding, on Monday evening, March 18th, 1889. The real wedding took place in Peterborough, at the residence of the late Thomas Poole, Brock street, on March 18th, 1839. It was celebrated by Rev. Thos. Poole, and at that date spring had come, and the roads were dry, the wedding tour to their present home having been taken in waggons. At the celebration on Monday last, there were present over forty guests including four sons with their wives and two daughters with their husbands, and twenty grand children. The presence of a sister of Mr. Howson, from Toronto, relict of the late James Medcalf, ex-M.P., Toronto, was a notable event in the family. Rev. A. McFarlane, of Keene, and wife, as well as relatives and neighbours were present. An address, pertinent to the occasion, was read by Mr. J. W. Howson, the oldest son, and a large number of useful and valuable presents were given, that of Mrs. Medcalf being particularly worthy of the warm admiration it evoked. After a sumptuous supper the party enjoyed themselves in the usual social manner till midnight, the bride and bridegroom taking an active part in all the festivities. They are respectively 73 and 69 years of age, and are hale, hearty and active—both retaining their physical and mental faculties in unimpaired condition. Mr. Howson is a staunch Reformer, and has brought up his family in the same righteous political belief, and even since their marriage, both have been active members of the Methodist church. The Examiner offers the most cordial golden wedding congratulations and indulges the hope—according to present indications not an idle one—to have the pleasure of chronicling the celebration of their "diamond" wedding twenty-five years hence.

News Nuggets.

—Latest reports state that Rev. Father Conway is quite recovered from his epileptic attack.

—A train load of lumber was shipped over the C.P.R. spur to-day from the Dickson mills.

—Street Inspector Pope has begun his annual street-cleaning. The market square was cleaned up to-day.

—Steps are being taken to circulate a petition among the people of Peterborough, praying the Minister of Justice to exercise clemency in the case of Mr. Robt. Wainwright, who was yesterday sentenced to one month's imprisonment for assault.

New Songs

The complete music and words of Rev. H. T. Crowley's song, "Papa, what would you take for me?" are on sale at the Peterborough Bookstore at 10 cents a copy. The frontis piece is a well executed engraving of little Mabel Hunter daughter of Rev. J. E. Hunter, Mr. Crowley's partner in evangelistic work. "The Garden of Prayer," words by C. Clifton Bingham and the music by Vernon Roy, is also on sale at the Peterborough Bookstore.

The Talk of the Town.

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 18 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

THE JESUIT QUESTION.

TO COME UP IN THE HOUSE NEXT TUESDAY.

List of Private Bills Put Through—Measures Which Have Received the Royal Assent—Other News From Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 20.—The debate on the Jesuits Estates Act now stands fixed for Tuesday next, so the House was informed this afternoon. Mr. Laurier having asked if a day had yet been agreed upon Sir John Macdonald replied that having received a formal communication from Mr. Laurier he had spoken to Col. O'Brien, who proposed to bring the matter up, and he was agreed that an opportunity should be given on Tuesday next, when a motion to go into committee of supply would be made.

After recess these private bills were read a third time and passed:

Respecting the Atlantic & Northwest Railway Company—Mr. Hall; with an amendment providing that the extension of time for completion shall terminate on Jan. 14, 1893, unless it is shown that $120,000 has been spent in the work.

Respecting the Alberta and Athabasca Railway Company and changing the name to the Great Northwestern Railway Company—Mr. Dayton.

Amending the act incorporating the Quebec Board of Trade—Mr. McGreevy.

Respecting the Kingston and Pembroke Railway Company and the Napanee, Tamworth and Quebec Railway Company—Mr. Kirkpatrick.

Incorporating the Northwestern Junction and Lake of the Woods Railway Company—Mr. Lariviere.

Amending the charter of incorporation of the Great Northwest Central Railway Company—Mr. Daly.

The Foresters' Incorporation.

The bill incorporating the Supreme Court of the Independent Order of Foresters was adopted in committee of the whole with unimportant amendments.

Mr. Paterson of Brant said there were two other orders of Foresters—the Canadian and Ancient—and it had been represented to him that if the Independent order got the incorporation now asked for the other orders might be debarred from obtaining incorporation under the somewhat similar titles which they bore. He believed that a deputation was about to visit Ottawa in the interests of these other societies and he therefore asked that the third reading should not be asked until Friday.

Mr. Jamieson, the promoter, agreed to this.

Mr. Hall said he had a letter officially stating that the Independent Order would have no objection to the other orders of Foresters securing incorporation under the names they now bore.

In explanation of the authority asked for the society to hold real property to the extent of $100,000 Mr. Jamieson explained that the headquarters of the order were to be in Toronto and they would probably want to put up a building of their own in that city.

Two Ways of Using Wealth.

Being a member of St. Andrew's Church,
I feel it my duty, in my very humble way, to thank Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls for the large, handsome gift given by her, wiping off every vestige of debt from said church.

Madam, I trust you will not think me bold,
The veil of worth a little to unfold.
Quite unassuming, plaudits you disdain,
Or praise expressed in ostentatious strain.
Poets, as a rule, are always wide awake—
Of generous acts they strict observance take;
Though dim my sight, it fetters not my thought
Your liberal hand inspires me to take note.

It is not our prerogative to know
Why God on some abundant wealth bestow.
Utter unworthy of His gifts or care,
And still He crowns them with a lavish share—
Their gold-trimmed soul can't comprehend His will.

He gave for good—with them it tends to ill—
He lends them riches for a proper use—
Their miser soul but holds them for abuse;
Their glittering pile seems but their frequent boast;
Both day and night their thoughts by them engrossed,
They shun the hungry, spurn off the distressed.
And clasp their wealth to their unfeeling breast
They worship gold, to wealth a menial slave,
Forgetting Him who them such blessings gave.
They grasp, they hoard till their o'erflowing purse—
Instead of blessing—seems a gnawing curse.
Their hands are closed to charitable need—
Their hearts are sold to everything but greed;
Wealth's alluring tramnels around their soul entwine,
Until they hourly worship at its shrine.

Not so with you for you possess the whole.
God unto you the better part has given;
Along with wealth, a feeling, generous soul,
Charity and love, the richest gifts of heaven.
Meek, unassuming, quite reserved your ways,
Sounds no self-trumpet with your acts of love;
Declining gently every form of praise—
Your alm not earth, but praises from above.
You are well worthy of such blessings sent,
On earth such beings seldom do we find,
Ready to share out blessings to them lent
With liberal hand and generous heart combined.
Riches were blessed when God, with bounteous hand,
Bestowed His wealth abundantly on you,
Whose nature feels and heaven-trimmed soul expand,
Prompting your actions and benevolence true.
No selfish alm moves nor controls your zeal,
Your every act unbias'd, spontaneous flows.
With pitying eye and loving heart you feel
For those oppressed, and mitigate their woes.
One gift so generous public thanks does claim;
Suffering humanity owns your angel hand—
The well, the sick, will venerate your name
Long as the Nicholls Hospital does stand.
Gifts, like your nature, liberal, free and broad,
Your place of worship you did not forget,
Your heaven-sent wealth, showered on the house of God—
Act magnanimous, wiped off every debt.
Not public only—but your private gifts
Sooth numerous hearts, unbounded good achieves;
The embarassed, unfortunate, downcast, lifts;
The hungry, sorrowing, and distressed, relieves.

Madam, your name shines as the noon-day sun;
Your deeds of love fall like the evening dew;
You wealth well used, you lasting praise have won—
Receiver blessed and twofold blessing you.
Your name is chiselled deep in hearts to dwell,
Lettered in love, to shine through time unmarred;
Those living monumen's your worth shall tell,
When you have gone to reap your rich reward.

Attention, Farmers.

Nurserymen's agents are now on the road canvassing for delivery next fall. Our friends, the farmers, should be careful to purchase their trees, vines, &c., from reliable agents, who represent reliable firms in the nursery business.

Two-thirds of the so-called nurserymen, both in Canada and the United States, are simply persons with an office, but own no nursery. They advertise extensively, and receive orders from the public, through their agents in cities, towns and distant parts of the country, but in reality are only dealers. They make their purchases from the actual nurserymen, and generally from stock that has been culled or stock a first-class nurseryman would not send to his own customers.

In many cases the trees and vines are named according to what has been ordered, but scarcely ever prove to be the variety or quality expected.

Such bogus dealers do not pack the stock properly for shipment, neglecting to moss or water the roots. It often lies around railway stations for weeks, and when unpacked in in some open shed, stable or barn, becomes totally dried out before the purchaser receives it.

Under such circumstances is it any wonder we hear of so many complaints, even against nurserymen and their agents, who are doing all in their power to advance the culture of first class fruit, suitable for the various sections of the Dominion, true to name, and delivered in a first class condition.

We now have the pleasure of informing our patrons and others that the well known nurseryman viz., Thos. W. Bowman proprietor of the Roobester Star Nurseries has opened an office at No. 348 Water street Peterborough, under the management of Mr. Chas. L. Trotter.

Mr. Bowman is a gentleman who has been in the nursery business for 27 years and can be thoroughly depended upon to give entire satisfaction to all parties desiring to plant either their orchards with hardy, first-class fruits, or decorate their frontages or lands with ornamental shrubs, roses, clematis, &c., having in his employ Mr. A. W. Strachan, who has been attending to this department for 17 years, and from his long experience, can give customers a correct idea what to plant, how to plant, and how to care for them when planted.

In regard to Mr. Bowman's responsibility, he respectfully refers you to any prominent business man in Rochester, or to the Trader's Bank, or any commercial agency. 1w1d

Young's Point.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. A. Dunn has leased Mr. C. Young's shingle mill for the season. Mr. Dunn thoroughly understands his business and no doubt will turn out first class shingles. The season's cut will be a large one.

Mr. R. Heard has purchased from Mr. Wm. Fair the imported Clydesdale stallion, "General Lee."

Mr. Sam. J. Anglesey while chopping a few days ago, had the misfortune to cut his leg below the knee which will lay him up for a few days.

Mr. C. Young lost a valuable young horse last week. Pneumonia was the cause of death.

A number of auction sales have taken place through the country during the last five weeks. The prices realized for stock are very low considering the season of the year.

DRESS GOODS

SATEUR CLOTH, commonly called HENRIETTA. It is almost a joke the way these Goods have jumped to popularity at a single leap, but it is now at the zenith, entrenched, fortified public favor decrees it. We have never had the like before under 90c., the price 75c. We are showing 36 distinct shades. Lift a fold, every ounce of the weight comes from good fine wool, honestly put together, by the yard stick 46 inches plump. Test the dye, every shade shows as evenly as the sun on a quiet pool, and are going out like the rolling sea—evenly and constantly. See them, they are on the move. In the last week, heaps of New Dress Goods have come in. The Spring gathering is at its flood. Take any sort you choose, Cottons or Woollens, Silks or Satins. Another family of Cashmeres. We show 15 Colorings, most of which are entirely new, 44 inches wide, price 50 cents.

Cast your eye to the end of our Dress Goods counter, and you will find a range of French Stuffs in 20 shades. We have never had the like before under 25c., but have bought them low and are selling them close price 20 cents.

Bradford Goods in stripes and checks, at 10 cents a yard, fresh goods, new colors.

Those wishing to have their dresses made up can have them done on the premises if necessary by our Dressmaker, Miss Mercier, who has given up her own business to take charge of this Department.

Artificial Flowers—They will gladden your eyes, perhaps cheer your hearts, and touch your pocket book. Gently have you noticed the progress in the art of making them so natural. They cheat you into touching or smelling to test their reality.

Lilacs, Tulips, Roses, Lilies of the Valley, to be worn in profusion on Millinery this season. Case after case of Black and Colored Straw Hats, Bonnets, Trimmings, &c., have arrived, in fact nearly all the Spring Millinery is now opened out and ready for inspection.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

A NUMBER OF BILLS READ A THIRD TIME AND PASSED.

The I. W. H. P. Pension Resolution Adopted—Sir John Thompson's Commercial Paper Bill Under Discussion.

OTTAWA, March 21.—The proposed increase in the salary of Toronto's postmaster was made the subject of a division of the House this afternoon. On the third reading of the bill amending the Civil Service Act, so as to authorize such an increase, Sir Richard Cartwright moved an amendment fixing $3200 as the maximum salary of a postmaster. The amendment was lost, 66 to 113. The bill was then read a third time and passed. The bill amending the Windsor-up Act was also read a third time and passed.

The resolution providing for certain amendments in the Customs Act, already enumerated, was considered in committee and adopted, and a bill founded upon it introduced. Among the most noteworthy provisions are those prohibiting the importation of any goods, except in railway carriage, during the night time or on statutory holidays without a permit and supervision; that the value for duty shall always include transportation charges and royalty payable, and that valuation by port appraisers may be reviewed by the Dominion Board.

Sir John Macdonald's resolution providing a system of pensions for the Northwest Mounted Police was adopted. There was considerable opposition caused by Hon. David Mills, who objected to any extension of the pension system and thought the Mounted Police were paid enough to admit of their pension allowance being collected from their daily pay.

The rest of the evening was spent in the discussion of Sir John Thompson's bill codifying and on certain points amending the laws relating to promissory notes and bills of exchange. Several members of the Opposition objected to going on with the bill because they said there would not be time for a proper discussion if the House was to adjourn by Easter, and Mr. Laurier said that if they could not prorogue by that time the chances were that the session would be extended for several weeks beyond.

Mr. Mitchell was amongst the most earnest in protesting against going on with the bill in a hurry, because he said there was a law suit in every line. Sir John Thompson decided to go on with the bill, however, and good progress was made with it, facilitated probably by the fact that the chamber contained little more than a quorum of members when the discussion was going on.

The House adjourned at 11.50.

A MILITARY DEPUTATION.

The Government Asked for a Grant to Bring Crack Regiments to Camp.

OTTAWA, March 21.—A deputation of military men from the west arrived in Ottawa to-day for the purpose of endeavoring to secure Government assistance towards bringing four city corps to camp to learn the new system of infantry drill just prescribed. The corps are the Queen's Own Rifles and Grenadiers of Toronto, the Thirteenth Battalion of Hamilton and the Dufferin Rifles of Brantford, and it is proposed that they should spend four days together on Niagara Common, an immense parade ground.

They first interviewed Sir Adolphe Caron, Minister of Militia. Colonel Dawson was chief spokesman of the deputation. He pointed out that the city corps, especially those of Toronto, where there was no drill shed or parade ground available, had no opportunity of learning the drill newly prescribed save by going into camp. The men were willing to give their time for nothing if the Government would pay for transport and subsistence. It was proposed that about 1200 men should take part and the Government grant asked was $3500. Major Carpenter, M.P., endorsed the application, as he did not see how the city corps could acquire the desired information without going into camp and giving a few days' hard work to it. Senator Macdonald also spoke in support of the application.

Sir Adolphe Caron said such a grant as asked for could not be taken out of the ordinary appropriations, and if special votes were proposed application would be very generally received from other places, whose requests could not consistently be refused. He was afraid that the Finance Minister or the Council would not consent to the expenditure involved. Colonel Otter said he thought if the Government would place the sum required in the estimates they would get general support from the House. Major Carpenter agreed with this. Colonel Dawson pointed out that similar applications from all city corps might be granted, and still the expenditure for 1889 would be less than for 1888, as a considerable reduction had been made in the estimates. Mr. Adam Brown said there was no body of men in Canada more deserving of encouragement than were the volunteers.

Sir Adolphe Caron said the proposition practically meant that certain corps should have sixteen days' drill instead of twelve as allowed at present. He believed himself that twelve days was too short a period and had always advocated sixteen days, but had not been able to secure sufficiently large appropriations to meet the outlay. He would lay the application before his colleagues, though he must say he thought there was little prospect of success.

The deputation and their parliamentary friends next waited upon Sir John Macdonald to make the same application to him. Having heard Col. Dawson, Col. Otter, Mr. Small, Mr. Brown and others, Sir John said he was afraid that in this year of retrenchment the Government could not grant the desired appropriation. "We must consult the military authorities, though," he added, "and I will speak to the Minister and to General Middleton. He's a good practical man." Being further pressed, on the score that the new drill could not possibly be learned this year at city headquarters, Sir John joconsly remarked that he would arrange it with President Harrison that there should be no war this year.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Labor Topics—Mr. Kenny's Motion Touching the C.P.R. Bill.

OTTAWA, March 21.—Messrs. Elliott, Labor Representative at the Capital, Wright of Toronto and Casey of St. Catharines waited upon the Minister of Justice to-day to request a change in the Seamen's Agreement Act so as to admit of the issue of a writ of certiorari after conviction under the act, permitting a review of the judgment rendered. Sir John Thompson expressed himself as favorably impressed with the arguments of the deputation.

Though he has not quite recovered his health General Master Workman Powderly has signified his intention of giving the promised lectures on labor topics at Toronto and Ottawa. He is not likely to speak elsewhere for the present. His Toronto lecture will be on April 13 and he will lecture at Ottawa two days later.

Mr. Cook's bill to compel owners of elevators to provide proper precautions to prevent accidents came to grief to-day in the select committee to which it had been referred. They came to the conclusion that the subject was one for provincial legislation.

Mr. Kenny of Halifax has given notice that he will move, on consideration of the Canadian Pacific Railway bill in committee of the whole, a resolution granting the powers asked for by the bill only on consideration that the railway shall expend $100,000 before Jan. 1, 1890, on the short line railway between Montmagny and Harvey and Salsbury and that the company shall agree to complete this line within two years from that date.

Sir John Macdonald is credited with the statement that when the disallowance of the Jesuits Estates Act comes to a vote his party will vote solidly with him with the exception of Messrs. Wallace, McNeill, McCarthy, Tyrwhitt and O'Brien and that there will be only about twenty votes cast on the side of disallowance.

The Weavers in Fighting Mood.

FALL RIVER, March 21.—The weavers to-day voted to continue the strike.

Given the Three Months' Hoist.

HALIFAX, March 22.—The House of Assembly, by a vote of 19 to 18, has given the three months' hoist to the proposition to allow Dominion Government officials to vote at municipal elections in Nova Scotia.

Sir Charles Tupper arrived from Ottawa yesterday afternoon. He is the guest of Col. Clarke, and will remain till Saturday.

TORONTO YOUNG LIBERALS.

Speeches from Two Maritime Provinces M. P.'s on Trade Relations with the States.

TORONTO March 22.—Hon. L. H. Davies, M.P. for Queen's, P.E.I., of whom a good likeness is given below, and A. H. Gillmor, M. P. for Charlotte, N.B., were the chief speakers at the meeting under the auspices of the Young Liberals in Shaftesbury Hall last night. President J. S. Willison occupied the chair and on the platform were seated H. W. Darling, Robert Jaffray, Ald. Ald. McDougall, Richard Caddick, Hon. A. S. Hardy, M.L.A., G.R. Smith, M.L.A., Thomas Gibson, M. L. A., Dr. J. W. McLaughlin, M. L. A., G. Mercer Adams, Thomas Moor, George Kerr, jr.

HON. LOUIS HENRY DAVIES.

paid a tribute to Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, Hon. Edward Blake and Hon. Wilfred Laurier. He compared the respective politics of Mr. Mackenzie and Sir John Macdonald with reference to the Canadian Pacific Railway and asked why it was that a country possessing the undoubted advantages that Manitoba and the Northwest did could not draw settlers. He could only find one reason—vicious government and the too quick construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway. What the Northwest wanted was increased population and increased wealth. And what was true of the Northwest was equally true of the rest of Canada. The populatios statistics of Canada were alarming. Instead of holding our natural increase the country was losing. Continuing Mr. Davies said:

How was population and capital to be got for Canada? By throwing down the customs barriers between this country and the United States. That country was our natural market. The two countries that we traded with were Great Britain and the United States. Our trade with the United States was slightly greater than that with Great Britain, and our trade with the rest of the world was comparatively slight. Where then should we look for an extension of trade but with a country that was already consuming our products largely and which was developing an increased ability to consume them? An abolition of the customs houses would promote that trade. As a proof, see the results of the reciprocity treaty between 1854 and 1866. The first year's trade amounted to $14,280,763, while the trade in 1866 reached the enormous sum of over $64,000,000. Every Province in the Dominion would reap advantage of the re-enactment of that treaty. They made efforts to restore the treaty, but the people of the United States would not consent to it unless it took the scope of a complete, broad free trade. This they were now advocating, confident that the Dominion at large would reap great benefit from its adoption. Manufacturers that were worth having could compete against United States manufacturers. It was only the sop fed manufacturers who could not hold up their heads with the manufacturers across the line.

Mr. Davies said the Liberal party were not disloyal but were willing and anxious to work out their political destiny under the flag that now floated over them. [Applause and cheers.] He did not think that any man was disloyal to the Empire who sought to bring about a better feeling between Great Britain and the United States. When the great struggle which was impending on the European continent, which all powers there were preparing for and which England was straining every nerve to be in readiness for—when this conflict came he wanted to see the United States give the Mother Country her moral and material support. [Cheers and applause.] The disloyalty clause was nonsense. It meant nothing. If Unrestricted Reciprocity were ushered in it would mean an era of prosperity for Canada, progression of the country and contentment of the people.

Mr. Davies closed his address, which lasted nearly two hours, with an appeal for closer commercial relations between the two great Anglo-Saxon peoples which inhabit this continent.

Mr. Gilmour was next called up, and he kept the meeting laughing for nearly half an hour. He said it appalled him to attempt to speak before such a large audience, especially as it was composed of faces he had never seen before. Down in his county he had never spoken to more than 50 people at a time, generally in a cross-roads school house, and he knew every man in the room. [Laughter]. Then Mr. Gilmour told a number of funny stories. He said he was not a party man and he likened himself to the Irishman, who on giving instructions to be buried between his two dead wives, told the grave-digger to be sure and give his head a strong cant towards "Biddy." He likewise had a strong cant for the Liberals.

Mr. Gillmor talked seriously for a few minutes about the importance of the trade relations between Canada and the United States, said the two peoples could trade freely without being politically united and much good would result to all.

Hon. A. S. Hardy congratulated the Young Liberals on their enterprise in bringing the gentlemen to Toronto. A vote of thanks was given the speakers and the meeting broke up with cheers for the Queen and the members from down by the sea.

The Third Party.

TORONTO, March 22.—Canada's New Party, as it is officially called, opened a convention here yesterday afternoon in one of the rooms of the Y.M.C.A. Rev. Dr. Sutherland is president of the council and Mr. Wm. Manns of Parkdale is secretary. Committees were appointed on Finance, Platform, etc., and subscriptions amounting to $400 taken for the campaign fund. A public meeting was held at the Pavilion in the evening at which ex-Governor St. John of Kansa, J. W. Bengough and others spoke, and resolutions were passed, condemning the grant to the Jesuits as unconstitutional and disloyal; protesting against the course of the Dominion Government with reference thereto; advising the taking of steps to test the constitutionality of the act in the courts; condemning the attitude of the Ontario Government in regard to the use of the French language and Roman Catholic text-books in the common schools of eastern Ontario; hailing the advent of a new party, and deprecating in the strongest possible manner the attitude of both political parties in the Dominion Parliament toward the question of prohibition, as shown by the recent debate on Mr. Jamieson's resolution.

Navigation has been opened at the west end of Lake Erie.

A number of additional Provincial University examiners were appointed last night.

The Franchise Bill is expected to come up in the House at Ottawa to-day.

A little girl, 6 years old, fell from a fast express train on the M.C.R. yesterday near Attercliffe, and was not missed until the train reached Welland. She was found in a pool of water in the ditch, conscious and with no bones broken.

THEIR OCCUPATION GONE.

THE ASSEMBLY TO BE PROROGUED TO-MORROW AFTERNOON.

The House Cleans Off Its Slate—Bills That Were Passed to a Third Reading—The Railway Resolutions.

TORONTO, March 22.—In the Assembly yesterday morning there was a discussion on Mr. Balfour's bill to amend the Ontario Election Act. Mr. Wood of Hastings moved that the bill be referred back to committee to be so amended that for members of this House there shall be a secret ballot. The Commissioner of Crown Lands and others spoke against the amendment, which was supported by by Mr. Willoughby, Mr. Creighton and other members of the Opposition. The House divided and the amendment was lost, 30 to 60.

In the afternoon Mr. Creighton, on behalf of Mr. Meredith, who was absent, brought up the case of Mr. S. M. Davis, who in July, 1888, in the town of Goderich, was assaulted by Mr. Macdonald, Deputy-Clerk of the County of Huron. Davis, he stated, was now going round on crutches. The Attorney-General replied that both parties had been drinking at the time which accounted for the affair having taken place, and an action was brought by Davis against Macdonald, and he had received some slight damages, and Mr. Mowat said that he had not neglected to give the matter attention. He felt sorry for Davis, who wished him to dismiss Macdonald from his position. Then the Attorney-General was not disposed to do. He was an efficient officer and had always attended to his duties.

The supplementary estimates brought down on Wednesday, amounting to $148,142, were considered in committee and adopted. On motion to concur in the estimates for public institutions, however, Mr. Creighton moved that the following words be added to the motion: "But while I willing to grant all necessary sums for the maintenance of our public institutions, this House is of opinion that the system heretofore pursued of purchasing large quantities of supplies for these institutions without public competition opens the way for gross favoritism and extravagance, is not in the public interest and ought to be discontinued."

Mr. Harcourt moved an amendment to the amendment, that all after the word "that" in the resolution be struck out and the following inserted: "There be added to the original resolution these words; and whilst concurring on such resolutions this House desires to express the opinion that, in regard to supplies for the Institutions which cannot advantageously be supplied by tender, the purchasing officers should insist that where wholesale quantities are purchased, only current wholesale prices should be charged.

This was carried by a vote of 50 to 28 and a bill was at once introduced by Mr. A. M. Ross giving effect to the estimates and passed.

Mr. O'Connor's bill to provide for the sale of land for taxes by the local municipalities was on motion for its second reading so strongly opposed that he consented to withdraw it.

During the afternoon the bill giving effect to the railway resolutions, which was read a second time on Wednesday, was rushed through committee and read a third time.

These bills also received their third reading:

Respecting the City of Toronto—E. F. Clarke
To confirm a certain agreement between the City of Kingston and certain railway companies—Mr. Metcalf.
To amend the Ontario Election Act—Mr. Balfour.
Respecting the administration of justice in certain cases—(the Attorney-General).
To amend the Division Courts Act—Mr. Gibson (Hamilton).
To amend the Public Health Act—Mr. Gibson (Hamilton).
To amend the Law of Slander—Mr. French.
Respecting Live Stock Insurance—Mr. Bishop.
To make further provision respecting the property of religious institutions—the Attorney-General.
Respecting the Port Arthur Light and Power Company—Mr. Cosmos.

At the evening session there was the customary display of festivity which accompanies the closing hours of a parliamentary session. The members concluded their relaxation by singing the "National Anthem" and "Auld Lang Syne."

To-morrow at 3 p.m. the House will be prorogued.

TORONTO TOPICS.

Another Serious Charge Against Andy Maloney, the Montreal Sport.

TORONTO, March 22.—Andy Maloney, the Montreal Gambler, is in deeper water than the trouble caused by his recent arrest for the larceny of $14,000 worth of jewelry. Hattie Johnson, a woman of the town, claims to be Mrs. Maloney first, last and all the time, as against a second claimant who not only holds the title but in proof thereof has produced a pledge of affection which she claims to be the legitimate offspring of Mr. Maloney. Mrs. Maloney, alias Johnston, is so incensed against Andy for his alleged infidelity that she has initiated bigamy proceedings against him.

Mr. Frank Arnoldi, solicitor for Assignee G. M. Gardner, has been over at Buffalo endeavoring to get Burgess, the Mimico canning man, to disgorge some of the money that he carried off and to get him to come back to Toronto to assist in winding up the estate. The result is that there will be returned immediately to the estate about $14,105 of the money, and that as soon as the creditors who are pursuing Burgess are aware of the fact he will be released and return to his friends.

Sir Alexander Campbell had a slight stroke of facial paralysis the other day.

Sixty architects from various parts of the Province met at the Queen's yesterday and organized themselves into "The Ontario Association of Architects," one of the objects of which is to secure legislation regulation the practice of the profession. These officers were chosen: President, W. G. Storm, Toronto; vice-presidents, K. Arnold, Ottawa; Geo. J. Durant, London; James Balfour, Hamilton. Secretary, S. H. Townsend, Toronto; treasurer, E. B. Dick, Toronto. The next meeting will be held in Toronto on the third Wednesday of November.

Detective John Caddy last night proceeded to one of the leading hotels and arrested John Macdonald of Paisley, Scotland, on a charge of embezzlement, at once cabling the news to the interested parties in that town. It is alleged that Macdonald, who is an auctioneer, was entrusted with a quantity of goods to sell on commission. He disposed of the goods, but failed to make a proper return, taking a jaunt to Canada instead.

Six Boys Escape from the Industrial.

MIMICO, March 21.—To-night about 7.30 six of the largest boys escaped from the Victoria Industrial School. They were not missed until they had got a good start. Their names are: Graham who comes from Dunsville, Abraham from Stratford, Warner from Lindsay, Churchill, Toser and Risley from Toronto. They were dressed when they left in the school uniform of gray with red stripes on the pants and pantaloons.

HINDRANCES TO FAITH.

Mr. Crossley Rectifies Some Common Errors.

Rev. Mr. Hunter Speaks of a Sudden Conversion and Speaks Pretty Plainly to Christian Workers—Enquiry Rooms Instituted—Meetings for Men and Children.

Late-comers were very kindly treated at St. Paul's Church, Thursday night. By the time the services began all the seats were filled and the doorways were blocked, but Mr. Crossley very thoughtfully invited those standing up to move down the sides of the church, where they could have the walls to lean against. It was much more comfortable for them. It has come to be pretty generally known that after half-past seven there are slight chances for one getting a seat, and the very anxious ones are in their places at seven o'clock and before. The interest and enthusiasm in these services are unabated.

Thursday night's services were liberally interspersed with song. It was the regular "song sermon" night. Mr. Crossley sang several solos, "The Handwriting on the Wall" by special request, and a couple of others appropriate to the occasion. He and Miss Nellie Wrighton also rendered a duet, "The Glad Message."

Enquiry rooms have been set apart in the rear of the church, where anxious seekers may meet the ministers or Christian friends and have their doubts and anxieties on religious matters set at rest. Rev. Mr. Hunter again last night urged Christians to work more for their Master, and move out amongst the unconverted and speak to them about their souls. They had much to be thankful for, and one way for them to show their gratitude was by working for God. "I don't know what the Lord will set some of you Christians at when you get to heaven," he said; "and some of you will have to work pretty hard to get there. The Christian that does not know how to speak to another person about his soul doesn't know much about Jesus." Mr. Hunter urged them to get right down to work. Another way they could help along God's cause was by buying copies of the papers containing reports of the meetings and sending them to their friends. There was a great interest being taken in these meetings and everyone wanted to hear about them. He had known a great revival to have been started through a newspaper report. There was no telling what good they might do.

Mr. Hunter spoke from the first ten verses of the 19th chapter of Luke, containing the account of the remarkable conversion of the publican Zacchæus, who being short of stature, climbed a tree that he might see Jesus as he passed by. Zacchæus was rich, which was no sin; but the sin of being rich consists in the man making an idol of his wealth. There was no heaven for a man who was piling up the almighty dollar with no thought of God. We should consecrate our wealth as well as ourselves to the service of God. How some rich Methodists shout hallelujahs and pray at a revival meeting. Mr. Hunter said, as if they would fly right away to heaven had they wings. But ask them for a dollar for the missionary cause and they will not be so rich. It is easy to touch their hearts but not their purses. True religion, however, touched both.

The Lord saw Zacchæus in the tree and said to him: "Make haste and come down, for to-day I must abide at thy house." Mr. Hunter said he liked that. Jesus abiding in the house with him. Some people have Him for a transient guest; they like to have Him around when there is sickness, but when everything is running along all right they have a dance and crowd Him right out the back door. Mr. Hunter urged those who had not Jesus abiding with them to take Him home that night, erect a family altar and rejoice in His presence.

Some people don't believe in sudden conversions, Mr. Hunter said; but right here was an illustration in the case of Zacchæus. He was up a tree, but before he could get down to the ground he was converted; for "he made haste, and came down, and received Him joyfully." There were some in the congregation doubtless who had come to the meeting to hear the music or the speaking, or to see the crowd, careless and indifferent of their souls; but, as in the case of Zacchæus, God was going to meet them and convert them, no matter how bad they might be. Zacchæus, the Bible reads, was "the chief among the publicans." But he was converted, and a proof of it was shown in his spirit of restitution. He said: "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken anything from any man by false accusation, I restore him four fold." That was what Christians should do to-day, go around and pay their old doctor's and grocer's bills; that would be practical proof of their conversion. Jesus rewarded Zacchæus' zeal, for He said: "This day is salvation come to this house."

Mr. Hunter pointed out three things for his hearers to pin up in their memories—first, Zacchæus desires to see Jesus; second, his difficulty in seeing Jesus; third, his determination—the three D's. Here were three S's—Jesus saw his desire, Jesus spoke to him and Jesus saved him. In conclusion Mr. Hunter urged his unconverted hearers to trust in the promise that "the Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which is lost," and to seek pardon for their sins at the mercy seat.

Peter was called to preach very unexpectedly to a Gentile congregation, Mr. Crossley said in begining his address, and the occasion was a remarkable one. Not one of the whole number present was a Christian except Peter and those with him, and before the service closed every one of the entire assembly was converted. Stranger still, no sermon was preached, Peter only beginning it and announcing the text when, "While Peter yet spake the words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word." The wonderful conversion is spoken of in the tenth chapter of Luke, and the light fell upon the hearers of the word as Peter spake the words of the 43rd verse: "To him give all the prophets witness, that through his name whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins." Peter intended to preach a sermon, but when they were all converted they instead turned the service into a praise meeting. There was no reason, Mr. Crossley said, why many of those who were listening to him should not receive the Holy Ghost even as the Gentiles did. There was sufficient inducement to lead every thoughtful person to the Cross.

How are we to accept remission of our sins? As the text points out—by faith; by believing in His name. Faith was the simplest act of the human mind; it was as natural to believe as to breathe, when one was in a position to believe. There were, however, a few hindrances to faith, and these Mr. Crossley proceeded to point out.

First, a lack of repentance kept many persons from the saving faith. Their repentance is not complete; they hold some things in reserve, and in that case it is impossible to believe. Mr. Crossley impressed upon his hearers the necessity of entire yielding to Christ, without the slightest reservation and, no matter how heinous, their sins would be remitted. He sang a solo, the theme of which was, "Whosoever will may come."

A second hindrance was in entertaining a wrong idea of what one had to believe. Four out of five Christians, Mr. Crossley said, would teach the unsaved and endeavor to make them believe that they are saved in order that they may be saved. As well say, believe you are in Texas and you will be there. Instead of believing or trying to believe that you are saved, Mr. Crossley said, believe that Jesus saves you, and as you believe you will be saved. Some Christians tell unconverted men, who say they don't feel that they are saved: "Keep on believing your are saved and you will be saved." They might as well keep on believing that they were home and expect to be there. They must believe that Jesus saves them before they can be saved.

The third hindrance, in trying to believe, was a formidable one. Faith is of spontaneous nature, and no amount of trying would induce faith unless one was in a position to believe; and in that case, one could not help believing. The faith would come to them without effort at all. Then "trying" to believe implied a doubt of God's promise. "Whosoever believeth on Him shall have remission of sins," the text says; yet many people try to believe that they are saved before they believe that Jesus saves them. If they really believed Jesus' word they could no longer doubt; how great then was the folly of "trying" to believe.

Still another——hindrance was in persons seeking to feel they are saved before they seek the Lord. They seek assurance instead of the Lord; peace instead of pardon. Ninety-nine out of a hundred are seeking to feel the assurance of peace in their hearts before they receive it. As one would drink water to quench thirst, instead of trying to believe that their thirst was slaked before drinking, so should the water of life be sought and drunk before peace can be secured. In their unsaved state sinners felt the need of Jesus; come to Him and their sins will be remitted. Mr. Crossley urged them not to hesitate, and pointed out that nearly all those who come into the enquiry room or go forward in the meeting and are saved the first night are those who decide to act without hesitation. Some don't like to stand up or go forward or otherwise make their needs known, but in being so backward they were neglecting their opportunities and in danger of never being saved the longer they deferred.

In conclusion Mr. Crossley sang "Jesus is calling you now," and Mr. Hunter exhorted sinners desirous of accepting the saving faith to seek Jesus at once.

NOTES.

Dr. Williams, ex-President of the Bay of Quinte Conference, was on the platform.

A large number of special requests for prayer were read.

This afternoon a mass meeting of school children is being held in St. Paul's church.

Sunday afternoon at four o'clock a meeting for men only will be held in the opera house.

Mr. Hunter prayed for God's blessing on the Roman Catholic, and Episcopalian and other protestant churches, for the Salvation Army and all other organizations working for the good cause.

The Lost Atlantis.

For many centuries there has been a tradition of a long lost island called Atlantis.

The Greek geographers located it in the Atlantic Ocean, west of the north-west part of Africa and the Pillars of Hercules. The sea-kings of Atlantis are said to have invaded Europe and Africa, and to have been defeated by the Athenians.

All the legends agree that it was a vast island, of inexhaustible resources, and inhabited by a race of superior people. For ages this island has existed only in legendary lore. But now, when the light of modern research is turned full upon the investigation, behold the lost Atlantis at our very doors.

So the bigoted medical fraternity goes groping about in the dark. If they would investigate, they would behold the lost Atlantis at their very door. They experiment and dose with their injurious drugs, and with no person or laws to hold them accountable, they continue their bigoted, unjustified practice, staring into vacancy, imagining that they see in themselves an Esculapius.

Wrapped in ancient bigotry, they denounce any new ideas advanced by a layman or an opposition school as a fraud.

Why?

Because humanity will not be benefitted? Not at all, but because their specialism did not make the discovery.

Yet they concede that there is no remedy known to their materia medica that will cure an advanced kidney malady and the diseases arising therefrom—although many of them know from crowning proof that Warner's Safe Cure will—but unscrupulously treat symptoms and call them a disease, when in reality they know they are but symptoms.

A few of the more honest physicians admit that Warner's Safe Cure is a valuable remedy, and a great blessing to mankind, but say, in so many words, when asked why they do not prescribe it, that they cannot, according to their code.

The late eminent physician and writer, Dr. J. G. Holland, published in Scribner's Monthly, and shows his opinion of such bigotry, and no doubt was satisfied that Atlantis might possibly be discovered in a proprietary medicine, when he wrote editorially as follows:—

"Nevertheless it is a fact that many of the best proprietary medicines of the day were more successful than many of the physicians, and most of them, it should be remembered, were first discovered or used in actual medical practice. When, however, any shrewd person, knowing their virtue, and foreseeing their popularity, secures and advertises them, then, in the opinion of the bigoted, all virtue went out of them."

MR. CHAS. LEGROS now has a telephone in his tonsorial parlors for the convenience of ladies who require hairdressing done at their homes. Eczema, Itchy, Scaly Skin Tortures.

The simple application of "Swayne's Ointment," without any internal medicine, will cure any case of Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Piles, Itch, Sores, Pimples, Eczema, all Scaly Itching Skin Eruptions, no matter how obstinate or long standing. It is potent, effective, and costs but a trifle. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents. dw

Partly Gave Up.

"In the year 1885 I coughed for six months, and having unsuccessfully tried many remedies, I partly gave up, thinking I had consumption. At last I tried Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, less than one bottle of which cured me, leaving me as well as ever I was." Henry W. Carse, Wabash, Ont. 2w10d.

A High Valuation.

"If there was only one bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil in Manitoba, I would give one hundred dollars for it," writes Philip H Brant, of Montcith, Manitoba, after having used it for a severe wound and for frozen fingers, with, as he says, "astonishing good results." 2w10d

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. ROYAL PURPLE.

"You wished," spoke a voice like the echo of distant thunder dying away in caves, "you wished to know who I am! Hear, and know then, oh, unworthy scion of the lineage of Japhet, that I am indeed that one of whom you have long heard, read and lived in dread—but whom very few are privileged to behold; I am known to mortals by the name of His Despotic Majesty, King Royal Purple! My kingdom is all space, I know no limitations; I grow and fatten on the fears and tremors of credulous beings" (stretching out a long arm of bone devoid of flesh) "and my empire admits of no dispute or usurpation; it is absolute! The worms of the tomb are my courtiers, and the serpents of the wilderness the choicest ornaments of my kingly diadem!"

Beverlin perceived that the flapping drapery which enshrouded the gaunt creature was worm eaten and moldy to a shocking extent, and he fancied he detected the foul odor of decomposition. The thought sickened him. He could not dwell, however, upon any surmise, as, having ceased to speak, it again drew near to him! No, it has passed him; it has made the circuit of the room; once again it has accomplished it in that slow, clanking, horrible tread, unlike any other sound ever heard on sea or land; three times it has completed this act, and now again with that awe inspiring index, the icy specter again confronts him. He feels the iceberg vicinity; it seems to sear into his flesh like that intense cold which is almost heat. He feels the strange, unwonted stupor stealing over his senses, oblivion creeping to his relief; is he going to swoon? Come, brace up, this will never do! No use, no use; that cruel finger like the stroke of a pendulum marking for Fate descends slowly, slowly! It hangs long suspended over his drooping head; it has touched his full, bushy hair; the finger which is but a piece of death itself, traverses Beverlin's skull with slow, sure, circular measurement of survey, three times before it is finally withdrawn; and then, as when slowly uplifted, one vagrant drop of blood trickling down the cheek and mingling with the chestnut mustache, leaves a dark ruby discoloration and it has, at length, bespattered an unconscious victim! Beverlin has fallen precipitately out of his chair on to the inhospitable floor, where he lies insensible.

CHAPTER V.

THE RESULT.

It was about 7 o'clock the following morning when Dr. Carroll, whose professional engagements so frequently encroached upon his midnight repose, reined up at his gate and prepared to dismount from his saddle. It was still so early that few people were astir save those of the artisan class. Carroll was in no hurry; breakfast was yet a remote possibility, and he was deliberate in his act. His eyes moved over the slopes toward the sea, now unstirred in its placidity by any perceptible wind. A calm sunlight touched its waters into varying shades of color, fleecy clouds rested in shadows here and there, and frequent sails drifted lazily along against the distant horizon. In the midst of this matutinal reverie he was attracted by a sudden activity from within his gate, and the cry of a woman running toward him.

"Oh, Walter, Walter! hurry; something dreadful has happened!" cried a tall, graceful girl with a white, wan face, breaking upon him, wringing her hands and anon clenching them in distress.

"Something dreadful has happened?" He leaped down quickly and tossed the bridle over a stake, a dawning thought intruding itself. "But what, Amelia? What has happened? Nothing to Beverlin, I hope! Stop this blubbering and nonsense and tell me at once what is the matter."

"It was all our fault, of course," she began, sobbing dismally, mopping her eyes and becoming circumlocutory. "All our fault, Bessie's and mine! Nobody else was too blame; and of course you will be furious when you hear everything, but I am determined to tell you."

"To blame for what?" he questioned, as he led her toward the house.

"To blame—to blame for the whole thing," she said, eagerly. "You see, Bessie is here, came over from the Island on the Peek-a-boo yesterday, and she, of course, is always up to pranks, and I don't mind either sometimes for the sake of a little fun; and when we saw your note to that friend you were expecting, Mr. Something or other, that put the idea into our heads, and Bessie said: 'Let's give him a good old fashioned scare,' and I said, 'Very well, but how'll we do it?' and then Bessie suggested"——

"Look here, Amelia," interrupted the listener sternly, "you don't mean to tell me that you and that everlasting wildcat, Bessie, have been playing any practical jokes on poor old Beverlin—a fellow half dead with rheumatism already—do you?" She had twisted her handkerchief into tight knots and was biting at it in nervous little tugs.

"Oh, yes, I do mean that," she asserted, with both trembling hands over her eyes as if to ward away his just anger.

"Incredible," he murmured. "I am mortified to death; it is shameful and shocking beyond everything to have treated thus a man whom I reverence and love above all others, and who, in his affliction, has sought a refuge under my roof." They were standing to parley on the porch, about to enter the house.

"I know, I know," she continued penitently; "it was perfectly dreadful and Bessie and I are about as sick over the denouement as he is—poor soul; but let me tell you the rest before you go in."

"Well, be quick about it," he said roughly, too deeply wounded to be calm or philosophical.

"Very well," she replied despondently; "you see, Bessie said it was all simple enough; just put a black cat that had been pretty well starved, up a garret stairway with a lot of old rubbish, one of us to go below and impersonate the murdered victim returned to haunt the spot of her doom, moan at intervals and knock over the empty fruit cans occasionally. Bessie was to do that part and superintend the cat; and then, having destroyed all the locks and bolts so that they wouldn't work, we were just to bring a real live old ghost upon the scene. I was the ghost, and Oh, Walter, I was entirely too successful! You see, I am so tall. Well, we got that skull out of your closet, and tied it on top of my head; we set its jaws going and stuck some red tinsel in behind the eye places——"

DR. T. HERMAN SEBAMER, an eminent German authority, says:—"Consumption is always due to deficient nutrition of the lungs, caused by bad blood." At the Brompton Hospital for consumptives, London, England, a statement has been published that 92 per cent. of the patients of that institution have unsuspected kidney disorder. This explains why the proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure claim that they have received many testimonials which they have not published, because of the incredulity with which they would be received were it claimed that Warner's Safe Cure cures consumption. But the fact is that if your kidneys be cured and put in a healthy condition they expel the uric acid and poisonous waste matter, and prevent the irritation of the delicate substances of the lungs, thereby removing the cause. When the effect is removed the symptom of kidney disease, which is called consumption, disappears and with it the irritation which caused it.

Mad Dog!

Thirteen is an unlucky number, at least the dead dog with thirteen civic bullet holes in his body, must incline to that belief. This morning a medium sized dog rushed into China Hall, with all the symptoms of violent rabies—foaming at the mouth, yelping, rushing about smashing crockery, etc. A number of heroic young men, who were backed up by the Chief of Police fired thirteen shots from a 32-calibre pistol into his devoted carcass. After the ammunition was exhausted, a mercifully inclined boy put an end to the animal's sufferings by belaboring him with a brick.

BOARD OF TRADE STARTED

A Harmonious Meeting for Organisation.

The Proposal Warmly Approved—The Preliminary Steps Taken—The Requisite Number of "Corporate" Signatures Secured—The Remaining Steps to be Taken at Once.

At the meeting convened in the council chamber at the call of the Mayor on Thursday evening, to consider the formation of a Board of Trade for the town of Peterborough, the following gentlemen were present:—W. E. Matthews, W. H. Moldrum, R. McWhinnie, Thos. Kelly, H. S. McDonald, D. Bellegham, J. D. Mallmoyle, J. Polley, A. W. Brodie, T. Cahill, J. Carey, W. Brandrette, A. E. Dixon, E. M. Dennistoun, E. Sherwood, E. H. D. Hall, W. J. Sherwood, W. J. Green, A. Stevenson, W. J. Minore, R. B. Rogers, Thos. A. Hay, J. G. McDonald, R. G. Kingan, Dr. Burnham, A. Gough, J. P. Hurley, R. Fair, A. Hall, E. R. Hall, R. Innes, W. Manson, J. G. Macklin, T. E. Bradburn, E. A. Peck, F. H. Dobbin, Macfarlane Wilson.

Mr. Wm. Loch was voted to the chair and Mr. J. H. Burnham was elected secretary pro tem.

The CHAIRMAN stated that there was a small attendance and if there was no improvement in this respect it would be little use to attempt the organisation of a Board of Trade.

Mr. BURNHAM indicated the legal requirements for constituting the membership for inaugurating a Board of Trade. The law required thirty residents, with a mercantile, banking or manufacturing status, and detailed the necessary steps to be taken to form a Board.

Mr. J. POLLEY stated that the Kingston Board of Trade was the best institution in the city. Through its influence a new half-million dry dock was to be built, and two new railroads were due to its influence and exertions. If merchants wanted a reduction of freight rates, the representations of the Board were listened to with that respect which no private individual could command, and in a general way the Board was the guardian of the mercantile interests of the city.

Mr. THOS. KELLY moved, seconded by Mr. F. H. Dobbin, that this meeting resolve to form a Board of Trade, and that those gentlemen qualified sign the necessary requisition under the Dominion Act.

Mr. D. BELLEGHEM said he thought a Board of Trade would be a good thing. If it were good for Kingston or Toronto, why not for a go-ahead town like Peterborough?

Mr. R. INNES said the experience of the last board of trade was unsatisfactory; it dwindled and collapsed after a few meetings—it died a natural death, and he hoped a better fate for the present attempt.

Mr. W. H. MELDRUM stated that nothing did as much for Paris as the board of trade. It did more for the town in the way of advancing its manufacturing interests than any council could do. He was surprised that a live town like Peterborough should be without a board of trade. He would favour the formation of a board representing the best business interests of the town.

Mr. T. CAHILL, though not eligible for membership, had a real interest in the progress of the town, and he would like to see the business men organized. He said in regard to the question of railways, that in view of the Ontario Government opening up a policy of subsidizing colonization railways, there should be good hope of getting a grant from the Ontario Government, and perhaps the Dominion Government also, for a grant to a railway running into the country north of Peterborough.

Mr. MACFARLANE WILSON was certain a board of trade would be an excellent thing for the town.

Mr. R. M. DENNISTOUN thought a board of trade would be a source of strength to the business interests of the town. A board of trade has a great influence, and the Toronto board of trade was instanced as an example of this power. An agreement of the boards of trade of the country could make a strong representation of the commercial feeling of the country, to be used to influence governments in their dealing with the trade interests of the country.

Mr. W. H. MOORE stated that others besides men in business were eligible for membership.

[While the secretary was preparing the certificate for signature, Mr. E. H. D. Hall said the necessity of the Board of Trade, was shown by the proposed amendment to the license laws, which would, he asserted affect municipalities.]

Dr. BURNHAM, in view of there not being a sufficient number of eligible persons present to complete the certificate, moved that the following gentlemen be a committee to secure the necessary additional signatures:—Messrs. T. Kelly, R. Fair, D. Bellegham and Macfarlane Wilson.

The following signatures were affixed to the certificate of corporation:—W. Loch, Thos. Kelly, R. McWhinnie, W. Manson, W. E. Matthews, R. G. Kingan, Adam Hall, E. Sherwood, J. Carey, R. Fair, W. J. Minore, W. J. Green, W. J. Sherwood, Macfarlane Wilson, H. S. McDonald, R. Innes, J Polley, W. H. Meldrum, W. Brandrette, H. Phelan, C. B. Routley, D. Bellegham, F. H. Dobbin, Wm. Lasgford, T. Cahill.

The meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the chairman.

This morning the signature committee went out, and in a short time secured sufficient names, added to those signed last night, to meet the statutory requirement for corporation; and a member of the committee says there would be no difficulty in securing a hundred names if necessary. The other requisite steps will be taken at once, and there is every probability of a strong Board of Trade for Peterborough being formed.

GRAND BENEFIT CONCERT.—The benefit concert given here on Monday evening last was a success in every particular, and that it was thoroughly enjoyed was testified to by the rounds of applause with which every item on the programme was received. W. A. Dixon is a ventriloquist of undoubted ability, and so arranges his subjects as to introduce almost every variety of the art, and his clear, rich voice is heard to advantage in all he does, and is backed up by pleasing personal appearance, and an ease and grace which always produce a telling effect. The singing of Mr. G. M. Peirce was everything that could be desired he sang several songs which were heartily encored. Miss A. Gorman gave a recitation which was well received and rendered in a very able and pleasing manner. The whole was what might be termed a first class concert.

The auction sale of village lots on Saturday last was what might be termed a failure as there was not one sold although several were offered for sale but no bidders.

We understand that the Rev. Mr. Dewey, of Lindsay, who is well and favorably known here from his services of last winter, is to occupy the pulpit in the Methodist church here on April 7th, morning and evening. He will also lecture on Monday evening, when a grand entertainment will be given by the young men of the church.

The Nine Hour Movement.

A Meeting of Workingmen Discuss the Question—The Carpenters who Have Agreed to it.

A fairly well attended meeting of the workingmen of Peterborough was held in the Knights of Labor hall last night. Mr Robt. McGregor acted as chairman and Mr. Wm. Ball as secretary. The chairman in opening explained the objects of the meeting, which were to discuss the nine hour question, and stated that the contracting carpenters had agreed to adopt this system after July 1st. Mr. Ball read the following list of contracting carpenters who had signed the nine hour movement paper:—A. Rutherford, H. Carveth, H. C. Stabler, D. Gamble, J. R. Donel, A. Douglass, W. McElwain, R. Clinkscale, Thos. McKee.

The chairman said he was some what surprised at Mr. J. D. Baptie, who, on nomination day pledged himself to adopt the nine hour system, and then backed out at the last minute. The workingmen were ready to fight for their principles in respect to the nine hour movement. He was glad the bricklayers had adopted shorter hours of labor, and said they would not be the only ones in town to quite at 5 o'clock, as other trades organization were agitating it.

Mr. R. SHERRY was glad they were adopting the nine hour system and was confident they would succeed by working harmoniously together.

Mr. HICKY was in favour of nine hours, and was in favour of fighting "kickers." He was somewhat surprised at Mr. Baptie, whom he heard speak in favour of nine hours on nomination day.

Mr. MCPHERSON said he was never in the hall before, but was strongly in favour of nine hours and urged the workingmen to stick to their posts, for he could see nothing to prevent them from succeeding.

Mr. TERRELL thought it was a good idea, and, although somewhat a stranger, was willing to help it along.

The CHAIRMAN stated that the contractors said they were injured by Mr. Rathbun, but he was told by a certain contractor that he (the contractor) could successfully cope with Mr. Rathbun. He said the unions should establish a co-operative store, as it would be a paying concern for the unions.

Mr. GEORGE BALL could not understand why the imaginary line that separated Canada and the States should effect such a difference in wages, and he wanted to see organization completed here that would benefit the workingmen. His address dealt with the labor question in general terms and the efforts being made by the Knights of Labor to help the cause.

The CHAIRMAN told the history of a Creme de la Creme cigar sign which hung upon the wall of the room, labelled "scabb." It was hanging in a cigar store, and the proprietor was told it was non-union. He replied that he didn't care about that, it made no difference to him; but a little later he came and said that his custom was running down hill so fast he thought it must be due to the sign so he took it down. The workingmen got hold of it and hung it up in their hall as an example. This showed that the trades unions were a power in Peterborough. He said there were about 1,000 men in the different labor organizations in town.

Mr. BOGUE said that he was in Toronto recently and learned that the trades unions had confederated there, so that there would be no more trouble with the contractors there. He believed in trades unionism, and denied the rumor that these organizations were in the hands of selfish men for selfish purposes. There was a meeting being held down in the council chamber for the formation of a board of trade, an organization of a different sort, and one which he designated as a "ring" that would require to be watched. It was not for the purpose of benefitting the general public.

Mr. BALL thought the board of trade might do the town good, for Peterborough needed more industries, and he understood one of the objects of the board was to purchase some water privileges and offer them the manufacturers.

The CHAIRMAN stated that the town council was to be asked to ring the town bell every evening at 5 o'clock, for the benefit of corporation labourers and other working only nine hours a day.

It was announced that another meeting similar to this would be held a week from Monday night.

Evangelists Criticised.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—As one of the readers of your daily paper, I have often found it to contain that amount of information that well repays the price of subscription. Since Rev. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter have been in this town, considerable has been given to the reports of their meetings. This, I suppose, is for the benefit of those who cannot, or those who may not choose to go. Being one of the number that does not go from choice, I have, nevertheless, read the reports of their speeches, supposing it was correct from their commendation, not because I was of the same mind, but to know what their teaching (if any) was. I hold they have a right to preach just what they like; but, at the same time, I cannot part with my own right to hold that which I believe to be truth. Yesterday you report Mr. Hunter as reproving bigoted Christians for their "prejudice" against other churches, that their (the evangelists') object was to save sinners, not to preach any particular doctrine. This, at the best, is "sugar-coating the pill." It is no term of reproach when I call these men Arminians—the first publication of the Wesleyan Methodists was under the title of "Arminian Magazine." There is no uncertain sound in their trumpeting—they are honest in this respect, no saying and unsaying. But, is there no particular doctrine in all they say? Was there none in what they said on the sin of blasphemy; or on backsliding; or any of the other subjects? It is certainly a revival of the ancient Pelagian doctrines. I have (I believe, through conviction, not prejudice) been brought to see very different from what I once did. Are those the sinners Mr. Hunter thinks he is "hitting" pretty hard? Abuse is no argument. I will not think he incorporates such with the "swearers and drunken blasphemers" who are members of churches. This is no controversy. Had it only been spoken from the desk, and not published, it would have been free from criticism, but now is it more than my right as a professed Christian and citizen to enter a protest. Thanking you for this space, I remain,

Yours, etc.,
JOHN BABB.

Peterborough, March 22nd, 1889.

FREDERICK T. ROBERTS, M.D., Physician to and Professor of Clinical Medicine at University College Hospital, London, Eng., says: "Bright's Disease has no symptoms of its own, and may long exist without the knowledge of the patient or practitioner, as no pain will be felt in the kidneys or that vicinity." This accounts for many people dying with Bright's Disease, or advanced kidney malady. The disease is not suspected until it reaches a fatal period. If Warner's Safe Cure is used at the proper time, the fatality from that terrible disease would be greatly decreased. Dr. Thompson also says "More adults are carried off in this country by chronic kidney disease than by any other one malady except consumption.

CAPT. SEAGRAVE SACKED

SCENES OF GREAT DISORDER IN THE IMPERIAL HOUSE.

A Motion to Reduce Balfour's Salary Defeated—French Deputies—After the Scalps of the Copper Speculators.

LONDON, March 21.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Baron De Worms, Parliamentary Colonial Secretary, read a telegram from the Cape in reply to inquiries concerning Captain Seagrave, who commanded the constables at the Mitchelstown riots in 1887. The telegram said Seagrave was dismissed from the Cape infantry service in 1885 for gross neglect of duty and breach of trust.

A scene of great disorder followed. The Irish members rose in their places and cheered and there were cries of "Pigott!" "Pigott!" "Remember Mitchelstown!"

Secretary Balfour said he had suspended Seagrave but preferred not to dismiss him until documentary evidence of his guilt had been received.

On the vote on Mr. Balfour's salary Mr. Morley severely criticised the Government's action in carrying on a "furtive and clandestine battle behind its opponents' backs."

Mr. Bradlaugh moved that Mr. Balfour's salary be reduced by £500.

Mr. Bradlaugh's motion was rejected, 273 to 211.

Halifax to be Tied to Bermuda by Cable.

LONDON, March 21.—In the House of Commons to-day Postmaster-General Raikes announced that the Government intended to lay a submarine cable between Bermuda and Halifax.

Naughty Peers May Stay.

LONDON, March 21.—In the House of Lords to-night the Earl of Carnarvon's bill providing for the expulsion of peers from the House for discreditable conduct was rejected, 73 to 14.

The Healys Have Pigott's Diary.

LONDON, March 21.—Pigott's diary is said to be in possession of Maurice and Timothy M. Healy, National members of Parliament.

To be Produced Before the Commission.

LONDON, March 21.—Mr. Lewis, solicitor for the Parnellites, has secured Richard Pigott's diary and will produce it before the Parnell Commission.

Germany and Britain.

LONDON, March 21.—It is now admitted by diplomats in Berlin that Prince Bismarck's efforts to form an alliance between Germany and England have failed completely. Emperor William was exceedingly desirous of contracting the alliance, and it is understood that he still has hopes of bringing it about. It is this hope which has induced him to invite the Prince of Wales to visit Berlin.

An Alliance Hoped For.

BERLIN, March 21.—Count Herbert Bismarck started to-day for London. The Boersen Zeitung says the object of his journey is to personally settle the last questions at issue in connection with the rapprochement between England and Germany and adds: "The fact that only such divergence exists as personal explanations can reconcile justifies hopes of an Anglo-German alliance."

The Copper Crisis.

PARIS, March 21.—In the Chamber of Deputies to-day M. Laur, in the discussion of an interpellation on the copper crisis, demanded that the penal code provision against monopolies be enforced. He accused the Rothschilds of causing the crisis and of leading an international plot against the French markets and urged the necessity of an enquiry into the crisis.

M. Rouvier, Minister of Finance, ridiculed M. Laur's speech as a romance.

M. Thevenet, Minister of Justice, said the law against monopolies had not been repealed, but it was difficult to prove charges of monopoly.

M. Lejeune reproached the Government for refusing to intervene in the Panama Canal affair, and yet intervening in the Comptoir d'Escompte crisis.

M. Rouvier replied that the Government had been unable to interfere in the Panama Canal affair.

M. Millerand said the Government had performed only a part of its duty; it still remained to make a salutary example. He proposed an order of the day calling for an immediate judicial enquiry into the copper monopoly.

M. Thevenet stated that the Government would scrupulously examine into the matter with the view of reaching the guilty parties, but it reserved the right to choose its own time for the investigation.

The order of the day, pure and simple, was rejected, 284 to 234.

M. Laur then withdrew his motion for the enforcement of the monopoly law, and after further discussion M. Thomson moved an order of the day declaring the government would take steps to ascertain who were responsible for the crisis and to make the law respected.

M. Thomson's motion was accepted by the Government and was adopted by a vote of 339 to 312.

Behring's to be Declared a Closed Sea.

NEW YORK, March 21.—A Washington despatch to The Post says: President Harrison will soon issue a proclamation declaring that the Behring Sea is a closed sea. In the closing hours of the last Congress an amendment was incorporated in the Inter-Territorial Salmon Fishing Act, which extends the provisions of the Salmon Fishing Act to seal fishing in Behring Sea, that is to say, the act forbids the taking of seal by anyone not authorized by the act within the waters of Behring Sea, and does not exclude them merely from fishing on certain islands. The act may give rise to important international complications. It is an attempt, by legislative enactment, to settle an international question which the great powers interested may consider still an open one.

A Baby Found in a Satchel.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Trainmen going through the train from New Haven at the Grand Central Depot this afternoon found a queer looking satchel under a seat. It was taken to the superintendent's office and opened. There was a baby boy in it, not over a month old, in a long white slip and flannel skirts packed about its feet. The old valise had been lined with cotton and in the snug nest the baby slept contentedly. The valise also contained a half-filled milk bottle, smelling strongly of paregoric. The babe was turned over to the police matron.

A Banquet Tendered Mr. Wiman.

PORTLAND, Me., March 21.—The Portland Board of Trade, with a view of discussing closer relations between the United States and Canada, have tendered a public banquet to Erastus Wiman of New York in order to afford that gentleman opportunity for the delivery of an address upon this subject. Dinner is to be given at Falmouth Hotel on the night of Saturday, March 30. A committee of prominent citizens is in charge of the matter, the chairman being W. L. Putnam, late of the fishery commission that negotiated the Chamberlain-Bayard treaty.

The Talk of the Town.

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 18 lbs bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

MILLS BROS.

Doctoring in the Dark.

It usually requires the attempt at the performance of an operation involving human life in a room excluded from the proper amount of light. A practitioner will not attempt the diagnosis of a complicated disease unless he can see the sufferer and make an examination upon which to base his opinion relative to the treatment necessary to bring about restoration of health.

Notwithstanding the impropriety of such action there seems to be a great deal of doctoring done in the dark.

It needs no illustrations to demonstrate that gross ignorance has caused many fatal mistakes in the treatment of diseases by those who profess to be learned in the art of healing.

In many diseases several organs are more or less implicated and what seems a primary ailment may be one quite remote. For instance, a severe headache may have its origin in a disturbed stomach. On the other hand, sickness at the stomach may be caused by a blow on the head. The seat of typhoid fever is in the upper part of the bowels, but most of its worst symptoms are often in the brain.

Symptoms of disease as well as diseases themselves are oftentimes followers or concomitants of some unsuspected organic disease, and this is peculiarly true of lung, liver, brain and heart diseases in general, for it is now known that they are the result of kidney disease, which shows its presence in some such indirect manner.

Several years ago a gentleman became convinced of the truth of this and through his efforts the world has been warned of kidney disease, and as a result of continued effort a specific known as Warner's Safe Cure was discovered, the general use of which has shown it to be of inestimable benefit in all cases where kidney treatment is desirable or necessary.

When consumption is threatened see to it that the condition of the kidneys is immediately inquired into, and if they are found diseased, cure them by an immediate use of Warner's Safe Cure, and the symptoms of lung decay will rapidly disappear.

There are too many instances already recorded of the terrible results produced by a lack of knowledge concerning the cause of disease and human life is of too much importance to be foolishly sacrificed to bigotry or ignorance.

SPRING MILLINERY OPENING AT
TURNBULL'S

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

We give a cordial invitation to all and expect to see you on the above dates to look through our Magnificent Stock, of Millinery and Millinery Trimmings, Mantles, Dolmans and Jackets, Light Plain Cloths and Fancy Checks, for the young people, rich Brocade and Fancy Stripes, for the older, with all the New Trimmings to Match.

The Event of the Past Week

Has been Dress Goods and Dress Trimmings. We cannot begin to tell you how they have been admired. Sateur Cloths have been the favourites. There is an indescribable gentility about the colors that make you feel you would like to have a dress and wear it. The new steel and silk gimps blend in so perfectly. Our Bradford (England) Dress Cloths, at 10c., are worth a corner in your memory. Our Prints in the windows and on the counters have been turning up their saucy pretty faces at you as you pass by for the past two or three weeks, and many a prudent mother has had her summer supply sent home already, knowing she would not find the same assortment later.

During the past few weeks in the hurry and bustle of unpacking case after case of New Goods, we have neglected to call your attention to our Boys' Clothing and Tailoring Department. In fact was it necessary? Our old customers know and the public generally, are finding out that our Tailor is very hard to beat in a fit, and we never take a side cent in prices.

Our Importations of Cloths from across the boiling sea have arrived, and lay side by side with their Canadian cousins. It is hard to say which is the prettiest or best, but the Scotch have the name of making the color faster than we Canadians. We will not dispute their ability to day. Our Tailoring Department is not what it was three years ago. It has grown amazingly. We mean it shall still grow by giving good goods, proper styles and close prices. Our Boys' Clothing is opened out. Boys be happy, tell your parents of the fact, and have them come in and pick your suit out. We are sure we can please them with the price.

In the centre of the floor stands a table loaded with a job line of Laces. When we say job we mean half price or under. They are all two and three cents a yard, take your choice. You cannot buy the same Goods anywhere else less than five and most of them you will pay ten cents for. The fashion sheets (which are free) for this month have arrived. A full assortment of domestic patterns kept. Remember the days of our Millinery Opening, when our store will be in its holiday attire, when all the Novelties of the season will be displayed.

THE ECONOMY COMMITTEE APPOINTED BY THE COMMONS.

Col. O'Brien Loses an Opportunity to Call Up the Jesuits' Bill Question—Other Topics From the Capital.

OTTAWA March 22.—A few days ago the Senate passed a resolution appointing a committee to meet one from the House of Commons, for the purpose of inquiring into the possibility of reducing the expenses connected with the two Houses. In the Commons this afternoon a resolution appointing Sir Hector Langevin, Hon. Mr. Bowell, Hon. Mr. Foster, Mr. Charlton and Mr. Peter White on the Commons side of the joint committee was proposed by Sir Hector Langevin in the absence of the Premier.

Hon. David Mills raised the constitutional point that the proposition should have originated in the Commons, and Mr. Kirkpatrick coincided with him in that view. Other members joined in the discussion. Sir John Macdonald entered while it was in progress, and having explained how a reduction in the expenses might be brought about under a joint management, said he thought the objection was merely "one of those constitutional fads that the member for Bothwell always takes up." He thought no serious consequences could result to the constitution.

"I think the constitution is so strong that it can resist assaults, great or small," remarked Mr. Laurier.

Hon. Edward Blake has been very quiet all session, having scarcely uttered a word, but he too joined in. Sir John had said that it was only fitting that the Senate should have brought up the question, because their expenditure was much greater proportionately than that of the Commons. "Then they might better take the beam out of their own eye rather than the mote out of ours," said Mr. Blake, to whom the Premier's attention was immediately directed.

"I am very glad to see," he said, "a beam in my honorable friend's eye. I am glad to see it glitters so."

After this exchange of civilities it was expected that the resolution would pass, but the third party had yet to be heard from. Mr. Mitchell objected that there were four Government supporters and only one member of the Opposition on the committee named. He proceeded to overhaul the four in a lively manner, and took particular exception to Mr. Bowell. "I have no confidence in that gentleman," he was commencing, when Sir John interrupted to ask that Mr. Bowell's name be struck off and Mr. Mitchell's substituted. This being done the third party could say no more and the economy resolution was adopted.

Sir John Thompson having moved the House into committee on his bill respecting bills of exchange and promissory notes, Hon. Mr. Laurier again objected that it would take three or four days more to finish with the bill and that prorogation at Easter could not be expected if it was proceeded with.

Mr. Foster crossed over and consulted a moment with Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Laurier and returning to his seat moved the House into committee of supply. Nobody objected, and in a moment the House was in committee. Had Col. O'Brien been in the House this would have been his opportunity to move his disallowance amendment but the Colonel was away. Anyhow the whole thing was done so hurriedly that the members in the back benches scarce knew what was up until the Speaker had left the chair.

The vote considered in supply was that for militia pensions and discussion immediately turned on the oft-argued case of Valiquette and Ryan, two Montreal militiamen who died in the Northwest service. Valiquette's relatives get upwards of $300 a year, Ryan's less than $100. The amounts were fixed in the ordinary way, it is claimed, each case being decided purely on its merits, but the Opposition, led in this instance by Hon. A. G. Jones, have persistently claimed that there is an unjust disparity in the amounts awarded.

Col. O'Brien had come in during the discussion, and rose to say that he too thought this "a very gross case of favoritism."

After recess the bill to incorporate the Supreme Court of the Independent Order of Foresters and also the bill incorporating the Union Railway Company were read a third time and passed.

In committee of supply the militia estimates were taken up. Col. Denison expressed pleasure at voting a proposed reduction of the expenditure on the permanent corps and the schools. Concerning these schools he thought it would be in the interest of the Dominion if we returned to the system of twenty years ago and permitted the entry of cadets to the schools. There were many young men who did not at present hold commissions but would be glad to be able to attend the schools and qualify. This they were not allowed to do unless they put on a private's uniform and lived the life of a private soldier in barracks. For reasons not necessary to dwell upon here neither the young men themselves nor their parents were willing that they should enter as private soldiers.

Col. Kirkpatrick said there was a great deal in this. There was much difficulty in getting qualified officers and he thought the school system was somewhat to blame. They did not fulfil their duty. He would like to see them made more accessible and the expense to those officers attending reduced. He believed that if the officers were allowed to board outside the schools and not compelled to join the mess, where for self-respect they had to wear the expensive mess dress, it would be better than continuing the present plan.

Sir Adolphe Caron said he thought it would be not at all practicable to carry out the idea, not only because there were not enough schools to take in other than members of the militia, but also on account of the difficulty there would be in maintaining discipline.

Col. Denison said he had attended the military schools twenty years ago when cadets were admitted as proposed, and the discipline then was just as good as it is to-day.

Mr. Barron said his experience had been similar. He desired to inquire from the minister if any step had been taken to carry out the wishes and recommendations of the Major-General who was brought from England mainly for the advice that he was able to give.

Sir Adolphe Caron said these recommendations had been carried out as far as practicable.

The public works appropriations were next taken up and discussed until 12.35 when the House adjourned.

From The Gazette.

OTTAWA, March 22.—The Canada Gazette to-morrow will contain an order-in-council providing that the special rate of two cents per ton in force last year for the passage of certain cereals—wheat, Indian corn, peas, barley and rye—through the Welland and St. Lawrence Canals shall be continued for the coming season of navigation.

The total value of goods entered for consumption in the Dominion, exclusive of British Columbia, during February, was $7,355,421; the value of dutiable goods was $5,606,574 and the duty collected $1,737,066. For the eight months of the fiscal year an increase of $4,500,000 in imports is shown, with an increase of $750,000 in duty collected.

The total value of exports during February was $3,038,852, all the produce of Canada with the exception of $108,205. In the past eight months the exports were $60,451,781, or $4,000,000 less than last year.

The postoffice savings bank statement for February shows that at the end of that month the total amount at depositors' credit was $22,430,187, an increase of $96,260 in the month. The deposits were $661,245, the interest allowed $9024 and the withdrawals $631,008.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 22.—Detective Rogers of Toronto has traced to this region Andrew Wilson, who murdered his sweetheart at Watford a week ago last Sunday. When last heard of Wilson was disguised as a miner.

Woodstock Jottings.

WOODSTOCK, March 22.—The municipal elections here to-day to fill the vacancies in the council were conducted quietly. In St. George's Ward Mr. Cole is elected by 160 majority over Messrs. Rippon and Oliver; in St. John's Ward Mr. West defeated Mr. Allen by a fair majority.

The death to-day of Mr. Martin, a victim of the St. George accident, will necessitate an election for the third deputy reeveship.

THE ATTACK ON WEBSTER.

DEFEAT OF THE MOTION TO REDUCE HIS SALARY.

Labouchere Seeking to Lead the Liberals Out of "Respectability" and Aiming for the Party Leadership.

LONDON, March 22.—In the House of Commons to-day Sir William Vernon Harcourt, resuming the discussion regarding the Parnell Commission, declared that Attorney-General Webster's identification with the Commission had destroyed the impression that the Government would be impartial and added weight to The Times' charges. If the Attorney-General had not advised the Government Parliament should not vote a salary for services he had not performed. He condemned the Attorney-General's apology for the Pigott forgeries as mean, contemptible and disgraceful and expressed the hope that he would make a better apology.

Attorney-General Webster replied that but for the duty he owed those who trusted him he would not have noticed the charges made by Sir William. If he were capable of the conduct imputed to him he would be a disgrace to the English bar. He was private counsel for The Times. It was immaterial whether he had been right or wrong in assuming that position, although it was doubtful whether he had been prudent.

Mr. Redmond's motion to reduce the Attorney-General's salary was rejected, 286 to 28.

In response to a further question Attorney-General Webster defended his course at great length. Mr. Parnell also addressed the House. Some epithets were bandied across the floor, and the chair was repeatedly forced to call members to order.

Labby May Be Leader.

NEW YORK, March 22.—Mr. Smalley cables The Tribune from London: The microscopic investigation into the alleged relations between the ministry and The Times, Pigott, LeCaron and the rest is pursued daily in the House of Commons by the Gladstonians and Parnellites with ever-increasing zest. There are, however, several more important matters pending. Not the least important is the question whether Labouchere is to lead the Liberal party. He leads already, perhaps, the entire Radical left wing of the party, and he and his colleagues are impatient with the more respectable Gladstonians. "It is respectability which ruins us," he is reported to have said recently. It was not his own respectability to which he referred. His speech on Tuesday was an attempt to get rid of respectability and to take the lead into his own hands. "I will not," said Labouchere in the House of Commons, "give the Government an opportunity of getting a single sixpence; so long as they refuse to consult the country we will put every obstacle we can in the way of the transaction of public business." He has been as good or as bad as his word. With a view, as he said cynically, of giving practical effect to his policy, he the same night put down twenty notices of motion.

Labouchere's chief allies or agents seem to be Healy and Sir William Harcourt. Gladstone is absent from the House on account of his brother's death, and Sir William succeeds to his authority during his absence, which is expected to last at least a week. Gladstone having gone to Scotland to attend the funeral. Before he comes back the Liberal party may be irretrievably committed to a policy which presages nothing but disaster. That policy is something more than obstruction. If the threats mean anything, they mean that the minority will not allow the Government to be carried on. No money will be voted if they can prevent it, and no business will be done. It is a policy of paralysis. Should it be supported by the minority as a whole what Prince Albert once said will have some truth. Parliamentary government will be on its trial. What Labouchere and Sir William Harcourt threaten is nothing less than a negation of the parliamentary system. That the country will never stand.

The Missing Actress Found.

LONDON, March 22.—Mabel Love, the young Gaiety Theatre actress who disappeared a few days ago, and was supposed to have eloped with a prominent young nobleman, was found to-day by detectives in Dublin. She was alone and declares that she ran away from home on account of a tiff which she had had with her mother. She will return to London to-night in charge of a detective, who will restore the young woman to her parents.

A White Book on Samoan Affairs.

BERLIN, March 22.—The Government has issued a white book on Samoan affairs. It shows that on March 9 Prince Bismarck wrote to Herr Steubel, the newly appointed consul of Germany to Samoa, describing the conduct of Dr. Knappe, his predecessor in the office, as lacking in calmness and coolness and as contrary to the lines of Emperor William's policy, with which Dr. Knappe had been well acquainted. Knappe, Prince Bismarck wrote, apparently lost his head owing to a letter from Herr Brandeis, Tamasese's Prime Minister, which was published in the last white book and the presence of three men-of-war at Samoa.

Referring to Knappe's subsequent proposal to annex Samoa, Prince Bismarck reiterates his view that to seek to effect a change in the political situation in Samoa without the consent of England and America would not accord with treaty arrangements. Knappe's action reverting to the question of annexation is incomprehensible because his experience and instructions ought to have shown him that his desire to annex Samoa was opposed to the policy conducted by the Chancellor in conformity with the Emperor's intentions.

The Perth Riots.

PESTH, March 22.—In the Lower House of the Diet to-day Herr Orlean denounced the police for interfering with the students' demonstrations. Premier von Tisza replying referred to his efforts to consolidate Hungary. He deprecated appeals to the mob and said he would never admit that the majority should submit to the tyranny of the minority. The police had only done their duty.

How Kable Supported His Mother.

FREEPORT, March 22.—Walter H. Kable was arrested here to-day charged with extensive robbery of the mails. He has been employed in the baggage room of the Northwestern depot and it was his duty to transfer the north bound mail from the Northwestern to the Illinois Central trains. Tuesday night inspectors hid themselves in the baggage room and caught Kable robbing one of the pouches. He said he committed the crime because he supported a mother. No idea can be formed as to the amount of his peculations. His room was found full of mail matter.

A Philadelphia Defaulter.

PHILADELPHIA, March 22.—Robt. Craven, secretary and treasurer of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore Railroad Company, was yesterday found to be an embezzler to the extent of $10,000. This amount was not stolen from the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore directly, but from two branch roads. Craven confessed and was discharged from the company's service. His bondsmen will make the shortage good.

A Cincinnati Husband's Crime.

CINCINNATI, March 22.—Patrick Trainor, formerly a prosperous contractor, but who became dissipated and lost his business, quarrelled with his wife to-day because she had nothing to eat in the house. Trainor thrust a red-hot poker through his wife's cheek, breaking her jaw. She will probably die. Trainor was arrested. The pair have six children.

Fire at Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, March 22.—A fire with what might have been a serious loss to life and property occurred here early this morning. A large frame tenement building in Dundas-street west, in which dwelt about twenty persons, was seen by a neighbor to be in a blaze. On examination he found the whole of the inside to be on fire. He immediately gave the alarm, and the inmates, mostly women, barely escaped with their lives.

PRICES AND PROSPECTS.

MODERATE GAINS IN THE MOVEMENT OF MERCHANDISE.

No Improvement in the General Industrial Situation—The Reaction in the Breadstuffs Market—The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, March 22.—The moderate gains in the movement of general merchandise throughout the country reported in special telegrams to Bradstreet's last week still continue. All through the west pleasant weather is having an effect upon trade. Groceries, boots and shoes and hardware are relatively in most active request throughout the country.

The subsidence of unfavorable foreign influences led to covering of shorts and strengthened the New York stock market. Money at New York is easy on call, but in banking circles the impression is that a firmer market will be seen about April 1. Call loans are 2 to 2½ per cent.; on time 4 to 4½ per cent. are demanded for all dates.

No general improvement has set in in the iron trade. Cuts in anthracite coal have followed the formal reduction in price. Petroleum is fractionally higher.

There is no improvement in the general industrial situation, except that the strike at Fall River does not promise to last long.

Dry goods are more active at Boston but less so at New York. Woolen goods are quiet. Prices of print cloths are nearly 1-16c. higher. Raw wool is in hand-to-mouth demand at last week's prices. Raw cotton is ⅛c. lower.

There has been a reaction in the breadstuffs markets, the lowest prices being made Tuesday. Wheat went down to 91¾c., a loss of over 6c. per bushel within a fortnight, but prices were speedily pushed up again, closing 1¾ above Tuesday's level. Flour has declined 15 to 20c. per barrel.

A free and confident movement in raw sugars, in face of relatively high stocks, advanced prices 3-16 to ¼c. Refined advanced on Friday ¼c on scarcity of raw. At San Francisco refined has advanced ⅝ to 7⅛c. At New Orleans raw has advanced ⅛c. Coffee has receded about ½c on depressing influences.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, March 22.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days number for the United States 220 and for Canada 29, a total of 249, as compared with a total of 261 last week and 281 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 243, made up of 212 in the United States and 31 in the Dominion of Canada.

A LETTER FROM PICTON.

Mr. A. S. Carson Tells of the Work There.

Mr. Crossley's Address Upon the Manner of Seeking the Lord — Mr. Hunter Absent at Home—Reasons for Non-Conversion.

Rev. Mr. Crossley Friday night read a letter he had received from Mr. A. S. Carson, a banker of Picton, Ont., who was converted from infidelity to Christianity during their special meetings there. Mr. Crossley expected him up some day, when he would relate his experience for himself. The letter spoke of the glorious work being done by Bro. Schiverus, whose meetings there have just been closed. The writer said he had received a letter from a friend who tells him that Conductor Jones (one of their St. Thomas converts), had preached his first sermon at Palmerston and fourteen had been saved at it. Mr. Carson adds that he thanks God for having kept him thus far, and says he would rather go into a cellar and give aid to some helpless and needy creature than be invited out to dine at the best house in Ontario. He also wrote that he had given more than his tenth of both time and money to God. Mr. Crossley said that Mr. Carson was one of the wealthiest men in the county of Prince Edward, and had made a vow to give a tenth of his possessions to God. The cause of Christ in Picton was being gloriously advanced, and Mr. Carson sent word to the new converts in Peterborough that he could sympathize with their feelings. The difference between the converted and unconverted was, that the latter had Satan in them and the former had Satan after them; but if the converted ones would only engage the more earnestly in church work they could outrun the devil. Mr. Carson said he intended to try and get his business arranged to visit Peterborough, and prayed for blessings on the work here.

Referring to the work done in Picton, Mr. Crossley said that it had since been extended wonderfully, and while they reckoned that 1,000 were converted during the meetings, Mr. Carson computed that that number was now swelled to 2,500 souls saved through their services.

WHEN TO BE SAVED.

Mr. Crossley said he could tell sinners the year when they would be saved. He could come closer and tell them the month, the week and the day—nay, the very moment when they would know their sins were forgiven. He was able to do this because the Bible, that infallible Book, told him in Jer. xxix, 13:—

"And ye shall seek me and find me, when ye shall search for me with all your heart."

In view of this promise everybody should seek to be saved. But there were three reasons why the unconverted were not saved. The first was that they do not seek to be saved; second, they may seek, but don't seek the Lord; third, they may seek, and seek the Lord, but they don't seek the Lord with all their heart. These three primary reasons had branches. First, people don't seek because they are afraid they will fail. For them he pointed out the words of the text, they shall find who seek with all their heart. Then others don't seek because of stupidity or stubbornness. These were worse than the ox and the ass, for "the ox knows its master, and the ass knows its master's crib and comes to it," but the unconverted man who is too stupid to know the Lord and too stubborn to receive the spiritual food He wishes to delight them with, is worse than the ox or ass. Then some won't seek because they fear they would not be able to hold out. This was a on their part, for it implied that they could not be true to their best friend. And further it was an insult to Christ, for it implied that He would not be able to keep them. Others again say they do not feel the spirit striving with them. They have not feeling enough. Now if they have feeling enough to start that was sufficient for the present. They should decide to make a start for the Lord and the feeling would come as they sought salvation. Mr. Crossley said he knew many persons who had started in this way and before they came out of the enquiry room they were overflowing with feeling. The second reason why people are not converted is that they do not seek the Lord. They simply try to "do better"; they turn over a new leaf when they needed a new book. They say they are seeking religion, but if they only seek the Lord they will find Him. Then some are seeking feeling before they receive salvation. They could not feel the Lord before they accepted Him. Then the third reason is because they don't seek the Lord with all their hearts. They must make a complete surrender to the Lord and repose their trust in Him. There must be no reservation of pride or self-will. Some make a mistake in "trying" to seek religion as a sort of experiment. They don't yield entirely to God in the start. They ask, will I have to give up this or that? and are thereby trifling with God. If they have the consent of their will and do not create any barriers of pride or self-will, but abandon themselves to the Lord, they will be saved—and they never will be saved until they do this.

TREMENDOUS GIVE-AWAY

NOTES.

The Sunday services are as follows:—11 a.m., Rev. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter in the Baptist church; 4 p.m., meeting for men only in the opera house; 7 p.m., both evangelists in St. Pauls.

Rev. Mr. Hunter went to his home in St. Thomas yesterday morning for a brief period of enjoyment in the bosom of his family. He returns this evening.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Crossley conducted a large children's meeting in St. Paul's church. These children's meetings are always well attended.

Mr. Richard Winch, of Cobourg, will be at the mass meeting in the Opera House on Sunday afternoon, and will tell the meeting about his conversion. Mr. Winch is well known in town and the relation of his experience in connection with his conversion will be heard with interest.

How Strange It is

To see people starting at the head of George street, passing all the grocery houses on the street, thereby giving them the go-by, and coming to a halt at the Opera House Block, to secure some of W. J. Morrow's celebrated teas. One half the population of Peterborough are using our now celebrated 25c. tea. For the next few years we will sell goods away below other houses, so you can always rely on buying goods cheaper from us than elsewhere. Watch for our Saturday bargains and be sure to call.

The Sun Life.

The Sun Life Insurance Company, well represented in Peterborough and district, by Mr. W. H. Hill, has a high reputation as a solid, safe, steadily progressive insurance corporation, and the annual report, published elsewhere in this issue, only confirms the reputation it has achieved. The following, from the Montreal Gazette, an eminent commercial and financial authority, should be pleasant and reassuring reading to those directly interested in reliable insurance companies:

"We have much pleasure in presenting to our readers in other columns of this issue of the Gazette, the annual statement, and also a report of proceedings at the annual meeting of the Sun Life Assurance Company of this city. The meeting which was largely attended, was held at the Company's offices on St. James street, on Friday, March 1st. A very large amount of new business was transacted for the past year, 1888. In the Life Branch, which, of course, is the main one, applications were received for $3,396,483.56. Of these 2,255 were accepted, and policies written for $3,620,515.99. Accident policies were issued for nearly $3,000,000. The total Life Assurances current are now $12,620,000. Accident, in round numbers, $4,000,000. The gross income for 1888 was $625,373.56. Since then it has been increased by accessions of new business, and now amounts to very nearly $2,000 for every business day of the year. After paying all losses by death and charges of every description, the sum of $237,631.53 was added to the invested funds, or nearly one half of the total receipts. There is an army of 10,000 members scattered over the whole Dominion. The investments and resources of the Company foot up the large sum of $2,000,000, with a very handsome surplus over all obligations. The statements are of the most satisfactory character and cannot but give increased confidence and business to this well known and popular institution. The high rate of interest earned and the small amount overdue on this account prove the investments to be safe and of a high character. The company have, for instance, over $1,000,000 in first mortgages on real estate, which are admittedly among the very best securities a life office can have. The amount paid out for death claims was $104,649 09, a large sum, though we are told a good deal under the figures provided for in the tables. The company has attained a first-class position, and it should be a source of pride, as it is of benefit to Montreal and Canada at large. In the proceedings under review everything indicates prudence, energy and marked success. The record of the Sun Life for fair dealing is well known. It is also as liberal as it is prompt, every honest claim when it is established being good for the cash at sight. From the strong ground on which it stands the work of each succeeding year as it comes round must reveal great and solid progress.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A New York Forger Run To Earth—The New Party Convention.

TORONTO, March 23.—Through the efforts of the Toronto detectives a New York forger has been run to earth at Halifax. The man's name is Henry Hardie alias Edward W. Wilson, and it is alleged that on March 10, he, as confidential clerk for J. G. Fitzpatrick, corset maker, New York, succeeded in passing through his employer's bank a forged check for $3600, with the proceeds of which he skipped to Canada. He spent a few days in Toronto with John McDonald, the Paisley man arrested on Thursday night on suspicion of being a boodler. He bought a ticket for Liverpool, via Halifax, and had arrived in that city on Wednesday when he was arrested by the City Marshal in obedience to a despatch from Inspector Stark. Some $2500 in gold was found on him when arrested. The New York people have sent an officer after him, but he has intimated that he will fight extradition to the last extremity.

McDonald, his Toronto chum, was arraigned at the Police Court yesterday and discharged, the Paisley authorities refusing to go to the trouble of fetching him across the water.

Detectives Davis and Slemin last night raided an old dugout about a mile back in the bush from Stanley's grove, recovering a large quantity of stolen property, and arrested five young men found in the place on suspicion of being the thieves. They were taken to Dundas-street station, giving their names as Verral, Black, Regan, Smith and Haynes. The place was furnished with a stove, table and chairs and bedstead.

At the New Party convention yesterday a number of reports of committees were received and adopted. The Committee on Organization recommended that the executive employ suitable persons as organizers as soon as possible; that all members who are able and willing to work for the party shall send in their names at as early a date as possible; that we mould public opinion by holding public meetings in every constituency and the circulation of our literature as largely as possible. It was further recommended that a candidate be placed in the field in every constituency, Dominion or Provincial, and vigorous efforts made to secure his election. The finance committee reported that there had been received: cash contributions $183, cash subscriptions $588. The motto of the party is to be "For God and home and country" instead of "For God and country" as at present. Dr. Sutherland was elected chairman of the executive committee and president of the General Council.

Yesterday a local jewelry house received from Paris a parcel of diamonds valued at $50,000.

Death on the Track.

NEWBURY, March 23.—Yesterday afternoon about 3.35, shortly after No. 5 G.T.R. express had left Glencoe, a man was seen by the engineer walking on the track ahead of the train. The engineer whistled but he paid no attention and before the train could be stopped it struck him, throwing him off to one side, killing him instantly. The body was picked up by the train men and brought to Newbury. On making enquiry it was found that he was a stone dresser by trade and his name was John Partridge. Nothing but an old knife was found on his person. He appeared to be about 40 years of age. His aged mother lives in Chatham.

ROBERT A. GUNN, M. D., Dean and Professor of Surgery of the United States Medical College, editor of Medical Tribune, author of Gunn's new improved hand-book of Hygiene and Domestic Medicine, says over his own signature in addressing the proprietors of Warner's Safe Cure:—"I cannot be true to my convictions unless I extend a helping hand and endorse all I know to be good and trustworthy. Your graphic descriptions of diseases of the kidneys and liver have awakened the medical profession to the fact of their great increase. Physicians have been experimentally treating this disease, and while casting about for an as horized remedy, their patients have died on their hands.

DISEASED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

Through the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding you this testimonial, well satisfied as it is by you, to prove that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James E. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says:—"In 1879 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corrupt ion. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1888 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them and was perfectly cured."
Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

Dr. Kincaid's Farm AND TOWN PROPERTY FOR SALE BY AUCTION.

UNDER a power of sale contained in a mortgage (which will be produced at the time of the sale) there will be offered for sale at Kennedy's Hotel, opposite the Post Office, in the Town of Peterborough, on Saturday, the 20th day of April next, at 2 p.m., the following property:—

Parcel No. 1.

Lot 8, concession 10, in the Township of North Monaghan, County of Peterborough, containing 100 Acres, more or less (except what is taken up for roads). On this Farm there is a good frame dwelling house, 2 large frame barns, 2 frame horse stables and driving house and a large frame cattle barn, capable of holding 40 head of cattle, frame hog and hen houses. All the buildings are in excellent condition, being only a few years built. The fences are in good condition, being wire and rail. There are three wells, and the Otonabee River adjoins on the south east corner of the land. The property is free from stones and can all be worked by any kind of machinery. There are about 70 acres ready for spring crop; 20 acres of fall wheat looking well. The balance mostly hay land.

Parcel No. 2.

Lot 9, Concession 9, in the Township of North Monaghan, containing about 100 acres, more or less, adjoining No. 1. On this Farm there is a large frame barn, about 36x54, with stable underneath. Also a log dwelling, one well of water; and the Otonabee River forms the boundary on the east side. Fenced and in good order. About 17 acres ready for spring crop, about 60 acres of meadow, the balance pasture and a small amount of timber land. About 110 acres free from stones or stumps, and any kind of machinery can be used.

The above Farms are situated within 4 miles of the Town of Peterborough (one of the best market towns between Montreal and Toronto) in a good neighborhood, near churches and schools, good roads, and are considered two of the best Stock, Grain and Dairy Farms in Canada. A most desirable property and well worth the attention of intending purchasers.

Parcel No. 3.

DR. KINCAID'S PRIVATE RESIDENCE in the Town of Peterborough, corner of George and Murray Streets, 74 feet frontage. Splendid Dwelling, extra well finished inside, with brick Kitchen, brick Woodshed and 4 large brick Barn. This Property is connected with the Waterworks system. The property is almost in the centre of the Town and on the main street (George Street), and one of the finest properties in the country for a medical man.

PARCELS 1 and 2 will be offered en bloc and if not sold, will be offered separately. There will be a reserve bid on all of the above property.

TERMS OF SALE.—For the Parcels Nos. 1 and 2, 10 per cent of the purchase money to be paid at the time of the sale and so much more in 15 days thereafter, as will, with the 10 per cent., make up one half of the purchase money, and the remainder to be secured by mortgage of the premises, payable in 5 years, with interest at 5 per cent per annum, or the purchaser may pay down the whole of his purchase money within 15 days from date of sale.

Terms of Sale on Parcel No. 3, Dr. Kincaid's Town Property:—10 per cent down, sufficient to make one third in 15 days, and balance to be secured by Mortgage, payable in 5 equal annual instalments with interest at 5 per cent per annum on the unpaid principal, or the purchaser may pay the whole in 15 days after sale.

Possession can be given immediately after the day of sale.

Further particulars and conditions of sale will be made known at time of sale or on application to the undersigned.

Heavy Losses by a Great Fire

A Big Blaze at Bowmanville—The Losses and Insurance.

BOWMANVILLE, March 21.—About 2.45 this morning fire was discovered in McClung's Block in the building occupied by W. Quick & Co., grocers and provision dealers, who have been moving their stock the past two days to Beckler's Block. The fire had got much headway before it was discovered that the whole upper part of the block was enveloped, and nothing was saved except some dry goods from McClung Bros.' stock on the first floor. The building was completely gutted. Nothing now remains but the bare brick walls of what was the finest brick block in the town.

The block contained two large stores on the ground floor—W. Quick & Co., groceries and provisions, and McClung Bros., dry goods. The second flat was occupied by Dr. J. M. Brimacombe as dental parlors and R. Russell Lamoumbe's law offices. The whole of the third flat was occupied by Chas. Rose's school of music.

The fire brigades were unable to stay the flames, and James B. Fairbairn's brick block adjoining on the east soon fell a prey to the devouring element. The first to be cleaned out was Richard Worth's hardware store, and then David Davis' boot and shoe store. Part of the second story was occupied until a few days ago by Samuel Allin. Two larger stone houses in the rear of these two blocks and several smaller buildings, used as store rooms, were also burned.

About 3.30 a second alarm was sounded, when volumes of smoke were seen issuing from the roof of John Higginbotham's block, occupied by W. Blisses & Co., dry goods, and L. E. Higginbotham, drug store and residence, and Dr. E. C. McDowell's surgery. The second story was mostly destroyed.

The losses and insurances are as follows:

	Loss.	Insurance.
Miss McClung	$12,000	$10,000
McClung Bros	15,000	15,500
Quick & Co.	5,000	3,500
J. M. Brimacombe	1,200	600
R. R. Luscombe	200	500
Chas. Rose	200	500
J. B. Fairbairn	5,500	4,500
R. Worth	5,000	6,000
D. Davis	3,000	none
J. Higginbotham	4,000	5,000
Bliss & Co.	5,000	7,000
Higginbotham & Son	5,000	2,100
L. E. Higginbotham	150	500

Dr. McDowell, whose office adjoined Mr. E. Higginbotham's dwelling, loses about $1000 in property destroyed during removal. Mr. F. F. McArthur's block was somewhat damaged, as also was the dry goods stock of Thompson & Co. through removal.

The insurance companies are interested as follows:

Royal	$4000	Western	$6000
Phœnix	1000	Ætna	3500
Hartford	1200	N. American	3000
Caledonia	2000	Com. Union	3000

Whisky Raid at Whitby.

WHITBY, March 21.—License Inspector John Ferguson and Chief Constable Hugh McBrien made a raid to-day on the Royal Hotel, kept by James Black, also on the Armstrong Hotel, kept by Van Woodruff, and captured a quantity of whisky and beer in the bars.

Terrible Dynamite Explosion.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 21.—A sound like the combined roar of hundreds of cannon followed by the ascension of a huge black cloud of smoke to a towering height startled the inhabitants of Lakewood, N. J., and adjacent villages at 1 p.m. to-day. The earth was shaken as if by an earthquake. An explosion had occurred in the mixing room of the works of the United States Dynamite Company, three miles from Toms River. Thomas Haggerty and William Nicholas were the only occupants of the room. Nicholas was blown to atoms and Haggerty died in less than an hour. He was unable to explain the accident. His body was horribly mutilated and he suffered great agony. The shock was perceptible in all the towns and villages within 15 or 20 miles. At Toms River many citizens were greatly alarmed. Some buildings were violently shaken and the earth trembled. At Manchester and Farmingdale the report was distinctly heard. The United States Dynamite Company located its factory near Toms River about four years ago. Three explosions have occurred there in which five men were killed and three maimed for life.

Lost in the Storm.

One of our local editors clipped from a leading magazine extracts from a vivid description of a western blizzard which we take the liberty to publish and suggest to H. H. Warner & Co., the proprietors of the celebrated Warner's Safe Cure, the feasibility of an extract for the introduction of one of their telling advertisements. The following is the description.

"At the close of a dark day in January a solitary horseman wends his way across the open prairie in one of our western territories. He passes at long intervals the lone cabin of the hardy frontiersman. Two or three old settlers, of whom he has inquired the way, have warned him that a storm is approaching, and with true western hospitality, urge him to accept shelter for the night. But he declines the proffered kindness and urges his tired horse forward. * * * The sky grows suddenly dark. * * * The storm increases in its fury. * * * The rider dismounts to warm his fast chilling limbs. * * * Can scarcely breathe. Blindness comes on. Drowsiness steals over him. The end is near. * * * He is lost in the blizzard."

The terror which seizes the bewildered traveler is similar to that which overcomes one when he learns that he is suffering from an advanced kidney disease, and is informed that he is in the last stages of Bright's disease. At first he is informed that he has a slight kidney affection. Later he begins to feel tired. Slight headache. Fickle appetite. Failure of the eye-sight. Cramps in the calf of the legs. Wakefulness. Distressing nervousness. Rheumatic and neuralgic pains. Occasionally pain in the back. Scanty, dark colored fluids, with scalding sensation. Gradual failure of strength.

Any of the above symptoms signify kidney affection. His physician treats him for symptoms and calls it a disease, when in reality it is but a symptom of kidney trouble. He may be treated for rheumatic or neuralgic pains, heart affection, or any other disease which he is most susceptible to. Finally the patient has perfine under the eyes, slight bloating of the ankles and legs. His physician informs him that it is but the accumulation of blood in his ankles for want of proper exercise.

The blood continues and reaches the body. Then he is informed he has dropsical troubles, and is tapped once or twice. He notices it is difficult to breathe owing to irregular action of the heart, and finally is informed that he has a slight attack of Bright's Disease.

At last the patient suffocates—is smothered—and dies from dropsical trouble. Or perhaps the disease may not take the form of a dropsical tendency, and the patient dies from apoplexy, paralysis, pneumonia or heart trouble. Or it may take the form of blood poisoning. In each form the end is the same. And yet he and his friends were warned by the proprietors of the celebrated remedy known as Warner's Safe Cure, of the lurking dangers of a slight kidney affection.

He did not heed the warning that a storm was approaching. He declined the proffered hospitality, and recklessly went forward into danger. He struggled manfully for a time, but his strength failed—he grew gradually weaker and he was lost to the world. Not in a blizzard, but from the terrible malady which is occurring in every community, and which is destroyed as a symptom instead of what it is—a mortal disease unless properly treated.

Norwood.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. William Retherford, our village druggist, has purchased a home and lot on Queen street in a very fine location. It looks as though William was going to stay with us.

Mr. Jno. Thompson has given the contract for his large machinery show room on Peterborough street to Pengally & Malcolm.

Mr. Jno. Harper, jr., has started to build another fine house to replace the one he sold to Mr. Fitzgibbons, the banker, a short time ago. Mr. Harper purposes to build a house at a cost of $3,500.

The Norwood lacrosse club had a meeting last night, and it was decided to hold a concert to raise funds for the coming season, as they have joined the association and are under a large expense. Help the boys out—give them a bumper of a house.

My Toothache

is an exclamation heard every hour in the day. Toothache is the most common ailment of young and old, and in the aggregate inflicts more suffering than perhaps any other single complaint. A one minute cure is just what every person desires to possess. Nerviline—nerve pain cure—acts almost instantly in relieving the agony, and as a sample bottle affords a quantity sufficient for 100 applications, 10 cents fills the bill. Polson's Nerviline is the only positive remedy for toothache and all nerve pains. Sold by druggists and all dealers in medicine. 6w12d

Health Failing Fast.

"I was swooten from head to foot from dropsy of six months' standing, and my health was failing fast, but after taking one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters I am quite well, and think there is no medicine equal to B. B. B., and to it I remain a true friend." Joseph Heric, Linwood, Ont. 2w10d

A Dreadful Doom.

To be unable to satisfy hunger without being distressed by heartburn, indigestion, sick stomach, dizziness or faintness, seems a dreadful doom. All who suffer thus will find prompt relief and permanent cure in Burdock Blood Bitters. B. B. B. positively cures dyspepsia in any form. 2w10d

Nothing Like It.

"I was troubled with liver complaint for a good many years, but was cured by one bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters. I have never found any medicine to help me like B. B. B., in fact one bottle made a complete cure." W. J. Best, Parkhill, Ont. 2w10d

MARCH WINDS. The March winds peculiar to our climate, as they sweep over the country, are a terror to even the most robust constitutions as they greatly increase the liability to Colds, Catarrhal Troubles and Bronchial Affections. There is probably no season of the year when Cold in the head and Catarrh is more prevalent, and it is at this time that NASAL BALM—nature's great remedy for these troubles—proves its magic powers by almost instantly curing Cold in the Head, speedily relieving and ultimately curing the most virulent forms of Catarrh. On the principal that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, every home in the land should be provided with NASAL BALM at this trying season, and its use should be freely resorted to on the very first symptoms of Cold in the Head or Catarrh. It is the only genuine remedy and certain cure for these troubles, and its claims are backed by thousands of the strongest testimonials, a few of which we append below:

COLD IN HEAD
MARCH WINDS
CATARRH

WM. SAWYER, Toronto, says:—I had a bad attack of Catarrh last winter and like many other foolish people, thought it would wear away. But it did not; instead it was wearing me away, and at last I made up my mind to try something. I got a prescription made up, a powder and snuffed it up and up until I grew weary but got no benefit. I then looked over the papers and saw your advertisement in the Mail. I seemed to have confidence in it right away and got a bottle of NASAL BALM and I can honestly say it was the best investment I ever made, and I strongly recommend it to all sufferers from catarrh and cold in the head. It helped me from the first and has thoroughly cured me. Every sufferer from catarrh should use NASAL BALM, and leave snuff, powders and douches alone.

MRS. M. RAY, Canso, N. S., states: I have used NASAL BALM on several occasions with the children for cold in the head, and always find it effects a rapid cure.

MISS CLARA MACNIDER, Little Metis, Ont., says:—I have used two bottles of your NASAL BALM for catarrh with the most beneficial results. To anyone suffering with this most disagreeable disease I can heartily recommend it as a radical cure. I cheerfully give you permission to use this if you desire it.

MR. THOMAS ROCHE, Rochefort, Ont., says:—I have suffered severely from catarrh, and never got any relief until I used NASAL BALM. I never thought I could find so sure a cure. It is a pity all afflicted with catarrh do not know of and use this wonderful medicine.

W. A. MALLORY, Mallorytown, Ont., says:—My daughter suffered for years from a most distressing and annoying catarrh. Her case was under the treatment of eminent physicians in the United States and Canada. Two months use of NASAL BALM has had more beneficial effects than all former treatment combined.

EX-MAYOR ROBERT BOWIE, Brockville, Ont., says:—I used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it cured me after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head.

C. MCDONALD, Sergeant River, Algoma, says: I have used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it has done me more good than all the remedies I ever tried before. It is worth its weight in gold.

MR. G. T. GORRELL, mail clerk on C. P. R., says:—NASAL BALM is a boon to all suffering from cold in the head. It gives relief rapidly and never fails to effect a speedy cure.

MR. J. D. KENNEDY, G. T. R. agent at Brockville, says:—A short treatment with NASAL BALM radically removed all symptoms of my catarrh. The preparation is pleasant and easy to use, and gives immediate and permanent relief.

LEWIS ROSEBUCK, Wyevale, Ont., says:—I recommend NASAL BALM highly to all who suffer from catarrh.

MR. S. E. CHASE, Port Arthur, Ont., says:—I have been using your NASAL BALM for catarrh, and find myself cured with only one bottle. To call it the best preparation made for catarrh is scarcely strong enough.

T. H. MUNROE, Parry Sound, says:—NASAL BALM has no equal as a remedy for cold in the head. It is both speedy and effective in its results.

W. H. GAREL, Brevic, Ont., says:—I feel it my duty to write to you and report the result of my using NASAL BALM. I have been a severe sufferer from that loathsome disease, catarrh, and tried several remedies, but got no relief till I purchased a bottle of NASAL BALM. I used it according to directions and it has completely cured me. I take great pleasure in recommending it to all suffering from catarrh.

SAMUEL BOLTON, Caldwell Mills, Ont., writes:—It gives me great pleasure to testify to the great merit of NASAL BALM. I tried other remedies but got no relief. The disease had brought on partial deafness. Yet two applications of NASAL BALM gave me great relief and before the bottle was finished I was completely cured.

P. R. MACNAMARA, Merchant tailor, Brockville, Ont., says:—As an instant relief for Cold in the Head and Catarrh, NASAL BALM is unequalled. The effect is noticed as it is used.

MR. JOHN BROWN, Kagawong, Algoma, Detroit, writes:—I have used your NASAL BALM and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best remedy on earth for catarrh. I have only used one half bottle, and it has fully cured my catarrh. I have no hesitation in giving my name as an endorsation of NASAL BALM, as the greatest remedy yet discovered for catarrh and cold in the head.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS similar only in name and appearance. Ask for NASAL BALM and take no substitute recommended as "just as good." If you cannot get NASAL BALM receipt of price—50 cents and $1—by addressing FULFORD & CO., Brockville, Ont. Send for our pamphlet "Gems of Wisdom."

HAIR MAGIC.

The equal of this great preparation is yet to be found. It is an infallible Restorer for grey hair—it stops all falling out of the hair—it removes all dandruff and keeps the scalp clean. On bald heads (if there are but the faintest traces of roots) the Magic will produce a fine growth. Will you try it? Or will you let your hair go, and become prematurely old? What do you say? All druggists everywhere have it for sale. Ask for it. Do not let the druggist tell you he has something just as good—many have dead stock of other hair tonics on hand and try to shove them off in this way. See that each bottle bears seal and signature;

The Otonabee Canoe Club last night debated upon the question: Resolved, that the system of bonusing industries is detrimental to the manufacturing industries of the country. Mr. R. E. Hall occupied the chair and decided in favor of the affirmative. The speakers for the affirmative were Messrs. W. Thompson, A. Clegg and Jas. Little; for the negative, Messrs. B. Ludgate, W. H. Hill and A. E. Dixon.

A Restaurateur Levants.

"Sutton's" is no more. Boarders at the down town restaurant found the doors locked this morning, and enquiry revealed the fact that its quondam proprietor had skedaddled during the night, leaving numerous creditors to bewail his sudden departure. Sutton always did a "cash in advance" business, and a number of the boarders were "stuck" for a couple of weeks' meal tickets which they had paid for in advance.

Revival Notes.

Last night Mr. Crossley and Miss Vair sang a duet, entitled, "Ah, My Heart," No. 64 in the song book.

Rev. Mr. Pearson read the special requests for prayer. Among them were requests from wives for husbands, mothers for boys and girls, children for parents, sisters for brothers, and for friends. A lady wrote from Michigan asking prayers for her husband and aged father. She had seen accounts of the meetings in the Peterborough papers. A request for prayer was also read on behalf of church members, that they may quit their drinking habits and no longer be stumbling blocks in the way of others.

Wm. T. Belfield, M. D., surgeon to the genito-urinary department, Central Dispensary, Chicago, says:—"The diagnosis of Bright's disease is often erroneously made where there exists no inflammation, but simply venous congestion of the kidneys." Neglect in these cases of congestion allows organic changes to take place, thus Bright's disease is developed, which result may be avoided by the timely use of Warner's Safe Cure. This remedy removes the obstruction and equalizes the circulation.

Mr. Baptie's Position.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I observe by the report of the workingmen's meeting on Thursday night, I am accused by Mr. McGregor as backing out at the last moment of supporting the nine-hour movement. Now, sir, I was never asked to do so, nor did I promise to support the nine-hour movement for carpenters. I was asked, if elected, if I would support the corporation laborers working nine hours, I promised to and I did so. I was never under the impression it was the intention of the carpenters to adopt the nine-hour movement this summer. I am not, nor never was, a kicker (as I have been reported to be), but have always paid the highest wages and am perfectly willing to adopt any hour movement, if I am not the loser by it. If the contractors agree to pay me ten per cent. more for their work than now, I am willing to sign the agreement; if not, I should be at a loss of over $200 per year, which I do not think any rational man would ask me to suffer. Owing to the present depression in trade, I am under the impression that to adopt the short-hour system would have a deterring influence on intending builders, as they would have to pay the extra amount of cost. However, I am willing to consent to any equitable and just arrangement of the hours of labour which will have due regard to all the interests affected by it. A movement of this kind should, I think, be agitated with a due regard to all concerned—not with sole reference to any particular class.

Yours, etc.,
J. D. Baptie.

Police Court.

Assaulted the "School-Marm"—Asleep in Church.

Saturday, March 23.

Irwin Brown wandered into St. Paul's Church last night while intoxicated, and, sitting down on the floor, soon fell asleep. He was awakened by the congregation rising to leave, and the sudden disturbance so confused his muddled intellect that he had to be looked after by the ushers, who brought him down to the police station. He was allowed to go this morning.

Howard Harper was arrested last night while drunk and disorderly, and this morning was fined $5.

An assault case was settled by the defendant making apology for his misconduct. The complaint was laid by Miss McAllister, a school teacher from section five, Douro, who charged a young lad with having used his fists upon her. The boy, it seems, was very unruly, and was guilty of mutinous conduct towards his school teacher on more than one occasion. The teacher accepted an apology made through the lad's counsel, Mr. E. B. Edwards, and the magistrate added a few words of advice to the boy regarding his conduct in future.

A Prosperous Institution.

Annual Meeting of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada.

The annual meeting of the Sun Life Assurance Company was held on Friday, March 1st, at the Company's offices, St. James street, Montreal. The attendance was large.

THE DIRECTORS' REPORT.

The report of the Directors is as follows:—

In again meeting the shareholders at our annual gathering, it is a pleasure to the directors to be able to report another year of rapid growth and continued and increasing prosperity.

During the year we received 2,456 applications for $3,396,483.56 of life assurance, besides, 1,279 for $2,820,900.00 accident. Of these we accepted 2,255 for $3,030,515.99 in the life branch and 1,269 for $2,794,400.00 in the accident, and policies were issued therefor. The total applications for new assurances were thus 3,735 for $6,217,383.56, an exceedingly satisfactory showing.

The policies remaining in force at 31st December were as follows:

Life	8,949	$11,231,200 62
Accident	7,627	4,694,800 00
Total	16,576	$16,026,200 62

The figures are an advance of nearly $2,000,000 over those of 1887, and show the very rapid rate at which the Company is progressing.

The total income was $525,273.58. This is by far the largest amount we have ever received in one year; and the increase would have been even more marked, but for the fact that in 1887 our income was augmented from the profits which were then distributed, for, in accordance with the regulations of the Government Insurance Department, the cash values of all bonuses added to policies during the year were included in the Revenue Account as single premiums for so much additional assurance.

The amount paid for claims by death was $104,649.00, which is somewhat heavier than in 1887. We must, however, expect this item to steadily increase, since our business is rapidly extending. It is satisfactory, however, to know that the total is considerably less than the mortality tables call for.

As will be seen by the annexed statements the income exceeded the expenditure by $237,631.53, which is a handsome sum to set aside from the transactions of the year. The total resources at the end of the year were almost $2,000,000, and this sum has, of course, been more than reached by the present date. It is noteworthy that we now add each year to our assets a sum which in the early history of the Company would have taken five or six years to accumulate. We have, moreover, in addition already returned to our policyholders about $1,000,000. The comfort and assistance which this sum has been to the widows and orphans of the land can hardly be appreciated.

The usual careful audit of the accounts has been made by Messrs. P. S. Ross & Sons, chartered accountants. Besides checking all entries and vouchers, they have commenced and completed personally with each of the borrowers named in the Company's books, and have thus ascertained that the balances in the mortgage account are correct. A committee of Directors have, besides scrutinized every bond and mortgage, and they certify that everything is in perfect order.

The Directors who retire are:—Messrs. W. J. Withall, S. H. Ewing and R. Macaulay, all of whom are eligible for re-election.

Thomas Workman, President.
R. Macaulay, Managing Director.

The President, Mr. Thomas Workman, said:—I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the report. I am not in the habit of praising things unduly, but I cannot withhold my unqualified satisfaction with the report and the condition it reveals. The first and paramount consideration with the directors has been to build up a solid and permanent structure. The foundation was firmly laid, and the superstructure we are rearing is meant to be lasting. Of late years the progress has been very rapid and in view of our limited population and the keen competion from both home and foreign sources it is marvellous that we should transact nearly three and a half millions of new life business and nearly three millions of accident assurances all in one year. Both the organization and its agents are to be congratulated on such magnificent results. It means that we had on an average $110,557 every week, or about $20,000 every working day the year round. Bringing it down in that way shows what a busy hive of workers the Company has, both in the field and at headquarters. I have briefly adverted to the competition from American companies. It is remarkable that not one British or Canadian life company can do business in the United States, and yet our laws allow their companies to freely compete with our home companies. I heartily coincide with my friend the Hon. Alex. Mackenzie in thinking that our wealthy citizens would do better in patronizing our home institutions. I am sure in regard to security they may go abroad and find less than can be had at their own doors. Many of our wealthier people have the idea that because a company may have large assets its soundness and ability to pay losses are proportionately great. That view errs in overlooking the fact of a correspondingly large indebtedness. If there are millions of funds there are also millions of liabilities to the policy holders, and if any of these companies, however large, were to cease to transact new business these funds would be needed to wind up the Company, as the claims from deaths and endowments would come in. I wish I could strongly impress upon the insuring public that our home companies, as regards security and every other essential, are certainly equal to foreign companies, while it should be more convenient and more agreeable to every loyal Canadian to be actively helping to build up our home institutions.

Mr. James Tasker seconded the adoption of the report. He had closely watched the progress of the Company, and found it had been very rapid and substantial. He felt convinced that in the future it will be even much more marked. The gains from time to time were well illustrated by the following table:—

Period	Gain in income	Gain in assets
1873 to 1878, four years	$ 54,611 21	$ 169,482 69
1879 to 1883, four years	93,590 67	193,188 29
1884 to 1884, four years	136,978 84	304 975 31
1884 to 1888, four years	346,393 93	675,916 97
Total in 1888	$365,273 58	$1,974,316 21

Period	Gain in assurances
1873 to 1878, four years	$ 1,149,743 00
1879 to 1883, four years	1,167,396 14
1884 to 1884, four years	2,983,924 90
1884 to 1888, four years	5,(86,896 50
Total in 1888	$11,981,960 63

Mr. E. K. Greene complimented the company on the prosperous condition of its affairs. He was particularly well pleased with the amount of the new business and hoped the rate of progress would be continued.

Mr. S. H. Ewing referred to the accident business. He considered that the liberal policy and dealing of the company should enable the agents to increase the business in this branch. Under the new policy, one-third or the whole of the sum assured is paid on the loss of one, or two arms, legs, hands, or both eyes. The company has just paid its first claim under this policy on a miller who had his leg amputated, for which the company paid $1,666.67, or one-third of the sum assured.

The adoption of the report was unanimously carried.

Mr. Charles Alexander moved a vote of thanks to the president and directors for the very able and careful manner in which they had supervised matters during the past year. Having been with the company since its inception, it was a source of much satisfaction to him to witness its success. He also stated that he was pleased to see present one of the first agents of the company, Mr. Thomas Gilroy, who now has charge of Manitoba and the North-West Territories.

Mr. H. W. C. Meyer, Wingham, Ont., in seconding this motion, said it gave him very great pleasure to be present for the first time at a meeting of the Company. The admirable report in the hands of the meeting proved the Company to be second to none in the Dominion. Although not an agent himself he knew that a staff of first class agents is of paramount importance to a company and he also knew that the Sun Life has a body of men in its service that could not be duplicated in Canada. The Canadian offices need not be afraid of competition. The climate of the country is healthy, our doctors are careful and reliable and all the conditions are favorable for the best success of our native companies It was right and advantageous to patronize them and he fully believed this would be done more and more as time went on.

The motion was carried.

The President responded, thanking the meeting on behalf of the directors and himself.

Mr. W. J. Withall proposed a vote of thanks to the managing director, office staff, medical referee, solicitor, notary and agents. After remarking upon the excellence of the report he stated that a company such as the Sun, was like a ship which could not be properly manned without good officers and men. He could vouch for the fact that the Company had both good officers and men. Mr. Macaulay, the Managing Director, was the bearer of the institution, and all the others did their part faithfully and well. He also paid a just compliment to the Medical Referee, Dr. Wilkins, and the medical examiners generally. He farther referred to the very important matter of settling claims, saying that as soon as a claim is proved it is good for a cheque at sight.

Mr. A. Macpherson, in seconding the resolution, agreed with everything that had been said by Mr. Withall. He was proud of the position of the Company and the fine results shown in the report. The Directors were always glad to do anything in their power to help along the agents.

Mr. R. Macaulay, the managing director, said the statement was a very satisfactory one. The progress was general, being very noticeable in every department. The Company is well established in public confidence, and the progress will be much more rapid in the future. Should this year's crops be good, and the trade of the country prosperous, he felt sure there will be a yet greater improvement in the Company's business for 1889. While the cash income had largely increased, the expense ratio had decreased fully three per cent. These facts could not fail to give satisfaction. Every branch was being carefully watched over. Dr. Wilkins continues, with his well known ability, to supervise the medical department. Mr. Selkirk Cross, as legal counsel, and Mr. C. Cushing, as notary, are indefatigable in their attention to the investments, and the notary and office staff have his unqualified confidence in the discharge of their duties. The agents deserve more than a passing word of thanks,—all had done well, and it was a pleasure to himself and reflected credit on the Company to have such a staff in its employ.

Mr. T. B. Macaulay actuary, drew attention to the great progress which Canadian life companies are making in the Dominion. The following table, taken from the Government blue book is instructive:—

	New Assurances 1875	The same 1887
Canadian companies	$ 5,977,691	$ 23,986,549
American companies	5,268,634	11,436,721
	Assurances in force in Canada 1875	The same 1887
Canadian companies	$21,827,326	$101,736,754
American companies	43,886,321	64,736,137

This shows that Canadians are appreciating more thoroughly every year the advantages offered by their own institutions and patronizing them more generally. The fact that the Company received the unusually high rate of 6.13 per cent. on all its realized assets is striking, and if the profits made on sales of bonds be included the rate would be raised to 6.65 per cent., a very remarkable showing in these days. The matter is a very important one for assurers, as the profits they receive depend largely on the rate of interest realized by the Company. An institution earning 6 per cent. has a great advantage over one earning only 4½ per cent. If each has $1,000,000 invested, the first one will at the end of a little over twenty years have not only as much on hand as the other, but an accumulated profit of another $1,000,000 derived from the excess of interest it has received. In view of the high rate of interest the Sun earns and the exceedingly prosperous condition of the business, he felt certain the profits of the next division will be large and satisfactory.

Mr. Selkirk Cross, solicitor, testified to the care in selecting mortgages, and the soundness of the investments generally. He was so well pleased with the management and had such unbounded confidence in the Company that he had recently largely increased his insurance in it.

Mr. Cushing also alluded briefly to the attention and prudence used in investing the funds. He even sometimes thought a little too much caution was used. It would be hard to have matters otherwise than sound and safe, as nearly every time he came to the office he found the President or some of the chief men of the Company there, which indicated the interest they took in its affairs.

Mr. J. G. Ross paid a high compliment to the manner in which the Company's books are kept. As auditor, he knew all about the Company, and was exceedingly pleased with the position of matters. He referred at length to the plan of getting acknowledgements from mortgagors of the correctness of the amounts at their debit, which is a peculiarity with the Sun.

Mr. Thos. Gilroy, Winnipeg, thanked the meeting for their kind expressions. There is a very close community of interest between the Head Office and its agents which leads all to work together for the common good, and the result is a splendid statement before them. He had been at the early meetings and certainly the difference between then and now was most striking. By steady progress the Sun has become one of the largest and best offices in the country. None are in a better position or have a better prospect; none, he believed, will be able to do more for its members.

A number of gentlemen spoke, expressing approval and confidence in the position and prospects of the Company.

During the course of the meeting a resolution was unanimously passed expressing sympathy with the President on account of the very serious illness of Mrs. Workman.

The retiring Directors were re-elected by acclamation.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board, Messrs. Thomas Workman and Senator Ogilvie were re-elected president and vice-president respectively.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

At a social entertainment held in the Fourth Line Temperance Hall, on Tuesday evening last. Mr. T. H. Milburn in view of his removing to Manitoba was honored by the presentation of a complimentary address accompanied by a beautiful family Bible, suitably inscribed. Mrs. Milburn was also remembered by the gift of a handsome musical instrument. The entertainment, which was presided over by Mr. Wm. Graham was enlivened by music, recitations etc. At the conclusion of the programme, the chairman read the address and Mr. S. Stenson made the presentation of the Bible to Mr. Milburn and Mr. Wm. Telford presented the musical instrument to Mrs. Milburn, Mr. Milburn replying on behalf of both in happy terms. The following was

THE ADDRESS.

To T. H. Milburn, Esq., P.M. Jubilee L.O.L. No. 178:—

Dear Sir and Bro.—We, the members of Jubilee Lodge, No. 178, L.O.L., and friends desire, on the eve of your departure from amongst us, to express to you the high regard and appreciation that we hold for you as a member of this Lodge, and as a neighbor, friend and citizen generally.

As an Orangeman we desire to bear testimony to your zeal on behalf of the principles of our Order. You have worked well and faithfully for the promotion of the these interests in this Lodge, and we have no doubt but that you will carry the same spirit to your new home. During your career amongst us you have always attached yourself to those associations which promote moral interests in the community.

We also wish to bear testimony to the high respect which the character of your amiable wife, Mrs. Milburn, has won in the community, and we are sure we express the sentiments of all who may have the pleasure of her acquaintance when we say that the absence both will be regretted and missed.

In token of the earnestness of our good wishes, we ask you to accept this family Bible, whose pages you have done so much to keep open, on behalf of this Lodge, and this musical instrument for Mrs. Milburn, coupled with the hope and wish that in your new home you may enjoy all the prosperity which your many good qualities deserve.

Signed on behalf of the Lodge,
Samuel Stenson, W.M.

We Only Laugh at Them
What unlimited gall for other houses to dare to compete with us! Why, we have secured the trade of Town and Country, also the confidence of the people, and must and will at all times, Sell Goods Cheaper than any house in Town. Merchants may say our expenses are so light we can sell goods cheaper, but we say ours are larger and our business massive Hence the advantage!
Look at our Tea Sales and prices. Other houses try to compete in price, not quality.
Look at our prices of sugars. Other houses try to compete in price, not quality.
Look at our prices of Fruits, other houses try to compete in price, not quality.
Look at our Extensive Country Trade, our Town Trade and surrounding villages trade, and in but few words, WE CAN DARE OTHER HOUSES TO COMPETE.

SPRING MILLINERY OPENING AT TURNBULL'S

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

We give a cordial invitation to all and expect to see you on the above dates to look through our Magnificent Stock, of Millinery and Millinery Trimmings, Mantles, Dolmans and Jackets, Light Plain Cloths and Fancy Checks, for the young people, rich Brocade and Fancy Stripes, for the older, with all the New Trimmings to Match.

The Event of the Past Week

Has been Dress Goods and Dress Trimmings. We cannot begin to tell you how they have been admired. Satear Cloths have been the favourites. There is an indescribable gentility about the colors that make you feel you would like to have a dress and wear it. The new steel and silk gimps blend in so perfectly. Our Bradford (England) Dress Cloths, at 10c., are worth a corner in your memory. Our Prints in the windows and on the counters have been turning up their sassy pretty faces at you as you pass by for the past two or three weeks, and many a prudent mother has had her summer supply sent home already, knowing she would not find the same assortment later.

During the past few weeks in the hurry and bustle of unpacking case after case of New Goods, we have neglected to call your attention to our Boys' Clothing and Tailoring Department. In fact was it necessary? Our old customers know and the public generally, are finding out that our Tailor is very hard to beat in a fit, and we never take a side seat in prices.

Our Importations of Clothe from across the boiling sea have arrived, and lay side by side with their Canadian cousins. It is hard to say which is the prettiest or best, but the Scotch have the name of making the color faster than we Canadians. We will not dispute their ability to day. Our Tailoring Department is not what it was three years ago. It has grown amazingly. We mean it shall still grow by giving good goods, proper styles and close prices. Our Boys' Clothing is opened out. Boys be happy, tell your parents of the fact, and have them come in and pick your suit out. We are sure we can please them with the price.

In the centre of the floor stands a table loaded with a job line of Laces. When we say job we mean half price or under. They are all two and three cents a yard, take your choice. You cannot buy the same Goods anywhere else less than five and most of them you will pay ten cents for. The fashion sheets (which are free) for this month have arrived. A full assortment of domestic patterns kept. Remember the days of our Millinery Opening, when our store will be in its holiday attire, when all the Novelties of the season will be displayed.

DINNER

is always a subject for sighs with a housekeeper and she often wishes that the law settled the question of "What shall we have for dinner," and prescribed certain dishes for certain days. Such a law would certainly save a great deal of worry and questioning to many tired women. But it is not such a difficult problem to solve after all especially in Peterborough, where we have such a good market, besides at China Hall you can secure full Dinner Sets that will grace any table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay.

THE ASSEMBLY CLOSED.

ONTARIO'S LAWMAKERS RETURN TO THEIR HOMES.

Sir Alexander Approves of the Bills Passed at This Session and Heeds the Customary Speech.

TORONTO, March 25.—At 3 o'clock on Saturday afternoon His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor appeared at the Parliament Building attended by "C" Company Infantry School. Sir Alexander gave assent in Her Majesty's name to the bills passed during the session and read this speech:

Mr. Speaker and Gentlemen of the Legislative Assembly:

In bringing to a close another session of the Legislative Assembly, I desire to recognise the earnestness and zeal with which you have devoted yourselves to the work of legislation.

The measure which you have adopted for developing the unsettled northern of the Province by means of Colonization Railways meets with my hearty approval. I am glad to believe that the revenues accruing from the opening up of the mineral and other lands through which the projected railways will pass, and the profits to be derived from the sale of certain classes of timber not at present marketable, will alone reimburse to the Provincial Treasury the expenditure to be incurred in carrying into effect the policy which has received your sanction.

I am glad to give my assent to the bill for creating the new electoral district of Nipissing. The large territory embraced in that district, and the new settlements springing up within its borders, entitle the district to a voice in the Legislative Assembly, the effect will doubtless be to direct public attention more fully than before to this important section of the Province.

The measure which you have passed for affording an expeditious and simple remedy for determining the claims of settlers in the new districts for damages to their lands by flooding will, I trust, materially aid in accomplishing the object desired.

By the Voters' Lists Act and the Franchise Assessment Act you have afforded increased facilities for enabling every qualified elector to have his name placed upon the assessment roll and voters' list.

The important amendments made to the Shops Regulation Act, the Factory Act and the Workmen's Iniuries Act will, I feel assured, be appreciated by all those who are concerned in the beneficial operation of these laws.

I am much gratified with the measures you have adopted for the improvement of the Pharmacy Act; the act respecting the study of anatomy and the Free Libraries Act. Each of these acts deals with important educational interests, and the amendments you have made cannot fail to exercise a salutary effect upon the special departments to which they respectively relate.

I have assented with pleasure to the bills you have submitted to me for the further improvement of our Municipal and Assessment Laws. I thank you for the liberal appropriations which you have made for the public service. The supplies which you voted will be expended with prudence and in the public interest.

The Provincial Secretary stepped up to the Throne and said: It is His Honor's will and pleasure that this Legislative Assembly be prorogued; and this Legislative Assembly is accordingly prorogued.

Then the band outside played once more, the few interested spectators departed and the Chamber closed for 1889.

COUNT BISMARCK'S VISIT.

His Visit to London Gives Rise to Much Political Speculation.

BERLIN, March 24.—Count Herbert Bismarck's visit to England following so closely upon that of Sir Edward Malet, the British Ambassador, has given rise to all kinds of political speculations. The rumors that England is about to join the triple alliance may however be dismissed summarily, as may also the statement of the official press that the Count is merely making a holiday visit. The fact is that the visit has a double object, the most important part of which is the arrangement of details for the Emperor's visit to England during the coming summer and to ascertain the wishes of Queen Victoria as to whether the visit shall be merely of a domestic nature or shall partake of a state character. If it is to be the latter Prince Bismarck is anxious to arrange imposing accompaniments. It is even stated in some quarters that the Chancellor himself will attend the Emperor, but this is doubtful. During the past week Count Herbert has had a series of long interviews with the Emperor at which the matter of his Majesty's visit was fully discussed.

In the second place Count Herbert will take the opportunity to discuss with Lord Salisbury colonial matters affecting the two nations. It is not improbable that some kind of an agreement will be arrived at embodying the principles of a future colonial policy where British and German interests come in contact. The Boersen Zeitung says that Count Herbert Bismarck will endeavor to bring the differing colonial views of England and Germany into harmony. In instances the South Sea Islands, where difficulty has arisen through British annexation of the Hervey, which there is reason to believe Germany regards as contrary to treaty, and adds: "Count Herbert will endeavor to arrive at an understanding on the Samoan question, to which Lord Salisbury has shown himself disposed, and will aim to conclude an agreement in respect to East and West Africa. It is believed in some quarters that England's dispute with Morocco will also come under discussion."

The Post announces that the Samoan conference will be postponed probably until the beginning of May. This may be regarded as indicating a desire to await the outcome of Bismarck's mission. Prince Bismarck's reprimand of Dr. Knappe is much commented on. The Freisinnige Zeitung points out that Dr. Knappe was really driven into a state of furor consularis by Herbert Bismarck's dispatch of Jan. 8, instructing him to effect the necessary reprisals against the rebels, who he said by attacking had brought about a state of war.

The seizure by the police authorities of The Volks Zeitung has created a great sensation, and a legal decision upon the right of the police to suppress the paper is awaited with interest. Even the National Liberal press have not a word to say in defence of what is generally rated as a rash and imprudent proceeding on the part of the police, while the feelings of the Liberal papers are shown by a paragraph in The Freisinnige Zeitung entitled, "Fearless and Enduring," and advising steadfastness under threatened reactionary measures of the Government which look like a return to the times of King Frederick William. The editor of The Volks Zeitung has addressed a letter to the papers denying any relations with the Socialists. An article in The North German Gazette hinting at increased strictness of the press laws is little relished by Liberal journals. Several of last night's papers state that the Prussian Government has already submitted to the Landtag a proposal for amending the provisions of the penal code and press laws.

A Strasburg letter to The Cologne Gazette states that the Government has resolved upon a stricter measure for the Germanization of the provinces—the dismissing of schoolmasters and tutors unable to teach the German language and replacing them partly by Alsatians and partly by Germans.

A scandal has been caused by the bringing of serious charges against Dr. Webs, a member of the West Prussian Diet, and formerly president of the permanent committee of that body. Dr. Webs is officially charged with the fraudulent appropriation of 104,000 marks which had been voted by the committee for certain works. He will probably be compelled to resign.

The inauguration of the Bismarck-Maltke monument has been fixed for March 31.

Marie Van Zandt is having great success in Italian opera at Kroll's Theatre.

Prince Hohenlohe's Theory.

BERLIN, March 24.—A meeting of the Colonial Society was held here yesterday. Prince Hohenlohe made an address in which he attributed the rebellion in East Africa to the unlimited importation of arms and ammunition. He urged that the powers combine to prevent the real source of the trouble which was affecting all alike.

A Pettiest Bank Robbed.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 24.—John Morris refused to put the saving of a life time $1255, in a bank, as he thought it would not be safe, and he and his wife sewed the money in her petticoat. Saturday night three masked men entered his wife's room, gagged her, stole the petticoat from under her pillow and escaped. Wm. Standish has been arrested and Mrs. Morris identified him as one of the thieves.

THE ATTY.-GEN.'S SPEECH.

MR. EDMUND WEBSTER'S MEMORABLE DEFENCE.

His Honor Vindicated but Criticism Not Silenced. Mr. Chamberlain's Organ Makes an Important Announcement.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Mr. Smalley cables The Tribune from London: The Attorney-General of England has been on the whole for some little time past the most abused man in England. The charges against him may be summarized: The Attorney-General sinned in acting as private counsel for The Times while the chief law officer of the Crown; sinned in his general conduct of the case before the Commission; sinned particularly in passing Pigott into the box as a witness, knowing him to be unworthy of belief; sinned in vouching for the genuineness of the letters, and in advising the appointment of the Commission on the strength of that belief. The Attorney-General has dealt with these and other matters in a speech which will long be memorable. He showed that he had, as every Attorney-General has always had and has often exercised, the right to appear as private counsel in any case in which he thought fit to accept a brief. He denied absolutely having ever vouched for the genuineness of the letters. There was not, he said, the shadow of a foundation for the suggestion that the Government had acted on his opinion or advice in proposing or constituting the Commission. He was charged with having adopted in court tactics of surprise, with concealing the names of witnesses. "I acted," replied Sir Richard, "under the direction of the Bench and with their full knowledge and approval; and this charge is a charge against the court, not against me."

He was charged with putting Pigott into the box, knowing him to be unworthy of credit, and Pigott's letter was referred to as proof. There was nothing, he replied, in the letter to suggest that Pigott did not believe the letters to be genuine.

Lastly comes The Times' withdrawal of the letters and its apology. "I framed it," said Sir Richard. "If I were to do it again I should phrase it as nearly as possible in the same terms. I went to the extreme verge of my duty. If I erred I erred in saying too much, not too little." I doubt whether on this point Sir Richard carried the House or will carry the public with him. But he has, I imagine, professional opinion on his side. He acted purely and entirely as a lawyer with reference to the conduct of a case in court, not to public opinion outside. Whatever may be thought on this one point, there can be no doubt as to the speech as a whole. It was worthy of the great days of the Bar, and as an argumentative and oratorical effort, was worthy of the House where it was delivered. Sir Richard Webster has done nothing in public equal to this. There was no lack of fervor or of dramatic effect. It does not silence all criticism on Sir Richard's handling of the case before the Commission, nor was it meant to. But this speech is a vindication on all these points which touched his honor, whether professional or personal.

An Amazing Misstatement.

LONDON, March 24.—Mr. Lewis, solicitor for the Parnellites, writes to call attention to a amazing and important misstatement with reference to Pigott which was made by Attorney-General Webster in the House of Commons Friday. He says the letter referred to by Mr. Webster as having been placed in Sir Charles Russell's hands five days before Pigott's appearance in the witness box was a letter from Mr. Soames, solicitor for The Times, to Pigott, and two other letters from Pigott to Mr. Soames, in which Pigott admitted that he feared to undergo a cross-examination, were withheld by The Times' lawyer. Mr. Lewis says it is a fact that neither counsel nor the solicitor for the Parnellites had notice of the existence of these two letters until Pigott had decamped.

Proposed Irish Legislation.

LONDON, March 24.—The Birmingham Post, the organ of Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, announces upon authority that the Government has decided to deal with the Irish land question early in the parliamentary session of 1890, the time of the measure to be so laid down that they will admit of no modification as the result of obstruction or factious opposition. The bill will be followed at the opening of the session of 1891 by a measure of reform of Irish local government, the details of which are practically the same as those published in The Post last year. This move is believed to be the result of an agreement between the Tories and the Unionists, on the basis of the Tories passing Mr. Chamberlain's scheme in return for unflinching Unionist support to such other measures as the Tories may meanwhile formulate. The only thing the Conservative leaders have to fear in carrying out the provisions of a deal of this kind is defection in their own ranks. The recent developments of the Parnell Commission have had the effect to shake the faith of a good many Tories in the wisdom of the Government's policy, and the further proceedings of that body may scarcely be relied upon to reassure the doubters.

The Gorton Election.

LONDON, March 23.—The election in the Gorton division of Lancashire, to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons caused by the death of Richard Peacock (Gladstonian), resulted in the return of Wm. Mather (Gladstonian), who received 5155 votes against 4309 for Ernest Hatch (Conservative and Liberal Unionist). At the last election Peacock received 4593 votes and Lord De Walton (Conservative) 4135.

The Statist's View of the Paris Crisis.

LONDON, March 24.—On the Stock Exchange the past week prices were firm and business was restricted. The small effect which the Paris collapse had on quotations here shows a great undercurrent of strength. In view, however, of impending failures in connection with metal in London and Paris great caution is exercised. American railroad securities were dull.

On the Berlin, Frankfort and Vienna Bourses prices closed firm yesterday.

The Statist considers that the Paris crisis has crippled the producing and consuming power of France. It says that large numbers of workmen will be thrown out of employment who will generate discontent, throwing discredit on the Government and increasing Boulanger's chances which the new repressive policy is not likely to counteract. The effect abroad will also be great. With the leading powers of France crippled Russia will be less friendly to France and the aggressive policy of Russia will be checked. Russia, Austria and Italy will find greater difficulty in borrowing and the prospects of peace will be thereby increased. The inevitable crippling of trade in France will injure trade in all Europe and disturb Eastern and South American commerce.

The Paris Bourse Recovering its Tone.

PARIS, March 24.—The Bourse yesterday was firm throughout on the recovery of prices of credit shares and in sympathy with higher prices abroad.

Mr. Bright Suffers a Serious Relapse.

Butterfield's Claim Against Denmark.

COPENHAGEN, March 24.—A committee of the Lower House of the Rigsdag has advised the ratification of the convention between Denmark and the United States providing for the arbitration of the claim of Mr. Butterfield for a number of vessels lost near St. Thomas many years ago. It is doubted however whether the reference of the claim to a court of arbitration will be necessary.

"CLUTCH" DONOHUE DYING

HE WILL BE PERMITTED TO END HIS DAYS A FREE MAN.

A Warrant for His Release from Kingston Penitentiary Signed by the Minister of Justice on Saturday.

OTTAWA, March 23.—John Donohue, better known throughout the Niagara district as "Clutch Donohue," who for a number of years conducted the Queen's Hotel in Fort Erie, Ont., and whose trial at the suit of the United States Express Company and connection with shady doings in conjunction with a Buffalo newsdealer is still fresh in memory, is dying of consumption. His wife went from Fort Erie to the Kingston Penitentiary, where he has been serving a six years' [illegible] a few weeks ago, and has remained by his bedside ever since.

His pitiable condition induced the Warden of Kingston Penitentiary and the medical officials to make representations to the Government in his behalf, and the Minister of Justice to-day signed a warrant for Donohue's release from prison. It is represented that he has but a few days—perhaps but hours—and his wife and the sick man both pleaded earnestly that he be permitted to die a free man, outside of the prison walls. His request was granted and he will be at once removed to comfortable quarters outside, where he may at least have the satisfaction of knowing that death, though certain, cannot visit him a felon.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Murderer Jacobs' Case Before the Supreme Court—The Quebec List Finished.

OTTAWA, March 24.—A case argued before the Supreme Court yesterday brings before their Lordships the time-honored question, "What's in a name?" A Caughnawaga Indian named Jacobs is at present confined in the Montreal Jail awaiting the carrying out of sentence of execution for the murder of his wife. That he did murder the woman is undisputable, but it is claimed that the name was incorrectly stated in the indictment and that therefore the verdict against Jacobs should be voided. Mr. Cornellier, Q.C., appeared for appellant and Mr. Trenholme for the Crown. Their Lordships have reserved judgment.

Having heard the Quebec list of appeals the court has adjourned until Thursday next, when the Ontario list will be taken up.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

Interesting Scenes at the Registration Places in Detroit.

DETROIT, March 23.—Registration of women by women and for women, the first ever held in Detroit, began at 10 o'clock yesterday morning. Early in the day E. O. Skinner received the following from T. W. Palmer, the new Minister to Spain: "I send you congratulations. Let every women register and vote. It means greater consideration for the affluent, better wages for the struggling, better times, better officers and a better State. The morning light is breaking, the darkness disappears."

Mrs. Mary T. Morley was the first woman in Detroit to offer herself for qualification as a voter. To the questions: "Are you a married woman? Is your husband a voter?" she answered in the affirmative, and her name was registered in red ink. Jane A. Patterson registered in the Second Precinct of the Fourth Ward in the morning. When her husband went to the place of registration about noon, and discovered that his better half had registered, he declared that if his wife intended to vote he would keep the proper balance by remaining at home to mind the children. In the Twelfth Ward the ladies exhibited a portrait of Mrs. Gross, the ladies' candidate, and one of David Ferguson, her Democratic opponent, who is a member of the registration board, and who has yet to be complimented for anything. The comparison was expected to work wonders for the woman candidate.

It was curious to see the effect of a woman's presence in the saloons, where many of them were compelled to register. All of the saloonkeepers made some pretense of cleaning up. Some of the saloons were decorated, and none made any attempt to sell liquor while women were present. One dealer was unable to stand the sight of a woman in his saloon, and moved the office of registration next door. In the home circles last evening the one topic of conversation was the new experience of women. Many a man who abhors woman suffrage and supposed his wife did, was astonished to see her name in the newspaper lists of the registered ones.

Who Bids for This Big Railway?

CHICAGO, March 24.—The great Wabash case came to an end at 1 o'clock yesterday in the United States Circuit Court by the entry of a decree offering the railway plant for sale in this city. Judge Gresham said: "We think, inasmuch as the Wabash property is in the custody of the court and the parties all before the court, that the court has the authority to prescribe an upset bid in the decree of sale. We therefore determine to enter a decree of that kind making the bid for the four main lines the amount of the principal and interest of the indebtedness." It was decided that the sale will be four weeks from yesterday, if in ten days the manager does not appear in court and pay the amount of the debt. A deposit of $100,000 will be sufficient to secure a bid.

The Australian Wheat Crops.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—Advices from Sydney announce that the Australian wheat crop has fallen short of the estimated product for the season and that stocks are being firm held, owing to the probability of the imposition of a protective tariff by the Colonial Government at Melbourne. The total yield amounts to 6,200,000 bushels from an area of 2,000,000 acres, more than one-fifth of which is not worth reaping. The total surplus for exporting will be less than 2,000,000 bushels, compared with 10,000,000 bushels last season. The wheat shipments from the Pacific Coast ports since this season to the Australian colonies promises to exceed those of any previous year.

The Dervishes Defeated by Emin.

CAIRO, March 24.—Mahommed Beraivi, who has arrived here from Omdurman, reports that Sheikh Senoussi's forces overawed Darfour and Kordofan and expelled the dervishes. In July last Mahomed Beraivi accompanied an expedition of 6000 Mahdists which proceeded in steamers and barges against Emin Pasha. He states that Emin defeated the dervishes near Bor, killing most of them, and capturing their steamers and much ammunition.

Mahomed Beraivi says it was reported that Emin was in good health, and that all his people and some European travelers were with him in Bahr-el-Gasel.

WINNIPEG, March 24.—W. H. Evans was accidentally shot in a bedroom of the new Dewdas House this afternoon by his companion Harker. The bullet entered Evans' cheek from below the eye and lodged near the ear, making a dangerous and perhaps fatal wound. Both young men recently arrived from England. Evans is a son of a prominent surveyor of Liverpool and Harker is a son of a minister of Bolton, Eng. Harker was playing cowboy when the accident occurred.

THE SCOTT ACT CAMPAIGN.

Meetings in the Opera House on Saturday.

Rev. M. L. Pearson replies to the "Times"—Rev. Mr. Browning of Belleville Makes an Address—Other Speakers and their Speeches.

Saturday afternoon and evening public meetings for the discussion of the Scott Act were held in the opera house, reports of which are appended. These meetings will be continued next Saturday, when besides the local speakers, in the evening Messrs. F. S. Spence and J. J. McLaren, of Toronto, two well-known temperance advocates, will deliver addresses. Rev. Mr. Pearson said that if any speakers on the opposite side would come down from Toronto or any other place and engage in a discussion with these gentlemen on the question before the meeting, their expenses would be paid for them.

AFTERNOON MEETING.

The attendance numbered about 150. Dr. Fife presided, and in his opening remarks pointed out that by the recent enactment of the Ontario Legislature the "high license" by law recently passed would, if the Act were repealed, bring but little more to the town treasury than the old license rates did. Therefore, repeal of the Scott Act would financially damage the town—another argument in favor of retaining the Act.

Rev. M. L. PEARSON also referred to the same subject, and denied the statement that the Act had been the means of losing money to the town. On the contrary more than twice the money had been collected for fines than the amount derived from the license system. The speaker then dealt ad seriatim with an article which had appeared in the Morning Times, containing a number of "reasons why the Scott Act should be repealed." A reference to "paid talkers" was repudiated by Mr. Pearson as far as the Scott Act party was concerned. Not one of their speakers received pay, and if there were any paid men it must be on the repeal side—in fact, men were being paid for canvassing for the repeal. To the statement that "men who drank to excess continued to do so now," the speaker replied that he knew of hundreds of men who had quit drinking since the Act came in force. The article states that $2,000 was paid for a police magistrate and $2,000 to prosecuting lawyers as a result of the Act. That was a statement that required proof before it could be accepted. It farther said that "a large number of cases of imprisonment for non-payment of Scott Act fines had resulted." This the speaker denied; the fact was, there were not half enough of the convicted hotel keepers sent to prison. The statement that there was "a loss of about $3,000 a year revenue," was another requiring proof to substantiate it. In answer to the charge that the Act had brought about no stoppage in the sale of liquor, Mr. Pearson said there was certainly a lot of drinking done yet, owing to the non-enforcement of the Act. He, however, quoted from returns made by Ontario County Council, giving the number of indictable offences in that county under the Act, 77, as against 136 under the license system; and 282 summary convictions under the Act, against 420 previously. This showed a large falling off in drunkenness. Then he compared the per capita consumption of liquor in British Columbia, under the license system, 8½ gallons per head, with Prince Edward Island, where, under prohibition, the ratio was only half a gallon per head. In half-and-half Ontario the ratio was 5½. Mr. Pearson wanted all these "drinking dives" the article spoke of pointed out to him before he believe they existed. The article complained that the Act removed the control over hotels. This was not a fact, for the Act provided simply against liquor-selling and not against houses of entertainment. The speaker emphatically denied the statement that under the Act "there was more perjury than was ever known during 50 years in the county." The article said to ask the police magistrate and lawyers and police for proof. Mr. Pearson did ask them, and challenged proof of the statement. Then what "new crimes" had been introduced under the Act? The only crime set forth by the Act was for selling liquor illegally, and had not the hotelkeepers been breaking this law under the license system. Again, how had it caused "many hundreds of men to perjure themselves?" If there was perjury the liquor-sellers themselves were responsible, for they tampered with witnesses and used means to compel them to perjure themselves. And if the Act "had not closed up one hotel," it was simply due to the fact that it was not enforced. That was no argument against the Act, but rather condemnation of the authorities who failed to carry out the law. Other statements in the article were also dealt with by Mr. Pearson. The paragraph that "it had not been administered with a view to advancing the cause of prohibition but to put money in the pockets of the few," was a mysterious one to him. Who "the few" were he was at a loss to say. But it had certainly financially benefitted some counties, and the speaker instanced Victoria, where, according to county returns, the fines from Scott Act convictions had amounted to $5,904 and the Scott Act expenses to $3,231, leaving a surplus of $2,673 in the county treasury. In conclusion Mr. Pearson said he had been out in the county lately and from all he could gather he believed the Act would be sustained by a larger majority than before. He urged the voters to carefully weigh the arguments of the two parties and they would see that they could not conscientiously vote for the repeal.

Rev. Mr. CROMLEY made a few remarks, referring satirically to the claim of all the speakers on the other side that they were "temperance men." They said more liquor was drunk under the Act than before, but he would refer them to the statement of people in Oakville, near Toronto, that more liquor was drunk there in one month after repeal than in the whole three years the Act was in operation. The people there were sorry they had repealed the Act, and Mr. Cromley urged the people of Peterborough not to make the same mistake. Taking up the temperance question, he pointed out that the liquor traffic was a great evil, and as such it should not be licensed any more than murder, theft or any other crime. The great harm of the license system, Mr. Cromley said, was that it was an outrage on law and order, and made the traffic a respectable business. In voting for the Act, however, the ratepayers freed themselves from all personal responsibility. In conclusion Mr. Cromley sang "Don't go near the Barroom, Brother."

Rev. A. C. WILSON was the last speaker. He pointed out the individual responsibility of each person, and that to be silent, inactive or opposed to this question was to range one's self against God and become endorsers of the license system. The speaker upbraided those jelly-fish men and ministers who were afraid to come out on this great question. He dealt with the temperance question from a moral and commercial standpoint, and rejected "moderate drinking" and "moral suasion" as possible remedies for the evil. He believed that in adopting the Scott Act the people were on the next rung to the last in the ladder of reformation, and that the next step would be prohibition.

EVENING MEETING.

At night there were about the same number present as during the afternoon. Rev Mr. Browning, of Belleville, was present. Dr. Fife again presided, and in reply to a question said that any person who has knowledge of any violation of the law has a right to lay an information, irrespective of the Inspector or police officers.

Rev. Mr. PEARSON said there were difficulties in the way of this law that there were not in the way of any other, and a strong public sentiment was necessary to show the government that we wanted this law and wanted it better enforced. This could best be shown by defeating the repeal movement.

A gentleman rose and said that there was as much drinking on Saturday nights under the old license law as under the Act, for he had himself often sat up playing cards and drinking from Saturday night to Sunday morning; and he could say the law was no better observed then than now.

Mr. PEARSON said he had heard upon the authority of a minister of this town that at a recent meeting of the ministers and laymen of the Presbyterian church in this district, which includes a number of large towns such as Campbellford, Port Hope and others, they were asked what effect the Scott Act had upon their individual constituencies, and with only one exception the answer was satisfactory, that drunkenness had been decreased. He said that there was an impression abroad that there was more drunkenness under the Act, but this was because now it became more conspicuous on account of the sale of liquor being prohibited. He did not believe the statement, however, except, perhaps, during the last few weeks, when he believed men were being made drunk on purpose to create this illusion.

Rev. Mr. BROWNING gave some figures to prove that the Scott Act was a great moral success. In Port Hope, for instance, during the last year of license there were 103 arrests, and under the last year of the Scott Act only 14 arrests. Again, in the province during the last full year under the license, 1880, there were 6,201 commitments to gaol, while in 1887, the last full year under the Act, there were but 7,226 commitments.

Dr. FIFE said he had enquired regarding inland revenue returns a few weeks ago, and found that in the last year under the license system, before the Scott Act came into force, the inland revenue returns were $4,000, while during the Scott Act they were only $2,000 a year. Rev. Mr. Browning supplemented a statement made by Sir Charles Tupper in the House of Commons that since the Act came in force there was a decrease of $2,000,000 in the Dominion revenue from liquor.

Rev. Mr Browning said he would not attempt to give an address dealing with technicalities or taking up any particular line of argument, but he would speak to them as man to man—a kind of warming up on the temperance question. He first castigated the men who say they would vote for prohibition if they could see their way clear(?) and those who say they could vote for the Scott Act—if it could be kept(?) If the Act was not kept, he blamed it directly upon the weak-kneed temperance people, and on this point he urged them to stand shoulder to shoulder and they would win. He was severe upon those men and newspapers who had not the backbone to make a stand according to principle instead of party. Some people say, the Scott Act is a failure anyway—but in their case the wish was father to the thought. The Act was not a failure anywhere, and certainly not in Peterborough. He said that at the time the license system went out there were 15 prisoners in Peterborough gaol, while under the Act there were only 11. Mr. Browning's address was eloquent and enthusiastic, and replete with telling points against the repeal, and his peroration was grand. His address was worthy of a fuller report than we are able to give on account of the pressure upon our space.

Rev. Mr. Crossley closed the meeting with a few interesting remarks upon the subject, the theme of which was illustrated in his song, "Only Remembered by what I have Done," the moral being that every person should do something to help the cause.

Or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it; it is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has never given in thousands of cases a single failure. When a perfect cure has followed, it never fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. Thousands have been cured who have taken the Specific unknown to themselves. Send for circular and testimonials. Sold by druggists, or may be had of the Agent, W. H. STEVENSON, 186 Simcoe Street, Toronto, Ont. ow

ASKING FOR DISALLOWANCE.

...of the Petition Circulated Among the Protestants of Montreal.

MONTREAL, March 24.—Copies of the following petition were furnished at the Protestant meeting to-day for signature:

His Excellency the Governor-General-in-Council:

The appeal and petition of the undersigned ... subjects of Her Majesty residing in the province of Quebec, made pursuant to section ... of the British North America Act, humbly ...eth, that the appellants, your petitioners, ...ratepayers and electors residing in said province and form a part of the Protestant minority of the population of said province.

That at the date of Confederation there ...e certain estates and property of the late ...er of Jesuits which under the provisions of ...Act 19-20 Vic., cap. 54 (chapter 15 of the Consolidated Statutes of Lower Canada) ...med the Lower Canada Superior Education Investment Fund, of which fund the Protestant minority of the province were entitled to ...hare and portion.

That the Act of the registration of the Province of Quebec, 31-32 Vic., cap. 12, intituled: "An Act respecting the registration of the ...uits Estates," has abolished said Lower ...nada Superior Education Investment Fund ...d provided that the said estates and property may be applied to purposes other than ...es to which said fund was appropriated by ...d Act 19-20 Vic., cap. 54 (chapter 15 of the ...nsolidated Statutes of Lower Canada).

That the said act of the Legislature of the ...ovince of Quebec, 31-32 Vic., cap. 12, has ...us injuriously affected the rights of the Protestant minority by abolishing said fund.

That the Society of Jesus by order of ...uits had not and have not any rights, title ... claim whatever to receive from the said ...vernor of Quebec the sum of $400,000 ...ested to them by the said Act 19-20 Vic., ...p. 13, and said act empowering ...at sum and also the Legislative Grant ...ounting $60,000 to the Protestant Committee ...the Council of Public Instruction is prejudicial to the rights and interests of the Protestant minority of said Province.

That the abrogation of the said alleged settlement of the Jesuits' Estates to the Pope of ...me, as set forth in the preamble of said ...t 31 and 32 Vic., cap. 12, is unconstitutional ...being contrary to the provisions of an act ...ssed in the first year of the reign of Queen ...izabeth and declared by the Imperial Act ...George III., cap. 83, to have force and ...ect in this Province, and said unconstitutional act is prejudicial to the interests of the Protestant minority of this province.

Wherefore your petitioners hereby humbly ...peal to Your Excellency-in-Council against ...d act of the Legislature of the Province of ...ebec, 31-32 Vic., cap. 12, and pray that ...ur Excellency-in-Council will be pleased to ...isallow said act and annul and set aside the ...me, and your petitioners as in duty bound ...ill ever pray.

Father Drummond's Defence.

OTTAWA, March 24.—Father Drummond, the noted Jesuit priest from Montreal, who has been conducting a Lenten retreat at the basilica during the past week, this evening inaugurated a week's mission at St. Patrick's, incidentally referring to the anti-Jesuit agitation he took occasion to deny that it was a precept of the order that the end justified the means or that any unlawful means, even a lie, was countenanced for the achievement of any end. He announced that he would to-morrow evening answer fully an attack made upon the Jesuit order and upon him personally by Rev. ... J. Roy, an American clergyman of Winnipeg, in a pamphlet just issued.

DESPERATE BURGLARS.

A Hamiltonian Shot at by Midnight Prowlers—Suicide of Wm. Cook.

HAMILTON, March 24.—About 2:30 o'clock yesterday morning there was considerable excitement in Oxford-street, the residents in that quiet part of the city being startled and roused from their slumbers by a woman's cries for help. The cause of the commotion was a desperate attempt at burglary, which was made at the residence of Samuel G. Catchpole, 40 Oxford-street. About 2.30 o'clock Mrs. Catchpole was awakened by hearing steps coming up the stairs towards her bedroom. Seeing a light she called her husband, who got up in time to close the door in the faces of two masked men. The men tried to force Catchpole back and succeeded in getting the door partly open. The intruders fought desperately to get in, but Catchpole was equally determined and kept them out. They became enraged at being baffled, and one of the men pulled a revolver and fired a shot through the panel of the door. The bullet grazed Catchpole's head and entered the wall on the other side of the room. In the meantime Mrs. Catchpole had lifted the window and called for help. Her screams scared the burglars away. The crooks first broke into Catchpole's shop and took out a brace and bit. Then they bored nine holes in the kitchen door and took out a piece large enough to put a hand through and unlock the door. Not being able to find anything downstairs they made their effort to get into the bedroom. The men were of medium height and were both masked. Nothing was stolen out of the house.

Wm. Cook, who for many years has been caretaker of the James-street market and who lived at 126 Hunter-street west, cut his throat with a penknife at noon yesterday and died twenty minutes afterwards. Mr. Cook was about 66 years old.

A writ has been issued against Thomas O'Callaghan, a wealthy London gentleman, claiming $25,000 damages for breach of promise on behalf of Miss Myra Harrell of Gore-street, Hamilton. The plaintiff is a pretty young type-writer and formerly lived in Guelph. She came to this city to live with her uncle some years ago, and since that Mr. O'Callaghan has been paying attention to her, and, she claims, promised to marry her. R. W. Walkem, agent of this city is acting for Miss Harrell.

FIRE IN THE CITADEL.

The Royal Artillery Barracks at Halifax Burned.

HALIFAX, March 24.—The Royal Artillery barracks inside the citadel fort were destroyed by fire last night and a large part of the city had a narrow escape from destruction owing to the close proximity of two large powder magazines. The barracks consisted of an immense three-story wooden structure, which was reduced to ruins in three hours. The conflagration is at present said to have been caused by the upsetting of a stove on the second story, but nothing definite is to be learned on this point. The barracks afforded accommodation for between 200 and 300 artillerymen. Very little was got out of the building. The loss will amount to several thousand dollars.

The Oshawa S. S. Controversy.

OSHAWA, March 24.—The Catholic Church here was crowded with Catholics and Protestants to-day to hear Vicar-General Rooney of Toronto preach. During his sermon he referred to the Oshawa Separate School trouble and hoped it would be immediately settled in a friendly way. At the conclusion of his sermon he announced that the women could go home while the men were to remain, but what took place them is not known, although some were heard to say that they were not to support two Separate Schools. The contending parties have called a meeting for to-morrow night which in all probability will be a strong one.

Idlers and Strangers.

A meeting of the Idlers and Strangers of the George street Methodist church will be held in the Y.M.C.A. rooms to-morrow (Tuesday) afternoon at 4 sharp. All the members of the church who have not taken any part in church affairs are requested to be present as this will be the last general meeting before Good Friday.

The Talk of the Town.

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 13 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

An Awfully Sudden Death.

Mr. Daniel Hoolihan died suddenly at his home on Donegal street yesterday morning. Deceased was in his usual health Saturday night, and the family had no intimation of their terrible misfortune till he was found dead in bed. Some of the family heard him calling from his bedroom about daylight, but thinking he was simply calling them to get up, no further attention was paid him. Shortly afterwards he was found as already stated. Deceased was about 50 years of age, and had a large family. A post-mortem examination was made by physicians, when it was discovered that heart disease was the cause of death.

SPECIAL SUNDAY SERVICES

Mass Meeting for Men in the Opera House.

Large Attendance at all the Services—The Night Meeting in St. Paul's Church—The Fate of Those Who Resist the Lord too Long—Nearly 600 Converts in Three Weeks.

Sunday morning a different arrangement was carried out than was intended. Rev. Mr. Pearson not being very well, Mr. Crossley took the pulpit of the George street church and Rev. Mr. Hunter preached in the Baptist church. The former repeated his splendid sermon on "Perfect Love," a report of which, as delivered in the Charlotte street church a couple of Sundays ago, was published in the EXAMINER. Rev. Mr. Hunter in the Baptist church, read the 24th Psalm as a lesson, calling particular attention to the 7th verse. He preached a sermon on the Crucifixion, taking Luke, xxiii, 23, for a text.

For Men Only.

The afternoon meeting for men in the opera house was attended by an immense audience. The large hall could not accomodate all who sought entrance. Rev. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter conducted the meeting, and among those on the platform were Mr. Richard Winch and Mr. Lawes, of Cobourg; Mr. McMullen, of Picton, and Rev. Mr. Brownlee, of Belleville. The two latter gentlemen offered up prayers during the service.

Rev. Mr Crossley sang "Brother, Keep Away from the Bar-room," and afterwards addressed the meeting from the words of the 26th verse of the 6th chapter of Romans:—"The wages of sins is death." He pointed out a number of sins whose end was death, not only moral and spiritual, but eternal death beyond. The first was idleness, a sin that was very apt to beset those in easy circumstances. He urged all the men to work and be independent.

The sin of swearing was an ungentlemanly one, it was a superfluous and wicked habit, worse even than stealing; one might better injure man than God. The third sin was that of licentiousness, into which men were allured some because they think it is smart to "know all about these things," some out of curiosity, some instinctively and others through brutishness. They let their animal natures supersede their intellectual. Others again were guilty of licentiousness out of pure devilishness. Mr. Crossley was very severe upon that class of men who would deliberately ruin a woman and rob her of her virtue out of a spirit of devilry. "I would rather," he said, "be guilty of murder than have the blood of virtue on my soul." He urged the young men to keep their records clean before God and man, and have the disposition for these sins taken away by the grace of God. The last sin he mentioned was that of neglecting opportunities for salvation. "The wages of sin are death," but "the gift of God is eternal life," and Mr. Crossley exhorted them to accept the precious gift.

Rev. Mr. Hunter took the words, "Run, speak to that young man," as the basis of his remarks. He would, he said, speak to the young men first because they were now forming habits in life which might be their curse in after years, and he called particular attention to the habit of neglecting salvation. He impressed upon them that very few men are converted after reaching 40 years, and young men should not neglect their present opportunities. Mr. Hunter referred to those young men who questioned if they had souls, and condemned swearing as one of the most terrible of sins. The skeptic, he said, was a coward, for in time of danger he would always look to the Lord for succor, though denying Him while everything was all right. Mr. Hunter commended them to read 15 verses of the third chapter of John, if they were anxious to have their doubts set at rest. He urged them to ponder and pray over those passages and they would surely see their error. Mr. Hunter also warned the scoffer and the tippler of the terrible danger that beset them. He spoke of the scathing, scalding, blasting, damning influence of strong drink, and urged his hearers to never touch whiskey, and above all never "treat" a friend. This he stigmatized as a most dangerous custom. In conclusion he asked all Christian men to consecrate themselves to the Lord and to His work.

Before the meeting closed Mr. Fred. Winch related his experience, and said that all the townspeople knew how bad he once was, but he thanked God he was now happy in the love of his Saviour.

The services were concluded with singing and prayer.

The Night Meeting.

Long before the hour of service last night St. Paul's Church was crowded to the doors, and large numbers were compelled to stand up throughout the entire service. As Rev. Mr. Hunter remarked, the large congregations that nightly attend the evangelistic meetings is an evidence that the power of the Gospel is being felt in Peterborough. Mr. Hunter said he had been told by a brother who had taken the trouble to find out, that 550 persons had requested to be admitted to the various churches of which they were adherents, as a result of the last three weeks' labors. He urged the people to attend this week's services regularly, as they intended to discuss special subjects each night. He also invited those who had a prejudice against these meetings to come for three nights and all their prejudices would be swept away. Mr. Hunter said this would be the last week they would have an opportunity of speaking to the people in St. Paul's Church, and he and Mr. Crossley might never see them again, as they would not be able to re visit Peterborough and perhaps not Canada, their engagements being already mapped out so far ahead and their being such a large field for their labour that they did not expect to be able to come back. He wanted to see the last week's services in St. Paul's Church the most glorious of any.

FOR UNIVERSALISTS.

As a lesson he read a part of the last chapter of Revelation, and in commenting on the passage, "And His servants shall serve Him," said he did not look upon heaven as a place of inactivity, but where all would have something to do, though the doing of it would be rest for them. He had never heard Knox, or John Wesley, or Bishop Simpson, or Puncheon in this life, but he expected to hear them all in heaven. Coming down to the 11th verse:—"He that is unjust, let him be unjust still; he that is filthy, let him be filthy still; he that is righteous let him be righteous still; and he that is holy, let him be holy still"—he pointed out this passage especially to the Universalists, who say that every man in going heaven because God is too merciful to condemn him to eternal punishment. "He that is unjust, let him be unjust still; he that is filthy let him be filthy still." What were they going to do about that? God is merciful, but it would be no mercy to put a drunkard or blasphemer among the saints in heaven. No, he would be happier in hell. Some people think if they can squeeze in through the gates of heaven that is all that is necessary. But they were wrong there; there must be preparation for it or they cannot enjoy heaven. The universalists say, oh, we will have a little rough time after death perhaps but after a while we will drop into a cushioned chair and have one of the softest places in heaven. God is merciful, but it would be no mercy to allow such people into heaven without any preparation for the companionship of angels. It did not take very much, Mr. Hunter said, to knock the infidelity or universalism out of a man. The big mouthed infidel went around saying that he didn't believe in the Bible, while he never in his life read two chapters on his knees. But they were the biggest cowards in the world, for in times of danger they would pray to God for mercy. Mr. Hunter closed his address by a beautiful and affecting reference to the passage:—"And the spirit and the bride say come. And let him that heareth say come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely."

RESISTING THE LORD.

Mr. Crossley's text was Gen. vi, 3:—"My spirit shall not always strive with man."

This message was not encouraging to the unsaved, Mr. Crossley said, but it was intended to rouse them from their inaction. God strives with every person in a thousand and one ways at some time or other. Some people, however, deny that the Lord has been striving with them, while others don't recognize the evidences of the spirit striving with them. The former had no other means of accounting for the feelings aroused except by attributing them to the strivings of the spirit, while the latter class do not apprehend the operations of the spirit because they are waiting for some wonderful revolution of feeling. They have the desire and impulse to be better, but they think there must be some physical power to move them, whereas all they had to do was yield to these impulses and surrender to God. Thus the text implied that man resisted God, rendering a striving of the spirit necessary; and in that case one must either yield or become worse. The speaker pointed out that prayer for conversion was answered by God, but the subject could not be converted because he resisted. Every person had this power to resist, and those who continuously subdue the strivings of the spirit are responsible for their own damnation. And he wanted Christians to understand that though the ones they pray for are not saved, it is not because the Lord does not answer prayer, for He is anxious to convert everyone, but because the unconverted one uses his veto power and defies God. The Christian, too, resisted the strivings of the spirit by refraining from a call to church work; backsliders by refusing to return to God; the moralist by comparing himself to certain ones in the church, to their advantage or disadvantage, instead of looking at his own requirements; pew-holders and regular attendants at the churches resist the strivings of the spirit by refusing to yield to the Saviour, considering that they are doing enough by giving financial support; the skeptic, too, by arguing on the wrong side instead of thinking on the right side and seeing the folly of his doubts; the one who lives in open sin resists the Lord because he is trying to stifle his consciences by going deeper into it, or by trifling with the matter, or by procrastinating and putting off the question. These should yield to the Lord and enjoy the marvellous love which He is ready to pour out upon them. The consequence of resisting the Lord were spiritual blindness and deafness, a deadening of spiritual perceptions, which resulted in an increased power of resistance, the growth of a feeling of apathy, an approximation to the state of past feeling.

THE ULTIMATE OUTCOME

of persistent resistance is that the spirit of God leaves the individual; the time comes when the Lord says, Let him alone. Arrived at that state the person has no desire to be saved and those who formerly took an interest in them leave them alone. Mr. Crossley sincerely pitied any who were in this position. Some people are farther on in this line than they know of, and he hoped they would perceive their position and turn to the Lord. If they had the least desire for a change of heart it was an evidence that the Lord had not left them; but, he said, if the spirit of God has once left a man, his doom is sealed. He is dead spiritually and there is no hope for him. But why did God leave anyone? Was it out of arbitrariness on His part? No, He never leaves until He sees there is no further hope of that individual ever turning to Him, until He sees there is not the slightest desire or chance for a better life. Man alone is responsible for the quenching of his desires, and then God leaves him forever when He sees he is incorrigible. He put the question plainly to his hearers, How were their hearts? He urged them to open their hearts and let the Lord blow the spark of perception into a flame of desire for pardon, and as they come to the Lord and seek salvation they will be saved. Think of the eternity before you, he said, and where you shall spend it. In conclusion he sang, "Eternity, Where?"

Mr. Hunter brought the first part of the meeting to a close with a powerful appeal to the unconverted. Where would they spend Eternity? Eternity! This whole earth might be a vast waste of water, and a bird might take a drop out of it once in a million years; this world might be an immense mass of sand, and a bird might take away one grain every million years. The time would come when there would be no water nor sand left, but eternity would be just beginning. Where were they to spend this Eternity; how was their ship to live upon this ocean without a shore. What of Eternity without Christ? Mr. Hunter read a bit of verse, "A Hundred Years to Come," and urged the unconverted to settle the question of their soul's salvation at once.

NOTES.

To-morrow night Mr. Richard Winch, of Cobourg, will relate his experience. Mr. Hunter says it is one of the clearest and most interesting he ever heard.

To-morrow and Thursday afternoon at three o'clock meetings will be held in the Baptist church.

Mr. Crossley last night sang "Come unto Me" and "Nearer my God to Thee," urging each one to make the theme of the song the sentiment of their hearts.

Mr. Crossley announced that he would sing to-night "The Garden of Prayer" and "Papa what will you take for me."

Police Court.

MONDAY, March 25.

Patrick Kane, a grey-haired resident of Ashburnham, and the festive Jimmy Cash were each fined $2 for being drunk Saturday night. They were given a week to pay their fines.

John Snelgrove, also charged with drunkenness, said he was an upholsterer from Toronto, and had offers of a job in town. He was dismissed and told to accept the first offer made him.

Old Robert Burns was sent up to gaol for one month on a charge of vagrancy.

News Nuggets.

—The Oddfellows of Peterborough will have church parade April 27th.

—Before leaving town H A. Sutton, late proprietor of the restaurant, made an assignment.

—Mr. E. Webb took a large staff of bricklayers to Toronto this morning to work upon a contract job.

—A diamond ring was lost at the Sunday afternoon meeting in the opera house, for which a reward is offered. See advt.

Farewell Supper.

On Saturday evening last a number of the friends of Messrs. W. J. Bastard and J. E. Wadsworth met at Mr. H. Long's store to enjoy an oyster supper previous to their departure to the North-west. Mr. F. Sanderson occupied the chair. After ample justice had been done to the eatables they left the table (and that was about all they did leave), and a very enjoyable evening was spent. The Chairman made a very nice address, but we will just give a few remarks which he made. He was very sorry they were about to leave town and was sure they would be greatly missed. He, however, wished them success in their new field of labor. Both gentlemen made brief replies and expressed their regret at having to leave town, but they hoped to have the pleasure of meeting their Peterborough friends again in the near future. After a few songs had been sung by Messrs. Geakins and Bastard the meeting was brought to a close by "God Save the Queen."—[COM.

Athletic Sports.

Annual Meeting of the Amateur Athletic Association.

All those interested in the practice and encouragement of athletic sports of a wholesome character, conducted under unexceptionable auspices, will be sure to remember the annual meeting of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association on Tuesday evening. This organization represents all the desirable features of manly sports, and during its past career of five years has shown this in a practical manner. The association was organized in 1884, and from the time since its establishment, Dr. Burnham has been continuously president; and he has not been a nominal president; he has been an active, energetic officer—has afforded both moral and substantial encouragement in all departments of manly sport. The sports of the Association, all of an amateur character, are entirely free from the degrading associations often regarded as inherent in athletic pursuits. The Association has met with fair financial success, although its expenses have been very large in the direction of permanent improvements to their grounds in Ashburnham. But the success of the Association has been more conspicuous in its development of a taste for a higher order of athletic spirits, and on these grounds it deserves the public support, which will have opportunity on the occasion of the two first-class entertainments to be conducted in the Opera House after Easter, and these are the visit of the "Spanish Students" on one occasion, and on the other of the Hayden Quintette Club of Boston.

Church Chimes.

At St. John's church on Sunday there were large congregations, especially in the evening. A striking feature of the evening musical service was a male trio, Hymn 91, sung by Messrs. Shaw, Elliott and Budden with delightful effect.

Rev. Mr. Browning of Belleville, preached in the Charlotte street church last night.

At St. Peter's Cathedral Sunday, Rev. Father Cotey preached at 10:30 o'clock on "Purgatory," and in the evening on "Mortal Sin."

Rev. Father Dube is in Norwood assisting Rev. Father Conway in his parochial duties.

A certain minister in the course of Sunday's services stated that the whole bent of his inclination and every impulse of ambition, in his unregenerate youth were to be a lawyer. He became converted and the question arose, "can I possibly be a Christian and a lawyer." In prayer he referred this question to the Lord, and, without giving a cut-gorical answer, it may be stated that he became a minister of the Gospel as a calling keeping with the requirements of a religious life. Qui curri, legat.

M'GARIGLE IN TORONTO.

The Noted Chicago Boodler Leaves Banff and Comes Down East.

TORONTO, March 25.—In a fine bold hand there was written on the register of the Rossin House on Saturday this name and address:

WM. J. MCGARIGLE, BANFF.

McGarigle is an uncommon name and it did not take long for the carnal observer to conclude that this was the sign-manual of the famous Chicago boodler, who finds Canada is a much more congenial climate than those below the border line.

The only and greatest McGarigle has a wide reputation and his second advent in Toronto created no small amount of interest. In palmy days he was the warden of Cook County Hospital, an immense public charity in Chicago—at that time charges of boodling were rife and it came to pass that McGarigle and another hospital officer were arrested, tried and convicted on the charge of having connived with contractors, whereby they muchly enriched themselves. Both were sentenced to two years at Joliet, the State Prison, and McGarigle's pal went there. McGarigle was placed in charge of Sheriff Matson, who allowed him to call at his house before going to Joliet. At the house the ex-warden asked to be allowed to go to the bathroom, and the permission was granted. By the assistance of his wife he escaped through the window, and left the sheriff in the soup. This was in November, 1887.

McGarigle's friends were assisting him and he was put aboard the Canadian schooner "Edward Blake," which sailed down the lakes through the fierce winter gales. When it was too late the authorities got onto the game and followed in a steamer, but McGarigle was beyond the power of the United States law. At Port Huron the Edward Blake was boarded, but the game, which throughout the whole voyage had been secluded, his identity being unknown even to the captain, was gone. He had quietly got into a row boat and was rowed to the Canadian shore. He located for some time near St. Catharines, where he had friends, afterwards visited Montreal and then went to Banff, that delightful Northwest resort, where he has spent many pleasant months.

Mr. McGarigle left Banff a week ago and Winnipeg three days ago. The C.P.R. train from North Bay that reached the Union Station early on Saturday morning had Mr. McGarigle for one of its passengers. He drove to the residence of some friends in Berkeley-street and later came down town and registered at the Rossin House, being assigned to room No. 161. He was in fine health and good spirits and cordially greeted the few friends he met. While not caring to say much to cousiders about his Chicago affairs he admitted that he would like to have matters settled so that he might go back to Chicago. Asked about the bill which Dr. Waldon, M.P., has before the Dominion Parliament to authorize the mutual exchange of Canadian and American boodlers he said he had no fear as regards himself. While it was proposed that the measure should be retroactive he believed that this clause will be struck out. He will probably visit Ottawa this week.

Mr. McGarigle was in the Rossin House but for a few hours yesterday. He slept there Saturday night and dined there, but the rest of the day was spent with friends outside. He did not return to the Rossin till 1.30 this morning.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER
THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

The fact cannot be too forcibly impressed upon the minds of all interested, that good results can be produced only by the use of good materials. The main expense in painting is not in the cost of the paint, but in the labor and etc., and it requires more labor and more time to apply inferior paint than to apply the best that can be obtained.

SPRING MILLINERY OPENING AT TURNBULL'S

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

We give a cordial invitation to all and expect to see you on the above dates to look through our Magnificent Stock, of Millinery and Millinery Trimmings, Mantles, Dolmans and Jackets, Light Plain Cloths and Fancy Checks, for the young people, rich Brocade and Fancy Stripes, for the older, with all the New Trimmings to Match.

The Event of the Past Week

Has been Dress Goods and Dress Trimmings. We cannot begin to tell you how they have been admired. Saturday Clothes have been the favourites. There is an indescribable gentility about the colors that make you feel you would like to have a dress and wear it. The new steel and silk gimps blend in so perfectly. Our Bradford (England) Dress Cloths, at 10c., are worth a corner in your memory. Our Prints in the windows and on the counters have been turning up their fancy pretty faces at you as you pass by for the past two or three weeks, and many a prudent mother has had her summer supply sent home already, knowing she would not find the same assortment later.

During the past few weeks in the hurry and bustle of unpacking case after case of New Goods, we have neglected to call your attention to our Boys' Clothing and Tailoring Department. In fact was it necessary? Our old customers know and the public generally, are finding out that our Tailor is very hard to beat in a fit, and we never take a side seat in prices.

Our Importations of Cloths from across the boiling sea have arrived, and lay side by side with their Canadian cousins. It is hard to say which is the prettiest or best, but the Scotch have the name of making the color faster than we Canadians. We will not dispute their ability to-day. Our Tailoring Department is not what it was three years ago. It has grown amazingly. We mean it shall still grow by giving good goods, proper styles and close prices. Our Boys' Clothing is opened out. Boys be happy, tell your parents of the fact, and have them come in and pick your suit out. We are sure we can please them with the price.

In the centre of the floor stands a table loaded with a job line of Lasts. When we say job we mean half price or under. They are all two and three cents a yard, take your choice. You cannot buy the same Goods anywhere else less than five and most of them you will pay ten cents for. The fashion sheets (which are free) for this month have arrived. A full assortment of domestic patterns kept. Remember the days of our Millinery Opening, when our store will be in its holiday attire, when all the Novelties of the season will be displayed.

DINNER

is always a subject for sighs with a housekeeper and she often wishes that the law settled the question of "What shall we have for dinner,' and prescribed certain dishes for certain days. Such a law would certainly save a great deal of worry and questioning as many tired women. But it is not such a difficult problem to solve after all especially in Peterborough, where we have such a good market, besides at China Hall you can secure full Dinner Sets that will grace any table for so little money that anyone can afford the outlay.

No Department in our Store has received more marked attention than our Dress Goods Department. Every shelf is laden with the latest production of the English, French and German looms. For style, colorings and elegance in design, nothing has ever been seen like them for richness and cheapness. Every new wearing combination and texture out as cheap.

Our display of Silks in Printed Pongee and Caimes is unusually large.

DRESS TRIMMINGS.

We show Dress Trimmings in every conceivable design, to match any coloring in Dress Goods, and you will see Novelties in these Goods with us not shown by anyone else, as they were made to our own order.

Our Dress Making Department is busier than we usually find it at this time of year. This is due to the fact that our Miss Neill's abilities in this line are abreast of the times.

THE FISHERY QUESTIONS.

AN INTERVIEW WITH THE MINISTER OF FINANCE.

Mr. Foster Explains the Government's Reasons for Building to Issue Licenses Under the Modus Vivendi.

OTTAWA, March 25.—Regarding the decision of the Dominion Government to renew the issue of fishery licenses under the modus vivendi Hon. Mr. Foster, Minister of Finance, said to-day: "The Government has come to the conclusion to keep the modus vivendi for another year. Last year closed with President Cleveland's threat of retaliation and we had no intimation as to what would be the course of the incoming President. The modus vivendi was kept in force last year with the co-operation of the Newfoundland Government and all licenses granted under it expired at the end of the year. The fishing season will not begin until the latter part of March and there was no necessity for action regarding the policy of the current year until the fishing season commenced. Negotiations were in progress with the Newfoundland Government and both were desirous of ascertaining the tone of President Harrison's message before a final conclusion was arrived at. That message contained nothing unfriendly and did not intimate any renewal of the threatened retaliation. The Government therefore came to the conclusion—acting in concert with the Newfoundland Government—to continue the modus vivendi for the present year with the view of leaving the way open for the resumption of negotiations if any desire is found on the part of the United States."

"What about the closing of Behring's Sea to foreign fishing vessels?"

"It seems to be required by law that the President of the United States shall issue such a proclamation annually. The condition of the laws which prevail in that portion of the Behring Sea under United States control and warning all persons not to violate the law. This was done in preceding years and President Harrison followed the same course this year. The text shows that it covers whatever jurisdiction the United States may have there and has no connection with the question of Canada and Great Britain as to the extent of the jurisdiction. What may be the position of the United States we can't tell. They may claim the whole sea to the extreme westerly boundary formerly claimed by Russia. But if so it is a claim which the great maritime powers of the world are not likely to acquiesce in."

The bill to compel the placing underground of all telephone, telegraph and electric light wires, now before Parliament and for which the City Councils of Toronto and Ottawa have petitioned, is being opposed on the grounds of unconstitutionality as well as inexpediency. James A. Wright, manager of the Federal Telephone Co. of Montreal, has arrived in the city to offer the Government expert testimony against the bill and will likely be asked to appear before the committee, before whom all representatives of various municipalities will be heard.

It is understood that the contract for the construction of the bridge at Grand Narrows on the Cape Breton Island Railway is about to be awarded to Messrs. Isbester & Reid and that the price is in the neighborhood of $600,000. The competition has been keen for this rich plum. The work is one involving considerable engineering difficulty, largely caused by the great depth of water.

Strenuous efforts are being made to defeat in the Senate Dr. Hickey's bill for the incorporation of the Ottawa, Morrisburg and New York Railway Company, owing in the interests of the Ottawa, Weddigen and New York, a rival company already incorporated. The City Council to-night memorialized the Senate against the bill, which has already passed the Commons. Last year after it had passed the Commons this same bill was rejected by the Senate.

Hardie's Brief Glimpses of Freedom.

HALIFAX, March 25.—Henry Hardie, the New York forger, was discharged from custody this morning by Judge Townsend of the Supreme Court. He no sooner got outside the court door than he was hoodled into a hack by Detective Power, being rearrested under a warrant sworn out before a Justice of the Peace charging him with forgery. He was driven to the police station, where his counsel demanded his release and the officers refused to give him up. Both sides are now worked up over the case and the proceedings are becoming decidedly interesting. The second arrest was made in the face of the fact that City Marshal Cotter had already been served with papers in a suit brought by Hardie for illegal detention of his money and baggage.

A Dwelling at St. Lambert Burned.

ST. LAMBERT, Que., March 25.—The frame dwelling in Victoria-street owned by Mr. Hicks and occupied by Mr. C. A. Stevens, wire chief of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company at Montreal, was completely destroyed by fire about 5 o'clock this evening. The fire originated from a lamp which fell from the hands of Mrs. Stevens while in the act of removing some clothing from a closet. The building was valued at about $3000 and is said to be fully insured, but there was no insurance on the furniture, most of which, however, was saved.

Woodstock Jottings.

WOODSTOCK, March 25.—J. W. Marsden, H. VanAllan and Robert Smith of Ingersoll have been convicted of violating the Scott Act and fined $50 each.

Alex. Sutherland, an old citizen, retired to rest apparently in good health Saturday night and was found dead in bed Sunday morning.

At the regular service of the Dundas-street Methodist Church last evening it was finally decided that a new church is to be built. Subscriptions amounting to $40000 were obtained and plans adopted.

Suicide at London.

LONDON, March 25.—Geo. W. McCadden, formerly a clerk in D. S. Perrin & Co.'s establishment and aged about 28, committed suicide by taking Rough on Rats at his home in William-street north, Saturday night. He had been ill for a year and at one time had an operation performed on him on account of an abcess in his stomach. His health did not improve, however, and on Saturday in a fit of despondency he decided to end his troubles at once and forever.

The Deadly Level Crossing.

STRATFORD, March 25.—A shocking accident occurred this morning at the crossing of Erie-street and the Sarnia line of the Grand Trunk. Thomas Walsh, 75 years of age, a farmer residing in the Gore of Downie, while crossing the track was struck by the train from London. The horse was cut in two, the buggy smashed to pieces and Walsh's remains were found strewn for several yards along the track. Deceased was partially deaf.

Alleged False Pretenses.

MONTREAL, March 25.—Manuel Rothschild of Matthews has been arrested at Napierville and brought to this city on a charge laid by Alfred Eaves of having obtained $7500 worth of watches and jewelry on false pretenses. Rothschild is also charged with obtaining $4000 worth of jewelry from J. H. Jones & Co. and $2000 worth from J. B. Williamson by false pretenses. He will be brought before the Police Magistrate to-morrow.

The Smallpox in Southwold.

ST. THOMAS, March 25.—But four cases of smallpox have developed in Southwold the past week, and no deaths have occurred. The record to date is 39 cases with 13 deaths. The new cases are of a mild type of varioloid, owing to the patients having been vaccinated. There are at present 17 cases of smallpox under treatment in the infected district.

DECISION IN THE CARDWELL ELECTION CASE.

Particulars Announced—The Mail's Preparations for Defence in the Jessop Libel Case—A Shipyard Sensation.

TORONTO, March 25.—Decision in the Cardwell election case was given yesterday at Osgoode Hall. The judgment of Justice Street allows the original petitioner to withdraw his name as petitioner, and also to withdraw the $1000 deposited by him when filing the petition. Samuel Stubbs, the brother of the defeated candidate, is allowed to intervene. Upon depositing $1000, as required from the original petitioner, within two weeks from yesterday, Stubbs, the intervener, will be allowed the same position as the original petitioner, and may go on and prosecute the petition.

The Lieut.-Governor's assent to bills passed by the Local Legislature brought the annexation of Parkdale to Toronto into effect on Saturday afternoon. Mayor Booth, who will be one of the city aldermen, ordered a flag hoisted on the Town Hall in honor of the event.—Deputy Reeve Gowanlock, who also will be an alderman, but who opposed annexation, came along and tore it down. With the assistance of a big fireman, Booth had the flag hoisted again and it flew for the rest of the day.

It is understood that The Mail Printing Company is making preparations for the libel suit with the Jesuits wholly regardless of expense. The company will send a commission at once to France and Belgium for the purpose of arranging with prominent citizens there to come over and give evidence touching the operations of the Jesuit Society in those countries. A distinguished Paris advocate will also be engaged to assist The Mail's counsel in Montreal and Toronto in preparing the interrogatories to be put at the trial to the heads of the Jesuit Order here.

The schooner Morning Star, Captain James Bowers, with stone from Port Credit, dropped anchor in the harbor Saturday and the Captain won the hat presented by the harbor master to the first who enters the harbor every year.

At last C. L. Van Wormer breathes the fresh air once more. Yesterday Judge McDougall delivered a judgment which set aside the County Court orders on which Van Wormer was held, and in the afternoon the ex-hotel man was liberated from jail. The costs of the appellants were not settled some time ago by Mr. Justice Robertson.

The Police Magistrate yesterday committed James Gallagher, the ex-clergyman, as a lunatic. Charles Robinette, charged with the seduction of a girl named Freda Whittaker, was discharged, the Crown not being able to prove that he was 21 years old at the time the offence was committed.

The Ontario Veterinary College examinations began yesterday morning and will continue all this week. About 100 students are writing. The presentation of medals and prizes will take place at 11 o'clock next Friday morning. The annual examinations of the Toronto University Faculty of Medicine began yesterday in Convocation Hall, where they will all be held with the exception of two or three in the School of Science. In medicine 55 candidates are taking the first year examination, 55 the second year, 33 the third year, and 21 the fourth year. Eight students are taking the primary examinations in medicine and 24 the final. They close on Saturday, April 6. The examinations in dentistry also commenced yesterday and will conclude on Monday morning next, the final examination being held in the Royal College of Dental Surgeons, 13 Louisa-street. The arts examinations will be held about the second week in May.

The Hebrew quarter on York and Queen streets is discussing the domestic troubles of Moses Goldstein, second-hand dealer on the former thoroughfare. Detectives Johnny Caddy and Davis have also been investigating them, though not with any noticeable very results. According to the officers, one Count Goldstein has been in the habit of playfully threatening his wife's life. Goldstein came here two years ago from Rochester, where he had "busted up." The proprietor of a neighboring shop said 'He's in love with some other woman there's another girl he wants to get married to. A month ago," continued the dealer, "Mrs. Goldstein said that her husband had put her out of the house with little clothing on. Another time it was said he took a pistol and pointed it at her breast. The story also goes that a short time ago Goldstein strung a rope around his wife's neck, and whether in jest or earnest tried to hang her."

Mrs. Annie McLatchie, who while walking on Queen-street fell down by reason of several planks being out of place, yesterday recovered a verdict of $750 against the city.

The two well known wholesale grocery firms of Smith & Keighley and Wardell Brothers & Beamer are said to be in trouble with the customs authorities over a disagreement in valuation.

A public meeting was held in the Pavilion last night at which resolutions emphatically condemning the Jesuits Estates' Act were passed. Ex-Mayor Howland presided, and among the speakers were Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, Mr. J. J. Maclaren, Rev. Dr. Sutherland, Mr. John T. Small, Principal Caven and Rev. Mr. Courtice.

New Brunswick News.

ST. JOHN, N. B., March 25.—Yesterday G. F. Stickney's jewlery store at St. Andrews was visited by Officers Bennett and O'Keefe who after inspection of invoices found that goods to the value of $2000 had been brought in without duties being paid. A deposit sufficient to cover the value of the goods was made by the owner.

The election for mayor and aldermen of both the city and of Portland are according to custom to take place next week. It is expected however in view of the vote taken a few days ago by which the people of St. John and Portland declared themselves as willing to become one city, that a postponement will be made for a month or two, or until such time that a bill may be framed and the elections held under a new charter for the city of St. John.

An old man named Dunn, a resident of Portland, dropped dead in the street yesterday.

The "Death" Wraith Visited.

LONDON, Ont., March 25.—Two men, well dressed and of plausible address, have been playing a sharp trick on the farmers of West Nissouri and Dorchester township. They represent themselves as agents of various jewelry houses in Toronto and other cities and offer what appear to be genuine gold watches at prices ranging from $90 to $65. If questioned as to the genuineness of their ability to sell at such a low figure, the reply is that the firm they represented had failed and that the proprietor had allowed them to retain their samples in lieu of back salary. The game worked admirably and among the victims are Miss Fraser of the 4th concession, Joseph Wren of the third concession and many others. A local jeweller placed the value of the watches at $20, the cases being of aluminium thinly [illegible] gold.

A Victory For the C. P. R.

OTTAWA, March 22.—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company secured a victory in the Railway Committee to-day, passing their bill through with a couple of minor amendments despite the strenuous opposition by the Maritime Province members, who were full of amendments all designed to compel the Canadian Pacific Railway to complete the projected lines in those provinces. The bill consolidates the various debentures issued, including all the branch lines, and allows the issue of increased stock [illegible]

ATTACKING MR. WEBSTER.

SIR CHARLES RUSSELL RENEWS THE BATTLE.

Provisions of the New German Penal Code—Projected Negotiations Touching the Newfoundland Fisheries.

LONDON, March 25.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Sir Charles Russell, who upon rising was loudly cheered, said he desired to make a statement regarding the speech by Attorney-General Webster, Friday. He read a letter he had written to Sir Richard Webster in which he said he did not believe the latter had been correctly reported. It was absolutely incorrect to say that before Pigott's examination, or before Pigott's letter, he (Russell) had received information, direct or indirect, to the effect that Pigott discredited the value of his own testimony. It was absolutely incorrect to say that he had either called for or received the letters conveying such information. Attorney-General Webster in reply to the member's letter had written that he believed he had handed such letters to him, but he would have to refer to his shorthand notes for confirmation. The Attorney-General was mistaken in supposing that he had given him five days before Pigott testified letters discrediting Pigott's evidence. The letters in which Pigott confessed his fear of cross-examination had come upon the member and his colleagues as a complete surprise. After Pigott's flight they had repeatedly made open complaint in court regarding the manner in which the Attorney-General had conducted the case. He did not impute dishonorable motives to the Attorney-General, but he thought he had been led away by the political character of the case into a course of conduct which on reflection and in less exciting circumstances he would not have pursued. (Cheers.) Sir Charles said that even when Pigott had testified he did not consider the refusal to grant a commission a matter of importance. A distinguished Paris advocate will also be engaged to assist the [illegible] [illegible] and that no answer had been given to his charge that Mr. Webster, knowing Pigott to be a doubtful witness, had allowed The Times for two months to repeat its odious charges and further had not silent while Houston affirmed that he had complete trust in Pigott, which statement Mr. Webster knew to be false.

Mr. Webster: "I have protested that I had no means of knowing that Houston's statement was untrue."

Sir William said an attorney might weave the cobwebs of miserable professional etiquette about the matter but the common people of the nation would revolt against the keeping alive to the last moment charges known to be false, as an act of professional cruelty and injustice.

Sir Edward Clarke, Solicitor-General, defended Mr. Webster.

Mr. Labouchere said Mr. Houston, Mr. Seamen and Mr. Webster had all avoided asking questions concerning Pigott. He attacked the Gladstonian lawyers who abstained from voting when the division was taken Friday.

Mr. Morley said he had not a word to withdraw from what he had said in Friday's debate.

The subject was then dropped.

The Newfoundland Fisheries.

PARIS, March 25.—A deputation has urged Premier Tirard and M. Spuller, Minister of Foreign Affairs, to deal with the question of the prosecution of the banks of Newfoundland during the fishing season. The deputation suggested that the matter be considered jointly with the regulations for the prevention of collisions at sea in regard to which the United States Government in 1886 proposed to enter an international conference.

M. Spuller promised that he would communicate with the countries interested.

The New German Penal Code.

BERLIN, March 25.—The new penal code provides that persons found guilty of inciting the class against another or of publicly stamping the basis of public and social order, especially religion, the monarchy, marriage or property, shall be imprisoned for a term not exceeding three years. Persons convicted of a second offence may be forbidden to reside in certain places. Newspapers which have been twice convicted of any of the offences mentioned in the code shall be suppressed. Socialists who have been expelled from the country shall not be allowed to return within five years after the adoption of the code unless by special permission of the police authorities.

Offensive Partisans.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The Postmaster-General has refused to say anything for publication regarding offensive partisanship as cause for removal of postmasters but The Star says: "On Saturday Mr. Wanamaker made the positive announcement to an unnamed member of Congress, who had a very offensive postmaster he was working to have removed, that the charge of offensive partisanship would not be regarded as a sufficient cause for removal. Some other good reason would have to be given and it did not matter whether or not that charge was attached."

Insanity of a Noted Author.

NEW YORK, March 26.—A Hartford (Conn.) dispatch states that Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's mind is almost completely gone, although she is in as good health as she has ever been of late years. The father of Mrs. Stowe, Rev. Lyman Beecher, passed the closing years of his life with a cloud resting over his mind. His symptoms were greatly similar to those which now afflict Mrs. Stowe.

Her Last Sail.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y., March 25.—Rev. Mr. Brown of North River took a sail yesterday on the upper Hudson River at that place with his wife and her mother, a Mrs. MacClellan. Losing control of the boat it was whirled through the rapids and capsized. Mr. and Mrs. Brown saved themselves but Mrs. MacClellan was drowned.

Another Tragedy Upon a Kentucky Feud.

PRINCETON, Ky., March 25.—Another tragedy was enacted this morning as a result of the Sweeney-Turner feud. Alvin Turner and Jeff King were going toward Cumberland Gap and James Bird was coming to town. On meeting Alvin Turner at once fired at Bird, the ball striking his gun. Bird returned the fire killing Turner and then King fired on Bird, killing him, and both a heavy recruit up Clear Creek.

Seizure of Oleomargarine.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., March 25.—Internal Revenue Collector Treadge yesterday seized 11,000 pounds of oleomargarine at the factory of M. J. Nathan & Co. of this city. The seizure was made by order of the Washington authorities and neither the collector nor the firm understood the nature of the alleged.

Arrested on Another Count.

OTTAWA, March 22.—Mr. W. E. Brown arrived in the city last evening on the train from Brockville which came in a little before 6 o'clock. Detective Montgomery was anxiously waiting for him, and under orders from his Constable McEdward followed up Mr. Brown and arrested him on Wellington-street. In this instance Mr. Brown is arrested on a warrant issued at the instigation of James Leggitt, Montreal, boot and shoe dealer, who claims that Brown is his debtor for $2000. He was bailed to-day

MEN NOT WANTED IN CHURCH

The Class of People the Church is Better Rid of.

Rev. Mr. Hunter Talks Pretty Plainly—Mr. Crossley's Warning to the Unconverted—The Evangelists to Shorten their Work in Peterborough.

It is probable that Messrs. Hunter and Crossley will not stay in Peterborough as long as they intended. Rev. Mr. Hunter announced last night that they would shorten their stay here, for as soon as they could get through their work they were going to Woodstock, from which place they got a telegram that day. The town is in mourning. Ten officials or councillors were on the fatal train that went through St. George's bridge, three of them were killed and seven wounded, and one had since died, while the mayor was lying at death's door.

NO GRUMBLERS WANTED.

Rev Mr. Hunter pitched into the grumblers last night. He urged such people to cheer up and make their homes happy. Some of them were living on Grumblers' street; they should move out into Thanksgiving avenue, it was a much nicer place to live. Some people, he said, look like graveyards and live like graveyards; they would drive sinners away from Christ; but for himself he always liked to look people in the face and be happy. His religion made him happy.

MEN IN THE CHURCH.

He read the fourth chapter of the second book of Timothy, and in reference to the words, "Who shall judge the quick and the dead," he said that some people are sitting down and waiting for the Lord to come. He urged them not to be inactive, but, at the same time, he didn't want anyone to go about fault-finding or become Babb-lers. "Preach the word," was Paul's command. It was no trouble to prepare sermons, but the difficulty was to get people to own them. For this the preachers were sometimes to blame. He liked to see the pulpit all afire, and then all the people would crowd to see it burn. Why are the prayer meetings not filled like these evangelistic services? Because they are not made interesting and attractive. Without comparing them at all, he pointed out that the theatre was made as attractive as possible; so should the prayer meetings, though in a different way of course. Some sermons, Mr. Hunter said, were like guns, some large, some small, some old, some new, some are air guns, and some pop guns, some have too much wadding and some are useful and some useless, some are dangerous and some fire nothing but blank cartridge, some are loaded to the muzzle with ball and some only flash powder, some aim at nothing and hit the centre every time, etc. They did not want preaching in the abstract, but to threw red-hot shot all around the church and wake the sinners up—in fact, to "preach the word." We were all preaching sermons every day, Mr. Hunter said, by our actions and words. In warning sinners, Mr. Hunter said it was not the best way to go up and tell them they're going to perdition, but to reprove them kindly and raise them out of ten they will grasp your hand and thank you for it. Referring to the swearer, Mr. Hunter said, "There is not a corner in hell dark enough for a man who will blaspheme his God." Coming back to the subject of the church, he said that a church that pretends to be a church of Jesus Christ but is not a soul-saving church has no business to be called such. He said he would rather have a church with a hundred souls converted to God than to have one filled up with ten hundred whiskey men and old wretches who are living in sin every day. These are the men who are running around with women and to the theatre and card party and ball-room, and all things worldly. Get these men into the church unsaved and they will damn it, he said. He wanted to see all the churches rid of such men.

In conclusion he said he hoped to receive his crown of glory, and he hoped all before him would receive their's too.

MR. CROSSLEY'S SONGS.

Mr. Crossley sang for the first time in Peterborough, "The Garden of Prayer," and also repeated "Papa, what will you take for me?" This latter song moved many to tears, and prayer was offered up for bereaved parents who had lost little ones.

HE THAT LINGERETH.

Mr. Crossley took for his text, Gen. xix, 16:—

"He lingered."

These words described the actions of Lot when the angel directs him to leave Sodom, and they were applicable to not a few who were in the congregation. Mr. Crossley hoped they would see the analogy and the lesson to-night. First, Lot was mercifully warned of his danger, yet he lingered, just as many of the unsaved to-day are neglecting the warnings of God. Lot believed his danger, and in this many people resembled him. They are, however, indifferent to their danger. They believe in Jesus Christ and in their danger, though they don't feel it. If they would only contemplate these things they would see their anomalous position and seek salvation. Then Lot was directed to a place of safety, and so was the sinner given minute and specific directions to the way of safety. The unsaved one at least knew how to start, and after starting the Lord takes all the responsibility of leading them to conscious salvation. Lot lingered, and while he lingered the angel led him outside the city walls and

TOLD HIM TO ESCAPE.

Some of the unconverted ones had been laid hold of by a mother's devotion, by vows made on a sick bed, or at the side of a grave, but still they are lingering, perhaps resting in "doing better." Mr. Crossley urged them to give up their hesitation and start for the Kingdom. The angel told Lot to hasten, and the Lord was giving the same warning to many to-day. He has been working for them perhaps 40 years, and though he has been continuously hastening them they are lingering instead of escaping to a place of salvation. Lot lingered, but all the while he intended to escape. So with the unsaved to-day; not one of them but fully intended to give their hearts to God some day or other. Lot didn't wish to give up Sodom, and so the unconverted cling to things of the world instead of giving up everything to God and making good their escape. Finally Lot ceased to linger and escaped, and the cities of the plain were destroyed by fire. Happy will it be for the unsaved who before the crack of doom comes will say: "I will yield myself to the Lord." Let it, he urged, be this very night. In conclusion, Mr. Crossley pointed out the necessity of decision in the smallest action of their lives, and certainly they would never be Christians unless they decided to seek the Lord, and now.

The meeting was closed in the usual manner.

Try to Benefit Others.

"I had a very bad pain in my side, of which one bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil made a complete cure. I hope that this may be of some benefit to those who read it." A. R. T. Walker, 44½ High street, city. Hagyard's Yellow Oil is a specific for all inflammatory pain. 2w13d

Bad Little Boys and Girls in the Ambitious City—Robbed of $115.

HAMILTON, March 25.—Mrs. Hall, 67 Stuart-street west, reported to the police this morning that some time between Saturday night and Sunday morning a cashmere dress was stolen from her place. Though the dress was a valuable one she did not feel so sad over its loss as she did over the fact that in the pocket of the dress was a purse containing $115.

Saturday evening a collision took place in York-street, near Parkdale, between two rigs belonging to William Barclay and Michael Healey, both of Ancaster. Barclay's wagon was smashed and the front wheel was wrenched off. Both he and his wife were thrown out and badly injured. Mrs. Barclay was cut severely about the face.

Maria Thornton, a fifteen-old girl who has been arrested five times for larceny, is charged with stealing several rolls of butter from the market.

Rev. Dr. Mockridge has been elected rector of Christ Church, Windsor, N.S., by an almost unanimous vote of the parishioners.

At the Police Court this morning John Burrows, aged 9 years, and his brother Charles, aged 7, were charged with having assaulted and robbed William Skelly, a boy of 9 years. Skelly said that the youngest of the two boys put his hand into his (Skelly's) pocket and stole his money, 20 cents. The Magistrate found Charles Burrows guilty of the charge, but let him go under a suspended sentence. John Burrows was acquitted.

Winnipeg Wire Whispers.

WINNIPEG, March 25.—Although Provincial Treasurer Jones will retire from the Cabinet shortly and take up his residence in Brantford he will not resign his seat in the Legislature.

Evans, the young Englishman who was accidentally shot by his comrade yesterday, is reported to be recovering.

J. Hebbirk, who is demented, was found wandering on the prairie last night imagining he was near his former home at Seaforth.

It turns out that the persons supposed to be detectives chasing Tascott on Lake Winnipeg were lumber dealers on a trip to their mills.

The Ottawa Police Station Robbery.

OTTAWA, March 25.—The latest development in the police station robbery case has created a sensation greater even than that caused by the robbery itself, by which it will be remembered the safe in the Police Clerk's room at police headquarters was a few weeks ago rifled of $720. The police have come to a conclusion which to their minds warrants the arrest, if he can be caught, of a well connected young man named John C. Grant who some days ago left town on a west-bound train and is now supposed to be in the States. He is a solicitor by profession and was admitted to practice a little more than a year ago. He is a son of the late Chief of Police who died in 1887. Grant has been drinking heavily for some time.

Not Satisfied With Canadian Justice.

OTTAWA, March 25.—The Montreal creditors of W. E. Brown, Ottawa's insolvent boot and shoe merchant, are seemingly not satisfied with the course of Ontario justice, but are determined to bring him to Montreal for trial. Detectives Kellere and Carpenter of that city, who have been here for the purpose of shadowing Brown, have a warrant authorizing them to bring him to Montreal for trial. This, it is understood, they have at length succeeded in having backed by an Ottawa magistrate after having met with several refusals, and so soon as Brown is caught he is apt to be transferred to Montreal. Not relishing the prospect, probably, he has escaped their shadow, but is said to be in retirement in this city, quietly awaiting the outcome of the two cases against him now pending before the County Judge.

Drowned in a Cistern.

HOLLAND LANDING, March 26.—A sad accident occurred yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock on the farm of Mr. Wm. Mortimer. Mr. Mortimer's two children were playing in the barn and the little girl, about 4 years old, fell into a cistern near by, and before assistance came the child was drowned.

Early Closing at the Capital.

OTTAWA, March 26.—The early closing movement tried by the boot and shoe trade here under the local Government Act has received a check by the action of the City Council to-night in ordering the Bylaw Committee to bring in a bylaw repealing the early closing bylaw.

Dropped Dead On His Engine.

ROCHESTER, March 26.—Levi Wise, one of the oldest engineers on the New York Central Railway, dropped dead on his engine near Chili last night.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

The Business Outlook—Prices on the Grain and Produce Markets.

TORONTO, March 26.—The past week has developed a state of things in Toronto which business men find it difficult to explain. There has been no perceptible improvement in trade, collections are slow, and yet there have been only two or three little assignments reported. The assignees are surprised. They had confidently expected the week following the 15th would bring along enough business troubles to keep them all going for all they were worth, and now when the assignments made in this city during the week will total only a few thousands of dollars, and when there are no rumors of coming failures, the winders-up of estates cannot understand it. A strong belief is held by many business men that the long season of hard times is about over, that the coming spring will bring a revival of trade, and that, should the farmers be blessed with a good harvest, prosperity will reign in Canada.

Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And some they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all must own the proverb true:

ROYAL PURPLE.

"Oh, Amelia, Amelia!" he cried, stalking up and down the portico, "how could you lend yourself to anything so disgraceful?"

"Then we put a lot of old purple velvet drapery about me, some of Aunt Sophia's old finery, you know, and an old brass bandeau, rubbed up with phosphorus and adorned with asparagus tops, which looked like green snakes. The hands and forearms of the skeleton we tied on, too, after having dipped 'em in carmine ink in streaks. Really, Walter, I was so horrible looking that Bessie said I scared her to look at, and I shivered at my own reflection in the glass. I don't wonder he was overcome."

"Well," said Walter with a despairing patience, as she hesitated, "what became of him—where is he; did he flee the house?"

"Just wait a minute! Now, you know it was windy in gusts last night, so you see that everything was propitious. We were busy all the afternoon about it, and had everything prepared, even to a note of warning written by the ghost—here it is to; we had named him 'Royal Purple.' We laughed and had great fun over things, thinking what a grand hoax it was going to be and what a joke it would be between us all afterward; Bessie said it would help to make us all acquainted at once!"

He read the note. "Royal Grannies!" he shouted, in an exalted state of bewilderment and anger. "What will not the brain of a woman plot and conceive!"

"Then," she resumed, "we lit the lamps in an ordinary light, so as to give a natural impression at first, and deserted the house, sent the servants off on errands and awaited his advent. Bessie said we must not be too sudden about anything; we must allow the thought that he was in a haunted house to gradually dawn upon him; it would have so much more force with the imagination than a sudden shock!" She paused a moment for breath in her recital, which had been rapid and excited. "Well, when the climax was reached and I had sailed three times around the room in that scandalous manner and awful 'make up,' and had drawn a circle three times around his head with that long, bony finger, listen" (touching his arm with impressive awe). "he fell over in a fainting fit upon the floor! I screamed, and Bessie came tearing in to see the fun; but let me tell you it was no fun, for I had been obliged to make it much more horrible than we had planned, because he had a loaded pistol. We tried everything in the world to bring him to, and finally, after having carried him between us across the hall and having placed him on the lounge and unloosed his cravat he revived a little, and then we forced some brandy down his throat. Was that right? Bessie said she was sure it was the only thing to do, even if we had to hold his nose to do it."

"Bessie be hanged!" he said fervently.

"But he is wild ever since," she continued, again shedding tears, "raving—and, oh, Walter, it is terrible; forgive me, forgive me!"

Thus having finished her extremely headlong confession, she pushed open the door and ushered him into the house, leading him into that darkened chamber where Beverlin in his curiosity had peeped the night before, but where he now lay in the delirium of fever, his unquiet hands and feet restlessly tossing, a stream of meaningless words issuing from his mouth, his wide eyeballs glaring, and, strangest phenomenon, with the patch of whitened hair surmounting his rolling head and the moiety of silvered mustache.

Carroll drew near his friend with self reproaching compassion and professional solicitude. Beverlin did not know him, but raved more than ever, his incoherency increased, his eyes stretched to their utmost limits as with horror.

Bessie, a fair haired divinity, who had been wiping perfectly dry eyes upon a dainty embroidered handkerchief in a weeping willow attitude by the darkened window, and who, in her close black dress and little childish slippers, looked the picture of sympathetic innocence, advanced toward Carroll and asked him with deep concern if they couldn't do anything to relieve the poor fellow.

"Bessie," said Carroll, eyeing her sternly, "this is your doing."

Bessie cast a wickedly reproachful glance upon Amelia and then said sweetly: "Half of it is—not all; I do not disclaim my share in the mischief, but I am sure you will forgive me when you see how very, very sorry I am!" and she wiped away more imaginary tears; "will you not?"

Carroll at once set to work to bring Beverlin around, for days, never leaving him while he raved and tossed, not when, after the fever having subsided the reaction and weakness ensued, abating that extreme tenderness, as toward a dependent little child which had characterized his entire guardianship. Beverlin appeared to accept Carroll's presence as quite a matter of course, asked no questions, sought no explanations—and just how much he remembered of that horrible experience, or whether it had left a complete blank in his memory was a doubt not to be speedily decided. It was a subject never alluded to in the slightest way, and fortunately the outside world knew nothing of the transaction, Bessie and Amelia [illegible] in such dread of the publicity [illegible] to have precluded any tattling [illegible]. Long afterward, when [illegible] conversed, Beverlin referred to [illegible] Carroll as a sort of [illegible] secret, and it was never subsequently broached between them. Carroll, on his part, intended to be just as frank and to explain the girlish exploit to his friend, in order to obviate any lurking impression of the supernatural, but Bessie's entreaties withheld him, and Beverlin to this day believes as firmly in that solitary ghostly experience of his as he does in his creed.

"One thing is certain, Walter," remarked the sly Bessie some months afterward to her new and much enamored spouse, "there is nothing like a good scare to cure sciatica; you won't find that in your dispensatories or your formularies, but it is a good thing to remember; for, although a negative homeopathic principle (not 'similia similibus curantur,' but 'one evil cures another'), and therefore not eligible for those who are strictly code; still it is an excellent thing for the allopathic ones to bear in mind! Mr. Beverlin has never had the slightest twinge since!"

It is almost too severe for ordinary mortals," observed Walter over the top of his newspaper, laughing slightly.

"And I say furthermore," she continued, "that the whole fiasco turns out, after all, to have quite a silver lining!" You see, if it hadn't been for just that identical occasion (which brought into play all of our latent powers), you never would have discovered the true virtues and worth of her who is at present your loving wife!"

"Oh, yes, I would, Bessie dear," he replied fatuously. "Propinquity is a powerful agent, you know, and I never could have withstood those bewitching little caps at breakfast during your fortnight with Amelia; I am too susceptible to feminine daintiness entirely. Nor can I see pretty slippers wandering about my house without the impulse to do them a certain reverence."

The slippers never would have done it," said Bessie, reflectively, "nor even the caps! I think it was, perhaps, Walter dear, that despite all my frivolity and foolishness, down under the froth of vanity and fashion, you had discovered something resembling a heart, and that it was fitted and framed and designed only for you; is it not so?"

"You have hit the nail right on the head, darling; and really from the present point of view, no great harm has been done since, if Amelia accepts Beverlin she will have ample opportunity for reparation; although I doubt were he aware of her implication in his personal disfigurement, whether he would really propose; he has such a horror of that memory."

"Oh, don't you suppose," she queried, "that she will ever, in a moment of extreme confidence, confess it all; because I am afraid if she does not I shall be forced to; it will be impossible to keep such a secret my whole life long!"

"Let us wait until they are safely married," he replied with practical good sense. "Then we may blab to our hearts' content."

These statements are, in effect, the facts in the case (all others are fraudulent), and if necessary to substantiate them the narrator, Walter Carroll, M. D., is ready to make his affidavit, signed sealed, sworn to, before any notary public in good and regular standing in the United States.

Imitation

is sometimes called the sincere form of flattery. This may account for the number of imitations of the original and only positive corn cure—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture, intense itching and stinging, most at night, worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. An Enterprising Hen.

Mrs. Hunter, of Harvey street, has a hen that promises to revolutionize the egg business. Two Weeks More.

Rev. Mr. Hunter's statement in St. Paul's church last night has excited fear in the minds of many people that the evangelists are going to leave Peterborough at the end of this week. This is a mistake, as Messrs. Hunter and Crossley will fulfil their original engagement for six weeks. They will remain in town two weeks after this.

Immigrants to the North-West.

To-day another C.P.R. colonist train went westward to Toronto. Eleven persons with four carloads of effects joined the train at Peterborough station. The train ran from as far east as the C.O.R. junction, and by the time it reached here consisted of nine cars and thirty passengers. The colonist trains make up at Toronto before proceeding to the North-West.

A Missing Boy.

Chief Reazel has received a letter from Chief Douglass, of Port Hope, asking him to make enquiries for a young lad named Wm. Small, of that town, who ran away last Thursday and took the afternoon train for Peterborough. His mother is anxious about him. He had only $1 in his pocket when he left Port Hope, so he could not have had much left after buying his ticket to Peterborough. It is thought he may have hired with some farmer, for he has worked on a farm before. Following is a description of the missing youth:—Aged 14 years, tall for his age; ruddy complexion, dark brown hair and eye lashes; low forehead, grey eyes; dressed when he left home in a brown tweed overcoat, brownish gray pants, dark vest, and brown and black checked cap, lined boots and curly black cap. Any information of his whereabouts will be thankfully received by his mother or Chief Reazel.

The Scott Act Campaign.

The Scott Act party are actively engaged in the efforts to defeat the repeal. Committee meetings are holden taking place throughout the county. To-night there will be a meeting at Lundy's [illegible] in Stoughton, to be addressed by Rev. Mr. Browning, of Bellevill, who will be here all this week, and with Rev. Mr. Pearson and others assist at other meetings to be held every night at different places.

A Self-Made Clergyman.

Rev. J. F. Lewis, who is coming to-morrow to speak at St. John's church, is a striking example of a self-made man, having worked his way up from the ranks by sheer force of inherent ability. Mr. Lewis was formerly connected with the Methodist church, in which he held several important charges in Western Ontario. Some ten years ago he was appointed to take charge of a small Church of England congregation then lately formed in one of the poorest districts of Toronto. By his indefatigable exertions, the congregation has increased so rapidly that it is now one of the largest in the city. Mr. Lewis' subject to-morrow evening will be "The Poor Man's Friend."

Died in an Instant.

A very sudden death took place on Wednesday, 20th inst., on the town line between Otonabee and Asphodel. As Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Kidd were on their way to visit a sick neighbor, Mrs. Kidd got out and walked over a rough spot caused by a snowdrift. When the even road was gained she got into the buggy, gave a heavy sigh and breathed her last. Her husband, supposing that she had fainted, held her with one arm and with the other drove home, where every available means was used for her restoration, but all to no purpose. Dr. McNaughton, having been summoned, pronounced her dead from heart disease. Mrs. Kidd was well and widely known. She was a daughter of the late James Bechet, who settled in Otonabee in the year 1830. She was 49 years of age, and for over 33 years was a consistent member of the Westwood Presbyterian church. At the funeral Rev. F. Andrews preached a very appropriate discourse, wherein he showed that to the Christian sudden death was sudden glory. His sermon was also full of comfort to the bereaved husband and relatives, and admonition to the unconverted to be also ready for the call that death is sure to make.—[Com.

S. O. E. Society Notes.

Last night the regular quarterly meeting of Peterborough Lodge No. 64, S.O.E., was held, and the occasion was one of special interest. A number of the brethren from Lansdowne Lodge paid a fraternal visit, among them Bros. F. Mitchell, W.P., R. Waram, W.V.P., E.W. Elcome, R.S., T. Gunn, Supreme Grand Lodge D. D., and Dr. Pigeon, lodge surgeon. After routine business, President Brownscombe presented a musical and literary programme for the delectation of the brethren, consisting of duets by Bros Randle and Stevens, readings by Bros. A. Clegg, O. C. Rowse and E. Randle, and a vocal solo by Bro. Randle. During the intermission refreshments were served by Bro. T. Harper. The pleasant proceedings were terminated by the singing of the national anthem.

Bro. F. Foote presented the lodge with the picture of Disraeli in a happy way, making a neat congratulatory speech and referring at some length to the Primrose League.

Bro. I. Richardson has been appointed lodge reporter, and will keep the public informed on Society news.

Work on the new union lodge room on Hunter street is progressing rapidly.

The Indians and the Scott Act.

The interesting and important case in re Metcalfe and Bullock was argued by counsel and decided by the Chancellor at Osgoode Hall yesterday. The motion made was to prohibit Mr. Bullock, the returning officer appointed to take the vote upon the question of repeal of the Canada Temperance Act in the county of Brant, from receiving the votes of the Indians in the township of Tuscarora, which is an Indian reserve. It will not be forgotten that the Indians on the reserves have near votes in the Dominion Parliamentary elections. The Chancellor said that he deemed the arguments inexpressible, and prohibition must go. The special Act governing the Indians was more stringent than any law governing the white population, and the Canada Temperance Act could have no operation where the Indian Act was in force. The Indians are supposed, and properly supposed, not to be able to govern themselves as to the use of fire-water as they call it, and, therefore, the Legislature has wisely placed a stringent law upon the Statute book. The township of Tuscarora is under that law, and the Indians dwelling there having nothing to do with the Canadian Temperance Act. It is a violation of the first principles of justice to say that Indians should be allowed to vote upon the repeal of the Act. It would be another phase of the wrong done in the taxation of the colonies.

News Nuggets.

—Westboots on the Grand Junction are not feared this spring, the snow having melted so gradually and the ice in the creeks, which was not thick, having broken up early and provided a channel for the freshets.

Personal.

Mr. T. B. Collins, of Millbrook, is in town to-day.

Messrs. Ed. and Albert Dawson left for Sault Ste. Marie this morning.

Messrs. Thos. and Wm. McNamara have gone to St. Paul, Minn., to reside.

Prof. W. J. Robertson, of the Agricultural College, Guelph, was in town to-day, and left on the afternoon train to attend the Farmers' Institute meeting at Keene.

THE FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

West Riding Farmers in Council.

Under-Draining—Agricultural Education—Dairy Farming and Ensilage—The Clydesdale Stallion—How to Keep Boys on the Farm.

March 25th, 1889.

The third meeting of the West Riding Farmers' Institute was held in the Court House to-day. The morning session was very brief and comprised routine business. In the afternoon there was a good attendance, including Professor Robertson, of the Dairying Department of the Guelph Agricultural College. Mr. D. Kennedy, President, occupied the chair.

After routine, Mr. R. Jackson, who was introduced by the chairman as the "champion drainer of the county," presented his paper on "Underdraining." Underdraining was of the utmost importance, especially on low lands. By underdraining, crops could be put in a week or ten days earlier than without, and experience showed that early crops are the best. There was greater comfort and ease in tilling underdrained soil, and there was less danger of rust in harvest time. For root crops underdrained soil admitted an early stirring of the soil and the starting of weed seeds. The more rain we have going through the soil the better, compared to having it run off the surface. The depth of drain should be below frost, though the deeper the better. Mr. Jackson's paper gave an estimate of the cost of draining ten acres with tile, which was, including labour, material, and all, $246.31. This required 608 feet of 3 inch tile for main drain and 7512 feet of 2 inch tiles for spar drains. The cost of the former was $7.23½, and the cost of the other $75.12, and labour, drawing, etc., brought up the cost of draining ten acres to $246.31. Mr. Jackson in commenting on the paper said there were some "wrinkles" in making tile which manufacturers did not understand. In making the tile, the shoe made the opposite side weaker, and in piling and burning the upper side of the tile was weaker and consequently contracted more than the underside, and therefore there was a bad joint and consequent bad drains. Inexperienced tile users were urged to be sure and get good tiles which were the cheapest in the end. His experience with draining machines was that such a machine would do very well when there was a friable clay subsoil, but in land that was strong, it was very unsatisfactory. Mr. Jackson's experience of stone draining was that it never paid when tile could be got. Unless a reasonable fall and suitable outlet could be got, the labour of draining was lost.

Prof. Robertson gave some of the reasons why

UNDERDRAINING BENEFITTED THE SOIL.

A plant needed light, heat, air and moisture; without underdraining the plant got too much water and too little air. Soil was composed of particles, with porous interior, plants got their water from the interior of these particles, and the water outside of these particles was injurious and draining removed this superfluous water. Draining made the soil porous, and a drain was equivalent to cultivating the soil three feet deep. Draining measured the soil, that is, the ammonia of the air was absorbed in the porous soil, enriching it. Drainage prevented winter killing, and permits of the absorption of dew.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.

Mr. J. C. Brown repeated his address on agricultural education. He pointed out that as education was conducted now the process in gaining the amount of education desirable for a farmer's son or daughter necessarily unfitted them for farm life. He advocated devoting during the summer season the morning to large pupils and the afternoon to the smaller pupils.

Mr. T. E Bell objected in toto to the system proposed. He thought the school hours were, if anything, too short.

Mr. Brown argued that diligent attention for short hours would have a better result than long hours.

Mr. Hugh Davidson thought a boy could get enough work to develop his muscle before and after school.

Mr. Jackson said it was useless to train a boy to be a farmer unless he could be got interested in the work. In farm transactions take your boys into your confidence, and interest them in farming operations. He went on to point out that the undue indulgence in machinery, and useless display and style, and party politics were ruining farming. He advocated co-operation among farmers in the selection of suitable candidates for parliament, curtailment of official salaries and suppression of combines. He also advocated the government importing old country capital and lending money to the farmers at a low rate of interest.

Prof. Robertson said the trouble was that farmers gave up all education to the schools. School may teach a boy language and science, but it could not teach a boy fact and experience. Every boy should be so taught that his head would rule his hands. As to the length of school hours, he said that college authorities limited the hours in class rooms to twenty-one hours per week, and fifteen hours was preferable. Educate a boy's judgment and enlist his sympathies and co-operation. Teach the boy to observe, reflect and see facts as they are. The education of farmers should be directed along the line of farm life. Teach children how to read by the use of farm subjects of reading. The aim of farm education was not to know too much; teach to be something. There was more reform needed in home training than in the school. Train a farm boy to use his head through his hands. He thought three hours a day was enough head work for any boy. Teach the boys to love their farm and their country, for he was familiar by travel with this whole continent, and he had found the province of Ontario the best agricultural country in the continent. (Cheers)

DAIRY FARMING AND ENSILAGE.

Prof. Robertson defined farming as the occupation that produced the material for food and the raw material of clothing for the rest of the race. The more this production could be stimulated the better for the race. Plants were a store house of sun strength for the service of man. The sun must have a chance to do this storing. He must have the raw material, and co-operation of air, water and the soil, impregnated with elements of growth. In Ontario, farmers are robbing their soil of the elements of fertility by over-cropping. A weed is a plant that passes nothing on from itself to a higher form of life. An animal of the same kind is a "scrub," and a man with the same characteristics is a "scrub," also. Every time a farmer sold a pound of grain, he disposed of a part of his farm. The three most valuable elements of fertility were nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash, and there could be no plant growth without these. When a farmer sells two hundred dollars worth of wheat off his farm, he sells $48 worth of these ingredients and has only $152 for his skill and labor; has robbed his farm of $48, and had only 30 cents a day for all this. If a man sells $200 worth of beef, he only expends $17 worth of fertility and has $183 for his labor; if he sold so much cheese, he disposed of $18 worth and had $182 left; if he sold so much pork, he disposed of $13 worth and had $187 left; if he sold $200 worth of borne flesh he disposed of only $7 worth of fertility and had for his pains $193; if he sold butter to the value of $200 he had robbed his farm of only $1.25 worth of fertility, having $198.75 left for his labour. In regard to the dairy, it never paid to keep an animal that did not give back more than it got from the farm. The speaker had got returns that showed there were in Ontario 75,000 cows, which produced only $16 worth of milk at a cost of $36 per head, and 75,000 which gave $36 worth of milk at a similar cost of keeping. He advised farmers to keep an animal that would pay for its board, and to this end the "scrub" should be well fed and comfortably housed. The points of a good cow were given as a deep chest, good heart, soft, mellow skin, good digestion (the stomach a vital point), long udder, long body, wedge shaped, narrower in front than behind. An animal that filled these conditions paid best. The importance of saving manure and returning elements of fertility to the soil were insisted on and valuable hints given for the preservation of manures.

Ashburnham Brevities.

Mr. R. R. Wood, of Toronto, is in town for a few days.

Mr. Henry Bennett is the happy father of twins—a boy and girl.

Mr. H. Rogers, third son of Mr. H. C. Rogers, left for Kingston yesterday, where he is taking a course in the Military School.

Mr. Wm. Wand is now able to move out on the street for a very short distance, but is still very weak.

All the works of the Whistlewing have been taken out and the hull is being taken apart. The timber in it is found to be too shaky to be fit for anything but fuel.

Now is the time for the sanitary inspector to call on the back yards. In many cases the reception will not be a pleasant one. For the benefit of those who are already in a weak state, and for the protection of those who are not, it should be made compulsory for every person to have the yards cleaned out, as the ice and snow melt, and not wait till May or June, as in numerous cases it is done—to have them cleaned.

The prayers of all pedestrians in Ashburnham are being wafted up on street inspector Pope's behalf for his promptitude in having the sidewalk on Hunter street cleared of ice. The next move is for a new sidewalk.

That fellow who uses so much tulip salve these dark nights, while hanging on the gate post, had better not report quite so loudly, or the chances are that Chief of Police Craig will have him up for disturbing the peace and quietness of the corporation and interrupting the rest of the residents in the vicinity.

Drowned in a Creek.

A Little Son of Mr. A. E Curtis Meets with Sudden Death.

Yesterday afternoon little Arthur Curtis, aged two years and 3 months, a son of Mr. A. E. Curtis, of the brickyard just east of Ashburnham, was drowned in a creek that ran back of his father's house. The little fellow left the house about half past three, and wandered down the garden about 100 yards to a drain that had been swelled by the freshets to the dimensions of a creek. In playing about he accidentally tumbled in, and when missed about half an hour later his body was found in the stream, dead. It had been carried a little distance by the current and become lodged in a small pond. The bereaved parents will have public sympathy in the loss of their bright little son.

How Strange It is

To see people starting at the head of George street, passing all the grocery houses on the street, thereby giving them the go-by, and coming to a halt at the Opera House Block, to secure some of W. J. Morrow's celebrated teas. One half the population of Peterborough are using our now celebrated 25c. tea. For the next few years we will sell goods away below other houses, so you can always rely on buying goods cheaper from us than elsewhere. Watch for our Saturday bargains and be sure to call.

The Talk of the Town.

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 15 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Falcon" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

Dr. Ryerson's Visit.

Dr. G. S. Ryerson, (eye, ear and throat,) of Toronto, will be at the Grand Central hotel, Peterborough, on Saturday, March 30th, for consultation and treatment. 1d1w

Scott Act Repeal.

In the Mail of March 20th the following appeared in the St. Thomas despatches:—

The interest in the Scott Act question grows warmer every day, and the columns of the local papers contain daily strong arguments from both parties. The Scott Act Association holds a mass meeting in the opera house this evening. An invitation was extended by the association through its secretary, Mr. J. H. Courtenay, to the Licensed Victuallers' Association to present their case at the meeting, and to show cause why the Canada Temperance Act should be repealed, to which the licensed victuallers have given the following reply:—

"To the Secretary of the Scott Act Association:

"Dear Sir,—Yours of 18th inst. to hand inviting 'the L. V. A. and all whom it may concern' to be present at a public meeting to be held in the Opera house on Tuesday, 19th inst., at 8 o'clock, in order to show cause why the Temperance Act should be repealed. The Repeal Association respectfully decline the invitation. We do not dispute your right to conduct the campaign on the lines you have chosen, but submit that the Scott Act has been in force here for the past three years under the eyes of an 'intelligent and impartial jury,' viz., the public, who are sufficiently able from experience, to decide, on the 4th of April next, whether it has benefited the religious, moral, or temperance work of the city. The Repeal Association is of the opinion that the experience of the jury is a better guide than the impassioned appeals of either local or imported orators. The issue is not temperance versus intemperance, but Scotts Act versus Crooks Act (both licensed Acts), and it will be the privilege and duty of the electors, after both having had a trial, to say under which the greatest number of dives flourish and the greatest harm is done to our city.

"Yours respectfully,
"D. J. Dougherty,
"Sec'y Scott Act Repeal Association.

Young Men's Guild.

How the Young Men of St. John's will Assist Church Work.

A largely attended meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. John's Church was held last evening in the school house, when the constitution and by-laws framed by the special committee elected at the previous meeting were presented for confirmation, and these, with a few important amendments, were approved of and adopted. The election of officers then took place resulting in the following selections:

President—Rev. J. C. Davidson.
Vice-President—Mr. A. V. R. Young.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. W. D. Parker.

A long and animated discussion then ensued as to the manner in which the objects of the Guild could best be accomplished, and a committee was eventually chosen, consisting of Messrs Baddess, H. Long, Perry, Fair, J. H. Long, Bell, H. Rush, Brierley and G. A. Smith, whose duties it will be to induce regular attendance at church services and to welcome strangers thereto. Also the following were chosen to assist the sidesmen in ushering strangers and others to seats in pews:—Messrs. H. Morrow, J. H. Burnham, Somerville, Parker, Clemonti, MacDonnell, R. Hay, G. A. Smith, Forbes and H. Rush. The meeting then adjourned.

SPRING MILLINERY OPENING AT TURNBULL'S

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

We give a cordial invitation to all and expect to see you on the above dates to look through our Magnificent Stock, of Millinery and Millinery Trimmings, Mantles, Dolmans and Jackets, Light Plain Cloths and Fancy Checks, for the young people, rich Brocade and Fancy Stripes, for the older, with all the New Trimmings to Match.

The Event of the Past Week

Has been Dress Goods and Dress Trimmings. We cannot begin to tell you how they have been admired. Satear Cloths have been the favourites. There is an undescribable gentility about the colors that make you feel you would like to have a dress and wear it. The new steel and silk gimps blend in so perfectly. Our Bradford (England) Dress Cloths, at 10c., are worth a corner in your memory. Our Prints in the windows and on the counters have been turning up their sunny pretty faces at you as you pass by for the past two or three weeks, and many a prudent mother has had her summer supply sent home already, knowing she would not find the same assortment later.

During the past few weeks in the hurry and bustle of unpacking case after case of New Goods, we have neglected to call your attention to our Boys' Clothing and Tailoring Department. In fact was it necessary? Our old customers know and the public generally, are finding out that our Tailor is very hard to beat in a fit, and we never take a side seat in prices.

Our Importations of Cloths from across the boiling sea have arrived, and lay side by side with their Canadian cousins. It is hard to say which is the prettiest or best, but the Scotch have the name of making the color faster than we Canadians. We will not dispute their ability to-day. Our Tailoring Department is not what it was three years ago. It has grown amazingly. We mean it shall still grow by giving good goods, proper styles and close prices. Our Boys' Clothing is opened out. Boys be happy, tell your parents of the fact, and have them come in and pick your suit out. We are sure we can please them with the price.

In the centre of the floor stands a table loaded with a job line of Laces. When we say job we mean half price or under. They are all two and three cents a yard, take your choice. You cannot buy the same Goods anywhere else less than five and most of them you will pay ten cents for. The fashion sheets (which are free) for this month have arrived. A full assortment of domestic patterns kept. Remember the days of our Millinery Opening, when our store will be in its holiday attire, when all the Novelties of the season will be displayed.

REGRET.

How often people regret they have not a really Good Photograph. Such regret might easily be avoided if proper discretion is exercised in selecting such artists as have reputations at stake, and who bring the greatest amount of practical experience and careful thought in the matter of lighting, posing, etc, into the production of their work. By strict personal attention to all orders entrusted to my care, I am prepared to guarantee the greatest satisfaction. Special attention to children; every facility for large groups, enlarging from small photos. Prices to suit everybody. Call and see specimens.

THE JESUITS' ESTATES.

COL. O'BRIEN INTRODUCES HIS DISALLOWANCE RESOLUTION.

Six Speeches Yesterday — Mr. McCarthy Moves the Adjournment—The Imperial Government Will Not Interfere.

That an address be presented to the Governor-General praying forth that the Queen regrets the power of disallowing the acts of legislation of the late Province of Quebec, [illegible] Jesuits' Estates Act, [illegible] as a prerogative essential to the protection of the Dominion. That this great power, while it should never be wantonly exercised, should be reservedly used for the protection of the fundamental principles of the constitution and for safe-guarding the general interests of the people.

That in the opinion of this House the passage of the act by the Legislature of the Province of Quebec, entitled "An Act respecting the Settlement of the Jesuits' Estates," is beyond the power of that Legislature.

Firstly, because it endows from public funds a roll call organization, thereby violating the unwritten, but undoubted, constitutional principle of the complete separation of church and state, and of the absolute equality of all denominations before the law.

Secondly, because it recognizes the usurpation of a right by a foreign authority, namely, His Holiness the Pope of Rome, declaring his consent necessary to empower the Provincial Legislature to dispose of a portion of the public domain, and also because the act is made to depend on his will and the appropriation of the grant thereby made is subject to the control of the same authority, and

Thirdly, because the destiny of Jesus is a secret and political body, the expansion of which from every Christian community wherein it had had a footing was rendered necessary by its intolerant and mischievous intermeddling with the functions of civil government.

Therefore this House prays that His Excellency will be graciously pleased to disallow the act.

OTTAWA, March 26.—The galleries of the House to-day were crowded with spectators eager to hear the long-threatened debate on the Jesuit Estates Bill. The expectant multitude were not long kept in suspense. The House had not been sitting many minutes when amid intense silence the man from Shanty Bay, Col. William Edward O'Brien, moved the resolution printed above.

Col. O'Brien declared his desire to avoid the religious side of the question and to deal only with the constitutional aspect. He would not have undertaken the responsibility of bringing before the House such a delicate subject were it not that he felt he was expressing the conviction of the people he represented and of the great majority of the people of Ontario. Though elected as a supporter of this Administration he had, speaking in anticipation of just such an event as the present, said that regardless of consequences he would oppose any attempt on the part of any religious body to exercise powers not guaranteed by treaty.

He referred to the first establishment of the Jesuits in Canada and praised in the sense of duty which animated them and led to their suffering martyrdom in their efforts to Christianize the Indians. But while we could only speak in terms of admiration of those who were carrying on the work in New France, the condition of affairs in the Old World was different and the society was subsequently suppressed because of the disfavor into which it had fallen. From the time of Elizabeth downwards the Jesuits had been proscribed in the British territories as a menace to the public peace and for their attempts to overthrow the Protestant succession. They had been expelled from nearly every country in Europe.

Considering all these things it was not surprising that the Jesuits had been regarded with disfavor and suspicion by England, and when the opinion of the law officers had been taken and it was found that the title to their estates in Canada had been confiscated, the Government had concluded that this was not a society which should be permitted to carry on their operations in Canada, and that their estates should not be handed back to them as had been done in the case of the other religious bodies. Having taken possession of the property the Crown erected the legal trust attached to the property and conveyed it to the Province of Quebec to be administered for educational purposes. In his correspondence Mr. Mercier admits that the Jesuits had no legal claim but only a moral one, but Mr. O'Brien contended that there was no claim whatever, moral or equitable. The estates had become the property of the Province for educational purposes, and having taken that trust the Province had now no right to dispose of it for any reason whatever.

Concerning the grounds for disallowance the first was that a fundamental principle of the constitution was violated by the endowment of any religious body. That principle was indisputably laid down; by the act for the secularization of the clergy reserves it was distinctly declared that there should be no semblance of a state-established church in Canada. It was not a proposition to be tolerated that a grant to which the Presbyterian Church and the Church of England were entitled should be set aside for a principle and yet that the grant to this suppressed Society of Jesus should be restored to them.

By the British North America Act the Jesuits estates trust was recognized by the whole Dominion as a trust to be administered for educational purposes, and it could not now be claimed that it was a matter only for the Province of Quebec. As if to cover the defect in their title the Jesuits had left the disposition of the grant from the Quebec Legislature to be dealt with by the Pope, and, as shown by the correspondence, the Pope allowed the Quebec Government to dispose of the estates. He denied that the Province of Quebec enjoyed any constitutional liberty to appeal to the Pope, and declared that there were no civil or religious rights accorded by the Quebec Act that were not controlled by the act of supremacy.

It had been said that though this Society of Jesus had once been bad, it had thrown off its evil habits and was now a society worthy of encouragement, but if the weapons it used were different the end sought to be accomplished was the same. The society was as dangerous as in the past, and in this free country it was not proper to encourage a society which inculcates principles dangerous to the public welfare. He realized that the verdict of the House would be against his resolution, but he was willing to appeal from the jury of the House to the jury of the people, who he thought would unmistakably declare that no foreign authority, civil or religious, should be allowed to have any voice in its government.

Mr. Rykert rose to reply. Declaring himself an Orangeman, he ridiculed the threats made in certain newspapers of Ontario against such of the members of that order as should dare to oppose disallowance in this House. He was one of the first principles of the Orange Order that civil and religious liberty should be maintained, but while contending for such liberty he did not feel called upon to join the alliance which had been formed against his Roman Catholic fellow citizens. He thought that a canvass of the people of Ontario would show that a large majority of the people of that province took the same view of the question. He pointed out that the inevitable result of the encouragement of an Ontario crusade against Roman Catholicism would be a crusade in the Province of Quebec against Protestantism, and that every Protestant would be driven from that province.

He dwelt at some length upon what he termed the extraordinary course of The Globe on this question, and characterized The Mail as even more extraordinary in the stand it had taken of late upon every question affecting the interests of the French-Canadian and Roman Catholic people.

Referring to the agitation which had been raised in favor of appealing to the Queen to disallow the act, he declared that the power of Her Majesty applied only to acts passed by the Dominion Parliament, not to those passed by provincial legislatures. He cited authorities to show the inadvisability of Dominion interference in legislation within the competence of the provincial legislatures.

Mr. Rykert, continuing after recess, cited instances to show the impossibility of Imperial interference with provincial legislation, notably in the case of the memorial from New Brunswick in 1873, when Lord Carnarvon replied that though he had laid the petition before the Queen Her Majesty's ministers could not advise her to pass judgment upon an act of a provincial legislature.

He considered that there was no question of Dominion policy involved in this and that it was unwise and unexpedient for the House to discuss such a question in the manner in which it had been presented.

Mr. Barron expressed regret that on this measure he had to vote against the party with which he had ever[illegible] so harmoniously since his entry into the House and to vote against his political leader and combat his opinions. He was in taking this step imbued with no hatred of the Jesuits or of the Roman Catholics, among whom he had many warm friends. He had no sympathy with the clamor which had been raised outside the House with respect to the question, clamor which might be right or wrong but did not meet with his approval. He objected, however, that in this and the Pope was made the end of this legislation, that this foreign potentate had been given the right to veto a British act of parliament. We were taught that the rights of assenting or dissenting to legislation was as peculiar a prerogative of the crown that the sovereign herself could not delegate it.

He held that the statute of Elizabeth had distinctly disowned the jurisdiction of the Pope in Canada, that the [illegible] of Paris had not repealed the statute of Elizabeth, and that this was recognized in the Quebec Act of 1774, which granted the right to exercise the Catholic religion subject to the King's supremacy as [illegible] that was passed in the reign of Elizabeth.

The speaker went on to talk about restitutions, but it was impossible to restore anything except to some person who had previous possession of it. He claimed that the present Jesuit Society had nothing whatever to do with the society from whom the estates had been taken. That society had been dissolved by Parliament and by the Pope. The act incorporating them in 1842 made no reference whatever to their right to this particular property. This was not taken from the Jesuits at the time of the conquest as the statute said, and this Government should not have allowed the act to become law without having it amended in this particular.

He denied that the provinces had the right to make money grants to denominational institutions. He quoted Sir John Macdonald's contention in support of the disallowance of the Rivers and Streams bill, that all bills should be disallowed which injuriously affected the interests of the general community, and asked if anything more than religion affected the general interest.

Mr. Clarke Wallace took exception to the statement of Mr. Rykert that the organs of the Orange Order had threatened those members who might vote against disallowance. He declared that the order had but one organ and that one had shown a moderation in this discussion which might well be copied outside the order and by the occupants of several pulpits. He thought Mr. Rykert must have had in his mind The Toronto Globe threatening those members of the Liberal party who were not of its opinion.

Article 23 of the Treaty of Paris made provisions for granting religious liberties to the French-Canadians, but to the Jesuits, the Recollets and the House of Ste. Sulpice Lord Amherst withheld consent until the wish of the King in the matter should be known. The orders to the Governor in 1775 were that the Society of the Jesuits be suppressed and that their property shall be vested in the Crown, but that they might enjoy their property during their natural lives. In 1773 a brief from the Pope of Rome provided that the Society of the Jesuits should be suppressed and abolished. He thought no stronger evidence could be given of the character of that Society than that which had been given by Pope Clementine.

But they were told that the society was restored. In Canada they were restored but in no other country. In other countries they were not only not allowed to hold property but the society was abolished. In 1807 they find here an act incorporating the society, and in 1888 they found that there was an act passed by the Quebec Legislature not only allowing the sale of their property but allowing the disposal of the money in any manner they thought best. He had looked carefully over the Act of Confederation and he was unable to find any provision under which any legislature was empowered to vote money for any religious denomination. It would be a lamentable thing if a law was passed giving any province more power in such a matter than any other province.

Mr. Colby said in the discussion of the question he did not think it was necessary to go into the record of that remarkable body of men, the Jesuits, nor would he go into the fine legal points which had been raised. The proposition now before the House was an implied censure of the Government for not having disallowed an act of the Quebec Legislature, and an instruction to disallow it. This veto power should be exercised with the greatest consideration and only when it appeared that there was a positive necessity. It was a serious matter to interfere with the vote of a local legislature, especially in a case like this where the most sensitive feelings of the people of the Province were touched.

Though once suppressed this order of the Jesuits had a legal status in Quebec at present, so that an attack upon that order was an attack upon the entire body of the Roman Catholic Church. We must recognize the face that it was the church we were asked to attack and not an obnoxious body of that church. So with all such legislation as proposed we must make up our mind to deliberately attack the religious sentiments of the majority in Quebec. We must consider, in view of the effect upon the harmony and prosperity of the country, the effect of creating a religious hostility in the country which would loose the paper bond which now binds the Confederation.

There was a grave and serious doubt as to our right to disallow. There was the grave and serious opinion of the Minister of Justice; we had the opinion of men eminent in this House and country differing from the Government on almost every point, but agreeing with them that there was a doubt about the right to disallow such an act. There being the doubt should suffice to make us pause

He believed it was the duty of Parliament to avoid every cause of offence to the Provinces. The constitution had already stood several severe strains, but when religious strife was involved we must act very, very carefully lest we precipitate a crisis the consequences of which can but faintly be imagined.

He had no doubt that the very zealous Protestants in some sections felt that the Protestants of Quebec had been very apathetic in the matter of the passage of this Jesuit Bill. He did not believe the Protestants of that Province were disloyal to Protestant ideas, but they had for many years been associated closely with their Roman Catholic fellow-citizens and any religious animosities had been worn away by contact. If they differed they differed quietly, not making themselves obnoxious to each other. That was a happy condition of affairs which the Protestants of Quebec did not desire to see disturbed. There never was a minority more generously treated than had been the minority of Quebec. They had been permitted the entire management of their own affairs. They had not been conscious that they were a minority. The Liberal party for many years adopted a Protestant for their leader, the Treasurer of the Province had for four years been a Protestant—Mr. Robertson. The Protestant minority had nothing to complain of and they did not wish to provoke an issue which would disturb these pleasant relations.

Hon. Peter Mitchell said for once he intended to vote on the side of the Government. He told how the Protestant minority in the Province of Quebec had allowed the act to be passed without taking a division upon it, and this being the case he thought there was no justification for the clamor which had been raised in another province, ostensibly on behalf of the rights of the Quebec minority. He would ever be his wish to promote harmony and peace between Protestants and Roman Catholics. He was glad to say the Government had justified the course they had pursued.

Mr. McCarthy moved the adjournment of the debate and the House adjourned at 11.20.

Routinely a Matter for Canada.

LONDON, March 26.—A memorial from the Protestant Alliance was presented to-day to Lord Knutsford, Secretary of State for the Colonies, asking the Government to disallow the Quebec Jesuits Estates Act. Lord Knutsford said the matter rested entirely with the Canadian Government, to which the memorial would be forwarded.

Manitoba Matters.

WINNIPEG, March 26.—Wm. Lennon, a farmer of Carberry, fell from a load of hay today and received such serious injuries that death shortly ensued.

Evans who was shot by his comrade Sunday is still in a precarious condition.

There were no criminal or civil jury cases at the Portage Assizes and neither grand nor petit jurors were summoned.

A Baptist college is to be established here shortly.

LONDON, March 26.—Count Herbert Bismarck dined with Lord Salisbury this evening. Lord Hartington was also present. The three statesmen conversed until midnight.

A TRAGEDY AT GUELPH.

WM. H. HARVEY MURDERS HIS WIFE AND TWO DAUGHTERS.

They are Found Dead in Their Own Home—The Assassin Goes to Toronto to Hide His Sin and is Arrested.

GUELPH, March 26.—A sensation was created in the city this morning when a report spread that W. H. Harvey, bookkeeper for J. W. Lyon, and at one time accountant for E. R. C. Clarkson, Toronto, had been arrested for embezzling $300 from J. W. Lyon, the book publisher. He was bailed out by Dr. Lett. About four o'clock this afternoon the sensation of the morning was magnified in an intense degree by another report that Harvey had shot his wife and two children.

Harvey during the forenoon had purchased a revolver at John M. Bond & Co.'s store. Being well known the clerk had no hesitation in selling him a pistol. Harvey asked for "a good revolver" and he was shown the best goods in this class. Harvey stated that it was for a young man whom Mr. Lyon had employed to go to Mexico and that the revolver was to be charged to Mr. Lyon. The coat picked on was a 32 double action silver plated Smith & Wesson make. He also bought 50 cartridges, 32 calibre. The clerk states that Harvey seemed perfectly rational, and knowing him so well he had no hesitation whatever in selling him the revolver. When the story of his defalcation was known this morning the proprietors, having a doubt about the propriety of Harvey having the revolver informed the police.

Dr. Hewitt was the first physician who was present. He arrived about 4 o'clock. He stated that the scene was one of the most harrowing he had ever witnessed. Lying in a bank pantry off the kitchen was the mother shot through the head; from behind, and upstairs in the bedroom in the rear portion of the house was the eldest daughter, about 20 or 21 years of age, lying on the foot of the bed also shot from behind. In the room facing the front street was the other daughter, a young girl about twelve years of age, lying dead in the entrance to a closet. Evidently she had been going into the closet when she was shot. The doctor is of opinion that the victims had been shot four or five hours before they were discovered.

Harvey has a son a lithographer in Toronto. He was warned to beware, as it was suspected, and on subsequent events so verified, that the murderer would also take his son's life.

Some Later Developements.

GUELPH, March 26.—Later developements throw no light as to the motive for the crime. He went to the central school about 11 o'clock this morning and took his youngest daughter home. His son J. W. Harvey, a lithographer in Toronto, whose address is supposed to be 40 Colborne-street, was notified and is expected here to-night. Harvey was superintendent of St. George's Church Sunday School.

CAPTURED IN TORONTO.

Detective Black Arrests the Murderer at King and Yonge-streets.

TORONTO, March 27.—The Guelph murderer, is a prisoner in a well-watched cell at Police Headquarters. He was arrested at 9.30 last evening on the southeast corner of Yonge and King-streets, immediately in front of J. E. Ellis & Co.'s jewelry store. The arrest was made quietly, and the few people who witnessed it little imagined that the man who was being hustled briskly along the south side of King-street towards the Central Police Station was the man who but a few hours before had steeped his hands in the blood of his wife and two daughters. In fact those who saw the incident paid but little attention to it, being under the impression that it was but a case of ordinary drunk.

To Detective Black belongs the credit of capturing the murderer. The circumstances are peculiar, proving that Inspector Stark's sentences had practically sized up the situation. At 2.45 yesterday afternoon the Detective Department received a despatch from Guelph stating that William H. Harvey was wanted for embezzlement, and requesting that a sharp lookout be kept for him here, as it was suspected that he was heading for Toronto. Following close on the heels of the first telegram came a second bringing the information that to the crime of embezzlement Harvey had added that of the more frightful one of murder, and that his victims were his wife and two daughters. The despatch further stated that it was feared that, having murdered his wife and children in Guelph, he might be making for Toronto to kill his son, who was residing in this city.

Inspector Stark discovered that the son, J. W. Harvey, was employed with C. A. Sandham, engraver, at 40 Colborne-street, but before he could be seen personally he had left for Guelph, taking the 6 o'clock train, evidently even then being in complete ignorance of the terrible tragedy. Fearing that the murderer might proceed to the boarding-house of the son at No. 25 Grosvenor-street, Detective Black was detailed to go up there and await developments. This was about 8.30. At 8.45 as Clemens, a despatch messenger boy arrived at the house with the following message addressed to the son:

MY DEAR BOY: I am in town for the night. Will you come down and stay all night with me?

Walk down the west side of Yonge and north side of King to Palmer House. I may come up to meet you. YOUR FATHER.

After telephoning this information to Inspector Stark, Detective Black, accompanied by two young men who knew the murderer, walked leisurely down Yonge-street, keeping a sharp lookout for him. At the south-east corner of Yonge and King-streets the officer spied his man. He was walking leisurely up and down the sidewalk with his hands in the pockets of his mackintosh and leisurely smoking a cigar. Every now and then he would glance nervously up Yonge-street, evidently on the lookout for his son. After observing him for some minutes in order to be sure that there was no mistake, Detective Black after calling in the assistance of Policemen Leonard stepped forward to make the arrest.

Harvey was facing due east when the detective, coming close up to him, seized his right arm at the wrist and informed him that he was a prisoner.

THE FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

West Riding Farmers in Council.

Ensilage—The Clydesdale Stallion—How to Keep Boys on the Farm.

ENSILAGE.

Continuing his address, Prof. Robertson dealt with the subject of ensilage—raising corn for fodder,—drill in rows 3½ feet apart the grain 7 inches apart, sow early and cover shallow, cultivate thoroughly and harrow at intervals till the corn was eight inches high. "Mulch" between the rows by cultivating. After corn is grown, keep in silo, best way and cheapest way of saving the corn. A silo need not necessarily be deep; it can be built to cost about a dollar for a ton of storage room. Every two tons of silage is equal to a ton of hay for feeding. The description of a cheap silo and a convenient means for drawing, and the process of filling a silo similar to that described in Mr. Birdsall's paper, published in these columns, was given. The silo, when filled, contained a food, every ton of which was equal to a half a ton of hay, and on the average farm from 16 to 20 tons per acre can be grown. Thus in decreasing the cost of feeding the animal, we have increased profit. In answer to a question, Prof. Robertson stated that corn ensilage was preferable to roots, because it admitted of clearing the soil with less labor. In general answer to questions, Prof. Robertson stated that any farmer sending his address on a post card to the Agricultural College, Guelph, would have sent him all the information on the subject of ensilage the experiments of the department had supplied, together with plans of silos, etc.

"THE CLYDESDALE STALLION."

Mr. J. A. Davidson, Secretary of the Association, read the following paper on this subject contributed by Mr. R. D. Dundas, "Lowland's Stock Farm, Springville.

The Clydesdale stallion should be about 16½ hands high, and weigh in moderate flesh 1,800 pounds. His head is a moderate size—not too pony looking nor yet clumsy—but wide between the eyes; ears medium length and active; eyes large, full and light, expressive of both mildness and vigor; neck, good length and well arched, but not necessarily extra high for draught purposes; shoulders should be deep and powerful and not too perpendicular, or the action of the foreleg will be hampered; forearm should be strong and heavily muscled; the knee, broad; cannon bone, strong, short and broad from side view; pasterns, good, fair length and well sloped forward; feet, pretty large and well spread, with heels prominent and tough in substance; hair on legs should be soft and silky looking—avoid coarse, matted hair and round bones; chest should be full and broad; back, short and pretty straight, with ribs well sprung and coming well down on the flank—avoid long bodies, wasp waists and loose couplings; hindquarters should be lengthy, broad and powerful; thighs, strong and well covered with muscle; hocks, broad, clean and free from all appearance of fleshiness; legs, flat and strong, descending almost perpendicularly from front of hock to pastern joint; pasterns tolerably long and sloping well forward—if pasterns are too short and steep the action cannot be free. In walking the Clydesdale should have a long, swinging, rapid gait; and, when trotting he should head the form knees well and should move square and straight, getting well over the ground. The action of draught horses is not closely enough scrutinized in this country, many people's minds having been carried away by an extra high-headed animal, going at a furious rate for a short distance, while he may neither have a square action nor staying powers—qualities of far greater importance. The Clydesdale horse was never more popular than at the present time, and should the same care be exercised by the Canadians as has heretofore been done by our Scotch friends, it will have the good effect of diminishing from time to time the number of unsound horses in this country. It may possibly appear invidious to mention names, but in the last decade there has appeared quite a number of Clydesdale stallions that have earned for themselves a world wide fame, and whose offspring could usually be calculated on for possessing the following very desirable properties in combination, viz., style, symmetry, substance, perfect shape, power of endurance and first class action.

These horses are:—"Prince of Wales," "Topsman," "Time o' Day," "Top Gallant," "McGregor," "General Neil," "Baited Knight," and "Lord Erskine," as being well worthy to be placed in the same category. We should also name the well known "Darnley," "Old Times," "Farmer," the two "Prince Charlies," McKean's and Dunmore, and last, but not least, the great "Lord Lyons."

HOW TO KEEP BOYS ON THE FARM.

Mr. R. E. Birdsall read a paper on this subject and pointed out the independence of a farmers life and the important qualifications necessary for making a successful farmer. Boys should be well educated, in the special line of instruction needed for their calling, he should understand a wide range of various subjects incidentally called into play in his profession. Our splendid system of education should be modified so as to give special educational advantages to farmers' children; the paper deplored the repulsiveness of many farmer's homes; make pleasant, home bright cheerful and inviting. Recreation, music and amusement and an occasional holiday should be afforded the boy. Boys should be encouraged, not kept at degrading tasks, having the worst team and the worst implements.

Mr. J. A. Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. Allen, Reay, a resolution endorsing the proposal in reference to Rural education, which was rejected on a vote by a narrow majority.

The usual votes of thanks were passed and the convention adjourned.

Carpenters and Joiners and Mr. Baptie.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—In your issue of Saturday last there appeared a letter from J. D. Baptie. In it he wishes to make it appear that he did not pledge himself to support nine hours a day for carpenters. I am willing to accept his denial of it. At the time I understood that all the candidates for No. 3 Ward were favourable to the nine-hour movement for all workers. Mr. Baptie also states that he was not aware that the carpenters were going to ask for nine hours. I think if that is the case he must have been asleep and has just awakened. Mr. Baptie further states that he thinks that the adoption of nine hours would deter people from building. I differ from Mr. Baptie on that point, as the increase would be so small that it would make very little difference. Mr. Baptie states that he never was a kicker. I am given to understand that a few years ago he endeavoured to persuade the employers to sign an agreement to reduce the wages of carpenters 25 cents per day. In regard to Mr. Baptie being at a loss by the adoption of nine hours, I would like to ask if he thinks the men should always be the losers. If he is unable to compete with other firms the workmen cannot help him. And so far as not being able to perform the amount of work to be done in nine hours, I am informed he does not run his factory eight hours a day at present. So far as the Union is concerned, they are willing to put money into a factory and compete with Mr. Baptie and others who are not willing to do what is right in this matter.

Thanking you for your valuable space,

I remain, yours,

Rowe. T. McGuigan,
President Union 375.

Nassau.

From Our Own Correspondent.

On Friday evening the Rev. Mr. Poer gave a lecture in the Nassau church, taking for his subject "The Pope in Captivity." In his opening remarks the speaker said a great many objected to plain speaking from the pulpit, but simply to preach the truth was not sufficient. They should also point out the wrong when it arose. He then criticised the sayings of Senators Scott and Donahoe at a recent meeting of Roman Catholics in Ottawa, in which they spoke of restoring the temporal power of the Pope. They said, "If the Pope were to ask his children to strike away the chains that held him, over 270,000,000 people would throw off the petty power that held him." "Just think," said the reverend gentleman, "infallibility in captivity by a petty power." Should the Catholics get a majority, he said, which in time will surely come, religious freedom will come to an end. The Commandments told us to love our neighbors as ourselves, but the Roman Catholics were told to love the Pope with all their heart and mind, and hate with bitter hatred the heretics. "Impious," said he, "are of our countrymen pledged to be loyal to Canada, pledged to have no other Sovereign but the one that rules over Great Britian and her colonies, protesting against the captivity of the Pope. Listen and tell me, is he not full of treason when he among the rest says he is in earnest in re-establishing the power of the Pope." Mr. Donahoe said they had something more than a mere ruler of men or a monarch. They had in the Pope the representative of the Redeemer of mankind. "Fancy," said the speaker, "a gouty old man sitting in State a representative of Jesus Christ." The people at the Ottawa meeting thought that his power should be restored because he had done so much to sweeten the cup of misery of the oppressed in past ages. But, he asked, how did he do it? By the thumbscrew and lions' dens and at the stake. Delightful sugar! Rev. Mr. Robinson, writing from Venice to the Christian Journal said that 35 000 Catholics in a city near Rome were fighting against the church for religious freedom. Ecclesiastical tyranny was losing its power. In closing he urged the people to select as representatives men who would stand up for civil and religious liberty. A great struggle was coming for the land and we would realise it before long and we must be prepared to meet it.

DISEASED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

Through the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, druggist, Apollo, Pa., I became acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take the opportunity to say to you that they have completely cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with erysipelas, that I have ever seen, and by the other leading druggists in our county. I take great pleasure in furnishing you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be induced to send to you CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial. F. E. WHITLINGER, Leechburg, Pa.

SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James H. Richardson, Captain Race, New Orleans, on oath says:—"In 1885 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1888 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

THE ST. GEORGE VICTIMS.

Eleven of the Sufferers Sanguvere Not Yet Well Enough to be Moved.

St. George, March 26.—Of the 25 peasants who were hurt in the terrible accident here 11 are still at St. George. Thomas M. Dempsey, the conveyancer referred to, is doing nicely at Dr. Hutchison's and will be around again shortly. His wife is here with him. Miss Andrews of Belleville is also recovering very quickly. A couple of days ago she developed symptoms of the sore, and for some time afterwards there was fear of blood poisoning. She was badly scared, though, and was glad to be rescued from the wreck. Mrs. and Miss Jessup of Paris will be moved on Tuesday. Dr. LeQuesne of Glenfield is progressing favorably, but will be here for some time. Mr. Beaudoin of Mimico, who was injured and had his wrist badly injured, was very poorly until a couple of days ago, but he commenced to improve, and will probably be able to go home to-day to will recover. Mr. Marshall and his wife, one of the newly married couples who were on the ill-fated train and had their honeymoon suddenly eclipsed, will go home in a few days. Mrs. Marshall has been around for some time, but has confined to still considered to be bad. Mr. Bishop of Goderich is almost well and will be sent home on Tuesday. Miss McLeod of Ingersoll, who sustained an ugly scalp wound and had her collar-bone fractured, is gradually getting better. She will likely be sufficiently recovered to be moved in ten days. Mr. McKinley, of Detroit, who had his collar-bone broken, is doing nicely. He will be here for a couple of weeks longer.

Funeral of Jonathan Martin.

Woodstock, March 26.—The remains of the late Jonathan Martin were laid to rest this afternoon. In accordance with a resolution passed by Acting Mayor Revell all places of business and all the schools were closed from 1 to 4 o'clock. The funeral has been equaled in the history of our town for size and impressiveness only by that of Mr. Martin's deceased comrades.

The condition of Mayor Karn is causing considerable anxiety in town. On Saturday he had an attack of malarial fever, but it is now stated that he is gaining again. It is the frequency with which these reverses occur than oldness anxiety.

Anti-Tax Exemptionists.

Ottawa, March 26.—The City Council to-night passed a resolution authorizing the Mayor to call a convention of municipal representatives to discuss desired amendments to the Municipal Act. The move is promoted by the anti-tax exemptionists, but many other proposed amendments will likely be discussed by the convention. It was stated that the convention idea was strongly favored by the Ontario Government who would prefer to act upon the recommendations of such a body rather than upon those of single municipalities.

A Clergyman's Mishap.

St. George, March 26.—Rev. Jos. Odery, Methodist minister here, had a narrow escape from being killed by a vicious bull last evening. He had gone into the pen to feed and care for it when it attacked him, knocking him down, kicking and trampling upon him. His collar bone was broken and he is very severely bruised. Luckily some one entered the stable and rescued him from his perilous position.

Seizure of a Still.

Brockville, March 26.—Two constables passed through here to-day about noon and returned in about two hours. They proceeded in making a still and arresting Duncan Calder as the still was found in his [illegible]. It is not known whether Calder had made or sold any liquor.

REMARKABLE CONVERSION

Mr. R. J. Winch, of Cobourg, Gives His Experience.

Converted While Driving in a Buggy—The Struggle for Freedom from the Bonds of Sin—An Affecting Meeting in St. Paul's Church—Addresses by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter.

Everybody and his wife and family, or at least as many of him as could possibly crowd in, attended the services in St. Paul's Church last night. All the doors were blocked, and many considered themselves fortunate in securing standing room. The special attraction was the announcement that Mr. Richard J. Winch of Cobourg, a gentleman well known in Peterborough, would give his experience. Mr. Winch was on the platform, and beside him were his brothers Fred and Harry, who have both recently been converted.

It was also the regular song sermon night. Mr. Crossley sang "The Land o' the Leal," and by request "The Two Lives." In his address he sang "I am saved, Hallelujah," and "Jesus Loves Poor Sinners." Mr. Parker accompanied him on the organ, and brought some very pretty steps into play.

THE GOSPEL A B C.

Mr. Hunter's remarks were based on the 6th chapter of Matthew. He gave his hearers the A B C of the gospel.

A.—"All have sinned and come short of the glory of God."

B.—"Behold the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world."

C.—"Come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

Mr. Hunter, laying stress upon the 19th verse, urged the people not to lay up treasures for themselves on earth, to leave to their children, for it would probably be a curse to them. They may say that "money makes the mare go," but it all depends on which way the mare goes. Money, he said, is like a manure heap, no good until it is spread out. In a pile it breeds disease and death. Mr. Hunter spoke scathingly of those small-souled Christians, who shout that the Lord has converted them—but He has not converted their pockets, for they would squeeze a coin until it squealed before they would give it up to the church. In commenting on different passages, Mr. Hunter made a few characteristic remarks, urging people to trust more in God, and not think so much about what they should eat or drink. He also dealt with the liquor traffic, saying that he hated it with an eternal hate and he would fight it to the bitter end. He would rather, he said, cut off his right hand than vote for it.

REASONS WHY THEY DON'T.

Rev. Mr. Crossley chose for a text, Acts xxvii, 23: "Whose I am and whom I serve." In this passage Paul gives his experience. This was what it was to be a Christian. The speaker then pointed out some of the reasons why people do not become Christians, which briefly are, first, that they have a wrong idea that they must make some great sacrifice, not realizing that they have only to give up their sins; second, they entertained a wrong idea of their obligations to the Lord, thinking that because they are not Carrie Nations they had the privilege of doing things that a professing Christian could not, whereas the Lord's claims on them were just the same as on the Christian; third, by looking at the hypocrites instead of seeing that that was no excuse for them; fourth, some did not admit their obligations, but if they would live up to their intelligent belief the Lord would give them additional light, though it was not more light they wanted but more honesty and purpose to be towards the Lord what they feel in their hearts they should be. Others had a wrong idea of Christianity altogether, thinking it necessary to fit them for death. They should rather look upon Christianity as a necessary thing for life rather than death. And many Christians made this same mistake by urging the unsaved to prepare for death by seeking salvation. Deathbed repentance was seldom genuine, because the dying one would be thinking of death instead of being saved. Mr. Crossley pointed out how contemptible it was for a sinner to think he would live a life of wickedness with the expectation of being saved just before he died. He urged all the unsaved to realize their personal obligation and not put off the question of their salvation any longer.

AN EXPERIENCE.

Mr. Hunter, in introducing Mr. Richard Winch, said he had an evidence from God that he would see all his children in heaven, and drew attention to the three brothers on the platform as an evidence that the prayers of their aged parents, now dead, had been answered by God.

MR. WINCH, in beginning his experience, said he saw many old friends in the congregation, and he asked their prayers and sympathy. He had many warm friends here, and Peterborough would always have a green spot in his memory. He was born in a log house on George street, about on the site of the store now occupied by Mr. Henry Best, and in Peterborough he grew up to boyhood. When about ten years old he went to a log schoolhouse, and on the very spot where now stood the church in which he was speaking, he often chased squirrels and chipmunks. In Peterborough he grew to manhood and left the town, but many years afterwards came back here to be born a second time. Mr. Winch said he had been asked by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter to relate his experience and he did so in the hope that he might be the means through God of bringing to Christ some soul who were similarly circumstanced to himself before he gave himself to God. It was about that Crossley and Hunter came to Cobourg and Mr. Winch related in detail his impressions of their meetings. He was pleased with Mr. Crossley's earnest and concise sermons and also with Mr. Hunter's racy comments on the passages of Scripture he read; but later on he changed his mind about Mr. Hunter, for he made things too hot for him—just as he was doing for a great many in the congregations in Peterborough. However, Mr. Winch said he attended several meetings, but didn't like the way the pointed questions were put, and when Mr. Hunter asked those who had decided to start for Christ to rise up, he felt uncomfortable sitting down when so many were standing; it made him too conspicuous. Then Mr. Hunter's remarks always seemed pointed directly at him, and that also hit him pretty hard. The second night, as he was leaving the church a young man put his hand on his shoulder and asked him if he were a Christian. Mr. Winch replied pretty sharply, "I don't known whether its any of your business or not." The young fellow dropped him like a hot potato, he said, but just then a Christian gentleman, Mr. Crossen, caught him by the hand and looking him kindly in the eye gave him a hearty shake. He didn't say a word but that hand-shake, Mr. Winch said, spoke volumes to him. Here the speaker urged Christian workers to give sinners a hearty grip when they shook hands, and not touch their hand as though it was a fish's tail. There was a power in a hearty shake of the hand. While waiting outside for his family Mr. Winch said he thought it was all over and felt like a whipped dog. He decided not to go any more, but his brother coming down one night they went together and sat in the gallery. Again they were made conspicuous when they kept their seats, while nearly the whole congregation stood up and he heard next day that some of the Christians were talking about the

in the gallery who, though the sons of godly parents, were not able to stand up amongst the saved. Sunday night, as was his custom, he went to church. Mr. Crossley preached and put the question plainly to sinners, would they not rather give themselves to God while hearty and strong than wait till they were on a sickbed or perhaps dying? This question hit him pretty hard, Mr. Winch said, for he had just been vaccinated (it was the time of the smallpox in Montreal), and the vaccination had taken hold of him, and he was delirious one night in consequence. Being in this condition he was tempted, and stayed to the after-meeting, but his stubborn will still did not permit him to stand up, though he had inwardly resolved when he thought of himself as a sick-bed to seek the Lord. He, however, commissioned himself in so far as vowing that he would stand up on Monday night. But the next day he came out to Peterborough to buy some cattle. In Otonabee, and while driving along the road about half a mile beyond Ashburnham, near Mr. Weir's house, he distinctly heard a voice that was apparently wafted up from Cobourg: "Winch, give me thy heart." But he replied, "Hold on, Lord, wait till I get up and down this big hill." He kept on thinking, and as he thought his heart began to grow light. Again the voice sounded in his ears, and again he replied: "Wait, O Lord." A third time the voice came, "Winch, give me thy heart," and then his answer was: Oh, Lord, I will. "And the thought came to him to pray. He said: Oh, Lord, thou knowest I have not prayed to thee for 20 years, and I ask thee for Christ's sake to hear my prayer." It might seem strange, Mr. Winch said, that he, the son of Christian parents had not lifted up his voice to God for thirty years, but he had not done so because he did not believe in lip service where the heart did not correspond. After having once started, however, he continued to pray as he drove along for a mile or two, and then the thought came to him to sing, and he began the beautiful old hymn:

"JESUS LOVES ME OF MY SOUL."

He sang it all the way through the swamp, and as he ascended the hill at Mr. Armstrong's place the moon shone out and a verse of another song suggested itself to him, and he hummed "Oh happy day that fixed my choice." As he sang on his heart grew lighter and lighter. Finally he reached his brother-in-law's residence and stopped there all night, and before going to bed, for the first time in 20 years he asked the Lord to keep him safe during the night. He spent two or three days in Otonabee and got home Friday, but did not go to the meetings. Saturday night he determined to go to love feast Sunday morning and make a stand for Jesus. He and a friend went. Messrs. Crossley and Hunter were there, and during the singing and prayer, especially while they were singing "I'm Praying for You," he determined to stand up and testify. But his legs failed him, and it was five minutes to eleven o'clock when his friend got up by his side and spoke. When he sat down Mr. Winch felt that "now or never" was the time and he got up, though trembling like a leaf. Once up, however, words came to him and he there stated his love for the Saviour. Then he felt that he was indeed a child of Jesus. Mr. Winch referred feelingly to the prayers of many good people in Cobourg in his behalf, and the prayers of his dear old father and mother. His father, while on his death-bed, speaking of him, said:—"Poor Dick, the Lord has told me he's all right, he will be saved." Thank God this had been realized, and he urged mothers and fathers to keep on praying for their children and not despair if their boys and girls were not saved before they died. Mr. Winch said the first thing he did after being converted was to pray for his two brothers, and he thanked God that he had the privilege of seeing them both now on the road to the kingdom. He urged all his old friends to give up their sins and live a life of righteousness; it would be the best thing for them in this life, if with him they would say:—

I came to Jesus as I was,
All weary, worn and sad;
I found in Him a resting place,
And he has made me glad.

At the conclusion of Mr. Winch's address many in the congregation were observed weeping; the minute recital of the circumstances of the conversion of one they knew so well affected them deeply; it struck home to their hearts.

Mr. Hunter clasped hands with Mr. Winch before he sat down, and asked all those who had determined to travel with him on the way to heaven to rise, and nearly the entire congregation stood up in response. The meeting resulted in the turning of many souls to the Saviour.

Police Court.

WEDNESDAY, March 27.

Another carter's case was ventilated before the magistrate this morning, though it was of a different sort to the usual suit for infraction of the by-law. Henry Wills charged Jos. Langford with using abusive language. The parties are both licensed carters, and the difficulty occurred thuswise. Monday evening Wills was coming up street and Langford was driving home. At the corner of Sherbrooke and Park streets their carts collided, Wills claims because Langford held the road and would not give him room to pass, while Langford said it was because he dared not turn out further without going into the ditch. Thereupon angry words arose, and Langford said:—"You think you're a b—l of a fellow sitting up there on a box," and used other language considering Wills to an intensely summery climate. Langford says Wills was also threatening and abusive in his conduct. After both sides of the story were heard the magistrate said he believed the affair was an accident, and dismissed the case.

Dennis Donovan was fined $2 and costs for allowing his cow to run at large last Saturday. It seems he let the cow out in charge of his boy, but the animal got in Mrs. Sarrie's garden on Smith street and damaged it. Though the garden was outside the town limits, the magistrate said the cow must have been at large in the town in order to reach that distance, and he therefore fined the defendant. He further said people had no business letting their cows out at this season of the year when there was no grass to crop and when lawns and gardens were so easily damaged by a cow walking on the soft earth.

Showing the Latest Styles.

MISS E. DELANEY

has just returned from the Montreal and Toronto markets, having secured the latest novelties and goods for her Millinery and Mantle Departments. Miss Delaney's special object in visiting Toronto was to purchase a fine assortment of New York novelties, which have just been placed on the market at the wholesale centres. They comprise the latest styles in Bonnets, Hats, Trimmings, Mantles and Mantle Cloths. The materials are new, rich and handsome. The new Dolmanetts are strikingly stylish, while the Jet Vistes are a special thing this season. On WEDNESDAY and four succeeding days of this week Miss Delaney will be pleased to have ladies call and inspect the array of handsome styles. Personal inspection will alone afford a clear idea of the beauty of the goods, the freshness of the stock and the ample preparation made to meet the wishes of customers. 3d71-1w

SPRING MILLINERY OPENING AT TURNBULL'S

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

We give a cordial invitation to all and expect to see you on the above dates to look through our Magnificent Stock, of Millinery and Millinery Trimmings, Mantles, Dolmans and Jackets, Light Plain Cloths and Fancy Checks, for the young people, rich Brocade and Fancy Stripes, for the older, with all the New Trimmings to Match.

The Event of the Past Week

Has been Dress Goods and Dress Trimmings. We cannot begin to tell you how they have been admired. Salsbur Cloths have been the favourites. There is an undescribable gentility about the colors that make you feel you would like to have a dress and wear it. The new steel and silk gimps blend in so perfectly. Our Bradford (England) Dress Cloths, at 10c., are worth a corner in your memory. Our Prints in the windows and on the counters have been turning up their sunny pretty faces at you as you pass by for the past two or three weeks, and many a prudent mother has had her summer supply sent home already, knowing she would not find the same assortment later.

During the past few weeks in the hurry and bustle of unpacking case after case of New Goods, we have neglected to call your attention to our Boys' Clothing and Tailoring Department. In fact was it necessary? Our old customers know and the public generally, are finding out that our Tailor is very hard to beat in a fit, and we never take a side seat in prices.

Our Importations of Cloths from across the boiling sea have arrived, and lay side by side with their Canadian cousins. It is hard to say which is the prettiest or best, but the Scotch have the name of making the color faster than we Canadians. We will not dispute their ability to-day. Our Tailoring Department is not what it was three years ago. It has grown amazingly. We mean it shall still grow by giving good goods, proper styles and close prices. Our Boys' Clothing is opened out. Boys be happy, tell your parents of the fact, and have them come in and pick your suit out. We are sure we can please them with the price.

In the centre of the floor stands a table loaded with a job line of Laces. When we say job we mean half price or under. They are all two and three cents a yard, take your choice. You cannot buy the same Goods anywhere else less than five and most of them you will pay ten cents for. The fashion sheets (which are free) for this month have arrived. A full assortment of domestic patterns kept. Remember the days of our Millinery Opening, when our store will be in its holiday attire, when all the Novelties of the season will be displayed.

THE GUELPH TRAGEDY.

HARVEY TAKEN FROM TORONTO TO THE ROYAL CITY.

A Day of Excitement in Wellington's Capital—Exterior Stirred Queen an Inquest—How the Murderer Escaped From Town.

GUELPH, March 27.—The crowd in front of William H. Harvey's house, in Westmoreland street, was trampled and trodden by a motley crowd throughout to-day, who, as they passed at the rate of two thousand per hour, stopped to take a momentary look at the house where the murder was committed. Everything in the house was exactly as it was when the murderer walked forth after having committed his terrible deed. In the parlor the piano stood open, with a sheet of music on the desk; in the dining room the table was cleared, and the coal fire burned cheerily; in the chamber of death lay the victims of Harvey's murderous revolver, stiff and pallid. The fact that this triple murder was committed in broad noontide; that it was committed in a house close to others on each side and on a leading street in the city, coupled with that of its not being heard of for hours after the firing of the fatal shots, is one of the peculiar features of the tragedy. Like as travel to suppose that each neighbor would have heard either of the screams of the victims or the firing of the shots.

THE MURDERER.

MRS. HARVEY.

GERALDINE HARVEY.

This explanation accounts for the silence with which the deeds were done! He sent his elder daughter across the street to Mrs. Heyward's private school to borrow a piece of music. This must have been an excuse to get her out of the way for a few minutes. While she was away he shot his wife, and when she returned he committed the second murder. He then went across to the school and asked if Mrs. Heyward would kindly excuse little Geraldine for a few minutes, and bringing her over killed his loving little daughter. The expression on the faces of all victims shows no traces of fright. The little girl's face wears its accustomed serenity and sweetness. They must have been approached one by one from behind and the shots fired before they were aware of the designs upon their lives.

Why did Harvey murder his wife and children? The relations between husband and wife and father and children were the most happy. They were a family contented in each other's affections. Harvey was well known to be proud of his wife and daughters and very fond of them. The little girl Geraldine was his especial favorite. She regularly went to meet him on his way home from the office and danced with childish glee as she led her smiling father along the street.

There are two theories. One is that he committed the deed in insanity, and the other that he killed his family to spare them the shame that was certain to fall on them as a result of his embezzlement. The latter is more likely to be the cause. Harvey was a kind hearted and fond of his family, but a glance at the prisoner is sufficient to convince anyone that a proud man with an unbending will has been brought low. He is just the kind of man that would shield those who were dear to him from disgrace at any cost, even at the expense of their lives and his.

Willie Harvey was at the residence of Mrs. Heyward, across the street from his own house, all day. He was completely overcome by the terrible fate of his mother, sisters, and the terrible situation of his father.

Murderer Harvey, ever since his arrival in this city, has persistently refused food and will neither eat nor drink.

The way Harvey spent the afternoon and how he reached Toronto was a mystery last night. It now appears that he either walked from Guelph to Hespeler, a distance of 8 miles, or that he got a freight train to that point. As Hespeler he hired a rig at Rose's livery stable and drove to Galt. He there left the rig at McCraden & Glady's livery-stable, and stating that he would call for it again went away. He then went to Robinson's livery-stable and engaged a team to take him to Harrieburg, 14 miles away. He started out with a driver a little before 4 o'clock. When passing Galt station Harvey said: "I guess there's the train I thought I missed." The driver told him he could catch it now, but Harvey replied: "Never mind, go on to Harrieburg." He lit a cigar, gave one to the driver, and drove out of Galt. At Harrisburg Harvey gave the driver $1 extra for himself and bade him good-bye. The St. Louis express, due in Toronto at 2.20, came in 20 minutes after Harvey's arrival at Harrisburg. Harvey boarded the train and coming to Toronto was captured. This was the murderer's route from the Royal City to the Queen City. He could not have been in Toronto much more than ½ of an hour before he was arrested.

AT TORONTO.

A Night of Remorse at Police Headquarters—The Departure for Guelph.

TORONTO, March 28.—From 2.30 p.m. Tuesday till 10.45 a.m. yesterday Harvey was confined in a small cell at Police Headquarters. Lest he should do harm to himself he was constantly watched by an officer, who never took his eyes off him. All night long he paced up and down the cell, never uttering a sound. Shame, remorse and despair were depicted on his face and he kept his head in grief to himself. For hours he sat on a bench with his head in his hands and the tears freely flowed down his face, seeming to fully realize the enormity of the crime he had committed. In the morning Inspector Stephen visited him and asked if he would like to have some breakfast. He looked at the inspector, but instead of replying by word of mouth he simply shook his head.

Great was the crowd of curious people who thronged the Police Court building yesterday morning. The morbidly curious gave vent and strength on such an occasion as the subscription are always ready for drinks as they were yesterday. Many were turned away, and all it was the court room was crowded [illegible]

[illegible] Harvey [illegible] while the [illegible] sentence to [illegible] Harvey!" called the Magistrate at 10.45, and the name was repeated by several officers in attendance. All eyes were centred on the door. Slowly the prisoner climbed the steep, narrow stairway that leads directly from the cells to the dock. He was

THE ARRIVAL AT GUELPH.

Thousands Crowd the Station and Intense Excitement Prevails—The Inquest.

GUELPH, March 27.—The news that the murderer was to be brought to Guelph by the 3 o'clock train quickly spread over the city during the afternoon, and half an hour before the train was due an immense crowd assembled at its appearance. The platform was jammed, the yards filled and the station and neighboring fences covered with people eager to get a glance of their former respected citizen. Sheriff McKim, Mayor Gowdy and Officers Kelley, Dooley and Hammond were on the platform keeping a space clear. It was thought by everybody that the train would stop at the depot. In this the assembled multitude were disappointed. The train hove in sight, bowled along down the bend and with a whiz switched past the station and going up the track a quarter of a mile stopped opposite the Police Station. The effect on the throng was like the sudden stoppage of a mountain current. One minute the crowd stood on tip-toe in expectation and the next thousands of people were precipitated into a mad race for the Police Station. Men, women and children fell over each other in the dust in their insensate desire to see the prisoner.

Before any of the sprinting thousands reached the Police Court building Chief Randall, who had gone to Toronto to bring the murderer back, had lodged him safely in the court room and the doors were barred.

The prisoner walked quietly over from the train and sat in a chair given to him. He looked like a man who had been brutalized to the lowest degree and one who had given over all hope. He sat with his back facing the magisterial chair, his head bowed to the right side and the tail of his mackintosh thrown over his hands to conceal the handcuffs. He looked steadfastly on the floor, but the regular and quick motion of his eyes showed plainly that he was alive to what was going on. He remained in this posture till Police Magistrate Saunders ascended the bench. Then Chief Randall went up to him and said: "Get up till I face your chair to the court." Harvey arose and when the chair was turned he sat down again.

Dr. Lett appeared before the court and stating that he produced the person of William H. Harvey, he demanded the examination of the head given by him for the appearance of the prisoner charged with embezzlement.

The Court said that the bond would be cancelled.

The Court stated that the case was adjourned for one week.

After a consultation between the police magistrate and Coroner George S. Herod this information was sworn out:

The information and complaint of Frederick William Randall of the City of Guelph, of the County of Wellington, Province of Ontario, and chief constable:

Whereupon the 27th day of March, in the year of Our Lord 1889, before the undersigned, George S. Herod, one of Her Majesty's coroners, of the city of Guelph, who saith that he hath just cause to suspect and believe and doth suspect and believe that William Harvey of the city of Guelph on the 26th day of March, 1889, feloniously, wilfully, and with malice aforethought, did murder one Matilda Harvey, Lillian Mary Harvey and Geraldine E. M. Harvey, contrary to the form of the statute in such case made and provided.

Chief of Police Randall and Rev. Mr. Harvey Give Some Evidence.

GUELPH, March 27.—Coroner Herod opened an inquest on the bodies of the three murdered persons in the Council Chamber of the City Hall this afternoon. The chamber was crowded, thousands who thronged around the City Hall could not get near the room in which the jury sat.

The coroner offered the usual explanations, and the jury walked up to the deceased forms in Westwich-street to view the bodies, [illegible] a great deal of sore de-

WHAT MR. LYON SAYS.

He Trusted Harvey Well and Gave Him a Chance to Get on His Feet Again.

GUELPH, March 28.—Mr. J. W. Lyon was seen by a reporter to-day. He said: Mr. Harvey was sent to my place by Mr. E. R. C. Clarkson, Toronto, a year ago last July. He was recommended as a first-class man. After being six or seven weeks with me I thought a great deal of him and engaged him permanently as bookkeeper and cashier. On one occasion I sent him to Wiarton on some business, and before he returned I had given an [illegible] that with 5 [illegible] and gave him chance of his life. I [illegible] him [illegible] my business in my absence of four or five months.

Last February I requested that he would [illegible] in his cash, and on being asked about it he said he had put the cash in the bank. I took the opportunity and remarked that I was in the [illegible] April he showed me to own him $50. He appeared to be a very good accountant and methodical in business. I had such confidence in him that I readily accepted his excuse as to the state of the books from time to time.

Some two weeks ago I noticed that the bank had not been credited for some moneys and I told him that I wished them to be credited them balanced by Saturday night as then I might see them on Monday morning. I finally received the cash-book from him on Thursday last and discovered a false addition in the month of April, 1888, amounting to $800. The original figure was blotted out and a fictitious one inserted. Every month since that time I made a false balance. In June, 1888, there appears $110 in false additions and in January last $90—this in the face of the fact that I gave him a check for $90 as a Christmas present. [illegible] about $1600 has been appropriated.

These defalcations were known to me my wife urged me not to make them public and I intended to spare Mr. Harvey. I showed him the false entries and he acknowledged that he had embezzled, but said it was to pay his debts. I then asked him to make up a statement of the amount he owed. He said it was only about $1000 and stated that he would make up the account. He did not do this as promised, and when I asked him for it would not make me a satisfactory answer. He appeared to not be at all penitent. I then decided to have him arrested. The arrest took place on Monday night. He came into my office on Tuesday morning, that being the first I knew of his having gone bail. I asked him to sit down but he would not do so. He said he came in to see why I changed my mind. I told him that I had not see any reason to him. He said, "Certainly, I know you did not." He then asked why I did this, and I told him it was because I did not think he was penitent. He then went out.

When Mr. Read came into my office in the forenoon I told him that the revolver was purchased by Mr. Harvey, that I would not pay for it and further that evil would result from it. I then sent a letter to the chief of police stating the facts and demanding protection. Mr. Harvey got $35 a week salary."

Dr. Lett, medical superintendent of the Homewood Retreat situated outside this city, says that Mr. Harvey telephoned for him on Monday night from Mr. Lyon's office. When he went to the office Mr. Harvey asked him to go bail, which he readily did. Mr. Harvey was downhearted about his arrest. He said it was a scheme of Lyon's to crush him.

A NOBLE LIFE ENDED.

Death of John Bright—Brief Sketch of His Career.

LONDON, March 27.—John Bright died at 9.30 this morning. Mr. Bright's end was peaceful and painless. He had lain in a comatose condition since yesterday. All of his family were present at his deathbed.

Mr. Bright's funeral will take place Saturday. The interment will be in the Friends' burying ground at Rochdale. The ceremonies will be as private as possible.

The sculptor Bruce Joy has taken a cast of Mr. Bright's face. Political deputations will follow the funeral. Only personal friends will be admitted to the meeting in the house.

At political meetings throughout the country this evening sympathetic references were made to Mr. Bright. Sir William Vernon Harcourt, speaking at Bradford, said no preacher or purer man ever adorned political life in England. Lords Harris and Spencer, addressing a popular meeting at Stafford, paid high tributes to Mr. Bright.

The United Ireland says of Mr. Bright: "Ireland will forget all the grievances against him as the open grave and will remember only the priceless services of his old days when his heart was warm, his mind bright and his eloquence irresistible. The real Bright died three years ago."

[John Bright was born at Greenbank near Rochdale, Lancashire, Nov. 16, 1811. He was a member of the Society of Friends, at whose school at York he was educated. Although he early gave evidence of the distinction which he afterwards received he applied himself to commercial pursuits. For many years he was the head of a firm of cotton-spinners and manufacturers in Rochdale. When the Anti-Corn Law Association was formed in 1838 Mr. Bright entered heartily into its plans, co-operating with Mr. Cobden, and the two became the leading spirits of the league. In 1843 he was elected M.P. for the city of Durham, took an active part in the Chartist movement, and helped to do away with the bill of 1842 for the partial modification of the corn laws and their total repeal at the end of three years. In 1847 and again in 1852 he was returned to Parliament for Manchester. In 1854 he sanctioned the sending a deputation of Friends to dissuade the Czar from entering on hostilities with Turkey, and he also deprecated England taking part in the war. In 1857 his opposition to the war with China rendered him unpopular with his constituents and he was defeated in Manchester by a large majority. He was, however, returned for Birmingham and vigorously urged the passing of a vote of censure on the Palmerston Administration for introducing the Foreign Conspiracy Bill, in consequence of which the Ministry resigned, Feb. 20, 1858. Shortly afterwards Mr. Bright made a speech in favor of the reduction of the British military establishment and condemning the policy of Admiralty conquest. He also took a leading part in bringing about the commercial treaty with France. After 1857 Mr. Bright's name was mainly identified with a scheme for the reform of the electoral representation by a wide extension of the suffrage and a more equal distribution of seats. Mr. Bright was an uncompromising advocate of the North during the Civil War in America, and with the close of the struggle he renewed the agitation for Reform. He visited Ireland and was entertained at a banquet in Dublin on the the invitation of twenty Liberal Irish M.P.'s. In 1868 he was presented with the Freedom of the city of Edinburgh, and in the same year he accepted office under Mr. Gladstone as President of the Board of Trade, but on account of ill health he retired from office in December, 1870. In 1873 he was appointed to the Chancellorship of the Duchy of Lancaster, and he held that post till the Liberals went out of office in 1874. When that party returned to office in 1880, Mr. Bright was re-appointed Chancellor. In July, 1882, he accepted a seat in the House of Commons that had just resigned his office and retired from the Cabinet because he differed from his colleagues on their policy in Egypt, which led to the bombardment of Alexandria. On the question of Home Rule for Ireland Mr. Bright supported the Unionist contentions to Mr. Gladstone's bill, and his dominance of the measure made it fair to secure for its getting and the subsequent rejection by the Unionist majority in the House of Lords. The [illegible] election Mr. Bright's [illegible] Scotsmen have not been very important.]

CANADIAN BANKS FLEECED.

A Sharper From Little Rhody Does Them of Some Up for $20,000.

MONTREAL, March 28.—A despatch from Providence, R.I., states that an American boy merchant named Fleming of Providence has successfully fleeced three Canadian banks out of some $20,000. The banks interested are the Merchants' Bank of Canada, the Banque du Peuple and the Bank of St. Johns, which advanced money on bills of lading for hay shipped to the States. Mr. Beaupre, the Montreal manager of the Banque du Peuple, corroborated the above statement and said that the money was paid to a man in St. Johns who for years had borne an enviable reputation as a hay dealer but who it seems was an accomplice of Fleming and has since disappeared. Mr. Hague, general manager of the Merchants' Bank, stated that their loss was comparatively small.

A FIELD DAY IN [illegible] ALLOWANCE [illegible]

Dalton McCarthy Speaks in Favor of Col. O'Brien's Amendment and the Minister of Justice Replies.

OTTAWA, March 27.—This was a field day in the debate on the Jesuits Estates Act. Though the subject is one which necessitates delving into the depths of history and the elucidation of legal principles, yet in the hands of two such learned and able lawyers as the members for North Simcoe and the Minister of Justice, the discussion commanded the undivided attention of the House, as it will enable the interest of the country.

The Minister of Justice was repeatedly applauded, the applause being as liberal from the Opposition as from the Government side of the House.

At the conclusion of his address he was very warmly complimented, amongst the first to tender congratulations being Hon. Edward Blake, who crossed the house for the purpose.

Resuming the debate this afternoon Mr. Dalton McCarthy said that, considering the nature of the motion before the House, it would not have been unreasonable for some member of the Government to state to the House upon what grounds they had allowed the bill, before the discussion had proceeded so far, and he would not have moved the adjournment of the debate had it not appeared that the debate was in danger of terminating for want of speakers. It was due to those who had already condemned the action of the Administration that some defence should have been made from the treasury benches. He did not think the defence made by the member for Lincoln (Rykert) required consideration, but the remarks of the member for Shefford (Caley) he would deal with at some length.

The question had to be considered in a two-fold aspect: as to its constitutionality in the narrower sense of the term and as to its constitutionality in the wider sense of the term. Whether ultra vires or intra vires of the Provincial Legislature the act should have been disallowed. It would not do to ignore the past or, as Mr. Caley had said, avoid fine-spun legal arguments. The first question which the Minister of Justice had to report upon was whether the act was beyond the power of the province before the next question came up—whether it ought to be disallowed on the ground of public policy. He would give some of the salient features of this extraordinary piece of legislation.

It commenced with a letter from Premier Mercier asking the Pope if he had any serious objection to the Quebec Government selling the property providing the settlement of the Jesuits' estates claims was held in abeyance. You might search the records of any British Parliament in vain without finding a parallel for this humiliating passage. It had not existed for ages, however, in the quarter from which permission is asked, for the answer came graciously granting the permission desired to dispose of property which for more than a century had been recognized as a part of the private domain; but the money was to be retained as a special deposit to be disposed of only with the sanction of the Holy See.

Then negotiations were entered upon with the result that the estates were to be left intact and a money compensation granted. Two millions were asked. But as half this property belonged to the Dominion he supposed that the Government of Canada would yet be asked to give recompense for this half. But to come back to the Quebec bargain—it was only to be valid when ratified by His Holiness the Pope, upon whom not the province is thus made dependent. This act in effect means away from the purposes for which the Jesuits' estates had been appropriated.

He could only be astonished at the indifference which had existed amongst the minority in the Province of Quebec. The school funds of the province were misappropriated from their original purpose without serious protest from this minority. These estates were originally given to the Jesuit body for their own purposes. It was not an uncommon thing for the Jesuit Fathers to accumulate both lands and goods. Notwithstanding the vow of poverty avarice was commonly charged against them. It was sometimes forgotten in the Province of Quebec that this was a British country and that effect must be given to the laws to which the country became subject at the conquest.

He thought that the Minister of Justice should have made some report upon this measure when he asked the Governor-General to allow it. In answer to the appeal of the Evangelical Alliance the Minister of Justice had termed it a mere fiscal matter. He claimed this designation was an erroneous one. He hoped that His Excellency would yet be pleased to disallow this act, and wipe from the statute book this blot on our legislation.

He held that this act was virtually an attempt to establish a state church amongst us—to interfere with the liberty of religion guaranteed to the people of Canada. He had never regretted the secularization of the clergy reserves. The act providing for this had guaranteed the free exercise and enjoyment of all reforms of religion not in contravention of the law of the land. This act of the Quebec Legislature granting a sum of money to a particular church renewed the connection between church and state swept away by the Clergy Reserves Act. He thought no man of common sense could say that this grant was not a resuscitation of connection between church and state. He had heard it said that this grant was made for the purpose of education. But while the $60,000 granted the minority was tied up for purposes of education within the Province of Quebec, the rest of the grant was not so restricted.

It was no argument to say that because a certain piece of legislation was within the power of local legislation it should not be disputed. The legislatures were not to be allowed to run in different directions. Different provincial legislatures should not be allowed to make grants of money to this or that religious body. If this were allowed they would find the bonds of Confederation in danger. If they were to say the law that has been passed by the legislative province of the provincial legislature they would soon see that the provincial rights got more and more apart. Was it possible to imagine that the establishment of such an order as he had showed it to be was not a matter of concern to the people of Ontario? The same persons who were incorporated did visit the Province of Ontario.

He could not do better than close with the language of Principal Caven. He addressed all that gentleman had said on the question. That gentleman had said that occasions did arise when it was the duty of the Dominion Government to revise provincial legislation and he believed that the Jesuits Estates Act should be revised by the General Government.

After regret Mr. John Thompson spoke. He said that in giving the reasons which justified the Government in assenting to the bill now under discussion he would have to dwell at considerable length upon details already presented. He was in the peculiar position on this occasion that to one great portion of the community nothing that he could say would be satisfactory and to another great portion nothing that he could say would be necessary. He thought it was no discourtesy to the House that no member of the ministry had hitherto risen to speak on the question. He thought that when the debate should have ceased no argument remained unanswered which called for answer from the Treasury Benches. All were aware that the many grounds for disallowance would be stated by no member for Montreal. He (Sir John Thompson) was the only one responsible for the advice that was tendered. He had stated and was only so at first. Although he should have the particular honor to make his defence. He did not think that [illegible] to the member for Simcoe (Mr. McCarthy) [illegible] before hearing [illegible] the arguments [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

THE GUELPH HORROR.

Fuller Particulars of the Murderer's Arrest.

His Personal Description—Well Educated and Respectably Connected—The Dead Mother and Children's Appearance.

Chief Greene had witnessed the arrest on the corner of King and Yonge streets, and received the important prisoner in the office of the station. Detective Black made a thorough search of his clothes, to which operation the prisoner submitted without a word of protest or single indignant look. From his inner clothing were taken a mass of papers, letters, etc., $20.00 in money, three penknives and several cigars. He was still chewing his cigar and on the station duty man removing it from his lips to place it with the others he made a slight protest, and was allowed to keep it.

The pistol, from the barrel of which there is little doubt the three fatal shots were fired, was found in the left-hand pocket of the prisoner's mackintosh. Examination showed that it held three unexploded charges and three empty shells, the chamber of the latter being still in the cylinder. The weapon was an elegant little affair, 32 calibre, mother-of-pearl handle and nickel-plated. In the same pocket were found two boxes of cartridges, six being missing. The revolver, ammunition and property were wrapped up in a newspaper and consigned to the care of Inspector Stark.

Harvey is fully six feet in height, large somewhat cloudy-looking eyes, gray beard, cut fairly close, and fairly heavy build. His age is apparently 55 or 60, and altogether he has a gentlemanly appearance and looks the last man to be guilty of the terrible deed laid to his charge. On being questioned as to his name, age and nationality he mumbled a few incoherent words, which when asked to repeat he refused, shaking his head. As registered on the slate the entry runs as follows: "William H. Harvey. English. Age 55. Charge: Murder. Property: $20.00, and a revolver."

After undergoing a thorough search the prisoner was conducted to a small cell on the ground floor adjacent to the cell in which females are placed. He made no protest, but as soon as he got inside sat down on the solitary stool, and buried his face in his hands. All through the proceedings Harvey seemed to be in a dazed condition and not to realize his awful position. The only time that he betrayed any emotion was when the revolver was taken from him. He followed it with a dogged kind of glance, and an expression which seemed to betoken regret that he could not use it on himself. The police are fully alive to the importance of the capture, and Inspector Stephen placed a man on duty before the cell to see that he does not do himself violence.

The police have little doubt but that Harvey intended to kill his son on sight and then shoot himself. Their impression is that he is not in his right mind, but from what seems it is hard to say. What is puzzling them particularly is at what hour he arrived in Toronto.

However, the most probable theory is that Harvey came to town on the Grand Trunk express from the west, which is due at 7.15 p.m. Last evening that train was 30 minutes late and it was 8 o'clock before it reached Union station. The train in charge of Conductor John Morrison of 295 Parlay-avenue. Harvey, it is supposed, after committing his awful crime, is supposed to have walked towards Toronto on the Grand Trunk tracks to either Rosalwood, Acton or Limehouse and there boarded Conductor Morrison's train. He would have about five hours to reach any of these stations, the farthest of which is thirteen miles from Guelph.

At 1.15 this morning a reporter called at the residence of Conductor Morrison and after having given a minute description of the murderer asked if he had seen such a man on board. He replied that although a few passengers had come on both at Rosalwood and Acton he observed none answering to Harvey's description. In addition to this there were several passengers, residents of Guelph, on board, among whom was Mr. Charles Auld, who was on his way to Montreal. As Conductor Morrison pointed out, had Harvey been on board either Mr. Auld or one of the other Guelph residents must have recognized him. The conductor also mentioned in addition that attached to his train were six colonists cars. But as St. George he had given orders instructions that none but colonists were to be admitted. In spite of this, however, it is possible that the murderer gained access to one of these coaches. It is also within the limits of probability that he secreted himself in the baggage car. Mr. Morrison stated that several stock trains followed the express and he opined that Harvey might have got aboard one of these. Another theory advanced by Mr. Morrison was that the murderer took passage on the C. P. R., a freight line of which road runs from Guelph, but is stated the question as the C.P.R. train only arrives in Toronto at 9 p.m. and it is hardly credible that Harvey was in the city long before that hour.

The story told by the employees of the Great Northwestern despatch office in King-street is to this effect. At about 6.30 in the evening a big stout man, who is supposed to be Harvey, came in and asked for the directory. He was given it and after looking over it for a minute he wrote a letter and addressed it to "Harvey" at 35 Grosvenor-street. At 6.55 a boy started out with the message, Harvey giving the boy car fare up and down, after saying that he would call later for an answer which he expected. When the boy reached No. 35 Grosvenor-street he rang the bell and asked for "Mr. Harvey." Mr. handed the message to a young man who said he was Mr. Harvey, and who took it in. A moment later another man came to the door and signed the receipt with the name of "J. M. Mathe."

After his arrest in Toronto, Harvey came to [illegible] some sixteen or seventeen years ago. He was born in England and married there. He then came to Montreal, where he resided for some time; whence he came to Toronto with Mr. John Livingstone, late of the Dominion Bolt Works, where Harvey was employed as bookkeeper at one time. The Talk of the Town.

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 18 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

What is It?

Simply this. That a great many are throwing away their good honest dollars without getting proper value for them. So listen—a word in time. You no doubt have heard that W. J. Morrow proposes selling Groceries—not as cheap as other houses but away below them. The old maxim "Seeing is believing."—So call and price our Goods. We modestly urge immediate consideration and you will find prompt action will pay you; so we hope to receive a call. Why, the whole town, county and surrounding villages are simply on fire with enthusiasm, and now the name of W. J. Morrow, the only cheap Grocer, resounds both far and near.

Porter Bros'. Assignment.

The following is the report of a case which is exciting considerable local interest, disposed of by Chancellor Boyd yesterday:—

Hall v. Porter.—Assignment for creditors—Subsequent consent of creditors—Motion by the plaintiff, the sheriff of Peterborough, for an injunction to restrain the defendant from selling the stock-in-trade of Porter Bros., insolvent debtors. The defendant was the assignee of Porter Bros. for the benefit of creditors under R.S.O., ch. 124, but the creditors did not execute the assignment to him or assent to it at the time. Subsequently, however, his appointment was ratified at a meeting of creditors, which was held before the execution of an assignment to the plaintiff by the debtors. Boyd, C., held that it was not necessary to have the assignment executed or assented to at the time of execution, and so long as it received the consent of creditors before the execution of another assignment, it was not void as against such subsequent assignment, within sec. 3 sub-sec of R. S. O., ch. 124. Motion refused with costs. Hoyles for the motion. Shepley contra.

It is well known that Messrs. Porter Bros. made an assignment to Mr. R. H. Fortye, and that, at a meeting of the creditors, this assignment was assented to and the inspectors instructed to realize on the estate. Within five days, the firm made another assignment to Sheriff Hall, the insolvents' solicitor claiming that the assent of creditors had not been secured previously or at the time of the execution of the assignment. The sheriff claimed priority and entered suit to set aside Mr. Fortye as assignee. In the meantime the latter proceeded with his duties as assignee, and Sheriff Hall moved for an injunction to stay the sale of the insolvent's effects which had been advertised. The motion was argued yesterday, the day fixed for the sale, and certain affidavits from the assignee's solicitors not arriving in time, the stay of the sale was granted. Shortly after the affidavits arrived and the matter was re-opened, with the result as shown above. It was, however, too late to proceed with the sale yesterday, and the attendance of buyers having been affected by the notices of postponement, the sale was adjourned. The exact position of affairs cannot at present be explicitly stated.

SEARCH THE SCRIPTURES.

Ten Ways in Which the Bible Should be Read.

Rev. Mr. Crossley's Editorial Accounts—Mr. Hunter's Address—Some Special Subjects to be Handled Next Week—A Few Jottings.

The ladies took the "gentle hint" thrown out by Mr. Hunter night before last, and last night the table was adorned by a magnificent banquet.

The church was again filled, and Mr. Hunter threw out another hint that it would be better if the smaller boys and girls remained at home. He loved them very much, he said, but he knew they would be willing to pray for them at home and give up their seats to older people, many of whom are turned away because they are unable to get in.

The ladies were also pointed to a practical way of exhibiting their Christianity. A woman with a fretful baby had to leave the church, and Mr. Hunter suggested that to-night some lady go and take care of it and let the mother come to the meeting. He said others might do the same thing with other babies.

He also referred to the good reports in the newspapers of Tuesday nights meeting, and told the people to go and spend 25c. and send copies to their friends.

He again rebuked those drinking, gambling, theatre-going members of the church, saying that they were like a few bad apples in a barrel of good ones, they would soon spoil all the rest.

They had had 1,000 workers' cards printed, he said, but all these had been given out and 1,000 more had to be printed. He wanted all Christians who would help, to procure one and send them in with the blanks filled out.

Mr. Hunter told of a request that had been sent in for him to call upon a sick man on Harvey street Tuesday night, but the lady who was to hand it in did not find an opportunity and it was overlooked till next day. It was too late then; the man had died at 5 o'clock that morning.

Mr. Hunter announced that next week they would speak about the theatre, card-playing and dancing. They had not done so before because they did not think the people were "able to hear."

To-night the regular song service will be held. There are only two more services to be held in St. Paul's.

Last night Mr. Crossley and Miss Nellie Wrighton sang "The Song of Trust," Mr. Dingle accompanying on the organ.

"PEACE, BE STILL."

Mr. Hunter read the fourth chapter of Mark from the 30th verse, containing the parable of the mustard seed and Christ stilling the tempest. In commenting he said some people were afraid they would not have grace sufficient to die. They should not look for grace for the future, but like the disciples they should step out with Jesus and grace would be given them as it was required. The disciples were fearful at first and afterwards amazed at what they saw. Christians should not exhibit a lack of faith nor be amazed at any wonder performed by the Lord. As the disciples did in the storm, they should look to Jesus and He would never leave them.

Mr. Crossley sang "The Rainy Day," after which the special requests for prayer were read. There were over thirty, and amongst them was a request for prayer that the revival services just begun in Belleville might be successful, and another for the liquor-sellers and drunkards of Peterborough.

AN ACROSTIC.

Mr. Crossley presented to the congregation the following acrostic, which is printed on the back of the Songs of Salvation hymn book:

SEARCH THE SCRIPTURES.
Systematically,
Carefully,
Reverently,
Intently,
Prayerfully;
Trustingly,
Understandingly,
Attentively,
Every Day,
Savingly.

He urged the people, both saved and unsaved, to search the Scriptures in a proper way, which included all the ways mentioned in the acrostic, and they would be profited and interested. Search it systematically and in a common-sense way, as they would any other book; carefully and reverently, because it is God's word and should not be thrown about flippantly, made a subject for puns, or used as a piano stool. The Bible should be searched intently, for the purpose of learning the truth and it would be found. He urged people to come to the Bible for their ideas and not fabricate ideas of their own, and search the Bible for discrepancies. There were no discrepancies in the Bible; not a single instance could be pointed out. It should be read prayerfully and trustingly, for the Scriptures could not be disproved the least bits. It should be read understandingly; but there were many things in it that could only be understood by experience and spiritual perception, whereas some try to understand it by their intellectual faculties. The fact that it could not be understood was a proof of its divinity. It should be read repentantly, and the precepts, prayers and promises memorized for encouragement and resistance of temptation. It should be read every day, not only on Sunday or prayer meeting night. As regular meals were required for the temporal welfare of the body, so a regular reading of the Bible was necessary spiritually. Some Christians, Mr. Crossley said, were starving their souls to death, and were lean and dyspeptic Christians because they didn't eat enough of God's manna. Finally, it should be read savingly, for through it all might be saved. As all the roads in England lead to London, so all these ways lead to salvation. He urged them to read the Bible in order to know the saving power of the Lord through His truth.

The meeting was concluded in the usual manner, Mr. Hunter earnestly exhorting sinners to seek the salvation held out to them.

An Appeal to Each Clergyman, Reeve, Councillor and Public Officer, Together With All Ratepayers.

In view of the contest on the 4th of April for the repeal of the Scott Act, the members of Peterborough Women's Christian Temperance Union earnestly pray that your vote and personal influence be used to prevent a return to the license system, with its baneful influence upon home and society.

From many sources information reaches us of the alarming increase of drunkenness in those counties where the Scott Act has been repealed. So appalling, indeed, are the results, that many hitherto prejudiced against local prohibition are now convinced of its salutary effects upon the community.

Looking at the subject from no higher standpoint than that of financial interest, it is worthy of careful consideration, as a measure was carried last week in the local legislature to the effect that a certain proportion of each license fee be paid to the support of the government, whereas, under present law, all fees are appropriated to municipal purposes.

Having full belief in your integrity and fidelity to the interests of our county, we submit these facts for your consideration, feeling confident that the cause of truth and righteousness will be loyally upheld.

St. John's Church.

Wednesday Evening Services—Address by Rev. J. P. Lewis—"The Poor Man's Friend."

There was a very large attendance at the Wednesday evening services in St. John's Church. At the conclusion of the services, Rev. J. P. Lewis, of Grace Church, Toronto, gave an excellent address on the subject of "The Poor Man's Friend," emphasizing the fact that Christ's coming and presence in the world were the only factor in uplifting the masses of the world. The speaker prefaced his address with pointed remarks upon the importance and solemnity of coming to church to worship God. A superficial reading of the four gospels would seem to indicate that the coming of Christ did not fulfill the prophecy of Isaiah which our Lord read in the temple after his return from the forty days sojourn in the wilderness. But this was only apparent. From the time of Christ's coming, when the curse of slavery obtained universally, in both Greece and Rome and the masses of the people were kept in degraded subjection and popular ignorance was equally universal, a change began to take place. Once our Lord began to preach the principles of brotherhood—that one should do to another as he would have another to do for him—a change in the condition of mankind began. People in these days began to agitate for their rights outwardly. But Christ began within, he began by making the heart free and so great was the change that there was not ere enough in the misses to bind the spirit of him the truth had made free. The principles of Christian religion, in later days, resulted in the abolition of British and American slavery also. Christ had been the mighty agent in the centuries, in the elevation of the masses. When St. Paul was taken a prisoner to Rome there were three millions of people and not one single charitable institute such as rise on every side in a Christian land as the Direct Result of Christian Principles.

Take away our churches and in a hundred years the world would return to the condition of ancient Greece and Rome. But this was only the beginning of Christ's work. It would not be till His great work was finished in the perfection of the world to come that the work He came to do would be appreciated. If the life of man were too short for the full development of the human mind, so it was too short for the full spiritual development of the soul. Man's soul was full of possibilities of endless development. As a clergyman of twenty-five years experience, the preacher said there was a vast difference in the home of a Christian workingman and that of a godless one. In families whose parents do not go to church the children almost always go astray. Religion was not a mere sentiment—not an outburst of momentary enthusiasm—not an excitement of the moment—but the expression of an imperishable principle, the deliberate outcome of the judgment and an awakened conscience. It was an intensely solemn matter—all our liberty, our education and all the blessings of civilization—all our hopes for the future were founded on the religion Christ came to establish. The teaching of the Christian church had stood the test of eighteen hundred years, and it was late in the day for objectors to make light of that which had stood the test of the brightest intellects of the past. After touching upon the solemnity of meeting God in His house, the speaker referred to the importance of regular and reverent attendance upon church services. Sensationalism in churches, the preaching of sermons which evoked laughter and applause was destroying the real and true spirit of reverence which inhered in religion. The speaker said in experience of twenty five years he had found a great difference both in moral and material respect between the home of the Christian working man and that of the godless one. In conclusion the speaker urged strongly and earnestly the importance of parents coming to church and bringing their children with them. People who wandered everywhere ended in belonging to no church. The hope of the land was in a living church. All national social intellectual and spiritual development depended on Christ. The speaker concluded a most interesting and forcible address by urging the people to come to Christ.

The Scott Act and Repeal.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Sir,—In yesterday's issue there appeared a letter from the secretary of the Scott Act Repeal Association of St. Thomas, in which he assigns as a reason for the refusal of Anti-Scott Act speakers to discuss the question before the electors, that they think after the experience of the Act's operation for three years the people are quite well enough informed and that it would be an insult to the intelligent voters to seek to influence them by public discussion. And this letter was doubtless sent you by some repealer here, to serve as an answer to the challenge of the Scott Act Association of Peterborough, which has time and again asked the signers of the petition to assign reasons why the electors should vote for repeal. But no one can be deceived by that reply. Now, Mr. Editor, could not the same reason be assigned, why perfect silence should be observed by both political parties at the time of an election for a representative to the House of Commons? The people know the Government's record and the platform of the Opposition. Why, then, hold public meetings? If either party refuse to meet the honest electorate, and assign reasons why it asked for public support and confidence, it would be relegated by an indignant and fair-play-loving public to utter oblivion. Only a party that knows it to be inimical to the best interests of the community would dread discussion. If a board of trade is sought to be established in our town, or a nine-hour movement inaugurated, discussion is held. This is true of every matter of public interest. There is only one association an officer of which could write such a letter, and that is the Anti-Scott, or Licensed Victuallers' Association. They will not discuss the subject because their experience demonstrates that their arguments cannot stand the light, and that whenever and wherever they engage in debate they lose the election. So orders have been issued from headquarters to keep all their friends from public meetings.

The writer of the letter referred to would have us all believe that they refrain from discussion because they do not want to interfere with the already formed opinion of the electors. But this is an empty boast. They are interfering and using all their influence to turn the tide in their favor. They are seeking to influence the electorate by means cowardly and disreputable. What the Scott Act Association of St. Thomas wanted, and what we ask for here, is that these men have the honesty to state in public what they do in private. Their statements are false, their statistics unreliable and they know it, hence they dare "not come to the light lest their deeds should be reproved." Their policy is to work in darkness, and then a few days before the election to flood the county with statistics cooked up for occasion, when no time remains to refute them. This I am informed is to be done in this county. The documents have arrived, the agents are appointed, and each elector that is capable of being enticed into voting for repeal may expect the circular. They refuse discussion, not because they want to leave each elector to decide for himself, but because the traffic, they know, requires for its perpetuation ways that are dark and tricks that are vile.

The Dummer Fraud Case.

Fuxton Brown Discharged on an Indictment of Fraudulent Appropriation.

Yesterday the trial of Fuxton Brown was held before Judge Weller. The prisoner was charged with fraudulent appropriation of goods, and there was also in the indictment a count for larceny. The prisoner is quite an old man, and lived on lot 10, con. 4, Dummer. It seems, according to the evidence, that last December Brown gave David Rose, of Warsaw, a bill of sale for $74.40, but which, according to the agreement, should have been a chattel mortgage. It was not, however, recorded till February. Rose, early in March, endeavored to get the goods covered by the bill of sale (a wagon, horse, and two cows), but could not, and had the prisoner arrested. He was committed for trial by A. R. Kidd, J. P., and brought to town last week. Electing to be tried summarily by Judge Weller, the hearing of the case took place to-day. Mr. E. E. Wood, C.C.A., conducted the prosecution and Mr. W. H. Moore the defence.

After taking evidence His Honor said he did not consider there had been any fraud. The wagon had been taken by Brown to a neighbor's premises and left there, Brown states because he intended moving and wanted it out of the road, the horse had been seized by or sold to Bailiff Finlay, of Norwood, to satisfy a debt, one cow had been sold, to a man named Welsh, but the son claimed this as his, and the other was looked up in the barn when Rose called. Brown told Rose that the cow was not there, but Rose was not obliged to believe him. As to the other cow, which it was alleged was sold, Brown was not responsible for its safe-keeping, for when the bill-of-sale was made out Rose chose to leave the chattels where they were, and Brown was in no sense a bailee therefor. His Honor said there was no fraudulent appropriation shown, and the prisoner was discharged.

Showing the Latest Styles.

MISS E. DELANEY

has just returned from the Montreal and Toronto markets, having secured the latest novelties and goods for her Millinery and Mantle Departments. Miss Delaney's special object in visiting Toronto was to purchase a fine assortment of New York novelties, which have just been placed on the market at the wholesale centres. They comprise the latest styles in Bonnets, Hats, Trimmings, Mantles and Mantle Cloths. The materials are new, rich and handsome. The new Delmanetts are strikingly stylish, while the Jet Vistes are a special thing this season. On WEDNESDAY and four succeeding days of this week Miss Delaney will be pleased to have ladies call and inspect the array of handsome styles. Personal inspection will alone afford a clear idea of the beauty of the goods, the freshness of the stock and the ample preparation made to meet the wishes of customers.

Leaving the Ranks.

As the agitation regarding the evils which permeate the management of the Salvation Army in Canada continues, it becomes more and more evident that abuses have crept into this great organization and the result is disaffection in the ranks. In Peterborough the fact is recognised by those cognisant of the Army's operations, that affairs are not just as they should be, and the public exposure that is being made is expected to bring about a reformation of the grievances complained of. The dissatisfaction is not with the English management, however, but with the controlling staff right here in Canada. Army officials admit that a species of despotism and avarice have been the ruling elements at headquarters, and many prominent workers are leaving the ranks in consequence. Major Ware, an officer well known here, and Capt. Ludgate, who was at one time stationed in Peterborough, have withdrawn amongst many others. Capt. Werry, the French officer who visited Peterborough last Sunday, dealt with the question in an unreserved manner. Commissioner Coombs has just returned to Toronto after a prolonged tour, and is expected to make some defence against the statements in the newspapers.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

AT
TURNBULL'S

Wednesday and Thursday, March 27 and 28.

We give a cordial invitation to all and expect to see you on the above dates to look through our Magnificent Stock, of Millinery and Millinery Trimmings, Mantles, Dolmans and Jackets, Light Plain Cloths and Fancy Cheviots, for the young people, rich Rezendo and Fancy Stripes, for the older, with all the New Trimmings to Match.

The Event of the Past Week

Has been Dress Goods and Dress Trimmings. We cannot begin to tell you how they have been admired. Suiteur Cloths have been the favourites. There is an undescribable gentility about the colors that make you feel you would like to have a dress and wear it. The new steel and silk gimps blend in so perfectly. Our Bradford (England) Dress Cloths, at 10c., are worth a corner in your memory. Our Prints in the windows and on the counters have been turning up their sunny pretty faces at you as you pass by for the past two or three weeks, and many a prudent mother has had her summer supply sent home already, knowing she would not find the same assortment later.

During the past few weeks in the hurry and bustle of unpacking case after case of New Goods, we have neglected to call your attention to our Boys' Clothing and Tailoring Department. In fact was it necessary? Our old customers know and the public generally, are finding out that our Teller is very hard to beat in a fit, and we never take a side seat in prices.

Our Importations of Cloths from across the boiling sea have arrived, and lay side by side with their Canadian cousins. It is hard to say which is the prettiest or best, but the Scotch have the name of making the color faster than we Canadians. We will not dispute their ability to-day. Our Tailoring Department is not what it was three years ago. It has grown amazingly. We mean it shall still grow by giving good goods, proper styles and close prices. Our Boys' Clothing is opened out. Boys be happy, tell your parents of the fact, and have them come in and pick your suit out. We are sure we can please them with the price.

In the centre of the floor stands a table loaded with a job line of Laces. When we say job we mean half price or under. They are all two and three cents a yard, take your choice. You cannot buy the same Goods anywhere else less than five and most of them you will pay ten cents for. The fashion sheets (which are free) for this month have arrived. A full assortment of domestic patterns kept. Remember the days of our Millinery Opening, when our store will be in its holiday attire, when all the Novelties of the season will be displayed.

VOTE FOR COL. O'BRIEN'S DISALLOWANCE AMENDMENT.

The House Divides After a Day and Night of Talk—The Resolution Lost by 116 Majority.

OTTAWA, March 28.—All afternoon and far into the night the debate on Col. O'Brien's disallowance resolution occupied the attention of the House. Until Sir John rose to reply to the leader of the Opposition the speakers were all from the Liberal benches.

The House divided amid great excitement, and when the vote was taken it was found that only thirteen members supported Col. O'Brien's amendment.

It was one of the most memorable nights ever witnessed in the Canadian House of Commons.

Hon. David Mills, in resuming the debate, said he never remembered any occasion in Parliament so well calculated to exhibit the tactical skill of the First Minister, who, that he might satisfactorily meet the dangerous agitation which had arisen, had divided his forces into two wings, each under a trusty lieutenant. The one wing was commanded by the Minister of Justice, the other was under the member from North Simcoe (Mr. McCarthy). He could not believe that the latter would have so ardently supported the amendment of the member for Muskoka had he not known that his action did not meet with the disapproval of the Government. As to the member for West York (Mr. Wallace), he was said to be not very serious in his opposition to the course of the Government, as he too aspired to a position on the Treasury benches in front. It was even said that a round robin on his behalf was now in circulation around the back benches. The Government had in fact presented a two-sided shield to the House and no matter which of the lieutenants was to be followed the end was the same, the Government was to be supported.

There was, he thought, nothing more dangerous than to pass opinions on the religious belief of a portion of the community, in a popular assembly. He was not afraid that the rights of Protestants would suffer in this country. How could fair play be expected from the Catholics unless the Protestants exhibited a spirit of tolerance? He was unwilling to concede to any Roman Catholic institution in this country anything that would not be granted to a Protestant institution. If their clergymen were sincere and would preach religion not politics he thought Protestantism would be perfectly safe in Canada. While as zealous as any one to oppose encroachments by any denomination he would rather be the victim of wrongful judgment by others than be the instrument in the hands of anybody to wrong his fellow countrymen.

After recess Mr. Charlton spoke in support of the disallowance resolution. Though his convictions, which forced his voting with the majority on the subject, would perhaps result in his being retired to private life at the close of this Parliament, he thought any encroachment upon the civil and religious liberty of the people should be jealously guarded against, and was glad to notice the rising of tens of thousands of men in Canada during the last few months to protest against the endorsement of this order.

He thought the whole trouble arose out of the incorporation of the Jesuits. It seemed to him a great injustice that a loyal body like the Orange order should be denied incorporation while that privilege was granted to the Jesuits. He had at the time been opposed to the incorporation of the Orange order as not in the best interests of the community, and he thought the same principles should have governed in this instance. He held it was the bounden duty of this Parliament to inquire into the history of this organization to see if it had been guilty of all the wrong-doing ascribed to it. He considered that their establishment in Canada was detrimental to the political interests of this country. He reviewed the history of the order and held that it had been properly suppressed and should not again have been incorporated. He considered that their incorporation in British North America was unconstitutional, and as every act based upon such incorporation was unconstitutional the act under discussion should have been disallowed on that ground. Even were the measure constitutional he held that as a question of public policy it should be disallowed. The history of the order had been one of turmoil, intrigue and attempts to pull down the interests of the country wherever they have been planted.

Mr. Charlton concluded by reading a protest passed this morning by the Protestant Ministerial Association of Montreal against Mr. Colby's claim to voice the sentiments of the Protestant minority in Quebec in condemning the disallowance agitation, and he took exception to the address of Hon. David Mills this afternoon that Protestant ministers should preach religion and not politics, and held that that minister would be but a dumb dog who did not raise his voice to proclaim the right and combat the wrong of all descriptions.

Mr. Mulock regretted that a section of the House were willing in supporting Col. O'Brien's resolution to adopt a course which would destroy the union of the provinces. He was amazed that when there was such a simple solution to this question as an appeal to the courts anyone should have taken such a dangerous course as to bring the dispute before Parliament. Such a course he considered not statesmanlike or patriotic. He deplored that the member for Muskoka had forgotten that he was living in the nineteenth century and had thought that he was still living in old Ireland where a minority wielded the power and exercised its sway. Were the Government defeated on this question and an appeal to the country demanded who was prepared to take the consequences of placing before the country an issue such as that presented here and the war of creeds that would ensue?

Mr. Sutherland regretted the manner in which this matter had come before the House. He would vote for the disallowance of the act, not because it made a grant to the Roman Catholic Church or to the Jesuits but because he considered it unconstitutional to make a grant to any body of men for sectarian purposes.

Mr. McMillan thought the weight of argument proved the constitutionality of the act and he would therefore vote against the O'Brien resolution unless he could be satisfied before the close of the debate that it would settle the whole difficulty. [Laughter.]

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier said the day of retribution it appeared had now come upon the Government. The two chief provinces of the Dominion were differently constituted — one French and Catholic, the other English and Protestant. He charged it against the Conservative party that ever since 1854 they had maintained power by pandering to the religious prejudices of the parties. This game had for a long time succeeded. But it would not be successful much longer. The Government to-day were only reaping what they had been sowing. They had allowed a large section of the party to look upon them as champions of Protestantism and they had asked to be backed up in their policy of disallowance, now they were in turn asked to put this policy into effect in the interests of Protestantism.

The Premier had maintained again and again that he had the right to review local legislation and to say whether it was wrong or right. Thus he had disallowed the Streams Bill. The Minister of Justice had in the Jesuits Estates matter declined to interfere because the matter was one of provincial concern only—sound Liberal doctrine that it had taken a long time for this principle to penetrate the minds of the Government.

He could not ignore the agitation that was now going on in the Province of Ontario, nor view otherwise than with deep concern the attitude of a large portion of the Province of Ontario towards this Jesuits Estates Act. He hoped the attempt to arouse the feelings of the province would fail. The cause of the agitation and the legislation which had created so much unmeal was found in the hatred which France and England brought over with them when they came to Canada. All this was cleansed in the Old World now.

It was easy for the editor in his easy chair or the clergyman in his cabinet to settle a question on principle, but it was not so easy for the administrator in practical life. There had been only one way yet invented to govern men satisfactorily and that was to govern them according to public opinion. This question then had been settled in accordance with the public opinion of the Province of Quebec and if this opinion were overridden there would be, in place of the harmony which now existed, discord, the consequences of which he feared to contemplate.

He [illegible] the statement made by the member for North Simcoe that the French Canadian citizens of the Province of Quebec forgot that they were residents of a British Province. He declared that he was a Canadian before everything, and if to-morrow an opportunity offered to decide between allegiance to France or to England, he would unhesitatingly declare for a continuance of his allegiance to England, and if a poll was taken in Quebec he did not think that a single vote would be cast for a return to allegiance to France. If they were of French origin they were most likely to forget it. Day after day The Mail had been calling on the French Liberals to vote against the act. If they were Liberals they were not Liberals of the old French school. They were told they should not allow this act because the principles of the order of the Jesuits were inimical to liberty. He would not be surprised to hear such a statement from a Liberal of the old French school. Was one liberty to give people liberty?

Sir John Macdonald took exception to Mr. Laurier's statement that the Conservative party had since 1854 maintained themselves in power by appeals to national prejudice. He pointed out for the greater part of the time, between 1854 and 1864, he had been in a minority in his own province because of his unflinching advocacy of the rights of his Roman Catholic fellow-citizens of the Province of Quebec. In answer to the criticism made that the Government ought sooner to have decided the ground upon which they had acted in this case, he said that no defence was required for having allowed any act of a provincial legislature.

He might say here that in coming to the conclusion that this bill was one which might properly be allowed, lawyers and laymen in the Cabinet had been unanimous, and if there had any doubt remained in their minds he thought it must have disappeared upon hearing the speech of the member for Bothwell this afternoon. The act was not without precedent, for there was on the statute book the act passed thirty-seven years ago incorporating the St. Mary's College, the Jesuit College at Montreal, and the act of 1871 incorporating the Congregation de Notre Dame de Bonsecours de Jesus.

The doctrines of the Jesuits must be such as are approved of by the head of their church, or they would soon be informed of it in a peremptory manner. We had been told about the expulsion of the Jesuits, the Act of Supremacy and a [illegible] as more or less, but there soon had been [illegible] though [illegible] removed from the statute books. In England to-day the Jesuits flourished and their institution as [illegible] noted educational institutions. In England the people were not afraid; why should we be?

While after all was a mere matter of money and the present agitation was to show how easily the public were agitated. He regretted that the member for Muskoka had introduced this resolution. He hoped that the agitation over the matter would die away peacefully. There were in the whole Dominion of Canada 71 Jesuit priests. They were armed with a string of beads, a sash around their waists and a massbook or missal, and we were told that with these weapons there was a danger of their conquering Canada. The idea was absurd. He had told his staunch Protestant friend, Dr. Potts of Toronto, that he would match him badly or spiritually against any one of these seventy-one Jesuit priests—[laughter]—and he thought he could similarly match the other seventy. The Jesuits were a teaching body exclusively in Canada now. The Jesuit share of this grant was $160,000 and over this all the row had been raised.

It reminded him of the anecdote told of a Jew who, going into an eating-house, was seduced into eating a slice of ham. As he came out there was a crash of thunder, and the poor Jew astonished, exclaimed: "Good Heavens! What a row about a little bit of pork!" As the Jew escaped the thunderbolt so he thought the effect of the agitation now heard in this country would not be so serious.

If this bill had been disallowed Mr. Mercier would have achieved a great triumph. He would have been the champion of the church, his Legislature would have been called together and the [illegible] what would have happened? No Government could be found that would take the responsibility of again disallowing to say alarming national disturbance would cause.

Sir Richard Cartwright followed the Premier, speaking against the amendment.

The following is the division on Col. O'Brien's amendment, the Liberals being in italics and the Conservatives in Roman. The amendment was lost by a vote of 13 to 129. Two hundred and one of the 215 members voted. Mr. Chapleau is out of the country and Mr. Pope is sick at home:

A Blaze at Guelph.

GUELPH, March 28.—Fire broke out to-night at 8.30 in the two-story stone houses in Arthur-street, owned by D. Allan and occupied by James Oberhammer. It is supposed to have originated from a lamp which was left on the stairway exploding, as the family was absent from home, and the flames made considerable headway before it was discovered. The damage to the contents will amount to about $1000, insured in the Mercantile for $600. The loss on the building is estimated at $500, insurance unknown.

Murdered in Church.

PARIS, Ky., March 28.—Ben Kellis was shot and killed at the meeting of the colored M. E. conference last evening as he was escorting Mrs. Georgia Wheeler, a handsome quadroon, to a seat. John Page was the murderer. [illegible] was the cause. Bishop Anderson of [illegible] was presiding at the meeting and the room was crowded. A panic followed the shooting but no one was hurt.

TRIBUTES TO JOHN BRIGHT

MEN OF ALL SHADES OF OPINION JOIN IN HIS PRAISE.

Gladstone to Second the Resolutions Sitting in the House—Mr. Lincoln's Sentimentiser a Pleasant Surprise to Lord Salisbury.

LONDON, March 28.—In accordance with Mr. Bright's own wish the funeral will be of the simplest description. Yesterday was the anniversary of the death of Mr. Bright's brother Samuel.

Mr. Chamberlain writes: "By Mr. Bright's death we have lost the most unique figure among English statesmen and popular leaders of the present generation. The consistency and completeness of his career and the massive simplicity of his character mark him out from all others. Now, having fought his last fight, his death is a universal loss to both party and country."

The Standard says: "Mr. Bright was not, and did not profess to be, a great statesman, but he was one of the most disinterested social reformers, powerful orators and honest politicians that the country has ever produced."

Mr. Bright has left four sons and three daughters.

It is expected that Mr. Gladstone will make the speech seconding the motion of condolence and probable adjournment of the House, moved by the leader of the Government in the Commons to-morrow.

It is believed Mr. Bright will even usually be buried in Westminster Abbey, though at first his remains will be deposited in the family burial-place near Rochdale. This would be very appropriate, as emphasizing the view that "peace hath her victories no less renowned than those of war." Mr. John Morley was seen this morning. He says it would be a glory to the Abbey. The last great funeral there was the burial of Darwin. Mr. Morley says that Whittier was Mr. Bright's favorite poet.

All the blinds of the Reform Club, the dead Liberal's favorite haunt, were immediately drawn on receipt of the news of his death.

In the House of Lords this afternoon the Marquis of Salisbury, speaking of Mr. Bright, said: "He had special qualities for which he will be admired and noted in history. He was the greatest master of English oratory in the present generation, the eloquence of his style giving fitting expression to his towering noble thoughts. He possessed a singular rectitude of character. He was inspired by pure patriotism from the beginning of his career to its close."

The Alaskan Seizures.

LONDON, March 28.—Sir Geo. S. Bodes-Powell asked in the House of Commons this afternoon whether the case of the three sealing ships arrested in Behring's Sea in 1887 and condemned by the Alaskan Court had been submitted to appeal by the supreme court.

Sir James Fergusson, Under Foreign Secretary, replied that the time allowed for appeals had lapsed.

Salisbury Agreeably Surprised.

LONDON, March 28.—A despatch announcing that President Harrison had nominated Robert T. Lincoln as Minister to England was read at a dinner given last evening by Earl Cowper. Viscount Cranborn, son of Lord Salisbury, was a guest. He immediately hurried to Arlington-street and informed his father. The Prime Minister said the nomination was a pleasant surprise.

To Challenge the Opinion of the House.

PARIS, March 28.—It is semi-officially stated that the Cabinet will not raise a formal question of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies but will challenge the opinion of the House during the debate on the Budget.

French Legislation.

PARIS, March 28.—The Chamber of Deputies to-day passed a bill doubling the import duties on rye and adding 5 francs per hundred weight to the duty on rye meal.

The Chamber agreed to grant a credit of 20,000,000 francs for the erection of a memorial of the revolution.

The Dutch Throne.

THE HAGUE, March 28.—Parliament will assemble April 2 for the purpose of receiving a communication from the ministry in which formal announcement will be made of the King's incapacity for governing.

Entertained the Kaiser.

BERLIN, March 28.—Sir Edward B. Malet, the British ambassador, entertained the Emperor and Empress at dinner this evening. Thirty-six guests were present.

Halsted Reedin's Pork Bits Getp.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The Senate in secret session to-day discussed the nomination of Murat Halsted to be Minister to Germany. The nomination was hotly debated, the criticism of Mr. Halsted coming principally from the Republican side of the Chamber. Senators Ingalls and Teller led the attack upon him. A vote on the nomination resulted in its rejection, the Democrats voting solidly against it. The result of the vote on the nomination surprised Mr. Sherman, the chairman of the committee which reported it favorably. It is said that he demanded an explanation of the votes of Republican senators, threatening that if the nomination was rejected without cause he would oppose the confirmation of every other nomination that came before the Senate. Mr. Sherman moved a reconsideration. A motion to lay on the table Mr. Sherman's motion to reconsider was withdrawn and the debate on the motion to reconsider then ensued. The exact vote is said to have been 26 to 13, a number of Republicans withholding their votes and only enough voting to make the desired quorum.

Legitime Bombarding Gonaives.

NEW YORK, March 28.—A despatch from Hayti reports that Legitime's gunboats are bombarding Gonaives, one of Hyppolite's most important strongholds.

Private despatches received to-day state that Legitime has lately met with great success in the department of Laribonite. It is reported that the army of the south has pushed north and captured the Province of Trou, directly south of Cape Haytien, where Hippolyte's headquarters are situated. Another communication received here to-day states that Legitime's gunboat Belize had captured the American steamer Dolus, but released her when her identity became known. The Dolus's officers after the release were paid $2000 by Legitime to carry three of his emissaries to Hippolyte's camp for the purpose of bringing about a settlement of the difficulty.

Mrs. Howe Liberated.

BOSTON, March 28.—Mrs. Sarah E. Howe of the Women's Bank notoriety, who has been in jail since Dec. 8 last on a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses, was arraigned in court to-day. She still insisted that she was not guilty. As the Government had no evidence to sustain the allegations Mrs. Howe was allowed to go on her own recognizance.

An Unknown Wreck.

LEWES, Del., March 28.—The British brig Sunshine, from Parahaiba, reports that March 19, 150 miles northeast of Cape Hatteras, she passed a large vessel about 200 feet long, a ship or steamer, bottom up, copper painted, evidently a recent wreck. A smoked boat unscorched and oars were near. The weather was too rough to examine.

Death of a Centenarian.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., March 28.—Thomas Keagan of Juniata township, who was born to-day was 100 years old. He carried a pike in the Irish rebellion of 1798 and came to this country 75 years ago. His first vote was for Andrew Jackson and his last for Cleveland.

Cornell Alumni Dinner.

NEW YORK, March 28.—The ninth annual dinner of the New York Association of Cornell University Alumni took place tonight. Prof. Goldwin Smith and others responded to toasts.

Sabbath Observance.

HAMILTON, March 28.—A joint meeting of Sabbath observance committees, appointed by the church courts of Western Ontario was held in St. Paul's schoolroom to-day at 9 a.m. Rev. W. J. Maxwell was appointed chairman and Rev. J. Mordy secretary. After earnest consideration of the objects of the meeting it was moved by Rev. Dr. Laidlaw, seconded by Rev. Dr. Brethour, and resolved that a convention be held at Hamilton on the last Thursday of June next for the purpose of forming a permanent Sabbath observance alliance.

EAST RIDING FARMERS.

The Second Meeting of the Institute, at Keene.

Large Attendance—Harvest Retrospect Discussed—Various Subjects Vigorously Discussed.

MARCH 28th, 1889.

The second meeting for the year of the East Riding Farmers' Institute was held in the town hall, Keene, to-day, Mr. F. Birdsall, President, in the chair. There was a fair attendance at the morning session.

The PRESIDENT said since holding the last meeting in Keene a successful meeting had been held in Norwood. He reported the visit of himself and Mr. Burgess to the Central Farmers' Institute. Prof. Shaw brought up the proposition of employing a man under government auspices to regulate the holding of farmers' institutes, and reference was made to the other matters discussed. No change was made in the matter of statute labor, and the subject of Commercial Union was not discussed. Prof. Saunders, of the Ottawa Experimental Farm, had given an address on tree planting and authorized delegates to state that farmers sending tree seeds to the experimental farm would have them tested and the results returned to the farmer, all free of postage or other charges. The question of township shows was also discussed and the general feeling was in favor of their retention. Prof. Fletcher treated of insects injurious to turnips. By sowing from the 15th to the 18th of June the danger could be averted; one part of Paris green sown with plaster would also destroy the pest. The meeting was in favor of a text book on agriculture for use in the public schools. The Central Institute was composed of delegates from the farmers' institutes and allied societies.

Mr. T. BLIZARD, M.P.P., who was also present at the Central Institute, referred to the statute labour question and was of the opinion that the present system should be changed. Twenty-five cents paid in cash was equivalent to the average day of statute labour. He favoured a township being divided into three sections, and a paid commissioner, with properly equipped tools to distribute the work equally. The result would be uniformly built roads with a less expenditure of money. He believed that township shows in the older settled districts should be abolished and all effort concentrated on one central exhibition, which would then be worth the attention farmers would give it. In reference to "scrub" sires, he believed it would be in the interest of the average farmer to be compelled to use a good sire. The stock thus produced, while costing no more for raising, would be worth far more—fully one-third.

Mr. W. COLLINS thoroughly endorsed all Mr. Blizard had said in regard to good sires. But he thought that an animal such as referred to would be worth twice as much instead of one-third more. He also agreed with him on the subject of statute labour. He thought that, except in isolated districts, township shows should be abolished.

Mr. MOORE, reeve of Asphodel, thought township shows were not worth the time and labour involved. He also thought that twenty-five cents was equal to the average statute days' labour. Referring to the feeding of colts, the mistake was made, he said, in neglecting

GOOD FEEDING THE FIRST YEAR.

Feed them well from their youth.

Mr. GEO. ENGOR enquired whether early feeding would make a horse larger, or whether he only came to maturity earlier.

A general discussion followed the weight of opinion being in favour of good early feeding—keep the animal growing.

Mr. BROWN gave variety to the discussion by suggesting the importance of having calves and colts dropped in the fall.

Mr. MOORE asserted that boiled oats were best for young colts, and sour milk and swill if they could be got to drink them.

Mr. Blizzard was strongly in favour of fall foaling.

The subject was pretty well discussed, till adjournment for dinner took place.

Afternoon Session.

Mr. J. COYLE BROWN gave his address on "Agricultural Education" the substance of which has been more than once printed in these columns.

The paper was well received and in comment it

The chairman said that he thought there was a great deal of good in it.

Mr. GEO. READ said he thought it was a capital idea. It was he thought especially advantageous to the little pupils—by separating them from the elders, they would be saved from the influence of bad and mischievous examples.

Mr. J. TAYLOR and Mr. WM. SHARP commended the proposition, and Mr. JAMES HUMPHRIES, collector of taxes for Asphodel, gave an amusing account of the difficulties surrounding his educational experience. In his early days there was no school and he learned his letters from letters traced on a shingle by his mother, and he was proud of it. The first school house in Asphodel was built on the Birdsall farm. His theory of educating a boy for farming was to teach him farm work by practical experience and example. Mr. Humphries' address was studded with fun and was greeted with hearty applause.

PROF. J. W. ROBERTSON, of the Guelph Agricultural College, after repeating the observations on education he made in Peterborough on Monday, adding also to his address the elements of farm fertility. In the course of his address he referred to the hog, an important farm industry. A breeding sow should have a long, deep and broad body, she should be kept apart from other pigs and in a warm dry nest; sows should not be put to breeding before nine months old. Breeding sows should not be kept too fat; sows which are breeding should have salt every day regularly, this would remove thirst for blood and prevent eating pigs; pigs should be farrowed in a warm dry pen which should have a plank fastened to the wall near the floor so that the sow cannot lie against the side of the pen and thus overlie pigs; pigs should have all the pure water they can drink. Sows with pigs need abundance of nourishing food. Pigs should be suckled till they are three months old. Keep growing pigs growing, and sell not later than six or seven months at about 175 to 225 pounds—every pound put on after that costs one-third more. Pigs dropped in March would be profitably killed in September, when price is highest. Clover was a good feed for pigs, and enriched the soil where they pastured. Hens were the most profitable stock to feed, and the most valuable stock for the farm. He again described the points in a cow which indicated good milking qualities. In reference to breeding cows, he would use a good sire from a cow which can make $75 worth of milk a year and improve stock by good care and feeding.

The best way of growing a crop to feed the stock of which he had been treating, was to raise fodder corn, which should never be sown broad-cast, but in drills.

In answer to Mr. DRUMMOND, Prof. Robertson said a ton of silage was equal to a ton and a half of roots, and the cost of raising was about the same.

In answer to Mr. Kennedy, Prof. Robertson stated that he only recommended mangel-wurzel be sown in reference to feeding pigs, to be ploughed under to make the soil grow clover. He knew a farm so run down that it would only grow buckwheat; the [illegible] and the owner of the farm raised hogs and made money, and now his whole farm was fertile enough to raise 250 bushels of corn to the acre. He went on to show that the farming salvation for this country was this order of cropping—clover, corn, hogs and corn.

The best corn to grow for silage was the mammoth Southern ensilage and the red cob corn. Corn would not grow on wet land. Broken sod was good for corn. Sow as early as possible. It never paid to feed bran except in conjunction with other food; it should always be thus fed—put on to the fodder.

(To Be Continued).

Vivid Writing.

A little descriptive piece entitled "Over the Guns," from the Detroit Free Press, of which we give a paragraph, reminds us that great advertisers, like H. H. Warner & Co., proprietors of Warner's celebrated Safe Cure, might get a hint from it.

Here is the paragraph:—

"Shoot to the right or left, over the guns or under them. Strike where you will, but strike to destroy. Now the ball surges down, even to the windrows of the old fence-betes—now back under the apple trees and beyond them. Dead men are under the ponderous wheels of the guns, mad devils are slashing and shooting across the barrels. No one seems to know friend from foe. Shout, slash, kill and—

"But the ball is dissolved. The smoke is rising, obscure and nervous grow fainter, and twenty or thirty living men pull the dead bodies away from the guns. Three hundred dead and wounded on the single acre. They tell of war and glory. Look over this ball's acre and find the latter." And in just as deadly a strife, though noiseless, are men falling at our right and left to-day. Is it war? Yes, war of the blood. Blood loaded with poison through imperfect kidney action. And is there no power to stop this awful slaughter? Yes, Warner's Safe Cure, a tried specific, a panacea that has brought life and hope to hundreds of thousands of dying men and women.

Be enlisted therefore in the great army of living men and women who have been rescued from disease and premature death, and be eternally grateful that the means of life can so easily be yours.

THE VICTIMS BURIED.

Mrs. Harvey and Her Two Daughters Laid at Rest at Guelph.

GUELPH, March 28.—There is still great excitement in the city over the triple murder committed by W. H. Harvey on Tuesday. The three unfortunate victims, Mrs. Harvey, Lillian Mary and Geraldine Harvey, were buried this afternoon and this perhaps stirred up excitement and interest in the sad tragedy. The family was held in high esteem by the whole city, and the public schools were closed at noon as a mark of respect to the dead. The funeral was announced to leave the residence on Woolwich-street at 2.30, p.m. Long before that hour hundreds of people lined the thoroughfare between the house and St. George's Church, and there must have been upwards of 2000 at the church when the cortege arrived. The crowd was on anxious to get a glimpse of the corpses that it was with difficulty that the police force could keep them back. When the doors of the sacred edifice were thrown open a great rush was made and every pew was soon filled. Hundreds could not gain admittance, and stood around the street until the church services were concluded. The floral tributes were numerous and handsome. On Mrs. Harvey's casket was placed a large wreath from St. James' Cricket Club, Toronto, together with a basket of flowers, calla lilies and other offerings from St. George's Church congregation, Guelph. On Miss Harvey's was a floral pillow, "In loving remembrance from the Communicants' Guild of St. George's church," floral cross from the Bible Association of St. George's church, lilies and cut flowers from friends in the congregation. On Miss Geraldine Harvey's casket lay a floral wreath from "Frances, Helen, Kenny and Frankie," schoolmates, together with numerous cut flowers from her playmates.

The pall bearers were as follows:

For Mrs. Harvey—Wm. Reynolds, Geo. Murton, Geo. Hilbert, E. Morris, J. Hallett and J. W. Saunders.

For Lillian—W. M. Stanley, A. E. Lyon, Jas. Davidson and A. Smith.

For Geraldine—H. Taylor, G. Taylor, Frank Lees and H. Murton.

The full service of the Church of England was conducted by Ven. Archdeacon Dixon and Rev. Geo. A. Harvey. All the members of the choir were present and the musical portion was particularly impressive and sad.

The Inquest Resumed.

GUELPH, March 28.—At 4.30 the inquest was again gone on with to-day. After examining Detective Inspector Stark of Toronto and the telegraph messenger from Toronto, and the livery men from Gale and Hampder from whom Harvey procured horses to drive to Harrisburg, the hearing was adjourned until Tuesday, April 2, at 7.30 p.m.

Harvey has not yet spoken a word, and has taken only a little soup after threatening to use force and compel him to take it. He is very weak and sat all day with his head bowed low.

DEATH OF "CLUTCH" DONOHUE.

The Old Fort Erie Hotelkeeper and ex-Convict Ends His Days in the Hospital.

KINGSTON, March 28.—John Donohue, better known as "Clutch," died this morning at l'Hotel Dieu. He had been a convict in the penitentiary for some time, but last Friday was pardoned and released as death was imminent from a blood disease that manifested itself in ulcerating sores all over the body. He was sentenced at Welland in 1886 for larceny and receiving stolen money. He was healthy until recently when the disease began gradually to develop and about five weeks ago he was compelled to go to the prison hospital. His wife was sent for and she remained with him until death.

When taken from the penitentiary Donohue brightened up and it was thought that he would recover. Once he made a strong effort to get up on his feet, but the effort was so exhausting that he speedily gave up the attempt. He died quite penitent. His remains will be removed to Fort Erie for burial.

Donohue for years kept a fine hotel at Fort Erie, Ont., still conducted by his wife. He was accused of having committed a robbery in the States and with the proceeds purchased the hotel business. The United States Express Company on three different occasions tried to recover the money or property, but Donohue defeated them each time.

MUNCASTER'S

IN THE GARB OF A PRIEST.

A Noted English Crook Landed in Limbo.

TORONTO, MARCH 28.—Last night Detective Robson and Detective McGrath marched a decent looking man into the detectives' rooms at Police Headquarters. They carried with them two valises, which, when opened, revealed six beautiful gold watches, one of which was elaborately ornamented with diamonds. These watches were in the case of A. McMillan, Ottawa, yesterday, but were transferred therefrom by the defendant of a young man dressed as a Roman Catholic priest, giving his name as "Rev. D. Valley."

Yesterday morning a telegram from Ottawa was received at Police Headquarters to arrest this young man. Sergeant Reburn and Detective McGrath held themselves out for him, and after an industrious search located their man at the St. James Hotel late in the evening. The reverend gentleman, who was signed on the register as "George Barnett, Ottawa," was out when the officers called, but the latter went to his room and waited, taking the opportunity to search his baggage. They found the cassocks and other goods. The cops then went downstairs, and when his reverence came in and retired to his room they also went up and placed him under arrest.

The prisoner is a noted crook. He is known in both England and the United States. For a number of years he has been carrying on operations in a unique manner. In Liverpool last summer he advertised for $10 in American notes and gold and Canadian notes, stating that he was about to take a number of youths to Canada and that he wanted that sum. A local bullion dealer answered the advertisement and agreed to hand the money to "Rev. Father Mc. Donald" as the Roman Catholic Presbyter. The money was handed over and his reverence went out to get the exchange from the rector in [illegible]. He never saw him after. When the priests of the church were informed of the matter they were surprised, never having seen the man. He has been working similar games in Canada and the United States.

When he came to town at 9.30 yesterday morning he at once set himself to work to do up some Toronto people. He called at St. Michael's College early in the afternoon, arrayed in his priestly garb, and said that he was a clergyman from Ottawa and that he expected a parcel up shortly. He then went down to P. W. Ellis & Co's jewelry establishment in Wellington-street, and said he was a teacher in St. Michael's College and that the priests there were going to send the Pope a chalice and they wished to purchase $1500 worth of diamonds to form the gift to His Holiness. This was about 5 o'clock, and the diamonds were to be sent up to the college at 6.30. At the appointed time Mr. Ellis went up, but gave as an excuse for not bringing the diamonds. It was agreed then that the diamonds were to be delivered at 9.30 this morning. The prisoner gave a check for the $1500 on the Molsons Bank signed "Rev. Father Healy," but no such person of course was known at the bank. Mr. Ellis' suspicions were aggravated by the alleged father stating up the cellars that he were expecting Archbishop Lynch to arrive shortly, and it is more than likely that he would have looked out for the hard cash before he delivered the diamonds.

The prisoner took his arrest very coolly. He said he knew they couldn't send him to the States, but it was likely he would be sent to England after his case was served here. He wondered what penitentiary he would be sent to. He gave his name as Geo. Powell, and said that his mother lived on St. Urbain-street, Montreal.

Among the goods found in his effects was a silver monstrance, purchased (but not paid for) at D. & J. Sadlier & Co.'s Catholic publishing house, 115 Church-street.

The prisoner was locked up on a charge of larceny.

A Public Benefactor.

"Who is H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., whose Safe Remedies, especially Warner's Safe Cure, have attained such success and celebrity in home and abroad?"

Hon. H. H. Warner, then is a leading and honored resident of Rochester, not only, but a prominent and influential citizen of the United States. On several occasions chosen by his party as a National delegate to nominate a President of the Republic, he has been a member of the Republican State Committee and of its Executive Committee. He is a member of the American Institution for the Advancement of Science; President of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce; a successful and upright business man. He has given away fortunes in charities. The celebrated and costly Warner Observatory of Rochester was conceived, endowed, and is maintained by him. His munificent prizes for the discovery of comets has been at once the wonder and delight of the scientific world.

The yellow fever scourge in the South, the Ohio floods, the fire disasters of Rochester and other cities awakened his profoundest sympathies and in each instance his cheque for from $500 to $5,000 swelled the several relief funds. Where other wealthy men give tens and hundreds, he gives hundreds and thousands.

The world has need of more such men.

An incident led him into the manufacture of medicine. Seized some twelve years ago with what the ablest physicians termed fatal kidney disease, he was miraculously restored to health by what is now known as Warner's Safe Cure. At once he resolved to make known the merits of so potent a remedy, and the consequence is that to-day he has immense laboratories and Warehouses in the United States, Canada, England, Germany, Austria, Australia and Burmah. Sales of his Safe Remedies are enormous, and their power over disease simply marvellous.

The result of a production is in exact keeping with the character of its producer. An honest and noble man himself, Mr. Warner makes honest and reliable medicines—a fact abundantly attested by their phenomenal efficacy and popularity.

Healthy Tar Coat.

of the human system, according to high authority, suffers from one or other form of blood taint. How often either this latest evil to develop into serious disease while the blood can be kept pure and the system clean by proper precautions, such as using Burdock Blood Bitters whenever any scrofulous symptoms appear. No medicine equals B.B.B. as a blood cleanser. 2w13d

COLD wet weather is very hard on sufferers from Neuralgic troubles, and to those, Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine is strongly recommended. It is palatable, easily assimilated, and can be safely taken by the weakest invalid. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

AN INACTIVE or Torpid Liver must be aroused and all bad bile removed. Burdock Pills are best for old or young. dw

"INSOMNIA" may take place from the kidneys or from the mucous membranes, particularly that of the urethra," so writes T. Grainger Stewart, M.D., F.R.S.E., Ordinary Surgeon to H.M., the Queen, in Scotland, Professor of Practice and Physic in the University of Edinburgh, in an article on Bright's disease. Hence the only natural inference is that the kidneys must be restored to a healthy condition before its effects will disappear. Warner's Safe Cure is the most efficient agent for this purpose known to science.

Imitation

is sometimes called the sincerest form of flattery. This may account for the number of imitations of the original and only positive corn cure—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. All such fail to possess equal merit, so see when purchasing get the genuine "Putnam's." Safe, sure and painless. All druggists. 6w13d

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS.—Moisture, intense itching and stinging, most at night, worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents. dw

The Letter that Came from Mr. J. Hayden, 120 Chatham street, Montreal, says:—"I was troubled for years with biliousness and liver complaint, and I never found any medicine to help me like Burdock Blood Bitters. In fact one bottle made a complete cure." 2w13d

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria,
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria,
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria,
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

A Strange Story.

Belleville papers furnish the particulars of a most peculiar affair. William Vandewalters, a married man with a family, has gone off to Detroit with his own sister, Mrs. Vancott, who also leaves a husband and family behind her. Before going Mrs. Vancott sold her husband's effects, and, strangest thing of all, Vancott himself went to the train and saw his wife off. The woman was one of the wives of the notorious bigamist, Silas K. Shaver. If the story is true, it reveals a shocking degree of depravity on the part of those concerned.

Converts in Trouble.

A couple of Messrs. Crossley and Hunter's Ottawa converts figured in a breach of promise suit recently. Miss Pauline Smith became the affianced bride of Wm. C. Jamieson on August 20th, 1887, and in the fall of the same year, according to the evidence elicited, both were converted by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter. The marriage never took place, however, Jamieson later on declining to fulfil the contract, and the result was a breach of promise case, which was tried at Ottawa last week. The fair plaintiff received judgment for $1,207.

What is It?

Simply this. That a great many are throwing away their good honest dollars without getting proper value for them. So listen—a word in time. You no doubt have heard that W. J. Morrow proposes selling Groceries—not as cheap as other houses but away below them. The old maxim "Seeing is believing."—So call and price our Goods. We modestly urge immediate consideration and you will find prompt action will pay you; so we hope to receive a call. Why, the whole town, county and surrounding villages are simply on fire with enthusiasm, and now the name of W. J. Morrow, the only cheap Grocer, resounds both far and near.

Appointment of Students.

The Home Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met in Toronto yesterday and appointed the following students for Peterborough district:—Messrs. Bennett, Speer, McAfee and Oswald; for Lindsay, Messrs. Gilchrist and Hazen.

His Complaint.

Speaking to an Examiner reporter this morning about the Hunter and Crossley evangelistic meetings, a George street man said:—"I would like to attend if I could get in but every time I go to the church I can't any more than get my head inside the door. It's filled up with good women who have no need to attend, and there's no room for a sinner like me."

The Death Rate.

The mortuary statistics for February show the death rate of Peterborough to be very low, only .69 per thousand. But three of the large towns or cities in Canada rank lower, St. Thomas .58, London .57, and Woodstock .66. In February Peterborough had 6 deaths, Belleville 14, Kingston 22, Guelph 12, Windsor 12, Galt 10, etc. Of the deaths in Peterborough 5 were males and 1 female.

A Magnificent Book.

"Testimony of Nineteen Centuries to Jesus of Nazareth," by James Herman Whitmore, LL.B., is an unrivalled and unique collection of rare and remarkable tributes from many countries and centuries, which the research and genius, the learning and devotion of more than three hundred eminent scholars, statesmen, orators, philosophers and divines, have paid to the [illegible] character, peerless life and spiritual influence of the founder of Christianity. We are pleased to join our ministerial brethren in the recommendation of this new book. Mr. T. A. McKelvie, of this town, is giving it a personal canvass here, and is meeting with that success the title of this book should command. 1d

A Local Genius.

There is now on exhibition in the show window of Craig & Mooney's Furniture warerooms, an exquisitely carved table. The top is beautifully inlaid in rosewood and bird's-eye maple. The carving is exceedingly well done and the artist, Mr. J. B. O'Brien, will certainly make his mark in his calling. He is already well known, a handsome carved frame in oak, for some time displayed in Mr. Sheehy's dry goods shop attracting much attention and admiration. For the past two years Mr. O'Brien has been in the employ of the Lindsay-Seddon Furniture Company, and is at present engaged in decorating the interior of Mr. J. H. McWilliam's fine new residence on Water street, which when completed will probably, in the matter of inside finish, be unsurpassed in town. The Examiner wishes Mr. O'Brien success.

A Plain Question.

Each of the town councillors has received a document similar to the following, which explains itself. We can't say how many of them have replied. Here is the letter:—

"I, ——, do solemnly promise and declare that I will truly, faithfully and impartially, to the best of my knowledge and ability, execute the duties of councillor to which I have been called in this town of Peterborough, and that I have not received, and will not receive, any payment, or reward, or promise of such, for the exercise of any partiality or malversation, and that I have not by myself or partner either directly or indirectly any interest in any contract with or on behalf of the said corporation."

Is your conscience satisfied with the way in which these promises have been fulfilled?

Order of Oddfellows.

On Friday last a new suite of rooms leased by Stella Lodge No. 125, I.O.O.F., Carleton Place, was dedicated. Delegations were present from Ottawa, Arnprior, Perth, Renfrew, Smith's Falls, Packenham and Brockville. The attendance of members of the lodge was very large. Dr. R. W. Bell, D. G. M., Peterborough, presided. John R. Reid, P.G.M., occupied the second chair and delivered the dedicatory address. The ceremony took place at 2 o'clock. An initiatory ceremony took place in the evening, which was followed by a banquet. The lodge room proper is about 65 feet square, and there are dining hall, property and two ante-rooms attached. The ceremony was performed in an impressive and satisfactory manner. The gathering of the fraternity was one of the best ever seen in the Ottawa valley.

New Railway Scheme.

Lindsay, March 25.—The Grand Trunk Railway Company propose to extend their Haliburton branch onward to Mattawa on the Ottawa river. This will prove of great service to both Lindsay and Toronto, as it will form the only through road from Toronto to the Upper Ottawa waters. It will also open up a new territory rich in timber and minerals. The timber is chiefly black birch, of greater value in cabinet work, while white pine, red pine, basswood, maple and other marketable woods are plentiful. At present the supplies for lumberers on the Madawaska, Bonnechere and Petewawa rivers are sent in from Ottawa and other eastern cities. The completion of the proposed road will render that entire region, as well as Temiscamingue settlement tributary to Toronto. A deputation of Lindsay Board of Trade, consisting of John Dobson, president; J. R. Dundas, ex-M.P., W. Macdonnell, Sam Hughes and Col. Deacon are to confer with Toronto Board of Trade with a view to furthering the completion of the railway.

Showing the Latest Styles.

MISS R. DELANEY

has just returned from the Montreal and Toronto markets, having secured the latest novelties and goods for her Millinery and Mantle Departments. Miss Delaney's special object in visiting Toronto was to purchase a fine assortment of New York novelties, which have just been placed on the market at the wholesale centres. They comprise the latest styles in Bonnets, Hats, Trimmings, Mantles and Mantle Cloths. The materials are new, rich and handsome. The new Dolmanettes are strikingly stylish, while the Jet Vistes are a special thing this season. On WEDNESDAY and four succeeding days of this week Miss Delaney will be pleased to have ladies call and inspect the array of handsome styles. Personal inspection will alone afford a clear idea of the beauty of the goods, the freshness of the stock and the ample preparation made to meet the wishes of customers.

HE FLOGGED A PREACHER

And Was Converted Inside of Twelve Hours.

Last Night's Evangelistic Meeting—Room to be Made for Business Men—Rev. Mr. Hunter Finishes into Certain Classes of Society—Men's Meetings to be Held—Mr. Crossley's Able Exposition of "The Saving Grace."

Every night scores and hundreds are turned away from St. Paul's Church unable to gain entrance, so large are the crowds that regularly attend the evangelistic services. Business men particularly are deprived of the benefit of these meetings, as they are not able to leave their stores till too late to get into the church. One case was instanced by Mr. Hunter last night of a George street merchant who had promised to come to the meetings and give his heart to God, but for three or four nights he had not been able to get in and had to go away unsaved, until he became annoyed and declared he wouldn't try it again. Mr. Hunter announced that they proposed, though they had not said anything to the ministers about it as yet, to hold meetings for men only next week, and then they would ask the ladies—to remain at home and pray for them. He would, of course, like very much to have them all attend if it were possible, but they had to do something like this in order to give everyone a chance. He said that the meeting in the George Street Church Sunday night would be for men only, at which atheism and infidelity would be discussed. He invited all infidels to come to the meeting, as they intended to talk kindly to them. He said it was possible they would have a converted skeptic, saved at their meetings a couple of years ago, there to give his experience.

SONG SERVICE.

It being "song sermon" night, special music was rendered. A beautiful trio was sung by Mr. Crossley, Miss Nellie Wrighton, and Mr. W. H. Manning, entitled, "The Bright Forever," No. 123 of the song book. Mr. Crossley announced that by request he would to-night sing, "My Ain Countrie."

HELP THE POOR.

Mr. Hunter said he had received a letter that day which touched his heart. It was an appeal for help on behalf of a family in a state of nudity and starvation, the dreadful consequences of drink. He urged the ladies to display a practical Christianity and look after the pressing needs of this family and go out and find other poor people, and in God's name do something for them. He believed in entire consecration of one's person, family and property to God, and said, "I wish some of you Christians would stir around and do something for the Lord. I don't know what the Lord will do with you in heaven. You can't sit around up there as you do here, you know." A sample of consecration was given in the case of a poor widow up west who devoted $100 to the Lord's cause with the request that prayers be offered for the conversion of her boy, then in Wallaceburg. This was done, and just about that time, almost at the same hour it was found by comparison afterwards, he was brought to Jesus. Mr. Hunter contrasted this with the request for prayer made by an old sinner who was too stingy and miserly even to pay pew rent in the church. Just like some of you, poor beggars, Mr. Hunter said, for that's what you are, sponging on the Lord. What was wanted in the church today was entire consecration.

SOME MOTTOES.

Mr. Hunter gave the congregation a number of mottoes regarding money. The vain man's motto was, win gold and wear it. That was what the spider-legged dudes believe in doing. Mr. Hunter said he saw one of them down street the other day, looking out of a big eye glass; he was glad there was only one of the kind in Peterborough. The miser's motto is, win gold and save it; the spendthrift's win gold and spend it; the usurer's, win gold and increase it; and so on to the fool, whose motto is, win gold and end it. The wise man's motto is, win gold and give it to the glory of God; the Christmas is, be gold and live it. He said he hoped that these things would stick to the persons they fitted, and that they would not try to throw them off on some one else.

THE FOLD.

Mr. Hunter read a part of the tenth chapter of John, and referring to the passage, "He that entereth not by the door," said there was but one way to open heaven, through Christ. Some of us are, however, determined to go the other way, or as was once said by a man with reference to the way a certain individual would get to heaven, through "a side door for idiots." A great many sinners were leaning on the church and trusting to get into heaven through this side door. Mr. Hunter dwelt upon the 9th verse:—"I am the door; by me if any man enter in he shall be saved, and shall go in and out and find good pasture." That was it; they would find good pasture. So many Christians, Mr. Hunter said, were living on old dried-up pasture. Some got up and give the same old experience that is forty years old; they should get a new experience and move out into new pastures. "And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold"—not of the Presbyterian, Episcopalian, Baptist or Methodist fold, but God's fold. There shall be but one Shepherd and one fold in heaven, he said. The Episcopalian won't have a corner partitioned off for himself where he can strut around and not recognize the Methodist; and the Presbyterian won't have a top seat from which he can look down upon the Baptist. No; we will all be together there, he said. Christ was the door to deliverance, the door to discovery, and the door to delight. All who enter this door are saved and satisfied; and Jesus Christ was the only person who could satisfy the longings of an immortal soul.

THE REQUESTS.

After Mr. Crossley had sung "The Handwriting on the Wall," which he said he repeated at the urgent request of a large number, a few letters of thanks to the evangelists and Christian workers for having been the means through God of having converted certain persons, were read. Special requests for prayer to the number of thirty-one were also read, including a request on behalf of the unconverted members of the choir.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION.

Mr. Crossley said he would speak of the conversion of a man who only twelve hours before that event had flogged a preacher and was converted by that same preacher. That being the case, every unsaved one could say: "I may be saved, too, and to-night before this service closes." He hoped many of them would be led to that decision. His text was the passage: "What must I do to be saved?" the question which the gaoler at Phillipi put to Paul and Silas in prison. Mr. Crossley said he would discuss several features of this question as they suggested themselves to him. It was both a personal and necessary question, and an intelligent question, requiring the operation of the highest intelligence in order that the unsaved may see the folly and absurdity of deferring it.

The trio here sang "Behold what Manner of Love."

Again it was a very serious question, though some treated it carelessly and practically lived the lives of infidels. This question was also an answered one, for the reply comes: Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved. What is it to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ? An explanation of the saving grace would be vouchsafed when the anxious one was in a state of mind in which these three elements figured, namely, assent of the mind, consent of the will and trust of the heart. The latter was the natural outcome of the two former; for, as the thought dwelt upon the fact that the Lord is willing to save and that the seeker is anxious to be saved, belief will naturally and instinctively come and the sinner will yield his trust to God.

Then this answer was acted upon, and before morning the gaoler was saved, with all his house. How could people who say they don't believe in get around this? If they would only see what it is to be saved they could easily understand how the Lord can save a soul in an instant. God was willing to forgive sin and the instant one comes to the Lord and pleads for forgiveness it is granted and the seeking one is saved; all his sins are swept away. He urged sinners to make up their minds to not open it and they would be saved by the wondrous grace of God.

Again this question was an important one, for it was to save sinners from the consequences of sins in the other world and to fit them for this life. It would be seen how important it was by looking at the humiliation, agony and death which Jesus endured in order to bring about our salvation. Mr. Crossley's word-picture of Christ's sufferings was very touching.

Once again it was a present question, and he urged sinners to delay it no longer but avert the possibility of putting it off too late by deciding to answer it at once, like the gaoler of Phillipi, and be saved. Mr. Crossley closed with a song, the refrain of which was, "I've a Saviour who died for a sinner like thee."

Mr. Hunter brought the first meeting to a close with an appeal to the unconverted to decide the question at once, and quite a number stood up as announcing their determination to seek a change of heart.

The National Game.

The Riverside Lacrosse Club Re-organized for the Season.

It was a large and enthusiastic gathering of lacrosse men that assembled at the Phelan House last night to attend the annual meeting of the Riverside Lacrosse Club. There were about forty persons present, and all were highly enthusiastic over the prospects for the game this season. It is expected lacrosse will boom here this year as it has not since the days of the old Peterborough. The Riversides begin the season of 1889 under the most favorable auspices, with a very large membership, and the infusion of new and younger blood which will enable them to place on the field a team that will do credit to the town. The Shamrocks, a junior club with some splendid lacrosse talent which flourished in the south end last year, has been amalgamated with the Riversides, and at the meeting last night a number of the old Peterborough players were present and decided to take an interest in the club this year. All things considered the prospects are most encouraging.

Mr. Frank Fahrn was called to the chair and Mr. C. J. Phelan made secretary pro tem. The first business was the election of the following officers:

Hon. President—H. Calcutt.
President—W. A. Sanderson.
1st Vice-Pres.—E. Brown.
2nd Vice-Pres.—M. Halpin.
Sec.-Treas.—C. J. Phelan.
Captain—F. Barnon.
Field Captain—Jas. Coughlin.
Executive Committee—A. Rose, J. Begley, M. Halpin and F. Goyette.

Messrs F. Barnon and C. J. Phelan were appointed delegates to the annual convention of the C.L.A. at Niagara April 16th.

Other matters were discussed by the members. Practice will be begun on Riverside Park as soon as the ground is in fit condition.

The Trent Valley Canal.

In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Barron asked if the Trent Valley canal commissioners had reported; if not, when were they likely to do so, and if the Government were aware that one of the commissioners was away on a long visit to England. Sir John Macdonald said that no report had been received, and he did not think that there was any chance of the report being transmitted to Parliament this session. He was aware that one of the commissioners was now in England, but he could not tell what the length of his visit might be.

William Roberts, M. D., F. R. C. P., "Pregnancy is a fruitful cause of Bright's disease. The relative proportions of cases between the ages of 20 and 45, are 80 women to every 100 men, while after this period the mortality falls to 50 women to every 100 men." Women during pregnancy are especially liable to contract kidney disease, which if neglected will terminate in Bright's disease. Keep the kidneys active, and maintain a healthy flow of urine by the frequent use of Warner's Safe Cure during the period of pregnancy. It will keep the kidneys healthy and active.

THE ATTRACTION AT TURNBULL'S

Whatever the weather has been outside, it was the springiest of Springtime in our Store on Wednesday and Thursday last, when all the new Millinery and Millinery belongings were opened out of their close filling boxes. For the benefit of those who could not get in on those days, we will keep the display up all the first week in April.

Among the leading changes noticeable in the Trimming this season is LACE ENDS and SCARFS and LONG VEILS drawn in with Baby Ribbon at the bottom. Flowers and Ribbons are the leading Trimmings. The old fashioned hop that used to climb on the pole at the back door, is now found falling over the Black Lace Hats. Having struck a cheap line of Flowers (German make) the Germans copy the French designs and give us the Goods much cheaper. We have a Bouquet for everybody. Bunches of Roses in all colors only 35 c. each. Our Stock of CHILDRENS' TRIMMED HATS is unusually attractive. Sailor Hats in endless variety. We have not room to give them a front show. We were disappointed at not being able to show with the Millinery, the new JET CAPES and SILK VISETTES and TRIMMED DOLMANS, but there is time enough yet, and we expect them in on the first freight train. A fine assortment of Cloths in the order department. All hands at work as busy as bees in the workroom up stairs.

The DRESS GOODS Department is as lively as ever. A new line of Vigoreaux Cloth in 6 shades, 44 inches wide, at 60 cents, came in this week; a glance at it will tell you it is serviceable. With them came a new line of German Dress Cloth—we have shown nothing similar before; is just what any lady would fancy for a genteel Dress. Will show another new make next week.

Miss MERCIER is always pleased to help you with her advice as to length of Dress Pattern, Style of Making and Trimming, whether you wish to have it made by her or not.

KID GLOVES fresh from the hands of the maker in Austria, at 75c. and $1.00 a pair. This line we had in stock before, but the quantity was small and we only had a pair for a lady here and there.

CORSETS.—Spring brings changes and this one has brought one of the nicest makes of Corsets we have ever had. Large sizes for stout ladies always in Stock.

A DULL DAY IN THE HOUSE

NEARLY THE WHOLE SESSION SPENT IN SUPPLY.

Private Bills Passed—A Ministerial Explanation Seeking to Have the Welland Canal Closed on Sundays.

OTTAWA, March 29.—This was about the slowest day of the session, scarcely any interest being manifested in the proceedings. The whole day was spent in supply save when for an hour after recess private bills were considered.

The appropriations passed related to minor expenditures on public works throughout the Dominion and to the quarantine service. The discussion was participated in mainly by the Maritime Province members, save when the appropriations for the care of public buildings and grounds at Ottawa were being discussed, when the Rideau Hall expenditure came in for the annual criticism, and the promise was elicited that steps would be taken to have it better controlled and if possible curtailed.

These bills were considered in committee and read a third time and passed:

To incorporate the Saskatchewan Railway and Mining Company.—Mr. McCarthy.

To incorporate the Assiniboine Waterpower Company.—Mr. Ross.

Respecting the Wood Mountain and Qu'Appelle Railway Company.—Mr. Macdowall.

To incorporate the Moose Jaw and Edmonton Railway Company.—Mr. Macdowall.

To incorporate the Dominion Mineral Company.—Mr. Kirkpatrick.

To incorporate the Canadian Superphosphate Company.—Mr. Cathy.

The House sat until 11.45.

The Behring Sea Proclamation.

OTTAWA, March 29.—In the Senate today Senator Molines inquired if any steps had been taken by the Canadian Government with respect to the rights claimed by the United States in Behring Sea. He was informed that the matter was now under the consideration of the Government.

In the Commons yesterday Sir John Macdonald said he found he was misinformed when he stated the other day that the proclamation just issued by President Harrison respecting Behring Sea had been issued last year and the year before. He found that it issued under an act of Congress passed only this year and which required the annual issue of such proclamation.

A MINISTERIAL DEPUTATION.

Sir John Urged to Close the Welland Canal on Sundays.

OTTAWA, March 29.—Sir John Macdonald, who is acting as Minister of Railways and Canals, was in that capacity waited upon to-day by a deputation to urge the closing of the Welland Canal on Sundays. The deputation consisted of Rev. Mr. Burson of St. Catharines, representing the presbytery of Hamilton, and Rev. Drs. Moore and Armstrong of Ottawa. They were accompanied by Senators Vidal and Macdonald, Toronto, and Messrs Charlton, M.P., Brown, M.P., Rykert, M.P., and Ferguson, M.P. for Welland. Mr. Rykert introduced the deputation.

Rev. Mr. Burson represented that the present system under which the canal was kept open until 8 o'clock Sunday morning and opened again at 9 in the evening, had a most injurious effect upon the morals of the locality and practically kept a large number of men away from the churches. He pointed out that the number of vessels now passing through the canal on Sundays was much smaller than when the present system was inaugurated. Owing to the increased tonnage of the vessels the inconvenience caused by closing the canal would not be so great.

Sir John said he would have a report upon the matter made by the proper officer of his department.

MILITIA GENERAL ORDERS.

Appointments, Promotions and Resignations in Ontario Corps.

OTTAWA, March 29.—Militia General Orders No. 6 issued to-day contain several items of interest. Any graduate of the Royal Military College appointed lieutenant in the active militia may hereafter, if not an officer of the active militia corps, be promoted to the rank of captain, provided that within ten years from the date of his graduation he has performed at least five annual drills in a camp of exercise, attached temporarily as an officer to a corps of the active militia in camp. Under the new provision the first promotion is that of Lieut. E. W. Hubbell of Ottawa, now made captain.

Lieut.-Col. S. L. Bedson has been appointed an extra aide-de-camp to the Governor-General.

Captains Freer and Sears having left to join their respective regiments in the Imperial Army, are gazetted out of the Infantry School Corps. Captain R. L. Wadmore is gazetted as detached from C. Co., I.S.C., since March 29, 1888, and attached to D. Co.

Among other appointments, promotions and resignations in Ontario corps these are gazetted:

Durham Field Battery—To be captain, Second Lieut. W. P. Milligan, vice Edward Sanderson absent without leave from annual drill and failing to answer communication addressed to him by his commanding officer. To be second lieut. provisionally, Quartermaster-Sergt. Chas. James Snyder.

Governor-General's Foot Guards—To be lieutenant, T. M. Lambe, R. M. C.

Royal Grenadiers—To be second lieutenants provisionally, Stephen Augustus Heward, Archibald Hays Macdonnell.

Fourteenth Battalion—To be second lieutenants provisionally, William John Albert White, John Marshall.

Twentieth Halton Battalion—To be major, Captain and Brevet-Major John Kaiting from the adjutancy. To be captain of No. 2 Co., John Alexander Tracy, vice Captain W. P. Moore, who becomes captain of No. 3, vice Captain G. S. Goodvillier, now made adjutant.

Twenty-second Oxford Rifles—To be lieutenant provisionally, Charles Fox Yates, vice W. H. Bleakny, left the limits.

Thirty-second Bruce Battalion—To be lieutenant provisionally in No. 5 Co. Clarence Fewes Huyake.

Forty-third Battalion, Ottawa—To be majors, Captain Joshua Wright and Captain A. P. Sherwood. To be lieutenants in No. 1 Co., J. W. De C. O'Grady, E. D. Sutherland. To be captain of No. 2, Lieutenant C. M. Wright.

Forty-fifth West Durham Battalion—No. 3 Co., Bartonville, to be lieutenant provisionally, William Nasmith.

Ninety-sixth Algoma Rifles—To be major, Capt. F. H. Elliott from No. 1 Co. Sault; Lieut. D. T. Ferguson to be lieutenant of No. 3 Co. Lieut. G. A. Kebokjef from No. 3 Co. to be adjutant of the battalion.

Major T. P. Butler is appointed lieutenant-colonel commanding the First Prince of Wales Rifles of Montreal in succession to Lieut.-Col. Frank Bond, who retires retaining rank.

Hazel's Birthday.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Yesterday was the birthday of the queen of the trotting turf, Maud S. She is 10 years old, and from what her owner, Mr. Robert Bonner, says never looked better in her life. In a few days she will be taken up, and before the season is over it is very probable that she will be given an opportunity of beating her unrivaled record, 2.08¾.

THE GREAT COMMONER.

ENGLAND'S DEAD STATESMAN FITTINGLY EULOGIZED.

The Old Man Eloquent Pays a Glowing Tribute in the House of Commons to the Memory of John Bright.

LONDON, March 29.—The session of the House of Commons this evening was devoted to eulogies of John Bright. When Mr. W. H. Smith rose to speak all the members doffed their hats. Mr. Smith described Mr. Bright as a man of thorough honesty of purpose and great energy of character. If there was any defect in his character it was the intensity of his advocacy of the principles that he had adopted. If for a time he parted from his old associates under a strong sense of duty there was no trace of anger or of personal animosity left. He would go down to the grave followed by the affection and sorrow of the country.

Mr. Gladstone upon rising was received with cheers. He said: Mr. Bright has been to a very remarkable degree happy in the moment of his removal from among us. He lived to see the triumph of almost every great cause to which he specially devoted his heart and mind. He has established a special claim to the admiration of those from whom he differed through his long political life by marked concurrence with them upon the prominent and dominant question of the hour. [Hear! hear!] But though Mr. Bright came to be separated from the great bulk of the Liberals on the Irish question on no single occasion has there been any word of disparagement.

I acknowledge that I have not through my whole political life fully embraced the character of Mr. Bright and the value of that character to the country. I was one of those who did not agree with the particular views he and some of his friends took of the Crimean contest, but felt profoundly and never ceased to think what must have been the moral elevation of men who, nurtured all their lives in the temple of popular approval, could at a moment's notice consent to part with the whole of that favor they enjoyed, which opponents might think the very breath of their nostrils. [Hear! Hear!] They accepted undoubted unpopularity, for that war commanded the enormous approval of the people.

Amongst other gifts Mr. Bright was delighted to be one of the chief guardians of the purity of the English tongue. [Hear! hear!] He was enabled as an Englishman profoundly attached to his country, the tongue of the people being to him almost an object of worship, to preserve the purity of the language of Shakespeare and Milton. [Cheers.]

Everybody is aware that office had no attractions for him, but few can be aware what extra efforts were required to induce him to become a servant of the Crown. In the crisis of 1868 when the fate of the Irish church hung in the balance it was my duty to propose to Mr. Bright that he become a minister. I never undertook so difficult a task. From 11 o'clock at night until 1 o'clock in the morning we steadily debated the subject. It was only at the last moment that he found it possible to set aside the repugnance he felt at doing anything that might in the eyes of anyone, even of the more ignorant class of his countrymen, appear to detract in the slightest degree from that lofty independence of character which I have mentioned.

It was his happy lot to unite as many attractive qualities, if I had to dwell upon them alone I should present a dazzling picture to the world. It was a happier lot to teach moral lessons by simplicity, consistency, unfailing courage and consistency of life, thus presenting a combination of qualities that carried us to a higher atmosphere. [Hear! Hear!]

His sympathies were not strong only but active, not sympathies awaiting calls to be made upon them but sympathies of a man seeking objects upon which to bestow the inestimable advantages of eloquence and courage. In Ireland when support of the Irish cause was rare; in India when support of the native cause was rarer still; in America at the time when Mr. Bright, foreseeing the ultimate issue of the great struggle of 1861, stood as the representative of an exceedingly small portion of the educated community of the country, although undoubtedly representing a large part of the national sentiment—[hear! hear!]—in all these cases Mr. Bright went far outside the necessities of his calling. Whatever touched him as a man of the great Anglo-Saxon race, whatever touched him as a subject obtained unasked his sincere, earnest and enthusiastic aid. [Hear, hear!] All causes having his powerful advocacy made a distinct advance in the estimation of the world and distinct progress toward triumphant successes.

Thus it has come about that he is entitled to a higher eulogy than is due to success. Of mere success indeed he was a conspicuous example. In intellect he might claim a most distinguished place. But his character lies deeper than intellect, deeper than eloquence, deeper than anything that can be described or that can be seen upon the surface. The supreme eulogy that is his due is that he elevated political life to the highest point, to a loftier standard than it had ever reached.

His name is indelibly written in the annals of time and on the hearts of the great and ever-spreading race to which he belonged, whose wide extension he rejoiced to see and whose power and preminence he believed to be fruits of promise and glory for the best interests of mankind.

HOPEFUL FINANCIERS.

The London Stock Exchange Settlement Passes Without Trouble.

LONDON, March 29.—The Stock Exchange settlement passed without trouble. The feeling was generally far more hopeful, although misgivings continued regarding some of the French financial institutions.

In view of the impending prosecution by the Government of the Comptoir d'Escompte the directors of that bank are reported to be realising on their private property.

Strong efforts continue to be made in Parliament to induce the Government to legislate against syndicates. Mr. Smith, the Government leader in the House of Commons, has promised that if the proposals of the members are formulated he would consider them. It is stated that the paper syndicate has arranged for the purchase of all the English mills. Newspaper proprietors have consequently negotiated with foreign mills for their supplies. A large consignment of American paper has arrived.

Compromising With the Parnellites.

LONDON, March 29.—The Cabinet has decided to propose at the next session of Parliament a land purchase scheme for Ireland. The measure will be similar to the plan proposed by Mr. Chamberlain. The ministry has also resolved to introduce in 1891 an Irish local government bill. The measure provides for extensive changes in the management of internal affairs in Ireland.

The Week's Failures.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The business failures occurring throughout the country during the last seven days as reported to Dun, Wiman & Co., by telegraph number for the United States 204 and for Canada 36, a total of 240 as compared with 249 last week and 261 the week previous to the last. For the corresponding week of last year the figures were 223, made up of 196 in the United States and 27 in the Dominion of Canada.

THIS ROBBER HAD NERVE.

A DENVER BANK DONE OUT OF $21,000 IN BROAD DAYLIGHT.

The Thief Gets the "Drop" on the President and Has a Check Cashed in the Presence of a Score of Clerks.

DENVER, Col., March 29.—The boldest and most successful bank robbery ever reported in the west was perpetrated upon the First National Bank this afternoon. Yesterday morning a well-dressed man with light mustache and complexion and of medium height walked into the bank and asked where he could see Mr. Moffatt, president of the bank. He was told he could see Mr. Moffatt, who is also Railway, at his office in the Cheesman president of the Denver & Rio Grande Block. This morning the stranger entered the railway office and asked to see Mr. Moffatt on important business. He was admitted to his private room and stated that he had discovered a conspiracy whereby the bank was to be robbed of a large sum. Mr. Moffatt being very busy asked the man to meet him at his private office at 1 o'clock. A few minutes after the bear appointed he called at the bank and was shown into the President's office. Remaining standing he inquired if Cashier S. N. Wood was in and was told that he was at lunch. He then asked for a blank check for the purpose of showing how the robbery was to be perpetrated. He laid the check upon the desk in front of Mr. Moffatt and said, "I will have to do this myself," and pulling out a large revolver placed it at Mr. Moffatt's head and in an earnest but unexcited manner said:

"I want $21,000 and am going to have it. I have considered this matter and the chances I am running and the consequences if I fail and am arrested. I am penniless and a desperate man, and have been driven during the past week to that point where I have considered suicide as the only means to escape from the poverty and misery in which I exist. You have millions, I am determined to have what I have asked for. If you make a noise or call a man or ring a bell I will blow your brains out and then blow up the building and myself with this bottle of glycerine," which at that moment he pulled out of another pocket. "Now take your choice."

Mr. Moffatt started to argue with the man but he was stopped with the information that it was no use and that he had but two minutes in which to fill out the check before him for $21,000, if he desired to live. Mr. Moffatt seeing no other alternative filled out the check and was ordered to take it to the paying teller and get it cashed. Mr. Moffatt left his office and with the man behind him with the revolver partially concealed under his overcoat and with the muzzle almost against Mr. Moffatt's back, marched behind the counter up to Paying Teller Keeley with the request that the check be immediately cashed. They then remarched into Moffatt's office without attracting the attention of the fifteen or twenty clerks who were at work within two feet of where they passed.

After they had remained in the private office three or four minutes the robber informed Mr. Moffatt that they were wasting time and that he had better step to the door and motion his teller to come to him, which he did. Mr. Moffatt instructed the teller to bring the money into his office and as the teller turned to go away the robber told him he wanted 20 $1000 bills and $1000 in gold. The money was brought in and handed to the robber, who, waiting until the teller had reached his desk, backed out to the front door making Mr. Moffatt remain standing in his door until he had reached the curb stone. He then raised his hand, walked around the corner and has not yet been heard off. Mr. Moffatt is completely prostrated with the shock. Detectives are out after the man but no trace of him has been found.

WHITECAPS IN MORRISBURG.

They Are Appeased by a Small Sum of Money—Attempted Murder.

MORRISBURG, March 29.—Last night about 8.30 the vicinity of the Town Hall, which is occupied by the Salvation Army, was the scene of considerable excitement. A man named William Prunner drew a revolver and deliberately fired at Frank Beckstead as he passed him a few yards distant. The bullet barely missed Beckstead's head. Beckstead turned and grappling with Prunner took the pistol away. Afterwards Prunner went into the Salvation Army meeting as if nothing had occurred. Prunner had some spite against Beckstead. No steps have been taken to arrest him for the attempt at murder.

Another fracas took place about 11 p.m. at the Farmers' Hotel, when a mob of about 25, self-styled "Whitecaps," demanded the surrender of a man named Worbern, accused of wholesale blackmailing, who had taken refuge in the hotel. The doors were locked on the crowd but afterwards a compromise was effected by the alleged blackmailer handing out $15 to appease the mob. This had the desired effect and the crowd divided the spoils.

The Medal and Prize Winners at the Ontario College.

TORONTO, March 30.—The annual distribution of prizes and honors to graduates of the Ontario Veterinary College took place yesterday morning in Temperance Hall. The President, Dr. Andrew Smith, V.S., was in the chair, and he and others made happy speeches. Diplomas were awarded to the graduating class, which numbered 125. These gentlemen took the medals and prizes:

In Pathology: Silver medal, J. E. Duncan; second, E. Stenge, H. H. Jenkins (equal); third, F. M. Hopkins, J. D. Nighbert (equal).

In Anatomy: Silver medal, E. Stenge; second, H. H. Jenkins; third, J. E. Duncan.

In Entozoa: First, H. H. Jenkins and E. Richardson (equal).

EAST RIDING FARMERS.

The Second Meeting of the Institute, at Keene.

Large Attendance—Earnest Interest Exhibited—Various Subjects Vigorously Discussed.

MARCH 26th, 1889.

The following is the continuation of our report from yesterday's EXAMINER.

MIXED FARMING.

Mr. DAWSON KENNEDY, President of the West Riding Institute, read a paper on the above subject. Some farmers were naturally suited to some particular department, but mixed husbandry, with our varied soil and uncertain seasons, was the most suitable for the average farmer. The tendency of farmers to go largely into what was a good crop the previous year, was not a good one. Crops were variable in their yield, some good one year and some another; this showed the importance of growing something of all every year. A suitable rotation of crops such as could receive due attention, was advisable. To make farming pay, the general expenses should be reduced as much as possible. Put the tillage of 30 acres on ten, and thus save expense of seed, etc. What applied to grain applied to other crops. The farmer who knew his business, will only grow such crops as are suitable to his soil. Whatever variation might be adopted, farmers must grow clover on every field of the farm, some every year. Where clover grows any other crop can be grown. Three things were needed on our farms—

CLOVER, AND CLOVER, AND CLOVER.

Mr. BLEASARD admitted the great value of clover, but the trouble was to get a catch and next to keep it in the soil. He thought clover turned under was a most valuable manure. He was of the opinion that underdraining would be good for clover. He thought eight pounds per acre was enough to sow.

Mr. R. HONEY had found by experiment that sowing clover alone was not satisfactory. He had got best results where barnyard manure had been plentifully applied.

Mr. KENNEDY gave an instance of a barren farm being renovated through ploughing under millet.

The CHAIRMAN said his practice had been to draw his manure fresh out from the yard and spread it on the ground.

Prof. ROBERTSON said that the way to prevent loss was to apply gypsum to retain the ammonia. Manure for side hills should be put in form of top-dressing in the spring after the crop is in.

SHEEP RAISING.

Mr. R. HONEY said that every farmer should keep a few sheep, and good ones at that. Every farm had dry pastures where sheep alone would thrive. Sheep would consume some crops which could not be used for other stock. Peas were good for feeding sheep—a bushel of pulped turnips with pea straw would feed twelve sheep—add a little grain before yeaning. Bulldogs not warm enough for other stock would do for sheep. Sheep yielded the greatest profit for the investment. He thought the best kind of sheep for improving the kind of common sheep was the Cotswold. The Leicester was placed next, but could be improved by mixing with Cotswold. For practical use the Leicester and Cotswold mixed gave the best sheep for Canada. Mr. Honey went on to show the superiority of the Cotswold over the downs and grew very warm on the subject.

The Evening Session.

Crowded is no name to express the condition of the hall at the evening session. Entertainment was combined with instruction. The former consisted of songs by the Glee Club, and by Mr. J. C. Brown, "St. Patrick's Day," and Mr. R. Birdsall recited well Tennyson's dialect poem, "The Yorkshire Farmer." He also recited another selection, and Miss Moore and Mr. Pellbank gave an instrumental duet. Altogether the entertainment part of the programme was of a high order and a credit to the friends of agriculture in Keene and vicinity.

Mr. J. C. BROWN gave an address on Agricultural Education similar to that given at the several institutes.

Prof. ROBERTSON also dealt with that subject. He urged farmers to take enlarged views of the necessity and importance of education, and the importance of making home bright and cheerful. Farmers should be given a real as well as a sentimental interest in the farm and farm operations. The school curriculum should embrace subjects with a practical bearing on farming. Boys should be taught to be something as well as to learn something.

Dr. HARRISON gave an interesting illustrated talk on the composition of milk with stereoscopticon views. He also showed illustrations of the different kinds of cows with explanatory remarks by Prof. Robertson.

Prof. ROBERTSON'S address on "Buttermaking" was prefaced with an explanation of the formation of milk. Necessary conditions to good milk were a good cow, provided with plenty of good food, salt daily and access to pure water. Kind and gentle treatment of the cow was also important. To get all the cream, milk should be put in the pan at ninety degrees. Reference was made to the immense loss in butter production from ignorance of the correct way of making it. Cream properly soured had a butter making power of about twenty per cent. over sweet cream. Every farmer's wife should have a thermometer. Cream should be churned at a temperature of about 57 to 60 degrees. Cows to be profitable should be worked to their full capacity,—at least ten months in the year. Summer should be devoted to cheese making and the winter to butter making.

The usual vote of thanks and "God Save the Queen," brought one of the most successful meetings of the Institute to a close.

NOTES

The management of the East Riding Institute introduced handsome silk badges of membership at their last meeting.

Large additions to the membership was made at the meeting.

The press has to thank the president for unusual and much appreciated courtesies.

Prof. Robertson says a herring box is emptiness itself compared to the packed condition of the hall on Tuesday night.

SURG. GEN. WOODWARD, U. S. Army, says of the results of chronic malarial poisoning: "Disorder of the kidneys frequently complicates the condition under consideration. Scanty, more or less albuminous urine is often observed, and those cases not infrequently terminate in chronic Bright's disease, with confirmed albuminuria, oedema or general anasarca." What at first is recognized as malaria is subsequently found to be Bright's disease, which Warner's Safe Cure Cures.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning gray, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

MR. McCARTHY'S TWO LETTERS.

Complimented by Bishop Potter of New York—An Unknown Admirer.

OTTAWA, March 29.—Mr. Dalton McCarthy to-day received a curious epistle from Boston, Mass., elicited no doubt by his speech delivered on Wednesday on the motion for the disallowance of the Jesuits Estates Act. In a large bold mercantile hand, abounding in flourishes and the platitudes of which makes the orthographical weaknesses painfully apparent, Mr. McCarthy's unknown correspondent thus relieves himself:

BOSTON, March 23.

MR. DALTON MCCARTHY: You mean, contemptible renegade, traitor to your nationality and your religion. Vile, dirty creature. Be exiled or else ——— Yours AN ADMIRER.

This message of hate was written upon the fly leaf of a sheet of letter paper, stamped upon the corner of which was a dove, the manufacturers' trade mark, but singularly inappropriate in the present instance.

Mr. McCarthy has received also a letter at once more noteworthy and pleasant, this being from Bishop Potter, Anglican Bishop of New York, warmly complimenting him upon his speech and endorsing the stand taken in it.

CAPITAL GOSSIP.

Hon. Mr. Pope's Illness—Echoes of the Steallowance Vote.

OTTAWA, March 29.—It is understood that Sir John Macdonald will go to England during the coming summer. The Premier's cottage at River du Loup is being "fixed up" and it is said Lady Macdonald will put in the heated term at that cool resort.

To-morrow morning a number of citizens of Ottawa will assemble at the new Parliamentary Block in Wellington-street to present an address and testimonial to Sir Hector Langevin, Minister of Public Works, in commemoration of the 25th anniversary of his becoming a Minister of the Crown, which was on March 29, 1864.

Five Orangemen voted for the O'Brien resolution out of sixteen Orangemen in the House.

Mr. Kirkpatrick's bill providing for redistributing in wrecking cases to grief in the Senate yesterday. When it came up for second reading Senator McMillan moved the six months' hoist. Senators Sanborn and Macdonald (Toronto) opposed the amendment, while Senators Flint and Read supported it on the ground that the bill was an attack on the National Policy. The six months' hoist was carried, 34 to 24.

A number of the parliamentary friends of Mr. George Moffat, M.P., met yesterday afternoon in the tower room to present that gentleman, who is about to return home for a period, with a token of their esteem and admiration for him. The subscribers came from both sides of politics. Mr. Temple occupied the chair and Mr. Choquette was called upon to act as secretary. The presentation was made by Mr. Adam Brown, who handed to Mr. Moffat three handsome pipes contained in a morocco case and also a neat gold locket with his name engraved upon it. Mr. Brown made a complimentary speech expressing the kindly sentiments entertained towards Mr. Moffat. Speeches were also made by Messrs. Bergeron and Labelle. Mr. Moffat made a feeling reply.

A meeting of the Public Accounts Committee was held this morning, when Senator Sanford was examined in regard to his militia clothing contracts. He testified that since 1886 his firm got the work without any tender.

It is rumored that Mr. Charles Carroll Colby, M.P. for Stanstead, will succeed Hon. J. A. Chapleau as Secretary of State, Mr. Chapleau becoming Minister of Railways.

The excitement over the fate of the O'Brien resolutions is intense. The Orangemen will hold a mass meeting Monday night to organize a national defence fund to test the validity of the act in the courts.

Dr. Osler, the celebrated physician of Philadelphia, last night held a consultation with Drs. Wright and Powell, of this city, upon the case of Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Railways, who is still very low. After a careful diagnosis Dr. Osler expressed the opinion that the case was not hopeless, although serious internal troubles existed. Mr. Pope was considered in a critical condition yesterday, but was much better to-day.

Extraordinary License.

"It seems to me," remarked one of our citizens the other day, "that physicians are allowed extraordinary license in the manner in which they juggle with the welfare of their patients."

"Now here is Dr.——who was attending Mr.——up to the time of his death, and if he treated him for one thing he treated him for a dozen different disorders. First the doctor said pneumonia was the trouble; then it was consumption. Then the patient was dosed for heart trouble, and so on until just before he died it was ascertained that disease of the kidneys was the real trouble, and that which had been at first treated as pneumonia, consumption heart disease, etc., were but the symptoms of kidney disease.

"But then it was too late.

"This is only one case in a hundred, and I am beginning to lose faith in the doctors altogether. In fact I haven't had any need for their services since I began to keep Warner's Safe Cure in my house, a little over three years ago. Whenever I feel a little out of sorts I take a few doses of it, confident that the source of disease is in the kidneys, which I know Warner's Safe Cure will keep in good order, and will eradicate any disease that may be lurking there. Had Mr.——followed a similar course, I have no doubt that he would be alive to-day; but of course all people don't think alike.

"One thing is certain, however, and that is the doctors are allowed a little too much freedom in the way they have of pretending to know that which they really know nothing about. If they don't know what is the real trouble with the patient, they should admit it and not go on and experiment at the cost of the patient's life."

Eczema, Itchy, Scaly Skin Tortures.

The simple application of "Swayne's Ointment," without any internal medicine, will cure any case of Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Piles, Itch, Sores, Pimples, Eczema, all Scaly Itching Skin Eruptions, no matter how obstinate or long standing. It is potent, effective, and costs but a trifle. Lyman, Sons & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents. dw

DISEASED BLOOD

Scrofulous, Inherited and Contagious Humors Cured by Cuticura.

Through the medium of one of your books received through Mr. Frank T. Wray, druggist, Apollo, Pa., I have become acquainted with your CUTICURA REMEDIES, and take this opportunity to testify to you that their use has permanently cured me of one of the worst cases of blood poisoning, in connection with rheumatism, that I have ever seen, and this after having been pronounced incurable by some of the best physicians in our county. I take great pleasure in forwarding you this testimonial, unsolicited as it is by you, in order that others suffering from similar maladies may be encouraged to give your CUTICURA REMEDIES a trial. SCROFULOUS ULCERS.

James R. Richardson, Custom House, New Orleans, on oath says: "In 1879 Scrofulous Ulcers broke out on my body until I was a mass of corruption. Everything known to the medical faculty was tried in vain. I became a mere wreck. At times could not lift my hands to my head, could not turn in bed; was in constant pain, and looked upon life as a curse. No relief or cure in ten years. In 1880 I heard of the CUTICURA REMEDIES, used them and was perfectly cured."

Sworn to before U. S. Com. J. D. CRAWFORD.

ONE OF THE WORST CASES.

We have been selling your CUTICURA REMEDIES for years, and have the first complaint yet to receive from a purchaser. One of the worst cases of Scrofula I ever saw was cured by the use of five bottles of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, CUTICURA, and CUTICURA SOAP. The Soap takes the "cake" here as a medicinal soap.

We are pleased to learn that Master Harry Ford, son of our respected townsman Dr. S. P. Ford, who has been so very ill, is on the mend.

Rev. Father Dubis, of Peterborough, is conducting the services in the R. C. church during Father Conway's illness.

It was announced in the different churches on Sunday last that the Rev. W. Burns, of Millbrook, and the Rev. M. L. Pearson, of Peterborough, would deliver a lecture in the town hall on Thursday evening, 28th inst., in behalf of the Scott Act.

W. H. Mallins is asking for tenders for the erection of two stores on Peterborough street, east of W. H. Stephenson's.

We are pleased to see that Father Conway is able to be around again.

The regular monthly meeting of the Norwood building and savings Society has been postponed until Tuesday evening April 2nd, as the I.O.O.F., is holding a concert in the hall on Friday evening.

The farmers around this section are preparing for their spring work; they say the soil is almost arable now.

The Oddfellows of Norwood have a grand entertainment in the Town Hall to-night. Messrs. Nugent and Hendry will render "Lochiel's Warning" in costume.

The young ladies of Norwood are cooperating with the Lacrosse Club of Norwood in the preparation of an entertainment on April 12th.

Benefort.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Our Literary Society completed the winter term of their meetings by a friendly, jolly wind-up on Monday evening, 18th inst., in the form of an oyster supper.

The bridge floated away on Friday, 22nd, for good, that is, the ice one. The other will not likely be moved with any freshets of the season. The former was well used during the winter for about one month only, and was generally considered unsafe, as compared with that of some previous winters.

The movement west is nearly equal to the rapid advancement of the season. Mr. W. Dodds left on Tuesday, 26th inst., for Winnipeg. After a short stay there he will join friends out on the prairie, and prospect during the summer. Messrs. T. Trascott and F. Deyell, with others, also went a few weeks ago.

The result of the challenge between the Beaufort and Centreville Literary Societies, to a friendly debate, was given by the chairman, Dr. Ough, in favor of the former. Subject: Resolved, that nature, studied, tends more to development than education does. The meeting was held at Centreville, in the agricultural hall, on Tuesday evening, 19th inst., and after preliminaries were fixed was well conducted. The contestants were Messrs. J. Riddell, J. Stevens and A. Emberson vs. Messrs. E. Ball, A. Laing and T. Donaldson. It was whispered also that the bulk of opinion favored down east fully as well as the number of points counted.

The Millbrook Reporter says:—This week Mr. Andrew Oliver, who has been clerking for R. Howell, left for Peterborough, where he has received a more lucrative position with Mr. W. J. Morrow. We have no doubt his services will be fully appreciated by his new employer. The baseball club will lose one of its best players and most active members. We wish him success.

Millbrook is already preparing to celebrate the Queen's Birthday. A Maypole dance is among the features proposed. It is under the auspices of the firemen.

Mr. Ira Nobman has purchased the butcher business of Mr. Wm. Carruth, Millbrook.

Shrewd Advertisers.

Readers of the newspapers of the day cannot fail to be impressed with the fact that the modern advertiser is progressive.

The value of printers' ink judiciously employed cannot be overestimated; it is the medium whereby a meritorious discovery is raised from local fame to a position in the public esteem. Hence the columns of the newspapers are daily used by hosts of advertisers, and in the competition which is indulged in to attain the desired end, the reader is oftentimes amazed.

The greatest of American advertisers, and it may be said in the world, is H. H. Warner, of Rochester, N. Y., whose name has been made even more familiar in connection with Warner's Safe Cure, widely advertised because of its merit in the prevention and cure of kidney diseases.

By printers' ink this great discovery has achieved world-wide popularity and thousands feel grateful for the knowledge thus acquired of this greatest of modern remedies.

Furthermore, the public has been taught that disorders of the lungs, brain, heart and liver which have hitherto been regarded and treated by the profession as distinctive diseases are not so in fact, but are the attending symptoms of disease of the kidneys; therefore the consumptive, the apoplectic, the paralytic, and the sufferer from nervous disorders can be restored to health by Warner's Safe Cure, which will remove the true cause by restoring the kidneys to healthy action.

The advertising methods employed by this greatest of advertisers are invariably instructive and, although the reader may sometimes be "caught" in reading an advertisement, which was not at first supposed to be such, there is nevertheless no time lost since useful information is invariably gained concerning life's great problem.

The Safe Plan.

When suffering from a troublesome cold, a hacking cough, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, or other forms of throat or lung troubles, is to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam to loosen the phlegm and soothe and heal the inflamed mucous surfaces. It cures where others fail. 2w14d

COLD wet weather is very hard on sufferers from Neuralgic troubles, and to those, Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine is strongly recommended. It is palatable, easily assimilated, and can be safely taken by the weakest invalid. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

AN INACTIVE or Torpid Liver must be aroused and all bad bile removed. Burdock Pills are best for old or young. dw

HUNTINGDAN OUTLAW.

Deputation of the Sergeant Officers in Search of Desmond Morrison.

MONTREAL, March 29.—The absorbing topic in police circles to-day was the expedition to capture Donald Morrison, the Lake Magantic murderer. During the day the constables going on the expedition were practising at the target in the cellars of the City Hall. The carbines were carefully cleaned and oiled.

The expedition assembled at the Windsor-street depot in the afternoon, there being Sergeants Clarke, Leggett and Watson and 12 constables. Each man is armed with a carbine and fifty rounds of ammunition. The party is accompanied by Dr. Trombly of the Police Court clerical staff, who will take the deposition.

The destination of the party is Springfield near Lake Magantic. Detectives Carpenter and Campbell and a constable were sent on two days ago to spy out the land. Sub-Chief Lapointe leaves for the scene of the investigation this afternoon, where he will take command of the police detachment. Judge Dugas goes, he says, simply in his magisterial capacity and will hold an enquete with the object of bringing aiders and abettors of Morrison to justice and if possible Morrison himself.

"R. A. GUNN, M. D., Dean, and Professor of Surgery, of the United State Medical College; Editor of "Medical Tribune;" Author of "Gunn's New Improved Hand-book of Hygiene and domestic Medicine," in referring to the use of Warner's Safe Cure in a case of Bright's disease said, over his own signature: "I was greatly surprised to observe a decided improvement within a month. Within four months, no tube casts could be found, and only a trace of albumen; and, as he expressed it, he felt perfectly well. After this demonstration of its power, I prescribed it in full doses in both acute and chronic Bright's disease, with the most satisfactory results."

Imitation

is sometimes called the sincere form of flattery. This may account for the number of imitations of the original and only positive corn cure—Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor. All such fail to possess equal merit, so see when purchasing get the genuine "Putnam's." Safe, sure and painless. All druggists. 6w12d

Piles! Piles! Itching Piles.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture, intense itching and stinging, most at night, worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulcerations, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. A Cure for Lumbago.

That painful complaint can be quickly cured by the right remedy. Miss Mary Jane Could, of Stoney Creek, Ont., says: "I was troubled with lumbago, and could not get relief until I used Hagyard's Yellow Oil, one bottle of which cured me entirely." 2w14d are seen on the heads of all who use

GREAT HAIR MAGIC.

The equal of this great preparation is yet to be found. It is an unfailing Restorer for grey hair—it stops all falling out of the hair—it removes all dandruff and keeps the scalp clean. On bald heads (if there are but the faintest traces of roots) the Magic will produce a fine growth. Will you try it? Or will you let your hair go, and become prematurely old? What do you say? All druggists everywhere have it for sale. Ask for it. Do n't let the druggist tell you he has something just as good—many have dead stock of other hair tonics on hand and try to shove them off in this way.

See that each bottle bears seal and signature:

SPRING. 1889.

Millinery Opening

HALL, INNES & Co.

Have pleasure in announcing that their Show Rooms will be fully open for the season on TUESDAY and WEDNESDAY, 2nd and 3rd April, with a Large and Full Display of Spring Millinery, including Pattern Bonnets and Hats, direct from Paris, Ribbons, Flowers, Feathers, Ornaments, Mantles, Dolmans, Jackets, Beaded Visites, Tuscas, Scabrieuse, &c. Our show rooms are now in charge of MISS WALKER, (who for years held one of the best positions in Hamilton), whom we can confidently recommend as in every way thoroughly competent, and to superintend this large and important branch of our business.

A cordial invitation extended to all to call and inspect our novelties in all departments. Remember the date—Tuesday and Wednesday, 2nd and 3rd April.

Searching for the Body.

As time passes and spring advances a search for the body of Mr. Wm. Cee, who is supposed to have been drowned during the winter, is being made, but as yet without success. The river is clear of ice but on the Lake there is still a large quantity.

Farm Sold.

Mr. Wm. Ferguson, of High Park, North Monaghan, has sold his farm, (the old Braley farm), to Mr. J. C. Williamson, of Ballyduff. Mr. Ferguson will have an auction sale of his farm stock on the 9th of April. He will remove his family to town.

ALL THE LATEST NOVELTIES will be displayed at Hall, Innes & Co's Spring Opening, on Tuesday, Wednesday, April 2nd and 3rd, to which all are respectfully invited. 4d72

The Talk of the Town.

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 18 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

A Notable Millinery Opening.

The ladies are particularly reminded of the millinery opening of Mr. W. W. Johnston, which will be held on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, 3rd, 4th and 5th of April, when the most striking and attractive millinery novelties will be open for inspection. The millinery department is in charge of Miss Buckley, a lady with large experience and excellent taste, whose services the ladies of Peterborough are sure to appreciate. Remember the dates of opening, April 3rd, 4th and 5th. 1d1w

The Model Husband

Is the one who sometimes thinks of his wife's pleasure and comfort as well as his own. The average husband is not very much at home, and what or comfort, elegance, refinement and enjoyment he receives there he owes to his wife, who spends her time at home—her kingdom. When a wife asks her husband for new furniture, greatly needed, he too often replies: "O its good enough for me. I guess I can stand it. Go to, thou selfish wretch; Have you no thought beyond yourself? Just think that your faithful wife, spends her whole time amongst ricketty furniture. Think how she brushes it up, rearranges it and makes every shift to give it a respectable look. Think how she blushes through and through as she sees her callers tilt their noses in contempt at the antiquated shabbiness, you think good enough for you. Shame on you; Make amends. Get your faithful, hard-working, patient wife the set of furniture she wants, and go to Bellegham's Furniture Warerooms for it. Here you will find the largest stock and the choicest assortment of first class furniture of every description and style, and all of the best quality of its kind. All made from thoroughly seasoned wood and finished in the best style. Now, ye careless husbands, make your wife happy, make your home bright and cheerful. Remember that Bellegham's is the best place, and the only place, where you can get anything you want in the line of furniture and at reasonable prices. Act at once!

A Screed on March.

MARCH 28, 1889.

'Tis the last days of March, but it sticks fast as starch—
From the iced eids of Greenland it blows.
Like a lamb it came in—its exit makes us grin—
With the roars of a lion it goes.
The frost, snow and wind seem in fierceness combined
Just to give us the finishing storm;
Keep on your winter clothes—wipe the drop from your nose,
Or it will to an icicle form.

MARCH 29, 1889.

To-day repents nothing that yesterday did;
Still the wind from the north-west it blows;
The clouds hang in gloom, while the sun it is hid—
Water must freeze above, for it snows.

March, blow your cold breath with your fast dying chime,
And exhaust all your fierce, bitter store;
But a very few days and the zero hand of Time
Shall lay you with your namesakes of yore.
—WM. TELFORD.

MARCH 30TH.

O, March, thou maddest, muddiest month,
Give us a rest;
And, as expressed
By lisping girl at school, "at oath."
PRINTER'S DEVIL.

Church Chimes.

Rev. Mr. Crossley preaches in the Baptist Church Sunday morning, and Rev. Mr. Hunter in the Mark Street Church, Ashburnham.

LAYMEN'S evangelistic services for to-morrow are as follows:—Jail, 9.30 a.m.; Protestant Home, 2 p.m.; Nazan, 4 p.m. All are invited.

All seats free in the evening; strangers and all others heartily welcome to the church at all times. Ushers on duty: Messrs. F. E. Bell, J. H. Burnham, F. Ciementi and W. English.

News Nuggets.

—The town council meets Monday night.

—There was a large market to-day. Maple syrup sold at $1.25 per gallon.

—The annual meeting of the Otonabee canoe club will be held next Friday night.

—The Peterborough bicyclists are to be invited to the meeting of the Ottawa bicycle club on May 24th.

—Mr. J. J. Turner has just returned from Picton, where he took over twenty orders for tents and awnings. He is now so busy with spring work that he had to refuse several orders for sails, etc. Turner sent a set of awnings to Wyatt & Turner's branch store in Lindsay this week.

Personal.

Mr. Thomas Donnelly, of Belleville, formerly of Peterborough, is in town to-day.

Mrs. Thos. Mason, of Hamilton, and Mrs. J. C. Lander, of Toronto, are in town the guests of Mr. E. C. Hill.

Messrs. A. G. Whittier, James Clark, and H. G. Bleecker have been appointed Masons commissioners for West Hastings.

Auburn.

At the Baptist Sunday School, Auburn, a temperance "Service of Song" will be given by the Band of Hope. The chair will be taken at 3 p.m. by Geo. Hilliard, Esq., ex-M.P. All are invited, irrespective of their views on the Scott Act, to-morrow afternoon.

OVER 700 IN FOUR WEEKS.

The Number Gone Forward at the Revival Meetings.

Last of the Services in St. Paul's Church —Mr. Hunter on "The New Birth"— Mr. Crossley Propounds a Question, What Shall I do With Jesus?

The fourth week of the evangelistic services is over, and it was announced last night that the Secretary had the names of over 700 seekers who had come forward in that time. Mr. Hunter said he believed the most of them were converted, too. He said they hoped to reach the 800 before the close of last night's service.

Next week will be the last full week of the evangelistic services, as Messrs. Crossley and Hunter go to Woodstock during the week following.

THE NEW BIRTH.

Mr. Hunter read the story of Nicodemus, as contained in the 3rd chapter of John. Referring to the passage, "That which is flesh is flesh," he said there was a good deal of proud flesh in some people, for many of them were so proud they would not go into the enquiry room. He advised them to remove the scales from their eyes. In this chapter, Mr. Hunter said, the doctrine, "Ye must be born again," was emphasized. It was necessary to be born again because there was no happiness away from God. What was the new birth? It was not baptism nor confirmation nor in joining the church. It meant a change of heart which would induce a change of life. In his younger days Mr. Hunter said he remembered when the sectarian fence was so high that the various churches did not recognize each other, but now it was becoming so low that they were all coming together. The ministers were not preaching the church, but Christ. Mr. Hunter likened the church to an army moving in companies to victory, over and above all floating the flag of Christ. The Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Methodists and Baptists each had their captains but all were fighting under the one Commander. He urged the people of all denominations to get together and work unitedly for the Master. Doing penance was not the new birth either. What was it then? It was receiving and believing God. The love for God could no more be explained than the love of a parent for his child, but the love was none the less real. It was all mysterious to Nicodemus. The last verse, the most beautiful one in the Bible and the one that led the most to Christ, Mr. Hunter said, contained the whole gospel: "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life." It was:—

GOD OFFERING
PARDON AND ETERNAL
LIFE.

In conclusion he urged the unconverted to accept the Lord and experience the new birth.

THE REQUESTS.

Mr. Crossley said the meaning of gospel was "the good news," and he and Miss Wrighton appropriately sang "The Glad Message."

Before bowing their heads in prayer for the special requests, Mr. Hunter read a letter asking prayer on behalf of a drunkard who was in the church, that he might be led to Christ.

A PERSENT QUESTION.

The text of Mr. Crossley's address was a question that he said everyone must answer for himself. It had been answered wrongly by a great many, and it must be answered by everyone in the congregation before they left the church. On it depended their eternal future. It was in Matt., xxvii, 22: "What shall I do then with Jesus, which is called Christ." Actions, Mr. Crossley said, spoke louder than words, and every action of man indicated what his decision was. So it was with reference to this question. He took up some of the decisions made, and commented thereon. Some say in reply that they will not receive Jesus; or, if they don't say it, in not making any decision they virtually decide against Him. The latter was the easiest attitude, but he urged the people not to live in that way, and show that while not prepared to say it, yet they would not cut their decision of not receiving Jesus. Then others say in their hearts, "I will reject Him." They have convictions which are roused by Jesus, but in stifling these promptings of the spirit they practically reject Christ. Like Peter, some denied Christ. Christians deny the Lord by going to questionable places or engaging in questionable pursuits; the backslider too has denied Him; and those under conviction by not coming forward at these meetings and taking a stand for Christ have denied that they feel His spirit. But though these had [illegible] Him, they had only to look to Jesus and be

RESTORED AND SAVED.

Some again said, we will desert Him, as the disciples did. Some Christians and the backsliders, and those who were not following the Lord closely, have forsaken Him for a time, but like the disciples he hoped it would be [illegible] only, and that they would soon return. But there were others who "walked no more with Him," and these were like the unsaved, who have been staggered by some things they could not understand, or have otherwise been led to a determination to abandon Christianity, and they have deserted the Lord. But Jesus treats those who desert Him with compassion and invites them to return to Him. Mr. Crossley urged such persons to abandon the thought or practice of deserting God, for what would they do without Him at the hour of death or at the judgment bar? Then, like Judas, some sold and betrayed the Lord into the hands of His enemies. When Christians did things against their conscience or during the excitement of an election forget that they are Christians, they sell and betray Jesus. The unsaved also sold and betrayed the Lord, for those very things they were quibbling about, questioning must I give up this and that, are the very things for which they sell the Lord. Or they sell the Lord for a questionable business or for questionable practices in business. They should not ask these questions or try to drive a bargain, but ask, "what must I do to be saved?" It is more often the little things of life that keep persons from God than the more important. But like Judas, those who sold or betrayed the Lord would rue the day they ever did it. Mr. Crossley urged them to throw the arms of affection around Jesus, and sooner die than sell or betray him. Others again try to shirk the responsibility by seeking in the conduct of others. But what had that to do with the Lord? He had been true to them and they should be true to Him, though there were objectionable people in the church. Some excuse themselves on the ground that they have not Christian surroundings; so much the more reason why they should be saved and exert a Christianizing influence. The excuse that there were so many hypocrites in the church was another one by which some sought to shirk their responsibility. But the faults of others was no excuse; this was a personal matter. The Lord says, "What is that to thee? Follow thou me." The last answer some people made to the question was, "I'll receive Him." But just here some say, "I can hardly call myself a child of faith." Now if these can only in their hearts say, "I am anxious to receive Him," and think, "Well, now, the Lord is willing to receive me, why should I not be saved?" they would be saved. One becomes a child of God by believing and trusting on Him. Believing that the Lord will receive you and that you are willing to receive Him, there is no hindrance to your becoming a child of God. Some complain that they have no feeling but that is because they don't receive Him, for as soon as they receive Him, and get their minds off their feelings and their faith and think rather of the object of their faith and feelings, instinctively they will receive Him and then will they be conscious that "I am the Lord's and He is mine." In conclusion Mr. Crossley asked, what would they as individuals do with Jesus. Rash answered one in the congregation must settle the question at once, either to seek to receive Him or reject Him. He urged them all to give the latter answer whereby they might be saved.

At the conclusion of Mr. Crossley's address Mr. Hunter, as usual, did the pleading and so earnestly and effectively that quite a number stood up, announcing their desire to accept Jesus.

NOTES.

The evangelists are kept busy enough. Mr. Hunter held last night of the numerous requests for visits they received and they filled. To-day they are in Cobourg holding an afternoon meeting, and next Saturday they go to Lindsay for a similar purpose.

Mr. Crossley last night sang "My Ain Countree."

There will be two meetings for men only on Sunday, one at four o'clock in the afternoon in the opera house and the other in the evening in the George Street Church. Men of skeptical inclinations are specially invited to the Sunday evening service.

Monday night in the George Street Church the subject of the "Parlor Dance" will be discussed. The evangelists particularly invited the young and middle-aged people Monday night.

What is It?

Simply this. That a great many are throwing away their good honest dollars without getting proper value for them. So listen—a word in time. You no doubt have heard that W. J. Morrow proposes selling Groceries—not as cheap as other houses but away below them. The old maxim "Seeing is believing."—So call and price our Goods. We modestly urge immediate consideration and you will find prompt action will pay you; so we hope to receive a call. Why, the whole town, county and surrounding villages are simply on fire with enthusiasm, and now the name of W. J. Morrow, the only cheap Grocer, resounds both far and near.

MR. CHAS. LEGROS now has a telephone in his tonsorial parlors for the convenience of ladies who require hairdressing done at their homes. His George street parlors are the handsomest and tastiest in town, and are fitted with hot and cold water baths. His stock of cigars, pipes and tobacco comprise the best and biggest variety. Smoke Gladstone, 5 for 25c. at Legros'. Cheap smokers should use Legros' Best, 2 for 5c.; very fine imported cigars, 3 and 4 for 25c. He is selling all best Havana cigarettes that cost 15c. per packet, at 10c. El Padre, 4 for 25c.; Creme de la Creme, 4 and 5 for 25c.

MAHOOD.—At Smith, on Saturday, the 30th of March, 1889, Mary Jane, wife of Mr. Robert Mahood, aged 42 years.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants [illegible] found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

CLEVELAND BROTHERS, ALBANY, N. Y.

Ashburnham's Clean Sheet.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

DEAR SIR,—Since May 1st, 1888, under the Scott Act, up to this 29th day of March, 1889, there has not been one conviction for drunkenness in the village of Ashburnham. Was it then the three years previous under the Crooks Act? Far from it. The page is blotted dreadfully with conviction after conviction for drunk and drunk and disorderly. Sometimes four convictions all in a row, sometimes three, and so on. But here, under local prohibition, we have a clean sheet. Will any honest man, in the face of this fact, say that the Scott Act is a failure? Will any manly man, who loves his country, his children, his home and his God, cast his vote in favor of a return to drunkenness and disorder? It must not be. What do the town records say on this line? The number of convictions under the Scott Act are less by hundreds than the number for the same time under the Crooks Act.

JOHN CARLISLE.

MARCH WINDS.

The March winds peculiar to our climate, as they sweep over the Country, are a terror to even the most robust constitutions at this season, greatly increasing the liability to Colds, Catarrhal Troubles and Bronchial Affections. There is probably no season of the year when Cold in the head and Catarrh is more prevalent, and it is at this time that NASAL BALM—nature's great remedy for these troubles—proves its magic powers by almost instantly curing Cold in the Head, speedily relieving and ultimately curing the most virulent forms of Catarrh. On the principal that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, every home in the land should be provided with NASAL BALM at this trying season, and its use should be freely resorted to on the very first symptoms of Cold in the Head or Catarrh. It is the only genuine remedy and certain cure for these troubles, and its claims are backed by thousands of the strongest testimonials, a few of which we append below:

WM. SAWYER, Tyrconnel, says:—I had a bad attack of Catarrh last winter and like many other foolish people, thought it would wear away. but it did not; instead it was wearing me away, and at last I made up my mind to try something. I got a prescription made up, a printer and muffled it to send up until I grew weary but got no benefit. I then looked over the papers and saw your advertisement in the Mail. I resolved to have confidence in it right away and got a bottle of NASAL BALM and I can honestly say it was the best investment I ever made, and I strongly recommend it to all sufferers from catarrh and cold in the head. It helped me from the first and has thoroughly cured me. Every sufferer from catarrh should use NASAL BALM, and leave snuff, powders and douches alone.

MRS. M. RAY, CREEK, N. S., states: I have used NASAL BALM with me several occasions with the children for cold in the head, and always find it effects a rapid cure.

MISS CLARA MACHIDER, Little Metis, Que., says:—I have used two bottles of your NASAL BALM for catarrh with the most beneficial results. To anyone suffering with this most disagreeable disease I can heartily recommend it as a radical cure. I cheerfully give you permission to use this if you desire it.

MR. THOMAS ROCHE, Rochester, Ont., says—I have suffered severely from catarrh, and never got any relief until I used NASAL BALM. I never thought I could find so sure a cure. It is a joy all afflicted with catarrh do not know of and use this wonderful medicine.

W. A. MALLORY, Mallorytown, Ont., says:—My daughter suffered for years from a most distressing and annoying catarrh. Her case was under the treatment of eminent physicians in the United States and Canada. Two months' use of NASAL BALM has had more beneficial effects than all former treatment combined.

EX-MAYOR ROBERT BOWIE, Brockville, Ont., says:—I used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it cured me after having tried nearly tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head.

C. MCDONALD, Serpent River, Algoma, says: I have used NASAL BALM for a bad case of catarrh, and it has done me more good than all the remedies I ever tried before. It is worth its weight in gold.

MR. G. T. CORBELL, mail clerk on C. P. R., says:—NASAL BALM is a boon to all suffering from cold in the head. It gives relief rapidly and never fails to effect a speedy cure.

MR. J. D. KENNEDY, G. T. R. agent at Brockville, says:—A short treatment with NASAL BALM radically removed all symptoms of my catarrh. The preparation is pleasant and easy to use, and gives immediate and permanent relief.

LEWIS ROBBUCK, Wyevale, Ont., says:—I recommend NASAL BALM highly to all who suffer from catarrh.

MR. S. E. CHASE, Port Arthur, Ont., says:—I have been using your NASAL BALM for catarrh, and find myself cured with only one bottle. To call it the best preparation made for catarrh is scarcely strong enough.

T. H. MONTROE, Parry Sound, says:—NASAL BALM has no equal as a remedy for cold in the head. It is both speedy and effective in its results.

W. H. GAMEL, Revere, Ont., says:—I feel it my duty to write to you and report the result of my using NASAL BALM. I have been a severe sufferer from that loathsome disease, catarrh, and tried several remedies, but got no relief till I purchased a bottle of NASAL BALM. I used it according to directions and it has completely cured me. I take great pleasure in recommending it to all suffering from catarrh.

COLD IN HEAD
MARCH WINDS
CATARRH

SAMUEL BOLTON, Caldwell Mills, Ont., writes:—It gives me great pleasure to testify to the great merit of NASAL BALM. I tried other remedies but got no relief. The disease had brought its partial deafness. Yet two applications of NASAL BALM gave me great relief and before the bottle was half used I was completely cured.

P. R. MACFARLANE, Merchant tailor, Brockville, Ont., says:—As an instant relief for Cold in the Head and Catarrh, NASAL BALM is unequalled. The effect is instant as it is used.

MR. JOHN BROWN, Kingsway, Alroma, Detroit, writes:—I have used your NASAL BALM and have no hesitation in saying that it is the best remedy on earth for catarrh. I have tried many other remedies, and it has fully cured my catarrh. I have no hesitation in giving my name as an endorsement of NASAL BALM, as the greatest remedy yet discovered for catarrh and cold in the head.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS similar only in name and appearance. Ask for NASAL BALM as "just as good." If you cannot get NASAL BALM from your dealer it will be sent post-paid on receipt of price—50 cents and $1—by addressing FULFORD & CO., Brockville, Ont. Send for our pamphlet "Gems of Wisdom."

THE ATTRACTION AT TURNBULL'S

Whatever the weather has been outside, it was the springiest of Springtime in our Store on Wednesday and Thursday last, when all the new Millinery and Millinery belongings were opened out of their close fitting boxes. For the benefit of those who could not get in on these days, we will keep the display up all the first week in April.

Among the leading changes noticeable in the Trimming this season is LACE ENDS and SCARFS and LONG VEILS drawn in with Baby Ribbon at the bottom. Flowers and Ribbons are the leading Trimmings. The old fashioned hop that used to climb on the pole at the back door, is now found falling over the Black Lace Hats. Having struck a cheap line of Flowers (German make) the Germans copy the French designs and give us the Goods much cheaper. We have a Bouquet for everybody. Bunches of Roses in all colors only 25 c. each. Our Stock of CHILDRENS' TRIMMED HATS is unusually attractive. Sailor Hats in endless variety. We have not room to give them a front show. We were disappointed at not being able to show with the Millinery, the new JET CAPES and SILK VISETTES and TRIMMED DOLMANS, but there is time enough yet, and we expect them in on the first freight train. A fine assortment of Cloths in the order department. All hands at work as busy as bees in the workroom up stairs.

The DRESS GOODS Department is as lively as ever. A new line of Vigoreaux Cloth in 8 shades, 44 inches wide, at 60 cents, came in this week; a glance at it will tell you it is serviceable. With them came a new line of German Dress Cloth—we have shown nothing similar before; is just what any lady would fancy for a genteel Dress. Will show another new make next week.

MISS MANCHER is always pleased to help you with her advice as to length of Dress Pattern, Style of Making and Trimming, whether you wish to have it made by her or not.

KID GLOVES fresh from the hands of the maker in Austria, at 75c. and $1.00 a pair. This line we had in stock before, but the quantity was small and we only had a pair for a lady here and there.

CORSETS.—Spring brings changes and this one has brought one of the nicest makes of Corsets we have ever had. Large sizes for stout ladies always in Stock.

THE NAVAL CATASTROPHE

CONFIRMATION OF THE REPORTED DISASTER AT APIA.

Two German and Two United States Men-of-War Total Losses—Fifty Americans and 75 Germans Perish.

AUCKLAND, March 30.—Despatches from Samoa state that the American men-of-war Trenton, Vandalia and Nipsic, and the German men-of-war Adler, Olga and Eber, were driven on a reef during a violent storm and totally wrecked. Of the American crews four officers and 46 men were drowned and of the German crews nine officers and 67 men lost their lives.

Admiral Kimberley's Report.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Secretary Tracy received the following cable message this morning:

AUCKLAND, March 30.—Secretary of the Navy, Washington: Hurricane at Apia, March 16. Every vessel in harbor is on shore except the English man-of-war Calliope, which got to sea. Trenton and Vandalia total losses. Nipsic beached; rudder gone; may be saved; chances against. Will send her to Auckland if possible. Vandalia lost four officers and 30 men, including Capt. Schoonmaker, Paymaster Arms, Lieutenant of Marines Sutton and Pay Clerk Roach. Nipsic lost seven men. All saved from the Trenton. The Trenton and Vandalia crews are ashore. Nipsic's is on board. All stores possible saved. German ships Adler and Eber total losses. Olga beached; may be saved. German losses, 96.—KIMBERLEY.

The Secretary of the Navy has cabled Admiral Kimberley to take such steps with regard to the Nipsic and the wrecks and crafting men lessen as he may deem proper, full power being given him.

Admiral Kimberley's despatch is taken to indicate that he had already mailed an account of the wreck at Apia. By sharp work it may have been possible for him to have caught the mail steamer which arrives at San Francisco April 13, in which case full advices may be expected in Washington about April 20. Minister Pendleton has sent a despatch embodying the information concerning the disaster received by the Foreign Office at Berlin.

It appears that the rainy season set in this year at Samoa with severity and rather early. February 14 a heavy gale descended upon the harbor and wrecked several merchant vessels, including the American barkentine Constitution. February 25 Captain Mullan, of the Nipsic, who has had a long stay at Apia, wrote to his brother here as follows: "We are now in the midst of the hurricane season and until April 15 we may look for heavy weather. Harbor is small with reefs outside and inside bad holding ground. No coal here and nothing to eat. Everything very dear."

Naval officers generally concur in the belief that the disaster at Apia was the most severe that has ever overtaken the American navy in time of peace.

The German Loss.

BERLIN, March 30.—Advices received by the naval authorities report that the storm raged during March 16 and 17. Seventy persons from the Eber and twenty from the Adler were drowned. The Olga was stranded, but her crew were saved. All the merchant vessels anchored at Samoa foundered.

Details of the Disaster.

LONDON, March 31.—Further particulars of the disastrous storm at Apia have just been received. The hurricane burst upon the harbor suddenly. The German man-of-war Eber was the first vessel to drag her anchor. She became unmanageable and was driven helplessly on the reef which runs round the harbor. She struck broadside on at six o'clock in the morning. The shock caused her to lurch and to stagger back and she sank in a moment in deep water. Most of her men were under hatches and scarcely a soul of them escaped.

The German war ship Adler was the next to succumb. She was lifted bodily by a gigantic wave and cast on her beam ends on the reef. A terrible struggle ensued among the officers and sailors aboard. Many plunged into the raging surf and struck out, some reaching the shore in safety. Others clung to the rigging until the masts fell; of the latter two gained the shore safely. The captain of the Adler and several other officers were saved.

In the meantime the United States steamer Nipsic had been dragging her anchors and drifting towards the shore. The captain, however, managed to keep control and ran her on a sand bank. Boats were immediately lowered and the whole company saved with the exception of six men who were drowned by the capsizing of a boat.

The United States steamer Vandalia was carried before the gale right upon the reef. She struck with a terrible shock and the captain was hurled against a Gatling gun and stunned. Before he could recover a great sea swept the deck and washed him away. The vessel sank fifty yards from the Nipsic. Several officers and men were washed overboard and drowned. Others perished while making desperate efforts to swim to the shore. Some remained for hours clinging to the rigging, but heavy waves dashed unceasingly over them and one by one they were swept away. By this time night had set in. Many natives and Europeans had gathered on the shore and all were anxious to render assistance to the wrecked vessels and their unfortunate crews, but darkness having fallen on the scene they were wholly unable to be of service.

Soon after the Vandalia had sank the American warship Trenton broke from her anchorage and was driven upon the wreck of the Vandalia, whence she drifted to the shore. The bottom of the Trenton was completely stove and her hold was half full of water. As morning broke the German man-of-war Olga, which had hitherto bravely withstood the gale, although much battered by the heavy seas that constantly broke upon her, became unmanageable and was driven upon the beach, where she lay in a tolerably favorable position.

The following is a record of the officers and men lost:

Eber—The captain, all the other officers except one, and 76 men.

Vandalia—The captain, 4 officers and 40 men.

Nipsic—7 men.

Adler—Altogether 18 persons.

Malaeta sent a number of men, who rendered splendid service in trying to save the Olga.

An Unsafe Harbor.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Captain Richard W. Meade, the United States naval officer who commanded the Narragansett in Samoan waters in 1872, and now Commandant of the Washington Navy Yard, said: "The harbor of Apia in Upolu is a coral reef harbor with an entrance about 1800 yards wide and open to the north. It is not large and the anchorage ground is limited. During the [illegible] season, which lasts through December, January, February, March and April, it is considered rather a risk to remain in Apia, while Pago-Pago, in the neighboring island of Tutila, is perfectly safe, being land-locked and otherwise sheltered. Harbor dues, however, are not very frequent at the Samoan Islands.

LONG ISLAND CITY, March 30.—The police assisted by Constable's men raided Kearney's pool rooms at Ridgeville this afternoon. Over 100 persons were arrested.

Two Oklahoma Boomers the Loss.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., March 31.—Three Oklahoma boomers fought for the possession of a claim near Guthrie Thursday and two were fatally shot.

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION FOR THE ENFIELD DIVISION.

The Unionist Candidate Returned—A Prima Facie Case Against Father McFadden for Murder.

LONDON, March 30.—The election to fill the vacancy in the House of Commons for the Enfield division of Middlesex resulted in the return of Captain Bowles, the Unionist candidate, who received 5124 votes against 3612 cast for Mr. Fairbairn, the nominee of the Gladstonians. At the last election Lord Folkestone, the Conservative candidate, received 5287 votes and Mr. Edgcombe, the Gladstonian, 3667.

Father McFadden's Case.

DUBLIN, March 30.—A prima facie case has been found against Father McFadden for participating in the murder of Police Inspector Martin at Gweedore in February. He will be tried at the first assizes. Martin with a party of policemen attempted to arrest McFadden for offences under the Crimes Act. The time chosen to make the arrest was immediately after the priest had celebrated mass. Members of the congregation rescued McFadden from the police and he had nearly reached the door of his house when Martin seized him. At that moment a stone was thrown which struck the inspector on the head, inflicting injuries of which he died soon after.

Funeral of John Bright.

LONDON, March 30.—The funeral of John Bright took place to-day. Crowds of people lined the route of the procession from One Ash, Mr. Bright's late residence, near Rochdale to the cemetery. Among those present were Joseph Chamberlain, Wilfrid Lawson, Jesse Collings, Arnold Morley, Wm. Rathbone and General H. Lyndeoch Gardiner, C.B., Equerry-in-Ordinary to Queen Victoria, who represented Her Majesty. A number of deputations headed the procession. Fifteen carriages containing mourners followed the hearse. Eight of Mr. Bright's workmen carried the coffin to the hearse and from the hearse to the grave. When the coffin was deposited in the grave the mourners gathered around (in silent meditation) according to the custom of the Quakers, to which sect Mr. Bright belonged.

The Dean of Founders College afterwards delivered an oration. He spoke of Mr. Bright as a man of great simplicity, who did not attribute his talents to his own efforts, but considered them gifts from God. Four wreaths remained on the coffin when it was lowered into the grave—one was sent from Biarritz by Queen Victoria—attached to it was Her Majesty's autograph. Another was from the Prince and Princess of Wales, with a card bearing the words, "as a mark of respect." The third was from Mr. Bright's work-people, and the fourth from Miss Cobden; attached to Miss Cobden's wreath was a card inscribed "In loving memory of my father's best friend."

Mr. Morrison's Foreign Ministers.

LONDON, March 31.—The nomination of Mr. Lincoln as Minister to England has been received here with what may be called respectful interest, but with an absence of enthusiasm that ought to delight our Irish friends. Mr. Lincoln, of course, is little known here, and the comments upon him cabled from New York add little to the little knowledge prevailing about him. The English are pleased to hear that he is a son of the late President, and perhaps esteem his selection a compliment for that reason. He has in other respects his own reputation to create, a task which Mr. Phelps has made difficult for any successor.

There, is, however, in The Spectator a note of real sympathy, "The feeling of admiration," says that journal, "for President Lincoln, the wise man of the Union during the war, has never died away. Probably no American ever excited the same enthusiasm in England, even among the classes full of sympathy for the South and its leaders. The murder of the President was felt here like a blow to England, and his son will be the most welcome and most sought of guests. There are in the President's choice of Foreign Ministers two things which impress Europeans. First, the sweeping transformation of the entire American diplomatic service as each new Administration comes into power. Second, in this case, the appointment of so many journalists to be ministers. France is perhaps the only European country where this causes no surprise, for it is the only European country where journalism habitually confers a great reputation, and leads habitually to great posts in the public service. That an American journalist should be the American Minister to France seems to Frenchmen simply the most natural thing in the world. He will be acceptable, not in spite of, but in part because of his profession. Half the public men he meets there will hail him as a colleague on the press."

It may surprise Mr. Rice to know that he, too, is here reckoned as a journalist and that it is his editorship of a monthly periodical which is supposed to be the source of his present distinction. Mr. Halstead would have been welcomed in Berlin, though there is no capital in Europe where the promotion of an editor to diplomatic rank is a greater puzzle to both the journalistic and the official mind. Some friendly expressions of the Berlin press have been telegraphed here. Mr. Halstead's German campaign of 1870 is well remembered, and his good-will at that time and since to Germany is not forgotten.

Editors to be Dealt With Summarily.

PARIS, March 30.—The Chamber of Deputies by a vote of 296 to 250 to-day voted urgency for a bill providing that slanderous and insulting press attacks on public officials shall be summarily dealt with by a police tribunal.

Sudden Death at Cobourg.

COBOURG, March 31.—Francis Tamblyn died suddenly at 6.30 yesterday morning from a stroke of paralysis. He was in his usual good health up to within a couple of hours of his death. Mr. Tamblyn was in his 47th year and was much esteemed by all who knew him. He was a native of England.

East Elgin Conservative Convention.

ATLINE, March 30.—At the convention called by the Liberal Conservatives of East Elgin here to-day Mr. E. T. Godwin, reeve of Bayham and warden of the County of Elgin, was nominated as the Conservative party standard bearer at the coming election for member of the Local Legislature.

Mexico Shuts Out American Lard.

ST. LOUIS, March 30.—Late advices from the City of Mexico say the Board of Health of that city has pronounced American lard an adulteration, unfit for use and prohibited its sale. This action has been sustained by Minister Ruble, and will be effective throughout the republic, and instructions have been given to all custom houses.

A Telegrapher Killed.

MALLORYTOWN, Ont., March 30.—A young man named Deacon, telegraph operator at Charlest Lake, jumped from a moving train near here last night and slightly in front of another, which cut him to pieces.

Coal Miners to Shut Down.

PITTSBURG, Pa., March 30.—The indications point to a general shut down of the coal miners along the Monongahela River, April 1. A number of operators partially closed their works to-day. They say that by Monday nearly all the mines will be closed until the miners agree to a reduction in wages to 2½ cents. The shut down will affect 6000 miners. There are now 8,000,000 bushels of coal ready for shipment.

THE GERMAN PENAL LAW.

NATIONAL LIBERALS DECLARE AGAINST THE BILL.

The Proposal to Muzzle the Press Antagonized—Emperor William's Love for England—Demonstrated Worthless.

BERLIN, March 30.—A rupture in the Government groups arising from their disagreement on the press penal law is certain unless the bill is materially modified. The National Liberals declare against the bill. The semi-official press admit that under the law there can be no freedom of discussion and say the Liberals are justified in resisting it. It is reported that a commission of the Bundesrath has greatly modified the bill. This is unlikely. The absolute regulation of the press is a pet project with the Emperor. His departure from the usual etiquette to attend the parliamentary dinner was due to a desire to conciliate the deputies. He was graciously familiar with the Nationalist leaders. It is probable that the Government will rely on the Centre party, thus causing an evolution in party grouping. It is predicted that a Liberal coalition will be formed strong enough to imperil the bill.

Count Herbert Bismarck returns from England Monday. He says he has arranged for grand public demonstrations on the occasion of Emperor William's visit to England in July. The doubts as to English popular feeling towards the Emperor inspire the semi-official declaration that the Emperor's supposed dislike of England is a mistake. After Germany he loves England most.

The strike outbreak is widespread in Hamburg. The masons, plumbers and carpenters are out because their employers refused to pay them higher wages. At Elberfeld and Barmen the manufacturing works are closed. At Crefeld the workmen will strike Monday unless their demands are granted. At Nuremburg the carvers and toy makers are out. The Berlin masons have decided to inaugurate a general strike in the building trades.

A commission of the Reichstag has decided to prosecute Herr Grillenberger for offensive press comments concerning members of the Reichstag.

The Passion Play will be given at Oberammergau in the autumn of 1890. The text and music have been received.

HALSTEAD FINALLY REJECTED.

He Had Said Some Naughty Things About the U. S. Senate in His Paper.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The Senate has confirmed the following among other nominations: Gen. B. Loring, Minister to Portugal; Robert T. Lincoln, Minister to Great Britain; Allan Thorndike Rice, Minister to Russia; Thomas Ryan, Minister to Mexico; F. J. Patrick Egan, Minister to Chili.

The Executive session of the Senate lasted two hours this afternoon, being devoted almost exclusively for the third time to the case of Murat Halstead, nominated to be minister to Germany. Senators Sherman, Hawley and Blair spoke in favor of his confirmation, the two last named being listened to with especially close attention. All the clews of their remarks a vote was taken on the motion to reconsider the vote by which the nomination was rejected Thursday. The motion was lost by a vote of 25 to 19, Messrs. Evarts, Ingalls, Plumb and Teller voting with the Democrats in the negative and Messrs. Blackburn and Call with the Republicans in the affirmative. The Republicans named explained their votes on roll call, saying that they had no personal feeling in the matter, no antagonism against Mr. Halstead; but thought it right to defend the Senate against such attacks as had been made upon its character by him in his paper.

Turning the Rascals Out.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Since March 4, 1005 fourth-class postmasters have been appointed by the Postmaster-General; 420 were appointed to succeed postmasters who had resigned and 584 to take the places of others suspended or removed.

Must Have Separate Manifests.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The Treasury Department has affirmed the action of the collector of customs at Ogdensburg, in exacting a fee of 25 cents on each of 94 cars of the Rome, Waterloo and Ogdensburg Railroad brought to Ogdensburg by the ferry steamer Armstrong. These cars were laden with merchandize from Canada and objection was made to the filing of separate car manifests on the ground that the manifest filed by the master of the steamer covered the entire cargo including the cars and contents. The collector has been informed that the department is of opinion that each railroad car laden with merchandize destined to the United States from a contiguous territory is subject to the requirement of separate manifest with regard to the manner of its arrival.

Mr. Grant is desirous of resigning his position as Superintendent of Ontario Home Mission and accepting a settled charge.

Dynamite Outrage at Sydenham.

SYDENHAM, March 30.—This morning about 1 o'clock the Methodist parsonage occupied by Rev. R. Stillwell was shattered by dynamite, which is supposed was placed on the floor of the verandah. One door was blown off, the glass in the windows broken and the house otherwise damaged. None of the occupants were hurt. There is no clue to the perpetrators.

The Chicago I.-C. Will Build.

CHICAGO, March 30.—The largest real estate deal of the season, involving $1,000,000, was consummated to-day in The Inter-Ocean coming into possession of the north-west corner of Dearborn and Madison streets. The Inter-Ocean will erect a new building which will be one of the most prominent structures in the city.

THE SCOTT ACT CAMPAIGN.

Public Meetings in the Opera House.

Saturday Afternoon and Evening—Synopsis of the Addresses—Messrs. McLaren and Spence of Toronto Among the Speakers.

Saturday afternoon there were about two hundred people in the opera house, when another public meeting for the discussion of the Scott Act was held.

Rev. Mr. PEARSON fulfilled the duties of chairman and in his opening remarks referred to the dishonest tactics of the repeal party who at the last moment were sending out literature that contained false and garbled statements. Mr. Pearson said that he had feared some things would be brought out at the last moment which might be misleading to an intelligent public, but such a sickly and puerile document as the one they were circulating he had never before seen. It contained quotations from the addresses of Hon. Edward Blake and Sir John Macdonald, garbled for the purpose, and also a statement made by Mr. Mowat—not the premier of the province but "Mosey Outen," the weather prophet of a Toronto paper—but "Mr. Mowat," the impression thus being left that it was Hon. O. Mowat who was disfavoring the Act. The speaker refuted a number of the statements contained in the document, none of which, he thought, were worth considering, and closed with a confident expression of his belief that the Act would be sustained in this county.

Rev. J. B. HOUGH, of Smith, made a short address, saying that he did not know he was to speak until he came to town, and had not time to prepare any remarks about the Scott Act. He, however, expressed his opinion in favor of the Act from a temperance and moral standpoint, as a step for prohibition, which would not be brought about, however, until the people of this country had a unanimous temperance sentiment strong enough to compel the political parties to yield to them. He said very little could be expected from either political party at present and he held that it was no credit to any government to pass a temperance law and ask the people to enfore it at their own expense, as had been done in the case of the Scott Act.

Rev. Mr. PARKER said this was his first opportunity of speaking about the Scott Act in Peterborough. He first referred to the contention of some people that the ministers of the Gospel, being non-tax paying residents, should not lead a public movement of this sort. For himself he could say it was no fault of his that ministers did not pay taxes, for he believed they should, and if a bill came up before the government for the taxing of clergymen he would go for it with both hands. Then others said that gentlemen of the cloth could make statements and then retreat to their pulpits. But he was glad that opponents of the Act had been invited to a fair discussion of the question. As to the statement that the Scott Act was a failure, he said that all depended upon what was considered the standard of success. He confessed that the Act had not done all that was anticipated of it, but it had not been a failure. He said he was down in Port Hope the other day and got these returns. During the three years proceeding the introduction of the Scott Act, in 1888 there were 99 convictions for drunk and disorderly; in 1884, 90, and in 1885, 109. During the three years under the Act the figures were:—1886, 79 convictions; 1887, 23; 1888, 14. This showed a decrease of 75 per cent. in drunkenness. Then in the thirteen counties in which the Act had been adopted, during 1888, the last of the three years under the Act, there was a total number of convictions of 237; in 1884, just before the Act was introduced, 532; a decrease of 295 in favour of the Scott Act. In Peterborough, Mr. Parker said, there was a slight decrease in the convictions for drunkenness, though not as large as he had hoped for. In Ashburnham, he believed, there had not been a single conviction for drunkenness since the Act came in force. The speaker also put in other statements in support of his contention. Mr. Parker said that some people who were habitual drunkards would get liquor no matter what sort of law there was; it seemed they could not break their habits off. Convictions for drunkenness against this class of men could not be put down to the failure of the Scott Act, but to their own overpowering appetites. But he believed the liquor should be kept away from the rising generation, so that they should not grow up with this awful appetite, but be a sober generation. The civil argument against the Scott Act was next taken up. Some say they would rather have a license act that could be enforced than an act that could not be enforced. But did the hotelkeepers observe the Crooks Act? Then it was said that the county would lose financially, when the Act was first carried three years ago. It was said it would affect the price of wheat and would cause an increase in taxation. But had it? No; on the contrary, the price of wheat had been raised and the taxation of Peterborough was lower than before. Mr. Parker said that, though the Act had not been as effective as it should have been, yet if the people voted for and carried the Act next Thursday the government would realise that they were in earnest and that if their suffrages were to be secured for the government the latter must give the people the law they demanded.

Saturday Night.

At the night meeting the opera house was crowded. Besides the chairman, Dr. Fife, and the speakers of the evening, there were on the platform Rev. Messrs. Pearson, Parker, Shorey and Wilson.

Rev. Mr. PEARSON first replied to a letter which had appeared in an evening paper in answer to one by Mr. John Carlisle, stating that there had been no convictions for drunkenness in the village of Ashburnham. He said that the reply was unfair, for it compared 25 months under the Scott Act with 28 months under the Crooks Act.

Rev. Mr. PARKER said that while getting the figures about the committments for drunkenness, the town clerk had told him he thought it would be better not to include the returns for 1883, when the large number of navvies working on the Missing Link increased the drunkenness. Mr. Parker, however, believed that the three years should be taken together and given to the electors for their consideration without anything being held back.

Mr. J. J. HARTLEY asked for some reasons why the Scott Act should be repealed. He could not see how the people were to be benefitted by a return to the license. Not financially, for the Ontario government would take about $600 out of each $400 hotel license in this town, or about $5,600 a year. Because the Scott Act was not enforced was no reason why it should be repealed. The Crooks Act was not observed, and why was it not declared a failure also? He believed the people of this county would declare by their votes, that though the Scott Act was not enforced, they wanted it in force. He questioned if the hotelkeepers had respected the provisions of the Crooks Act, whether there would have been any Scott Act. He had no personal enmity against the liquor men, but he hated the traffic, and for the sake of the boys and young men of the country the business should be put down. As regarded the statement that there was more liquor sold under the Act than before, he said if that were the case he should not imagine that the hotelkeepers would want the Act repealed when they were selling so much whiskey, and of course making lots of money.

A PRACTICAL ADDRESS.

Mr. J. J. MCLAREN, Q. C., the gentleman who argued the constitutionality of the Scott Act before the Privy Council, was the next speaker. He said the large meeting before him augured well for the success of the Act in Peterborough, and if the people in favor of the Act would only work between this and next Thursday according to their convictions he believed it would be sustained. The speaker said that as it was incumbent upon those who favored the Act when it was first introduced, to show where it would be a benefit to the country, so now the case rested on the other side to show why it should be repealed. Mr. McLaren said he would not refer to the Act specially in connection with this county, but to the letters and literature which is going all over the country and which he supposed were circulated here. One of the arguments against the Act before it was adopted was that it would have the effect of driving out the comparatively harmless beer, which was bulky and could not be easily concealed, and instead increasing the use of strong drinks which must be taken in small quantities and could be easily concealed. But that had not proven the case. The speaker gave some figures showing that there had been a great falling off in the quantity of strong liquor drunk in the Dominion under the Act, while the consumption of beer remained about the same. All over Canada the consumption of liquor was in proportion to the extent to which the Scott Act was adopted, and the speaker also gave figures to back up this statement. In Ontario, where the Act was partially adopted, the average consumption of liquor was five and a quarter gallons; in Prince Edward, where the Act was in force all over the island, the average was but two quarts; while in British Columbia, under the license law, the average reached eight gallons per head. The speaker protested against the unfair comparisons contained in a pamphlet drawn out by a government official, and further to prove that drunkenness had been decreased under the Act he gave the number of committments in a number of Scott Act counties (not containing cities). During the years '84 and '85, under license, there were 910 committments, while under the Scott Act, in '87 and '88, there were only 350. He compared this with the figures for half a dozen other counties which remained under license, where, during the same years, there was an increase of nearly 1,000; from 4 499 in '84 and '85 to 5,436 in '87 and '88. But they had not these figures only to back up their assertions, for Mr. Geo. Gooderham, while under oath recently during an arbitration over the entrance of the C. P. R. to the city of Toronto, admitted that his distillery property had been considerably decreased in value and his business injured by the Scott Act. The speaker confessed that there had been a slight increase in the quantity of beer consumed in the Dominion, but he did not believe the increase was in Scott Act counties; but the quantity of alcohol in beer was only six per cent., and if the matter was looked at from a comparative standpoint, it showed that the average of alcohol drunk was much smaller under the Act than before. These things, he asserted, disproved all statements that had been made to the effect that drunkenness and drinking had not been decreased under the Scott Act. The speaker read testimonies from different counties where the Act had been repealed to the effect that since the repeal drunkenness and crime had alarmingly increased and the people were sorry they had ever gone back to license. He asserted that the Crooks Act, much lauded as the best license Act, was the worst Act of the kind on the statute books, and he challenged proof to the contrary. He dealt with some of the local license laws in force in different provinces, in which the provisions were much more strict and the effects better than the Crooks Act. As to the charge that the Scott Act caused so much perjury, he said the Act was not responsible but the whiskey; there was as much perjury under the Crooks Act where prosecutions have been made as there were under the Scott Act. The Crooks Act was no more observed than the Scott Act, and in the face of all these things he could not see how intelligent people could vote for a return to license law.

THE ACTS COMPARED.

Mr. F. S. SPENCE stated that the facts given by the previous speaker could be relied upon, for they were not garbled or manufactured in the least. He said that no doubt all the people were temperance people, and this question was not one of the traffic against temperance, but simply a question as to which law would be better for the temperance cause of the country. His address traced the history of the growth of temperance reform from its inception to the present, when the question was between prohibition and license. What was wanted to bring about the suppression of the liquor traffic was strong moral sentiment, sound legislation and proper enforcement. If the Scott Act had failed it was either because of the indifference of temperance men or neglect of duty on the part of the officials who are charged with its enforcement. The speaker then proceeded to discuss the merits of the Scott Act and Crooks Act, and this he did in a sarcastic and humorous way that pleased the audience. The Crooks Act, he said, prohibited the 11,000 people in Peterborough and Ashburnham from selling liquor except day 26; the Scott Act says this is a bad business and it prohibits the 10,974 men from selling liquor—and the other 26 as well. The Crooks Act prohibited liquor selling on Saturday night and Sunday; the Scott Act stops it two nights and one day of the week—and the other five nights and six days as well. The Crooks Act says the whiskey business is bad and must be stopped on election days; the Scott Act says if it is bad on election day, it is bad for 364 days in the year as well. People talk about the Crooks Act being such a good Act; but he would say that all the good things in the Crooks Act are contained in the Scott Act and a hundred more of them. And there was not a bad thing in the Scott Act which was not in the Crooks Act—and a hundred more of them. But the Scott Act was not what the temperance people wanted; they would not rest until they got total prohibition. The traffic could never be regulated by a license law; nothing but prohibition would ever be capable of restraining the whiskey business. The speaker said that the liquor men were telling one class of people to vote for the license law because it would decrease the sale of liquor, while they were telling another class to vote for license so that they can get liquor easier. Mr. Spence contended that the choice between the Scott Act and Crooks Act lay altogether with the former. But why should this question be fought out on financial lines instead of on lines far more important to this country, namely, the moral aspect? The speaker said that the social evils and all the crimes of the country were the result of the liquor traffic, and in the name of all that was good and true, in the name of Christ Himself, he asked the people to vote it down. The Scott Act was a measure founded upon the Bible, and included the principle of liberty which prevented the carrying out of wrong and lawless practices.

Smith.

Obituary—The Late Mrs. Robert Mahood.

No event of a similar character has made such a sad impression in Smith township as the death of Mrs. Robert Mahood, which took place on Friday night. The deceased lady was the eldest daughter of Mr. Samuel Campbell of Cavan, and came to reside in Smith at the time of her marriage, about twenty years since. Mrs. Mahood's health has been impaired since last summer when she had a severe attack of illness from which she never recovered. Her last illness of three weeks' duration followed her confinement. The death of Mrs. Mahood leaves fourteen children, the eldest only twenty years of age, deprived of a mother's care. The affliction is a sad one to Mr. Mahood, who is highly respected and has the sympathy of the entire community. When the blow fell he had about completed arrangements for removal to Manitoba. The EXAMINER begs to extend to him and his family in their time of sore bereavement its most cordial condolence.

Ennismore.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. Jeremiah McCarthy has been appointed surveyor for Ennismore by the township council. The appointment is a good one and is a tribute to Mr. McCarthy's ability in his profession.

Some of our farmers began ploughing on the 26th. Not bad for Ennismore, is it? They intended sowing this week but Jack Frost got ahead of them.

We are pleased to see Mr. P. Gorman at the grocery business at the Cross once more. Trade seems to be flourishing in both our stores.

Scarlet fever has unfortunately entered two houses in S.S. No. one, causing the death, we regret to say, of Mrs. James Harrington's youngest son. All other patients are progressing favorably and the disease is not spreading.

WAXING WARM.

The Scott Act Contest in Oxford—Death of Mr. James McKay of Woodstock.

WOODSTOCK, March 26.—McLeod & Co., boot and shoe dealers here, to-day made an assignment to James Piper of London.

Warren Totten is a candidate for the third deputy-reeveship, rendered vacant by the death of the late Mr. Martin.

Mr. James McKay died here to-day. Deceased acted as returning officer in the municipal election here last Friday, and while doing so contracted a severe cold which developed into acute inflammation of the kidneys. He was 61 years of age, a native of Cumberlandshire, and settled in Zorra when quite young, since which time he has been engaged in business here.

George Fielding, the Englishman who was arrested in Toronto on Tuesday, charged with stealing wearing apparel and who has been palming himself off as a street-corner evangelist, was quite recently released from Woodstock jail, where he served a term for stealing money from his employer.

Burglars have this week been committing serious depredations in the neighboring village of Thamesford. Dr. McWilliams' drug store, Cowper Bros.' blacksmith shop and Young & Kemp's general store have been ransacked. There is no clue to the burglars.

The Scott Act contest in this county is waxing very keen. Meetings have been held in almost every schoolhouse and the ladies are on the stump. Both sides are sanguine.

A curious legal quibble growing out of the Scott Act has arisen here. Wm. Lizard, John Nichol and Henry Kara appeared at the Police Court yesterday charged with stealing a quantity of liquor from a hotelkeeper. The hotelkeeper was fined for having the contraband stuff on his premises, and the query now is, does the law protect him in the possession of the article?

FIRES OF A DAY.

Eight New Houses Burnt at Lachine—A Store at Cobourg.

MONTREAL, March 28.—About 2.20 this morning fire was discovered in a new terrace of eight houses at Lachine fronting the main road and owned by Mrs. James Howley. No water being obtainable through the appliances of the corporation there, the fire burned away threatening several houses adjoining until the private brigade of Mr. Dawes came on the scene and worked with such effect that a serious fire was averted. The houses are totally destroyed. The loss is estimated at $8000, partly covered by a $6000 policy in the Royal.

A Toronto Firm Loses by This Fire.

COBOURG, March 28.—A grain warehouse at the foot of Division-street owned by the commissioners of the town trust and leased by A. H. MacDonald, grain buyer, was destroyed by fire last night. The building contained about 4000 bushels of barley, the property of W. D. Matthews & Co. of Toronto, mostly covered by insurance. There was $800 insurance on the warehouse.

More Scott Act Fines.

This forenoon P. M. Edmison held court at the court house, when Messrs. Thos. Eastwood, Lakefield, and L. Fobert, Bridgenorth, were each fined $50 and costs for violations of the Scott Act. Both pleaded guilty.

Agents Appointed.

This forenoon Mr. Chas. Stapleton, returning officer in the Scott Act repeal vote, appointed a large number of agents or "scrutineers" for the different polling places in the county. The Scott Act party had an agent appointed for every polling place.

Pulpit Changes.

Rev. Messrs. Torrance and Shorey exchanged pulpits Sunday night, and Sunday forenoon Rev. A. C. Wilcox preached in the George street church, Rev. Mr. Pearson being indisposed. Several of the clergymen of the town on Sunday made references to the Canada Temperance Act.

Baptist Mission Circle.

The members of the Baptist Mission Circle will hold their regular monthly meeting in the basement vestry, on Tuesday evening, at a quarter to eight. As the evangelistic service that night is for men only, and as this is the annual meeting at which the election of officers will take place, the ladies of the church are earnestly asked to make a special effort to be present.

The Talk of the Town.

The people are wondering why Elliott & Tierney are giving 18 lbs. bright sugar for $1, and selling teas and other goods so much cheaper than any house in Peterborough. Call at the Palace Grocery and examine the goods, which will convince you. The "Palace" is the place to get best values. Great stock-taking sale now going on.

Unfaithful Parents.

The Reeve and one of the councillors of Harvey were in town to-day searching for a man who last September left his wife and family while in a passion and has not since returned. After his desertion the wife, being without any means of support, also left the children to be supported by the township. The man was found, and has promised to return and look after the children rather than suffer prosecution for his neglect.

Cheesemakers' Convention.

At the fourth annual meeting of the Peterborough Cheesemakers' Association Saturday the following officers were elected:—President, S. Spence, South Dummer factory; Sec.-Treas., S. R. Payne, Warminster factory. Preparations were made for the season's operations. The matter of legislation respecting the adulteration of milk was discussed, and the meeting expressed a strong preference for the Ontario Act if it should be decided to be within the competence of the Local Legislature.

An Incendiary Attempt.

Early Sunday morning Mr. Thos. Hooper, confectioner, from his bedroom window observed flames in the rear of the Harper block on Charlotte street, and at once gave the alarm to Patrolman Gordon, who extinguished the blaze with several pails of water. The fire was the result of an apparently deliberate attempt at incendiarism. Some small wood and old newspapers had been ignited, and were burning slowly, and had the reflection not been fortunately observed, a serious conflagration might have resulted.

Ashburnham's Drunkenness.

A correspondent from across the river writes:—A good deal has been said in the town papers lately about police coming over to quell disturbances late at night. On enquiry it has been found that all these disturbances have been caused by toughs from town who, not being able to get more liquor in town, cross the river and on being refused the same request here, raise a row with the landlords. Things will be made warm for these fellows should they continue their depredations.

Apron Sale and High Tea.

The Ladies' committee of the South Ward will hold an Apron Sale and High Tea in the premises formerly used as Sutton's Restaurant, 345 George street, on Thursday, April 25th, for the benefit of St. John's church.

Auburn Entertainment.

The Auburn mission Sunday school held a pleasant and successful entertainment Sunday afternoon. Mr. Geo. Hilliard presided. Misses Hutchison, Davidson and Rummins sang, while Adam Turner, Clara Rossiter, Messrs. J. and G. Vaught and pupils, engaged in recitations and dialogues. Mr. E. Elcome had charge of the entertainment.

A Fall.

On Saturday evening just at the close of the week's work, Mr. R. Westcott, in the employ of Mr. D. Bellegham, Furniture Manufacturer, fell through a trap to the story below, the boiler room, and was severely stunned and bruised. Dr. King attended to his injuries.

The Manufacturers' Accident Insurance Company, Wilcox & Morrison, agents, have cheap rates and large indemnities. No one should be without an accident policy.

Crossley and Hunter Portraits.

Excellent photographic portraits of Messrs. Crossley and Hunter are now on sale at the Peterborough Bookstore. One set, fine large three quarter size, photo print, $1.00 per pair; cabinets each 25 cents. All these are excellent likenesses and will constitute interesting souvenirs of the visit of these eminent evangelists. The larger pictures can be framed in any style purchaser may desire at the Peterborough Bookstore.

J. R. STRATTON,

Important Horse Transaction.

The last sale of Messrs. Dundas & Grandy, "Lowland's" stock farm, was that of the imported thoroughbred Clydesdale stallion "Mariner" to Mr. J. W. Clarke, of Almeda, N. W. T. "Mariner" has in his well knit and finely proportioned body, the concentration of the best strains of Clydesdale blood in existence for the past half century. Mariner is registered (6073) [718]. He was foaled April, 1886. He is light bay, three white feet, white stripe on face. He was bred by Mr. Wm. Thompson, North Ballilaston, Glasgow, Scotland. He has the finest of pure blood on both sides of the stable, and, besides his other first rate qualities, he has inherited in full force the faculty of imparting with certainty his horse-personality upon his progeny. Mr. Clarke has a treasure in Mariner, and the handsome figure he paid is not too much for the splendid animal he now possesses. If such pioneers as Mariner invade the North-west that country will be the future home of the best heavy horsefleah in the world.

They Stole The Flasks.

This morning a young man named Duncan McIntyre, of Keene, gave himself up at the police station. He was wanted on a charge of larceny. It seems that at the time the Belleville curlers visited Keene McIntyre and another young man named Geo. Elmhirst stole a couple of flasks of whiskey from the pockets of the visitors coats while the game was in progress, and afterwards boasted of their deed and defied prosecution. McIntyre, however, returned his flask, a valuable silver-topped affair. The curling club entered a complaint and the other day Chief Rossel drove down to arrest McIntyre, but the latter evaded the officer by denying that he was the party wanted. But this morning he came up with his father, and gave himself into custody. At the trial he pleaded guilty. The magistrate said that the prisoner had been guilty of most reprehensible conduct in defying the law, but he was dismissed to appear when called upon for judgment, in order, the magistrate said, that the prosecutors might have an opportunity to say something in the matter. The prisoner and his father (as surety) were each bound over in $500 recognisances each.

A Clumsy Forgery.

A Young Man in Gaol for Attempting to Pass a Forged Check.

Saturday night a young man named "Vic" Milburn, well known in town, was arrested at Gough Bros.' store for attempting to pass a forged check for $100 in payment for an overcoat. Mr. Gus. Gough, to whom it was offered, suspecting that the check was not genuine, sent down to Mr. T. Cavanagh, of the Belmoral, whose name was signed to the paper, to ascertain, and his fears were confirmed. Just as this time the police, who had been looking for Milburn for some time, got on his track and he was promptly arrested, and after a preliminary hearing in the evening remanded till Tuesday.

The forgery was a clumsy one, and he had failed in passing the check upon several persons whom he asked to cash it, among them Hall, Innes & Co., T. W. Robinson, T. E. Boddy, H. Best, P. Connal, E. S. Davidson, at the post office and other places. The police were informed of the matter and, as stated, succeeded in arresting Milburn after a few hours' search. The check was drawn on Wm. Snowden and signed by "Mr. T. Cavernow." Such an unusual signature would cause any person to fight shy of the check, but wherever he went Milburn stated that it was good.

Another Man Gone Wrong.

He Forges Some Receipts and Skips a $20 Board Bill.

This early morning's train took from town a young man named Chas. Foster, a quondam agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Company under Mr. Hore, manager for this district. Foster has been doing some pretty sharp work lately, leaving machines with parties on trial and informing his employer that they were sold, in proof of which he exhibited forged receipts, and then collecting his commission. At least one instance of this sort is known, which was sufficient to cause his arrest, and more are suspected. Worse still, Foster left a $20 board bill unsettled. His landlady was Mrs. Sutherland, corner of Hunter and Aylmer streets. A telegram was sent to the police in the west, and this afternoon a reply came that he had been arrested in Woodstock. An officer will go up and bring Foster back to town. Foster it is said, was at one time a Salvation Army Captain.

MYSTERIES OF GODLINESS.

Mr. Crossley's Convincing Address Against Infidelity.

Meetings for Men Only on Sunday—Temperance Topics in the Afternoon—A Railway that Many were Patronizing—Spiritual and Natural Mysteries Considered.

The afternoon meeting in the opera house was an immense gathering of men. The addresses were all on the subject of temperance. Mr. Crossley urged those who had votes to use their franchise to rid the land of the liquor traffic, and he pointed out some of its baneful effects. He said that one death occurred in the United States and Canada every six minutes as the direct result of drink. This carried out shows a total of 87,600 deaths a year. Mr. J. J. McLaren next addressed the meeting, going over a good deal of the ground covered in his Saturday night's address, a report of which is given elsewhere. He denied all the statements about the weakness and ineffectiveness of the Scott Act, and drew attention to an amendment which had been made since the Act was adopted, calculated to render it more effective, whereby the evidence of liquor seized on premises where it was suspected of being sold was evidence sufficient for a conviction. Rev. Mr. Hunter also spoke briefly, urging the men to use their ballot next Thursday to drive whiskey out of the country.

BLACK VALLEY RAILWAY.

At night the George street church was crowded with men, no spark of bright color relieving the sombre black of best Sunday coats, except for the brilliant attire of the few ladies in the choir.

After the opening exercises, Mr. Crossley sang "Where is Heaven?" and Mr. Hunter announced the time table of the Black Valley railway. The lightning express train left Simple town at 6 a.m., (for the old fellows who must have a drink before breakfast); Topperville at 7; drunkards' curve at 9; Rowdyville at 10; Quarrelsville at noon—this was when the drunkard went home and quarrelled with his wife, and Mr. Hunter announced the case of a man in town who the other day beat his wife for coming to the evangelistic services, breaking her finger. He believed that man was in the congregation, and if he was he hoped he would be converted. The next station was Priscoburg at 2 p.m., Beggars town at 3, Delirium ville at 6, Demon's Landing at 9, Blackguardsville at 10, Dead River at 11, and finally Destruction and Damnation at midnight. Tickets for sale by all barkeepers in town; A. L. Cobol, general superintendent; T. O. Bacco, assistant superintendent. If any of his hearers were on this train he urged them to get off at once and board the train that runs to glory.

Mr. Hunter then read a few verses of the 16th chapter of Luke, beginning at the 19th verse, containing the parable of the rich man and Lazarus, dwelling at length upon the torments through which the former passed in contrast with the happy eternity of Lazarus, urging the unsaved to be warned by the rich man's fate and accept salvation.

Mr. Crossley sang "My Mother's Prayer," No. 213 of the hymn book, and special prayers were asked for the liquor sellers of the town, for a school teacher and several others.

SPIRITUAL MYSTERY.

Mr. Crossley's address was on the subject: "The mysteries of the natural and spiritual world. He dealt with the subject in a masterly way, citing numerous cases to verify his assertions, and altogether putting the matter so clearly and forcibly that the congregation was deeply impressed. His text was 1 Timothy, iii, 16:—And without controversy great is the mystery of Godliness." There were mysteries about Godliness, he said, which could not be understood. Some people think to show their cleverness by asking unanswerable questions, forgetting that one fool can ask more questions than ten wise men can answer; others say, we won't believe anything we can't understand or explain. But could light, sound, heat or electricity be explained? Yet these things are believed in by the same men who refuse to believe things spiritual because they cannot be understood or explained. Other mysteries in nature, the movements of our bodies, the properties of grass, the law of gravitation, were equally unexplainable but nevertheless which were accepted by the very men who stupidly refuse to believe in things spiritual, but which are no more difficult to understand or explain. The mysteries of the spiritual world should be accepted in the same common-sense way as were the phenomena of the natural world. Man cannot understand or explain either; both were indisputable facts, and if only tested in an honest manner, the religion of Christ would be found real and enjoyable. He urged skeptics to test the matter honestly within themselves. It was said that scientists were anti-Christians; but this the speaker denied, giving the names of a number of the leading scientists of the day who were Christians. Science, he said, was the handmaid of Christianity.

Mr. Crossley then proceeded to analyze some of the "mysteries of godliness" spoken of in the text. First, there was the mystery of the existence of God. Some people fell back on the Darwinian theory, but it was more difficult to account for the existence of the first being than it was to account for the existence of God. We must accept the fact that some things do exist though they cannot be accounted for. There were three evidences of the existence of a God—the wonderful evidences of design in nature; the universal consciousness of the existence of a Supreme Being in the breast of mankind the world over, and consciousness never deceives; and, third, that which we when we accept Jesus. Mr. Crossley wanted those who were skeptical because they could not understand these things to test the matter honestly; to prove what he said or be cut-and-out atheists. Do it honestly, and there would be no danger of their becoming atheists, but rather believing Christians.

The second mystery was that of the incarnation of Jesus Christ. People enquired, how can He be both God and Man? We must look nearer home for an answer. How can we account for our moral and physical natures as they are combined in the one person. Explain that and the mystery of the incarnation of the divine and human natures in Jesus is explained. The sensible way to understand this mystery was to prove it; seek honestly, and if He can save you he is God; if he cannot (and Mr. Crossley said he spoke in all reverence), He is the greatest imposter on this earth. If a man was honest in heart God will remove all difficulties of the head. Mr. Crossley instanced the case of Mr. Loadon, of Picton, a confirmed skeptic, who tested and proved for himself the saving power of Jesus.

The third mystery was the atonement of Jesus. How were men to be saved through His death? Some men attempted to explain it by the ones of substitution, moral, commercial and others, but all were wrong and had fatal consequences. It was foolish and presumptious in men endeavoring to explain what Revelations says is the sealed book, a mystery that even the angels were unable to fathom. People try to understand the theories instead of testing the fact. In Romans it says:—"The gospel is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth." Again, in John was this passage: "If any man do His will he shall know the doctrine whether it be of God." He urged them as honest men to fairly test the question, and not stupidly refuse to "bother their heads about things they can't understand," as some say. By so doing they discredited the statements of the many reliable persons they know who openly testified to the reality of the atoning power of Jesus. The fourth mystery is the regeneration of the human heart. These things were spiritually discerned, and the experience of regeneration could never be had intellectually. In this they must recognize an unseen power, there must be a master mind behind all things, for this very assurance for the great changes in the lives of so many who were brought under the power of the gospel. Mr. Crossley referred to Mr. B——, of St. Catherines, a skeptic, libertine, drunkard and everything that was bad—described as —who experienced this regeneration of heart some nine years ago and was still rejoicing in a loving Saviour. An honest test would prove the reality of the regeneration of heart, though it could not be explained.

ROTTEN FROM HEAD TO FOOT

The fifth mystery was that of the life beyond. There were different ideas of heaven and hell, but who knew what they were? Some ask, why did God not give us a conception of these things? For the same reason exactly that a blind man cannot be given a proper conception of the beauties of the landscape. Because we have not the power or capacity to take it in. Some have proven what heaven is, and some what hell is, but they never come back to tell us, and even if they did they could tell no more than God has. But within ourselves there was the consciousness of a hereafter, and as in nature there was something to match every consciousness—sound for the ear, light for the eye, and so on—so where there is a consciousness of another life, there is the other life to match—Mr. Crossley, in conclusion, urged his hearers to test these mysteries honestly, to prove that they were realities, though not to be understood or explained, and to not defer the test until too late.

After Mr. Crossley's address Mr. Hunter called upon Messrs. Wilber Daly and Harry Winch to say a few words, and each spoke briefly announcing their proof of the saving grace of God and their intention of remaining true to their Saviour. Before the first meeting closed a number stood up as seekers after Christ. At the after meeting a number of the newly converted testified, among them Messrs. Fred Winch, John Craig, Chas. Porter, H. Edmison, Wm. Cowle, and others

NOTES.

The afternoon meetings this week are as follows:—Tuesday and Thursday, in the Charlotte Street Church, and on Friday in the Ashburnham Methodist Church, beginning at 3 p.m.

To-night the subject of the evangelists' addresses will be the parlor dance. Tuesday night there will be another men's meeting.

Last night several ladies from Port Hope and Millbrook, who had come up for the purpose of attending the meeting last night, were, of course, deprived of the expected treat, it being for men only.

Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Hunter preached in the Ashburnham Methodist Church, and Rev. Mr. Crossley in the Murray Street Baptist Church.

The doors to-night will not be opened till seven o'clock, so that there will be no use of going before that hour.

The evangelists held a successful and interesting meeting in the Division Street Church, Cobourg, Saturday afternoon. The edifice was filled, and the many converts secured by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter a couple of years ago were greatly pleased to see them again.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—A correspondent signing himself "Citizen" accuses me, in Saturday's issue of the Review, with making misleading statements in connection with the number of convictions for drunkenness under Scott Act as compared with those for the same length of time under the Crooks Act. Now I certainly understood Mr. Macdonald our town clerk to state to me that for the same time under both Acts, viz., 35 months there were some 200 more convictions under Crooks Act than under Scott Act. If I misunderstood him will be correct me and I will be pleased to withdraw any statement I have made contrary to facts. Will Mr. Macdonald also give to the ratepayers the number of convictions for drunkenness for 35 months under Crooks Act from 1st May '53 to 1st April '36. Also 35 months under Scott Act from 1st May '86 to 1st April '89. This is a fair request. I am sure our obliging clerk will grant it. But what's the matter with "Citizen" that he leaves 1883 altogether out of his count and only gives 28 months under Crooks Act as compared with 35 months under Scott Act? Fair play men, fair play is all we ask. Don't try and mislead by such a barefaced lobsided as that. The town clerk can set us all right. I hope he will over his own signature. He may say "I don't think it will be a fair count, as there were railway operations going on in this vicinity, also Trent Valley Canal work being done north of us during those 35 months under Crooks Act which increased the number of drunks more than ordinary. Now let this be remembered that we have had railways built and railway operations in town to no small extent, since the Scott Act came in force. The Trent Valley Canal work was not completed by any means before the Scott Act came in force. And further, who will deny that the past three years has been the basest of any in the town's history. Many outside men had to be called in to supply the demand in almost all the trades. The transient population has been about as great the last three years as those previous. Further, few will deny that the extra boom in drunks during the past year, and especially the past few months—in order to bring local prohibition into disrepute—will more than counterbalance any extra number from what ever cause recorded in 1883. The worst thing that "Citizen" has to say about Ashburnham's clean sheet is that three residents of that village were arrested on this side of the iron bridge for being drunk. Where did they get drunk? Probabilities say they struck the boom this side and were effected very materially by the present big push in that line. Fellow townsmen, this whole county may feel proud of Ashburnham's record. I question whether there is another village of the same population on this western hemisphere—where there is law and order—that has the same showing. Until we hear of another clean sheet, we award the banner to Ashburnham.

Yours,
JOHN CARLISLE.

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

Sold only in cans, full weight.

Assuming a Warlike Attitude.

Many other houses are becoming very indignant at the idea of W. J. Morrow controlling the grocery trade of the town and country, but never mind—be cautious. We will prove to all you grocers who are grappling for high prices, that the time has arrived when W. J. Morrow will enlighten the public; doing more of a cash business and a more extensive trade he is better prepared to sell goods away down. Then again, here are a lot of our best Toronto and Montreal houses clamoring for our trade, owing to our buying for cash, and hence the keen competition, thereby buying goods away below other houses. So a call will convince you that we are Peterborough's great grocery house—340 George street. dw

MR. CHAS. LEGROS now has a telephone in his tonsorial parlors for the convenience of ladies who require hairdressing done at their homes. Litigation Lively.

A leading legal gentleman informs the EXAMINER that in this county 65 writs have issued out of the High Court of Justice since the first of January, this year. In the corresponding time last year the number of writs issued was only 24. The lawyers are consequently in good spirits. In 1888, altogether there were 119 writs issued and in 1887, there were 89 writs issued.

THE ATTRACTION AT TURNBULL'S

Whatever the weather has been outside, it was the springiest of Springtime in our Store on Wednesday and Thursday last, when all the new Millinery and Millinery belongings were opened out of their close filling boxes. For the benefit of those who could not get in on those days, we will keep the display up all the first week in April.

Among the leading changes noticeable in the Trimming this season is LACE, KNDS and SCARFS and LONG VEILS drawn in with Baby Ribbon at the bottom. Flowers and Ribbons are the leading Trimmings. The old fashioned bop that used to climb on the pole at the back door, is now found falling over the Black Lace Hats. Having struck a cheap line of Flowers (German make) the Germans copy the French designs and give us the Goods much cheaper. We have a Bouquet for everybody. Bunches of Roses in all colors only 35 c. each. Our Stock of CHILDRENS' TRIMMED HATS is unusually attractive. Sailor Hats in endless variety. We have not room to give them a front show. We were disappointed at not being able to show with the Millinery, the new JET CAPES and SILK VISETTES and TRIMMED DOLMANS, but there is time enough yet, and we expect them in on the first freight train. A fine assortment of Cloths in the order department. All hands at work as busy as bees in the workroom up stairs.

The DRESS GOODS Department is as lively as ever. A new line of Vigoreaux Cloth in 8 shades, 44 inches wide, at 60 cents, came in this week; a glance at it will tell you it is serviceable. With them came a new line of German Dress Cloth—we have shown nothing similar before; is just what any lady would fancy for a genteel Dress. Will show another new make next week.

Miss MERCHANT is always pleased to help you with her advice as to length of Dress Pattern, Style of Making and Trimming, whether you wish to have it made by her or not.

KID GLOVES fresh from the hands of the maker in Austria, at 75c. and $1.00 a pair. This line we had in stock before, but the quantity was small and we only had a pair for a lady here and there.

CORSETS.—Spring brings changes and this one has brought one of the nicest makes of Corsets we have ever had. Large sizes for stout ladies always in Stock.

PRIVATE MEMBERS' DAY!

THE COMMONS' NOTICE PAPER CLEARED OF MANY MOTIONS.

The Resolution Attaching the Seat of Dr. Robertson of P. E. I. Dropped—This Over the Intercolonial Railway.

OTTAWA, April 1.—This was private members' day in the Commons, and little business of general interest was transacted. The notice paper was cleared of a good number of uninteresting motions, all upon which there was to be no speaking being cleared off.

Mr. Taylor's resolution respecting Dr. Robertson, one of the Prince Edward Island members who was supposed to have violated the Independence of Parliament Act by accepting payment of public moneys of Canada for medical services rendered certain sick mariners, was dropped. The resolution asked a reference of the matter to the Committee on Privileges and Elections to decide whether or not Dr. Robertson had forfeited his seat.

Mr. Holton's resolution declaring the expediency of amending the Customs Act so as to relieve honest importers from danger of oppression, and prohibiting participation of Customs officers in the proceeds of fines or forfeitures, was also dropped. It is understood that he will bring up the subject in Committee of Supply on the customs votes.

In the Senate to-day Senator Botsford moved for returns respecting Intercolonial Railway management and expenditure, and intimated to the leader of the Government that he might here find a better field in which to practice economy than that in which the special committee on the expenditure of the Senate and Commons were about to operate.

In reply Senator Abbott, assenting to the motion, said if he were to devote himself to discovering how the Intercolonial Railway might be made to pay he thought he might hit upon a plan that would not be altogether agreeable to Senator Botsford and others from his section.

FIRES OF A DAY.

Iron Works at Youngstown, O., Destroyed—300 Men Thrown Out of Work.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 1.—This evening fire broke out in the extensive Glenece Iron Works of Arms, Ball & Co., and by reason of the greasy machinery spread through the building so rapidly that in half an hour the entire plant was in ruins. The flames then communicated to the iron works of Brown, Bonnell & Co., destroying a warehouse and an engine house. The loss to Arms, Ball & Co. is $80,000. The fire throws 300 men out of employment. Brown, Bonnell & Co. lose $10,000, covered by insurance.

Broke Through a Burning Bridge.

WHEELING, W. Va., April 1.—As freight train No. 88 on the Baltimore and Ohio line reached the bridge over Charles Creek, 33 miles east of here, to-day Engineer Kusch noticed the bridge was burning. It was too late to check the train and his fireman with one brakeman saved themselves by jumping. The next instant the locomotive broke through the bridge, which was weakened by the fire, and followed by 14 cars fell into the creek bed, where the burning timbers from the bridge set fire to the cars and they were burned. The caboose did not leave the track and all the crew escaped. Two unknown tramps stealing a ride on the train went down with the wreck and were burned. The fire is supposed to have been caused by falling cinders.

A Blaze at Brantford.

BRANTFORD, April 1.—Fire in the residence of J. Cockshutt at 6 o'clock this morning, caused by a spark coming through a stovepipe hole in the chimney, caused a loss on the building of $1000, covered by insurance in the Phœnix; loss on furniture, etc., $1500, no insurance.

A Farmhouse Destroyed.

BELLEVILLE, April 1.—Mr. L. Reid's farm house in the 4th concession of Thurlow was destroyed by fire on Saturday night with the greater part of its contents. No insurance.

A Midnight Blaze.

COLBORNE, April 1.—At about midnight a fire was discovered in the brick store owned by Wm. Coxall. It threatens to destroy Crandell's store and the Great Northwestern Telegraph office.

LABOR NOTES.

The Strike in the Coke Region Fails to Materialize.

PITTSBURG, April 1.—The strike or trouble over a reduction of wages in the coke region predicted for to-day failed to materialize. The Frick Company has reduced wages as per the provisions of the sliding scale which it has with its men, but the other leading operators have not made any reduction.

St. Louis Carpenters on Strike.

ST. LOUIS, April 1.—About 1200 of the 2000 carpenters in this city struck work to-day. They demanded an 8-hour day and 40 cents per hour. The bosses generally conceded the 8-hour day, but were divided about the wages, many being unwilling to give more than 30 cents. In addition the men have been much agitated because the bosses ignored the Brotherhood of Carpenters. The say they are determined to have recognition as an organization.

Denver Painters on Strike.

DENVER, April 1.—Over 200 painters struck this morning for a reduction in hours from 9 to 8 and $2.75 per day as heretofore received. The employing firms refused the demands and have telegraphed east for men.

Started with Reduced Wages.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., April 1.—All the mills of the Bethlehem Iron Company started to-day with a full force. Puddlers' wages are reduced from $3.80 to $3.45 a ton.

Harrison's Appointments.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—It seems to be the universal expectation among senators that the Senate will adjourn the present special session also die to-morrow. If the session ends to-morrow it will have been of exactly the same length as the one convened by President Arthur to receive President Cleveland's nominations. President Harrison has sent in about 380 nominations since March 5, all of which, with a very few exceptions, have been reported from committee, and will have been confirmed before adjournment. Of the offices yet to be filled the most important are Commissioner of the General Land Office and Public Printer. It is believed they will be filled within a few days. Editor Osborne of The Los Angeles Evening Express, the discoverer of the Murchison letter, is believed to be the man selected for public printer, but no satisfactory guess can be made as to the Land Commissioner.

Two Years for a Bigamist.

BELLEVILLE, April 1.—The Police Magistrate to-day sentenced Joseph Douglas, the bigamist, to two years in the penitentiary. Douglas was married to four women, all of whom are said to be living.

The customs receipts for March were $66,877, an increase of $5800 over March, 1888.

French-Canadian Aggression.

QUEBEC, April 1.—Yesterday Madame Roberge of St. Nicholas, a parish just above the city on the other shore, gave birth to triplets—two boys and a girl.

DEATH OF HON. J. H. POPE.

THE MINISTER OF RAILWAYS SUCCUMBS TO HIS LONG ILLNESS.

Sir John Macdonald Announces the Decease of His Colleague to the House—The Premier Deeply Affected.

OTTAWA, April 1.—Hon. John Henry Pope, Minister of Railways and Canals, died about 5 o'clock this afternoon. His death had been hourly expected, hope for other than a fatal termination of his long illness having been abandoned. The news was at once sent Sir John Macdonald at the House of Commons. The Premier was visibly affected as he read the brief contents of the note handed him by the page, and it was apparent to all that some grief had befallen him. Sir John at once crossed the House and communicated the news to Hon. Wilfrid Laurier. He was retiring to his seat when, noticing the frail, trembling form of Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, he considerately stopped to inform the ex-Premier also.

The public intimation was not made to the House for about half an hour, Mr. Ellenhauer of Nova Scotia having the floor and speaking upon a local grievance. All unconscious he proceeded at tedious length, and after he had concluded he was answered in brief by Hon. Charles Tupper.

Then Sir John Macdonald rose, the picture of grief, and communicated the fact in trembling tones. "It is my melancholy duty," he said, "to announce the decease of the Honorable John Henry Pope, my friend and colleague. Though not unexpected the blow is no severe, now that it has fallen, that I am not able to say more at present. As the members on both sides are anxious to get through with the business of the session I will move the adjournment of the House now instead of to-morrow."

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier seconded the motion in a few simple words. The death not being unexpected the grief was not so harrowing, he said, as in the case of a young life unexpectedly cut short. All would agree, he thought, that it was no ordinary or common life which had just been terminated. As the members would have another opportunity of paying a tribute to the worth of the deceased he would say no more at present.

Hon. Peter Mitchell also spoke briefly. He declared that in passing out of the Cabinet Hon. Mr. Pope had left not a man in it superior to himself in a certain line.

The House adjourned at 5.45 until 3 o'clock to-morrow.

About five or six weeks ago the attendant physicians gave up all hope of Mr. Pope's recovery. Dr. Howard of Montreal was called in for consultation and he too considered the case almost hopeless. Since then Dr. Howard himself has met a very sudden death. Dr. Osler, formerly of Montreal but now of Philadelphia, who had come to attend Dr. Howard's funeral, was summoned to Ottawa to consult with Drs. Wright and Powell, the physicians in attendance on Mr. Pope. When he arrived he found that the passage conveying the bile from the stomach to the liver was stopped and that the cause of obstruction could not be removed.

Yesterday afternoon the patient took a severe chill and thereafter failed rapidly. The near approach of death becoming a certainty, his family gathered round to bid a last adieu, there being present his wife, his daughter, Mrs. W. B. Ives, his son-in-law, Mr. Ives, and his son, Rufus Pope.

Sir John Macdonald spent a couple of hours with him to-day and the two old friends had quite an affecting parting.

Mr. Pope passed quietly away shortly after 5 o'clock, being half unconscious at the last. He had been confined to his room for about six weeks, though the illness to which he has succumbed has been for years gaining the mastery over him. He has borne himself throughout with great fortitude, making light of all his sufferings.

The interment will take place at Cookshire, Que., the deceased's family residence. The cortege will leave by special Canadian Pacific Railway train to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, and the burial will be on Wednesday afternoon. At Ottawa the service will be read by Rev. H. Pollard of St. John's Episcopal Church.

AN ACTIVE LIFE.

Brief Sketch of the Dead Minister's Public Career.

[Hon. John Henry Pope, Minister of Railways and Canals for the Dominion of Canada, M.P. for Compton, was born in 1824, and received his educational training in the High School at Compton, P. Q. The earlier period of his life was directed to agricultural pursuits. Mr. Pope was fond of military life and took a lively interest in the volunteer movement. He commanded the Cookshire Volunteer Cavalry for many years, and retired in 1866, retaining his rank as major. He was president of the Intercolonial Railway Company of Maine, and also of the Compton Colonization Society. He took a deep interest in education, and for many years has been a trustee of St. Francis College, Richmond, P. Q. He was also a director of the Eastern Townships Bank. In 1854, at the general election of that year, Mr. Pope offered himself as a candidate for the Legislative Assembly of Canada for Compton, and was defeated; but in 1857 he succeeded in carrying his election and sat in this Legislature until the union of the provinces under confederation. He was then elected a member of the House of Commons by acclamation, and had been returned ever since by his old friends each time he appealed for their suffrages. On Oct. 26, 1871, Hon. Mr. Pope was sworn in a member of the Privy Council and made Minister of Agriculture, and this office he held until the defeat of the Macdonald ministry on the Pacific scandal question in November, 1873, when he retired with his leader. On the return of his party to power, on the 17th of the Mackenzie Administration, he was, on Oct. 17, 1873, reinstated into the old office of Minister of Agriculture. On Sept. 26, 1884, he was made Minister of Railways and Canals. During the summer of 1880 Hon. Mr. Pope, in company with Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir Charles Tupper, visited England and took an active part in the negotiations which led to the Pacific railway contract, subsequently ratified by Parliament. He was a Liberal-Conservative in politics. Hon. Mr. Pope was not given to debate, but whatever he had to say, in or out of Parliament, he said with a terse vigor and conciseness of language that made a mockery of ornate phrases. He had the disposition to work, an intelligent appreciation of the wants of the country, and a well-studied Parliamentary experience of nearly half an average lifetime.]

WINNIPEG'S NEW BOOM.

Increase in Customs Receipts—A $10,000 Libel Suit.

WINNIPEG, April 1.—The customs returns for March are very favorable. The duty collected is $44,515, against $36,642 the previous March. Inland revenue returns show receipts to be $20,122. The withdrawals are about $14,000 over deposits in the savings bank, the money being used for investment in property.

Seeding operations are progressing favorably throughout the whole country. The area seeded is much larger than last year.

A servant girls' excursion to Manitoba from Ontario is being arranged for.

The Manitoba and Northern Pacific Railway company will build a mammoth hotel in Winnipeg next summer.

A Friend of Freedom and Humanity.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—In the Senate to-day Mr. Stewart offered the following resolution, which was laid over till to-morrow:

"Resolved that the Senate has learned with profound sorrow of the death of John Bright, and remembering his constant and unwavering friendship for the United States desires to join with the Parliament of his own country in paying a grateful tribute to one who during his long public life was conspicuous in his devotion to the cause of freedom and humanity."

A Religious Crank's Crime.

JACKSON, Ms., April 1.—Monroe Lassiter of Rollings County recently became a religious lunatic, claiming to have received from God the command to preach but first to offer his fourteen-months'-old child as a sacrifice. He made his wife strangle the infant, claiming that the Almighty had promised to resurrect the child on the third day. Lassiter and his wife have been jailed.

H. Rosebery Displeased at Public Prosecutor Bonnar of His Sympathy With Bonsinger—Russia Building Steamers.

LONDON, April 1.—A letter from Henry M. Stanley has reached a friend of the explorer in Edinburgh. The letter is dated Sempiari, Sept. 4, 1888, and says he is well and in good spirits. He met Emin Pasha on the shores of the Albert Nyanza. They were together for 28 days. When Stanley left Emin the latter was enjoying good health.

Sir Francis De Winton, president of the Emin Bey Relief Committee, says the letters will make five newspaper columns, that it will not be published before to-morrow and that the Government is ignorant of its contents.

Crofter Families for the Northwest.

LONDON, April 1.—A party of crofters, consisting of nearly fifty families, leave Stornoway to-day and embark at Glasgow on Wednesday for Wolseley, in the Northwest, under the Government emigration scheme. This will be the only party this season. Arrangements have been carefully made. The emigrants will be met at Halifax and Almonski and looked after throughout the journey. It is believed the party will start in the Northwest with much better prospects than last year's settlers.

Lord George's Proposals Approved.

LONDON, April 1.—The Committee of the House of Commons, by a vote of 251 to 75, to-night approved the proposals recently submitted by Lord George Hamilton, First Lord of the Admiralty, for increasing the strength of the navy.

GIBRALTAR, March 31.

To the Secretary of the Navy, Washington:

The officers of the English Channel fleet sympathize with the American Navy in the terrible loss of life from wrecks at Samoa.

To this message the following reply was sent:

WASHINGTON, April 1.

Admiral Commanding Her Majesty's Channel Fleet, Gibraltar:

Accept for yourself and the officers of your command my grateful acknowledgment on behalf of the United States Navy for your message of sympathy and regret will extended by the recent disaster at Samoa.

TRACY, Secretary of the Navy.

Arrests Will Follow This Conspiracy.

NEW HAVEN, Ct., April 2.—An attempt was to have been made here yesterday afternoon to railroad a sane woman to an insane asylum, but happily it was thwarted. She was the wife of Edward Ladington. About a week ago she was taken ill and pronounced insane. Preparations were made to remove her to an asylum yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Munson, a nurse attending Mrs. Ladington, became suspicious because of the nature of the medicines given the patient, and notified the woman's parents, who immediately removed her to their home. Several of the best physicians of the city were called in to determine Mrs. Ladington's sanity, and they unanimously agreed that she was only suffering from a hard cold. An investigation is under way, and arrests will follow.

Trying to Bribe a Councilman.

PITTSBURG, Pa. ATHLETES IN COUNCIL.

The Annual Meeting of the "Triple A"

Prosperous Season Looked Forward to—Queen's Birthday Sports this Year—Shall the Grounds be Enlarged?—A Gymnasium Proposed.

A well attended meeting of the members of the Peterborough Amateur Athletic Association was held in the rooms over Stethem's store last night. It was the annual gathering for organization for the season and the election of a board of directors. Dr. Burnham, President, occupied the chair. After the reading of the minutes Mr. F. E. Bell, Secretary, read the following REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS.

The Directors in submitting their fourth annual report have reason to be satisfied with the work of the season of 1888, and to express the hope that the succeeding season will be as prosperous, financially as well as otherwise.

Cricket as usual took the lead and flourished. Ten matches were played and we had the opportunity of witnessing some good play, especially on the visit of the Scarbright's of New York. It is expected that amendment to the constitution of the Ontario Association in having a senior and junior series of matches will have the effect of giving cricket an impetus not only in Peterborough but throughout the province. The cricket club is making arrangements for securing the services of H. Day, the professional of last year.

Lawn tennis was fairly successful, the club having had several meets, in which the ladies took part, and it is to be hoped the club this year will make every effort to continue the meets this season.

The directors regret that baseball was not successful in a financial point of view, but the club played a number of interesting matches, both at home and abroad. Your directors would recommend that the issue of permits to play baseball on the grounds be discontinued.

The bicycle club turned out much better in 1888 than in previous seasons, having held a series of weekly meets and runs in uniform. A great point of interest to the Association was the excursion to Belleville on the 2nd of July, on the occasion of the wheelmen's meet in that city. Your directors would call the attention of the Association, that if the inducements were offered to the C. W. A. they might hold their annual meet in Peterborough this year, as there is a desire on the part of some members of the Association to do so. We would ask the meeting to take the matter into consideration.

In Football, owing to the absence and removal from town of some of the principal players, we had no team last season, but this year there is no doubt we will be able to place a strong team in the field.

SNOWSHOEING.—Owing to the shortness of the season and late arrival of the snow, the directors regret that there was very little if any interest taken in that branch of sport.

OTHER MATTERS.

The directors would call attention to the term of our lease, which expires with the present season, and we have to consider the notice necessary to secure the same grounds either by lease or purchase, or to secure some other ground available.

Your directors would call the attention of the Association to the advisability of starting a gymnasium this coming fall in connection with the Association. Arrangements might be made with Sergt.-Major Randle to take charge of it, and it might be a source of profit to the Association as well as a great benefit to the young members thereof. We would suggest that a committee be elected at this meeting to take into consideration the advisability of such a scheme and the best means of carrying it out, to report either to the directors or to a meeting of the Association called for that purpose.

The Association held, in connection with the 57th Battalion, very successful sports on the 24th of May. They were a source of profit to the Battalion and the Association. It will be for this meeting to consider what would be the best way to celebrate the Queen's birthday this year.

The Treasurer's statement shows the receipts for fees and from other sources to have been in excess of the expenditure, leaving a small surplus. In the payments are included some accounts of the previous years, showing that the "A" is self-sustaining, although there is still a small deficiency, caused, as stated in previous reports, by expenditure of a permanent nature. To reduce this debt is our first aim, and for this purpose your Directors have arranged for two entertainments to be given in the latter part of April for the benefit of the Association funds.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

G. BURNHAM, President.
F. E. BELL, Secretary.

The report was received.

THE FINANCES.

The report of Mr. Geo. Schofield, Treasurer, showed a satisfactory financial standing, and the statement of assets and liabilities showed a reduction in the debt of the Association from $400 last year to a little over $200 this. The Directors hope to wipe off the debt entirely the coming season. The accounts were referred to Messrs. A. St. A. Smith and W. D. Parker for auditing.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED.

The question of enlarging the present grounds, or purchasing new grounds, was referred to the President, Secretary and Mr. T. Hay, to report at a future meeting of the Association.

Messrs. Brennan, Salisbury and R. A. W. Hay were appointed to consider the proposition of establishing a gymnasium next winter.

The arrangement of a celebration for 24th of May was left to the directors. A proposition was mooted to have a telephone placed in the pavilion at the grounds during the summer months, but no definite action was taken.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS.

The election of officers was then conducted. Dr. Halliday was re-appointed Honorary President, and the appointment of patrons and patronesses was left in the hands of the directors. The following directors were then appointed:—

BASEBALL—Dr. Brennan and W. Salisbury.
FOOTBALL—R. B. Rogers.
SNOWSHOE—Geo. A. Schofield.
LAWN TENNIS—W. D. Parker.
CRICKET—W. J. Munro and J. Stirling.
BICYCLE—Dr. Burnham and F. E. Bell.

Some of the clubs have already elected their officers, and the others will do so at their first meeting.

The meeting adjourned.

A THREE-YEAR-OLD LIST

To be Used in the Scott Act Vote on Thursday.

Who May Vote For or Against the Repeal of the Scott Act.

Everybody will be interested in knowing who is entitled to vote for or against the petition for the repeal of the Canada Temperance Act on Thursday next.

Here is the "Qualification of Voters," as laid down in Section 12 of the Canada Temperance Act, (R.S.C.):

"12. All persons qualified to vote at the elections of a member of the House of Commons in the county or city to which any proclamation issued under this Act relates, on the day on which a poll is held in compliance with such proclamation, and no others shall be qualified to vote and to have their votes polled, on that day, for or against the adoption of the petition mentioned in such proclamation. 41 V., C. 16, S. 12."

That is to say, no person can vote on the adoption of the petition, for or against, unless his name is on the Dominion Voters' List, which was compiled three years ago. No matter which way the repeal vote goes, the result will be unsatisfactory, because, if every eligible vote is polled on either side, a fair and full expression of public opinion will not have been secured. Hundreds who are entitled to vote will not be on the antiquated Dominion lists, which have been "blasmoulding" in pigeon holes for the past three years. During that time scores of new citizens have entered the county, scores of young men have come of age, and entered upon the duties of citizenship—and all these are disfranchised under the Dominion Election Act for next Thursday's voting. The local voters' lists should be used because they represent the very latest possible number of qualified voters, and under a more liberal franchise standard. Thanks to the Dominion Government's intermeddling with the local election lists they force the public to give expression of opinion upon a great public question through the medium of a voters' list largely represented by dead men and absentees, while hundreds of intelligent men are disfranchised, their months closed, their voting hand paralysed. The Dominion list can no more afford the means of a full, complete and down-to-date expression of public opinion than a papyrus roll found in a mummy's coffin.

TRADE AND TRAFFIC.

Leading Features of the Grain and Produce Markets at Home and Abroad.

TORONTO, April 2.—There has been no particular change in the outlook during the past week. Business on the whole has been dull. There has been a slight improvement in hardware and dry goods circles, but shoe men are waiting anxiously for rough, wet weather to bring them customers. Wall paper and housefurnishing houses report the opening of the season and expect to do a good trade.

Some large shipments of leather to England, thus relieving the market of overstock, have kept up hope in the hearts of dealers, and lead them to expect an early advance in prices, but some boot and shoe merchants express fear that the bottom has not yet been reached. They claim that there are yet far too many in the trade, both manufacturing and retailing, and that more are bound to go.

There is a plethora of money in the market, but the absence of speculation keeps it locked up and makes collections very slow. The market is very quiet and rates are unchanged.

One feature that has caused a great deal of comment during the past six months is the large number of "chip outs," and there has been much speculation as to the cause of the epidemic. This reason has probably a great deal to do with it. There will frequently be noticed in the press cards reading something like this:

WANTED TO PURCHASE—A SHOE business. All communications strictly confidential.

These advertisements are inserted generally by a class of men who make it their business to find out a dealer who is weak, and who, they think, would not scruple to pocket a sum in cash and cross the lines, provided he could do so with some appearance of honesty. These sharks go to such a dealer and say to him: "Now see here. You are hard up. I will give so much for your stock," naming a ridiculously small sum. The merchant takes it, packs his valise, and departs, leaving his creditors in the soup. This game is not confined to the shoe business, but is worked in all branches of trade. Two cases have occurred in Toronto during the past few weeks, one that of a shoe dealer, the other a gents' furnisher. Other cases can be named in Guelph, Thamesville, and several other places.

TORONTO GRAIN MARKETS.

Receipts of hay and straw were very small yesterday and the demand poor. Hay sold at $18 and straw at $10.

The only sales of grain on the street were one load of barley at 50½ cents and 200 bushels of oats at 33½ to 34½ cents.

The quotations on 'change were as follows: No. 1 hard wheat offered at $1.32, with $1.28 bid; one car of No. 2 frosted offered at 90c at Woodstock, one car offered ex Carleton Junction at 86c; $1 bid for one car No. 1 frosted on track, with $1 asked to arrive this month; 2 cars offered at $1.03 on track. No transactions.

At the Northern elevator there are stored 1660 barrels flour, 750 bushels fall wheat, 13,375 bushels spring wheat, 21,292 bushels barley, 600 bushels peas and 996 bushels oats, a total of 114,865 bushels. During last week 3183 bushels of barley were shipped.

A Frightened Mother.

"My little girl, 4 years old, frightened me one night by a croupy cough, but I gave her a dose of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, which relieved her at once, and she slept well all night. I have since used it in several cases of croup, frost bites, etc., and find it always reliable." Mrs. Eva Bradley, Virden, Man.

The Blood is the Life,

And on its purity largely depends the general health. No one is free from danger, and nine-tenths of humanity actually do suffer from one form or other of impure blood. No one remedy has such a wide range of curative power as has Burdock Blood Bitters—that best of all blood purifiers and tonics.

The Loss of the Hair

Is a great misfortune and the sight of a bald head should be a warning to you to take the best possible care of your hair. A little of Dr. Dorenwend's "Hair Magic" used occasionally will prevent all chances of its falling out or turning grey, and will remove all traces of dandruff. Every druggist has it in stock. Ask for it. dw

Eczema, Itchy, Scaly Skin Tortures.

The simple application of "Swayne's Ointment," without any internal medicine, will cure any case of Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Piles, Itch, Sores, Pimples, Eczema, all Scaly Itching Skin Eruptions, no matter how obstinate or long standing. It is potent, effective, and costs but a trifle. Lymans, Sons & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents. dw

A Cure for Lumbago.

That painful complaint can be quickly cured by the right remedy. Miss Mary Jane Could, of Stoney Creek, Ont., says: "I was troubled with lumbago, and could not get relief until I used Hagyard's Yellow Oil, one bottle of which cured me entirely." 2w14d

As a Tonic and relief to sufferers from Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite and General Debility, Dyer's Quinine and Iron Wine is highly recommended. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal. 6d75

FOR DRINKING
ROYAL DANDELION
COFFEE

Some drink because they are hungry.
And some because they're dry,
Some drink to keep them in good health,
And some that they may thrive.

Some drink because they are too hot,
And some because they're too cold,
Some drink to strengthen them when young,
And some when they are old.

Some drink to keep them wide awake,
And some that they may sleep,
Some drink because they merry are,
And some because they weep.

Some drink when they do money gain,
And some because of loss;
Some drink when they are pleased,
And some when they are cross.

Some drink when they are hard at work,
And some when they do play;
Some think it right to drink at night,
While others drink by day.

Some drink for sake of company,
While others drink on the sly;
And many drink but never think,
About the reason why.

Some say they drink for pleasure,
And others they drink for pain,
Some say 'tis good, some very bad,
But never once refrain.

Yet all must own the proverb true:
"When iron's hot to strike it"—
I've just found out the reason why—
All drink because they like it!

Entertained at Government House—An Action for Damages Against the Grand Trunk

OTTAWA, March 31.—Sir John Macdonald entertained the following gentlemen at dinner at Government House last evening: Senators de Boucherville, Dever, Dickey, Ogilvie, McMillan, Merner and Sutherland, and Messrs. Bain of Soulanges, Cochrane, Dickinson, Ferguson of Leeds, Gaffiet, M. P.'s. Dr. Bourinot, Mr. Courtney, Dr. George Dawson, Mr. F. A. Dixon, Mr. A. D. Patterson of Toronto, Mr. Patrick, C.M.G., Mr. Sedgwick, Dr. Selwyn, C.M.G., Mr. Trudeau, and Mr. White.

In the Supreme Court yesterday Shannon v. Quirk was concluded and judgment was reserved. Jones v. Grand Trunk Ry. Co. was next argued. This is an action brought by a widow for damages for the death of her husband, who was killed by an engine at Point Edward. The mishap, it is claimed, was caused owing to proper facilities for reaching the station not being provided. The company claimed that everything necessary for the safety of passengers had been done and that the plaintiff was guilty of contributory negligence. This view was concurred in by the Court of Appeal, which reversed the judgment for plaintiff affirmed by the Divisional Court. Judgment was reserved. R. M. Meredith for appellant, Dalton McCarthy for respondent.

An address and a dinner service of silver, costing several thousand dollars, were presented yesterday to Sir Hector Langevin on the twenty-fifth anniversary of his entry into the Privy Council. An immense gathering, representative of all political opinions, assembled in the new departmental building in Wellington-street. The presentation was made by Mayor Ernst, and after several speeches, including a reply from the Minister of Public Works, the meeting dispersed with cheers for Sir Hector and the Queen.

TORONTO TOPICS.

A Big Cock Fight Reported—A Chapter of Accidents.

TORONTO, April 1.—A cock fight of big proportions in which many birds and many cattle men were participants is said to have taken place last Wednesday in the south-eastern part of the city, and in a place where two or three fights had been stopped before.

A case of poisoning that just escaped a fatal termination occurred on Friday. Alice, the 3-year-old daughter of Harold Winslitrith, 725 Ontario-street, on returning home from school at noon, complained of being sick. Her mother by mistake gave her a teaspoonful of carbolic acid. The mistake was discovered about ten minutes afterwards, and Drs. Atherton and Oldright were summoned. They administered powerful emetics, and now the child is rapidly recovering.

Mounted Policeman William Ellis sustained a severe abrasion of the bones of the left ankle yesterday afternoon, caused by a fall from his horse in College-avenue.

Constable Thomas Bloodworth also had a fall yesterday in Adelaide-street. His right leg was sprained at the ankle. Pluck-ily mov in the horse's hoofs was the cause of both accidents.

Fred Pickles of 83 D'Arcy-street was severely kicked in the forehead by a horse while passing Grand's stables in Adelaide-street about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He was badly injured and he was unconscious when picked up. At latest reports the man was in a critical condition. He had been married but three or four days.

The regular ferry services between the city and the Island opened on Saturday and a service will be kept up daily till the close of the season.

Detective D. S. Caster, attached to Police Headquarters, New Orleans, arrived in the city yesterday to take Boodler Lee back with him to that city for trial. Lee until Saturday showed a disposition to go back, but on Saturday Leland Gibson [illegible] Secretary of Ontario Bank fame, had him almost persuaded to fight the matter out here. In fact Lawyer Reed was hired to do the law business, and called at Headquarters and asked for $183 of the boodle found on his person, which was to have been used in Lee's defence. Sergeant Reburn politely refused, stating that it was stolen money and would not pass out of his hands until claimed by the rightful owners. Yesterday Detective Caster saw Lee in jail and succeeded in persuading him to hold to his first resolution.

CASTOR OIL.

The Deadly Explosive Used by the Denver Bank Robbers.

DENVER, March 30.—W. H. Clark, arrested yesterday on suspicion of being the man who robbed the First National Bank of $21,000 and subsequently released, was rearrested on the charge of being an accomplice. He denies any connection with the affair. Detectives to-day found in the hall-way of a building in the vicinity of the bank an overcoat in the pockets of which were a loaded revolver and a bottle apparently containing nitro-glycerine, which evidently had been thrown there by the robbers as he escaped. The supposed deadly explosive proved to be simply castor oil.

Mr. Wiman's Portland Speech.

PORTLAND, Me., March 31.—Erastus Wiman speaking at a banquet given by the Board of Trade last evening, stated that political union of Canada and the United States, under existing circumstances, is impossible, and confederation by force of arms or as a result of retaliatory and hostile legislation would be impracticable. A German league formed on the principles of the German zollverein would prove of inestimable advantage to both countries.

Sudden Death at London.

LONDON, Ont., March 30.—This morning a market gardener named G. H. Warburton went to a residence in Dundas-street to deliver a bag of potatoes. He carried the potatoes down in the cellar and stayed so long that the servant went to see what was the matter with him. She found him lying dead in the bin, where he had fallen on top of the potatoes. A doctor was called in and pronounced the cause of death apoplexy.

Murdered His Brother.

NEW YORK, March 31.—During an altercation to-night in the Chelsea Cash Restaurant, Fergus, a mulatto, 31 years old, stabbed his brother George to the heart with a jack knife. He also cut off his brother's right hand. The murderer escaped.

Sympathy From the Queen.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Queen Victoria cabled through Lord Salisbury to the British legation in this city to-day directing that her earnest sympathy be expressed to the President on the terrible naval misfortune of Samoa and the deplorable loss of life. Mr. Edwardes, the British charge, accompanied by the Secretary of State, waited upon the President this afternoon and read to him the Queen's message. The President

AMBITIOUS CITY NOTES.

Absconder Walters in Baltimore — Inland Revenue and Customs Receipts.

HAMILTON, April 1.—Chief McKinnon returned this morning from Baltimore, Md., where he had an interview with Henry Walters, the absconding ladies' mantle maker. Walters was making arrangements to start business in Baltimore, and did not want to return to Hamilton. As Walters did not commit any offence for which he could be arrested, the chief had hard work in making him return the horse and buggy he got away with. He finally got possession of them and sold them for $200. Walters was living in a secluded part of the city, and had the horse and phaeton stabled at a quiet place. His wife was very cunning when she was on her way to join her husband. She purchased tickets to way stations so as to throw pursuers off her track. Chief McKinnon would not say whether he made Walters return any of the money he swindled two clerks in the post-office out of.

The receipts at the Inland Revenue office during March were $34,328, an increase of $4117 over the corresponding month last year.

The value of exports from the consular district of Hamilton to the United States during March was $41,328.

A Sure Remedy for Neuralgia.

Neuralgia is one of the most common and painful affections incidental to the climate. Life to thousands is made miserable through its agency, and as it affects the nerves, only the most powerful and penetrating remedies can reach it. Nerviline has created wonder in the minds of those who have zealously tried other remedies, since its action seems magical. To all suffering from any kind of nerve pain, internal or external, we request a trial of Nerviline. Sold by druggists and all dealers in medicine, 10 and 25 cents a bottle. 6w14d

Ulcerated Stomach.

"For three years I was unable to work, suffering from ulcerated stomach. Medical aid having failed, I was told to try Burdock Blood Bitters, of which 7 bottles made a permanent cure. This was two years ago, and I feel that I have to thank B.B.B. for being alive and well to-day." Mrs. Rose Ann McCloskey, Marmora, Ont. 2w14d

Piles! Piles! Burning Piles.

SYMPTOMS—Moisture, intense itching and stinging, most at night, worse by scratching. If allowed to continue tumors form, which often bleed and ulcerate, becoming very sore. SWAYNE'S OINTMENT stops the itching and bleeding, heals ulceration, and in most cases removes the tumors. At druggists, or by mail, for 50 cents. Dr. Swayne & Son, Philadelphia. Lymans, Sons & Co., Montreal, Wholesale Agents. dw

The Safe Plan.

When suffering from a troublesome cold, a hacking cough, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, or other forms of throat or lung troubles, is to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam to loosen the phlegm and soothe and heal the inflamed mucous surfaces. It cures where others fail. 2w14d

Committed for Trial.

The young man, Milburn, arrested Saturday evening for endeavoring to pass a forged cheque, was tried this morning before P. M. Dumble and sent up for trial at the Assizes, which open here on the 22nd inst. County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution, and Mr. G. M. Roger defended the prisoner. Mr. T. Cavanagh testified that the cheque was not one of his, and Thos. Trenoum said that last Saturday at Milburn's request he got a couple of blank cheques at the Ontario Bank and gave them to the prisoner, who said a couple of farmers owed him money and he wanted the blanks for them to fill out the amount so that he could get the money. Messrs. A. J. Gough, R. S. Davidson and A. Elliott gave evidence as to the attempt to pass the cheque. It seems that Milburn had two cheques, for $100 each, one made payable to himself and the other to Wm. Snowdon or bearer.

CHARITY COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

Mr. Hall, chairman, presented the report of the Charity Committee, stating that the amount of charity given in the month of February amounted to $212.41, subdivided as follows:—No. 1 Ward, $46.75; No. 2 Ward, $51.40; No. 3 Ward, $25.50; No. 4 Ward, $88.76.—Adopted.

PUBLIC SCHOOL DEBENTURE BY-LAW.

Mr. Davidson introduced a by-law to raise the sum of $10,000 for public school purposes—to purchase a site and to erect a four-room school in No. 4 Ward and add two rooms to the South Ward school building. The council went into Committee of the Whole on the second reading, Mr. Langford in the chair. The by-law, which is to be submitted to popular vote on May 1st, 1889, and, if sanctioned by the Ontario Legislature, shall take effect on April 15th, 1890. The annual levy for interest to be $400, and $100 for sinking fund. The committee rose and reported the second reading.

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE DEBENTURE BY-LAW.

A by-law was also introduced to raise debentures to the amount of $20,000 for providing land and buildings for a Collegiate Institute. The other provisions of the by-law are identical with the foregoing.

On the second reading of the by-law in committee, Mr. RUTHERFORD said that there was some difficulty respecting what was to be done with the money. He decidedly objected to the purchase of the Menzies property for a building. He was not sure that the present was a good time for submitting this by-law, because the additional public school accommodation would meet present wants. He would not be in favor of the second reading unless the money were to be expended on new buildings.

Mr. HALL (E. H. D.) said the council had no choice but submit the by-law; the School Board was responsible for the expenditure of the money.

Mr. DAWSON said he was in favor of new buildings. The buildings spoken of could not be converted into suitable collegiate institute buildings.

Mr. RUTHERFORD thought the council had a right to intimate how the money should be spent.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY GRANT.

Mr. Roper, on behalf of a deputation, appeared to ask a grant of $500 to the Horticultural Society, to be expended in the maintenance and improvement of Court House Park. It was a most enjoyable resort for the public and a credit to the town in the eyes of visitors.

Mr. F. J. Lewis as treasurer, said that before the society assumed the care of Court House Park, their annual surpalus had been converted into an annual deficit till it amounted to about $272.

Mr. RUTHERFORD thought St. Paul's church getting so much benefit from its proximity to the park should contribute to its maintenance.

A COUNCILLOR. Why not tax St. John's on the same score?

Dr. BURNHAM suggested that as the county council intend to make a grant to lessen the deficit that this council pay part of that deficit. As to St. John's church helping to pay for the park, he pointed out that St. John's, maintained large and beautiful grounds which the public enjoyed the benefit of.

On motion of Mr. Kendry seconded by Mr. Langford a grant of $500 was made.

NEW MARKET BUILDING.

Mr. CAHILL presented the report in reference to a new market building:—

To the Mayor and Town Council:—

GENTLEMEN,—Your market committee beg leave to recommend that a market building be erected on the west side of Water street south of the present market house, to within about ten feet of Charlotte street. The building to be of brick, two stories high and about thirty or forty feet wide and finished in good style. Also that the present market house be improved to correspond with the new. The whole of the buildings when completed to be used as a market house and butcher stalls as may be hereafter determined. Also that the market scales be removed to the north side of the present market house. All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. CAHILL, Chairman.

1st April, 1889.

Mr. CAHILL did not intend to press the adoption of the report. He chiefly wished to furnish the public with information. He gave a brief sketch of the visit of the deputation in Hamilton. A rough sketch of the proposed building was in the hands of the architect.

The report was received.

MOTIONS AND INQUIRIES.

On motion, Mrs. Elliott, janitress of the town buildings, was voted a wage of $3.50 per week.

Mr. DAWSON asked why Mr. Thos. McGrath was acting as assessor?

The MAYOR said his father was ill and he was simply assisting him.

Several members, while not objecting to the correctness of the assessment made under such conditions, thought it was not legal, and the subject was referred to the town collector.

On motion of Mr. KENDRY, seconded by Mr. LANGFORD, the light in Auburn street was taken over by the town.

On motion the Barnardo House taxes were remitted.

On motion of Messrs. A. HALL and DAWSON, the Fire, Water and Light Committee were empowered to ask for tenders for two new street sprinklers.

Mr. DAWSON enquired why the water mains were not extended on Weller street.

He was told that the matter was still in the hands of the committee.

SPECIAL PLEADING.

Mr. RUTHERFORD wished to call attention to the change in the license law, by which the town was deprived of a large amount of revenue in the way of license fees. He said that he and other temperance councillors had worked for the high license by-law not from a temperance, but from a revenue standpoint. He thought the council should censure the legislature. The council ought to inquire if the member for West Peterborough raised his voice against the objectionable legislation.

Mr. DAWSON—He did.

Mr. CAHILL, while not sympathising with the action of the Ontario Legislature, believed in giving "the devil his due." If the Scott Act were repealed, which he believed would be the case, the amount the town would fail to get would be only about $2,200, instead of the large sum mentioned by Mr. Rutherford, and that would represent an addition of only about ⅔ of a mill on the dollar. He said the town was making a game of grab in the license matter and the legislature thought they would take a hand in, and he didn't blame them so much for that. He pointed out that figures respecting convictions under the Scott Act could be made to lie, and he asserted that in Hastings, under license, the convictions were growing less, and that generally the people were becoming more sober.

The council, evidently regarding this little episode of capital-making and counter-capital-making as irregular, broke up without the usual formality of adjournment.

The Parlor Dance.

Strictures on this Popular Amusement by Messrs. Crossley and Hunter—Another Mammoth Audience.

Messrs. Crossley and Hunter fulminated the thunders of the church against the parlor dance last night. The George street church was crowded to the uttermost, the announcement that this popular amusement would be handled drawing an immense audience. Hundreds were turned away, and those who got standing room were considered lucky. Indeed, one man went so far as to climb up inside the organ and peep through the mouths of the pipes. After nearly destroying the organ the man got out again. On the platform were Rev. Messrs. Greatrix, Cavan; Johnson, Omemee; J. B. Clarkson, M. A., Port Hope.

Mr. Hunter gave a number of reasons why the parlor dance should not be indulged in, among them the late hours, the close contact of the two sexes, the companionship in many cases with one known not whom. Then, most good people were against it. Again it unfits the mind for serious reflection and prayer. People say, but what shall we do for recreation if we don't dance? The time might be better employed in reading or other intellectual pursuits. Mr. Hunter dealt with the claims that dancing was commended in the Bible, and quoted a number of the passages alluded to, in none of which, he said, could it be shown that the two sexes danced together. The charm of the parlor dance to-day, Mr. Hunter said, was not in the dance itself, or the men would dance in one room and the women in the other, or square dances would be more popular. But the fact that it was the round dances that were popular proved that the pleasure of the dance consisted in the "hugging." The dance mentioned in the Bible was the dance of godly people; but Mr. Hunter said he was never at a dance where they would open with prayer and close with the doxology. The dance mentioned in Luke, xv, 25, over the return of the prodigal son, was sometimes quoted in extenuation, but Mr. Hunter asked would a man who was converted to-day celebrate the event by a dance. The analogy was absurd. In these things, Mr. Hunter said, he spoke from experience, for he danced at one time, and he told how on one occasion, after he was converted, he was persuaded into a dance by some young friends, and from the time he began to dance he lost his Christianity and didn't regain it a year.

Mr. Crossley, in beginning, announced that he would speak in very moderate terms and would say nothing to shock anyone. He first combatted the argument that dancing was a recreative amusement, and said this was shown by the worn appearance of the dancers next morning. Then the dance was not expedient for Christians because of the harmful influence of their example; for instance, what would be thought of a dance in a minister's house? And if inexpedient for Christians, it was certainly not good for the unconverted either. The dance was condemned by all the churches, Episcopalian as well as Methodist. At confirmation the candidate subscribes to the vow: "Dost thou renounce the devil and all his works, the pomps and vanities of this wicked world?" The leading clergy of the church of England also condemn it. The Roman Catholic church, too, is opposed to dancing, and the Archbishop of New York says that 19 out of 20 of the prostituted women become so through the dance. This was reverted in the confessional, and the truth is always told there. Mr. Crossley dealt with the propriety of dancing, and said it would be just as proper for a man to put his arm about a ladies' waist while sitting on the sofa as in the dance. He pointed out to mothers who allow their children to dance in the expectation of getting them out in society, that young men do not go to the ballroom to choose a wife, but rather to the prayer meeting. He argued that people had little brains who had no larger capacity for amusement than that afforded by the dance. Mr. Crossley also dealt with some features as previously touched upon by Mr. Hunter, and in conclusion said everyone should consecrate their hearts and heads to the Lord. A Christian would have no desire to dance, he said.

A railing has been put on the sidewalk at the crossing of the C. P. R., on Stewart street. It was a dangerous place and the railing will save all trouble.

Any one visiting the north of the village cannot but be struck by the boom in building. There are upwards of twenty new residences in course of construction, principally on the Carlisle and the Ludgate estate property. Such enterprise is to be commended.

The Town Clerk Replies.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

SIR,—Referring to the letter of Mr. John Carlisle in your paper of yesterday, Mr. Carlisle certainly misunderstood me. The following figures show the number of persons charged as drunk and drunk and disorderly, brought before the police court of the town of Peterborough, during the last thirty-five months under the Crooks Act and the same length of time under the Canada Temperance Act:—

UNDER CROOKS ACT.

1883, 7 months	67
1884, 12 months	105
1885, 12 months	97
1886, 4 months	23
Total	294

UNDER CANADA TEMPERANCE ACT.

1886, 8 months	57
1887, 12 months	73
1888, 12 months	112
1889, 3 months	24
Total	266

The total number in 1883, so often referred to as the "Missing Link" year, was 117.

Ashburnham Council.

The Business Budget of the Village Solons.

At the regular meeting on Monday evening there were present the Reeve, Mr Burnham, in the chair; and Councillors Calcutt, Craig and Marshall. Payment of the following accounts was ordered:—

A Comstock	$ 12 80
Electric Light Co	112 20
Stamps	1 75
Salisbury Bros	2 10
R Pollock	1 75
S Shannon (charity)	4 00
O Moore "	12 50
Pay Sheet No 3	7 00
" No 4	16 00
" No 5	6 50

Mr. Craig was directed to investigate the applications for charity on behalf of Mr. Chatman and Mr. Frith.

It was decided that every order for charity must be signed by two members.

On motion of Messrs. Craig and Marshall, it was decided to procure plans for a new town hall, not to exceed in cost, $3,000, and that a by-law to raise the necessary funds be prepared and submitted to the ratepayers.

The scraping of Elizabeth street from the bridge to Mark street, was ordered.

By-laws were decided on to prevent corner loafing, and to restrain cows from running at large.

A tank was directed to be placed at the corner of Mark and Elizabeth streets, of the same size, and connected with the other tank.

Mr. R. Henderson, recently burned out, had his taxes ($10) remitted.

Next meeting, May 6th.

Death in the Pot.

The Rev. P. Clifton Parker Sunday night in the Baptist church enunciated his views in relation to the Canada Temperance Act which will be voted on on Thursday next. He explained that this was the first time he had said anything about the matter from the pulpit, and as he understood that the clergymen of the town were to deliver themselves on the subject that day he also took the opportunity of doing so. He took as his text 2 Kings, v, 40:—"Oh, man of God, there is death in the pot." There was a large congregation, chiefly of ladies, as the evangelists were addressing a meeting for men only in George street church. Mr. Parker showed how the women had a vast amount of influence and if anything he might say would lead them to see that favorable to voting against the repeal next Thursday he would be satisfied. The reverend gentleman then went on to show reasons why the Canada Temperance Act should be sustained, and as the clergyman's point of view was chiefly "the moral aspect" his arguments and illustrations mainly dealt with that side of the question.

Assuming a Warlike Attitude.

Many other houses are becoming very indignant at the idea of W. J. Morrow controlling the grocery trade of the town and country, but never mind—be cautious. We will prove to all you grocers who are grappling for high prices, that the time has arrived when W. J. Morrow will enlighten the public; doing more of a cash business and a more extensive trade he is better prepared to sell goods away down. Then again, here are a lot of our best Toronto and Montreal houses clamoring for our trade, owing to our buying for cash, and hence the keen competition, thereby buying goods away below other houses. So a call will convince you that we are Peterborough's great grocery house—340 George street. dw

DRUNKENNESS

Or the Liquor Habit Positively Cured by Administering Dr. Haines' Golden Specific.

It can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it; it is absolutely harmless, and will effect a permanent and speedy cure, whether the patient is a moderate drinker or an alcoholic wreck. It has been given in thousands of cases, and in every instance a perfect cure has followed. It never fails. The system once impregnated with the Specific, it becomes an utter impossibility for the liquor appetite to exist. THE ATTRACTION AT TURNBULL'S

Whatever the weather has been outside, is was the springiest of Springtime in our Store on Wednesday and Thursday last, when all the new Millinery and Millinery belongings were opened out of their close filling boxes. For the benefit of those who could not get in on those days, we will keep the display up all the first week in April.

Among the leading changes noticeable in the Trimming this season is LACE ENDS and SCARFS and LONG VEILS drawn in with Baby Ribbon at the bottom. Flowers and Ribbons are the leading Trimmings. The old fashioned hop that used to climb on the pole at the back door, is now found falling over the Black Lace Hats. Having struck a cheap line of Flowers (German make) the Germans copy the French designs and give us the Goods much cheaper. We have a Bouquet for everybody. Bunches of Roses in all colors only 35 c. each. Our Stock of CHILDRENS' TRIMMED HATS is unusually attractive. Sailor Hats in endless variety. We have not room to give them a front show. We were disappointed at not being able to show with the Millinery, the new JET CAPES and SILK VISETTES and TRIMMED DOLMANS, but there is time enough yet, and we expect them in on the first freight train. A fine assortment of Cloths in the order department. All hands at work as busy as bees in the workroom up stairs.

The DRESS GOODS Department is as lively as ever. A new line of Vigoreaux Cloth in 8 shades, 44 inches wide, at 60 cents, came in this week; a glance at it will tell you it is serviceable. With them came a new line of German Dress Cloth—we have shown nothing similar before; is just what any lady would fancy for a genteel Dress. Will show another new make next week.

Miss MERCIER is always pleased to help you with her advice as to length of Dress Pattern, Style of Making and Trimming, whether you wish to have it made by her or not.

KID GLOVES fresh from the hands of the maker in Austria, at 75c. and $1.00 a pair. This line we had in stock before, but the quantity was small and we only had a pair for a lady here and there.

CORSETS.—Spring brings changes and this one has brought one of the nicest makes of Corsets we have ever had. Large sizes for stout ladies always in Stock.

Our Millinery and Mantle Rooms are now in full operation, and our customers can depend on seeing the latest novelties in these lines and at the closest prices.

Dress Goods! Dress Goods!

We have been fortunate in securing a large lot of fine French Dress Goods at about 30 cents in the dollar, and have now placed them on sale on the table in the centre of the store. Ask to be shown the fine All Wool Dress Goods we are selling at 8c. per yd. Ask to see the All Wool Debeige at 8c. per yd. Fine French Dress Goods, worth 40c., for only 15c. In all there are about 2,500 yards, and the sale is extraordinary.

With these came a lot of Bavarian Curtains, bought at 30c. on the dollar, which are selling very rapidly.

House-Furnishing Department

We are showing unprecedented value in all classes of Carpets and Curtains.

Oilcloths, from the Low Grades to the heaviest English Floor Oils.

Tailoring Department.

As usual our display of Scotch and Canadian Suitings, English and French Worsted Coatings, and many Novelties in Pantings have been appreciated, from the fact that our orders are far in excess of previous seasons.

We can show you some Big Bargains in Tweeds. See our All Wool Halifax Tweeds at 25c., 35c. and 50c. per yard. These lines are a marvel of cheapness and are sold elsewhere at very much higher prices.

We cannot fully describe our stock but we have plenty of display room, where you can see it conveniently and judge for yourself.

STANLEY'S STORY OF THE MARCH TO THE NYANZA.

A Record of Perils Braved and Difficulties Overcome—A Gloomy Trip Through the Forest—Battles With Savage Foes.

LONDON, April 2.—Henry M. Stanley's letter dated Sept 4, 1888, describes the journey between Yambunga and Albert Nyanza. It goes much into detail and is very interesting. Mr. Stanley, after stating the orders given by him to Major Barttelot, described the advance of the column. The expedition, which consisted of 389 officers and men, started from Yambunga June 29, 1887. On the first day the expedition marched twelve miles along the river bank to Yankarda. On the approach of the column the natives set fire to their villages and under cover of the smoke attacked the pioneers. A skirmish followed lasting 15 minutes.

During the next six days the expedition marched inland in an easterly direction through a densely-populated district. The natives used every art known to them to molest and impede the advance of the party, but although several conflicts took place Stanley did not lose a man. Finally, perceiving that the path he had been following was taking him out of his proper course, Stanley struck out toward the northeast and again reached the river July 5. From this date until Oct. 16 he followed the left bank of the Aruwhimi. After 17 days of continuous marching the expedition halted for one day's rest. On Aug. 1 the first death occurred, the cause being dysentery. So far for 34 days the course had been singularly successful.

The party now entered a wild country, in their nine days' march through which their sufferings multiplied and several deaths occurred. On Aug. 13, on arriving at Airsibba, the natives presented a bold front and the party lost five men from poisoned arrows. Lieut. Stairs was wounded below the heart and suffered greatly, but he recovered.

On Aug. 21 the expedition met a party of Manyemas and their misfortunes began on this date. He had taken the Congo route to avoid Arabs, who would tempt his men. Within three days of this unfortunate meeting 26 men deserted. What Stanley describes as an awful month began on Sept. 18. Leaving the station of the Arab chief Ugarrawa when the expedition numbered 263 men, having lost 66 by desertion and death and having left 56 sick with Ugarrawa, the march led to the Arab settlement Kalinga Longa. The men lived on wild fruits, fungi and nuts. Before reaching Kalinga Longa Stanley lost 55 men through starvation and desertion.

A slave owner at Kalinga Longa named Abedsalim did his utmost to ruin the expedition short of open hostilities. He insisted upon purchasing rifles, ammunition and clothing, so that the expedition left the station beggared. The men were absolutely naked and were so weak that they were unable to carry the boat. Stanley was therefore obliged to leave the boat together with 70 loads of goods at Kalinga Longa under the care of Surgeon Parke and Capt. Nelson, the latter of whom was unable to march. After a five days' journey the party on Nov. 12 reached Ibwirri. The Arab devastation, which had reached within a few miles of Ibwirri, was so thorough that not a native hut was left standing between Ugarrava and Ibwirri. What the Arabs did not destroy the elephants destroyed, turning the whole region into a horrible wilderness. Mr. Stanley continues:

"Our sufferings terminated at Ibwirri. We were beyond the reach of destroyers. We were on virgin soil in a populous region abounding with food. We ourselves were mere skeletons. From 389 persons we now numbered 174, several of the party seeming to have no hope of life left. A halt was ordered for the purpose of recuperating. Hitherto our people were skeptical of what we told them, the suffering had been so awful, the calamities so numerous and the forest so endless that they refused to believe that by and by we two would see plains and cattle, the Nyanza and Emin Pasha. They had turned a deaf ear to our prayers and entreaties, for, driven by hunger and suffering they sold their rifles and equipments for a few cars of Indian corn, deserted with the ammunition and became altogether demoralized.

Perceiving that mild punishment would be of no avail I resorted to the death penalty, and two of the worst cases were hanged in the presence of all.

We halted for 13 days at Ibwirri, revelling on fowls, goats, bananas, corn, yams, etc. Supplies were inexhaustible and our people glutted themselves with such effect that we had 173 sleek and robust men. One had been killed with an arrow.

"When we started for Albert Nyanza on Nov. 24 we were still 126 miles from the lake. Given food the distance seemed nothing. On Dec. 1 we sighted an open country from the top of the ridge connected with Mount Pisgah, which was so named from our first view of the land of promise and plenty. On Dec. 5 we emerged upon the plains leaving the deadly and gloomy forest behind us. After 160 days of continuous gloom we saw the light of broad day shining all around making all things beautiful. We thought we had never seen grass so green or a country so lovely. The men literally leaped and yelled with joy and raced over the ground with their burdens. This was the old spirit of former expeditions successfully completed and all suddenly revived. Woe betide the native aggressor whom we may meet! However powerful with such a spirit the men will fling themselves upon him like wolves on sheep. Numbers will not be considered. It was the eternal forest that had made them the abject slavish creatures so brutally plundered by Arab slaves at Kalinga Longa.

"On the 9th we entered the country of the powerful Chief Masamboni. The villages were scattered so thickly that no road except through them could be found. The natives sighted us but we were prepared. We seized a hill as soon as we arrived in the centre of a mass of villages and built a zareba as fast as billhooks could cut the brushwood. The war cries were terrible from hill to hill pealing across the intervening valleys. The people gathered in hundreds at every point, war horns and drums announcing the struggle. After a slight skirmish, ending in our capturing a cow, the first beef we had tasted since we left the ocean, the night passed peacefully, both sides preparing for the morrow.

Mr. Stanley narrates how negotiations with the savages failed, Masamboni declining a peace-offering and how a detachment of 60 persons led by Lieut. Stairs and another of 30 under command of Mr. Jephson with sharpshooters left the zareba and assaulted and carried the villages, driving the natives in a general rout. The march was resumed on the 12th. There were constant little fights all along the route.

"On the afternoon of the 13th," says Stanley, "we sighted the Nyanza, with Kavalli the objective point of the expedition. Six miles off I had told the men to prepare to see the Nyanza. They murmured and doubted, saying: 'Why does the master continually talk this way? Nyanza indeed.' When they saw the Nyanza below them many came to kiss my hand. We were now at an altitude of 5220 feet above the sea, with the Albert Nyanza 2300 feet below in 1 degree 20 minutes. The south end of the Nyanza lay largely mapped for about six miles south of this position and right across to the eastern shore. Every dent in the low flat shore was visible, and traced like a silver snake on the dark ground was the tributary Lamlisi, flowing into the Albert Nyanza from the southward.

"After a short halt to enjoy the prospect we commenced the rugged and long descent. Before the rear guard had descended 100 feet the natives from the plateau poured after them, keeping the rear guard busy until within a few hundred feet of the Nyanza plain. We camped at the foot of the plateau wall, the aneroids reading 2000 feet above the sea level. A night attack was made, but the sentries sufficed to drive our assailants off."

At Kakongo, at the south-east corner of Albert Lake, the people would not exchange the blood of brotherhood and make friends, and as Stanley could get no boat he was forced to return to Ibwirri and send a party back to Kalinga Longa for a boat. At Ibwirri the explorer was laid up for a month with gastritis and an abscess on the arm. Returning to Masamboni's country the chiefs took the blood of brotherhood and supplies poured in.

Upon reaching the Nyanza a note was received from Emin asking Stanley to remain where he was until Emin could communicate with him.

Stanley met Emin on April 29 and they were together until May 25.

Stanley concludes: "At Fort Bodo I have left instructions to the officers to destroy the fort and accompany the Pasha to the Nyanza. I hope to meet them all again on the Nyanza, as I intend making a short cut to the Nyanza along a new route."

A TRIBUTE TO MR. POPE.

REFERENCES IN THE SENATE TO THE DEAD MINISTER.

Mr. Scott Speaks of the Unbounded Faith Placed in Him by Those Among Whom He Had Grown Up.

OTTAWA, April 2.—Hon. Mr. Abbott, leader of the Government, and Hon Mr. Scott, leader of the Opposition, in the senate, made touching references to-day to the death of the late Mr. Pope.

Mr. Scott alluded to it as a rare occurrence that the deceased had represented his constituency for a period of over thirty years continuously. "I know," he said, "of no other instance in this country but one in which that honor was conferred upon one individual for so long a period. Gentlemen have been in Parliament no doubt for longer terms, but constituencies are unstable and fluctuate, and often change from one to another. It was Mr. Pope's good fortune to be held in such esteem by those who knew him best, by his own people in the very locality where he grew up from boyhood, that most unbounded faith was placed in him."

The remains of the late Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Railways, were conveyed this afternoon to the Canadian Pacific Railway depot, and will be interred to-morrow in the family cemetery in Cookshire, Que. The pallbearers were: Sir John Macdonald, Sir Hector Langevin, Hon. John Carling, Senator Cochrane, Mr. Trow, M.P., Mr. Colby, M.P., and Mr. Alexander Wright, M.P. Rev. Mr. Pollard of the English Church read the funeral service.

Sir John Macdonald was greatly affected as the remains of his old and trusted colleague were placed in the hearse. Deceased's son-in-law (Mr. Ives) and his son were the occupants of the mourning carriage. Floral wreaths were presented by A. W. Ross, M.P., and others. The employes of the Railway Department were granted a holiday to attend the funeral. The remains were conveyed by special train. Messrs. VanHorne, Shaughnessy and Solicitor Clark of the C.P.R. were present, and also Mr. Walsworight of the G.T.R.

THE GUELPH TRAGEDY.

A Verdict of Wilful Murder Against Wm. H. Harvey.

GUELPH, April 2.—The inquest into the death of Mrs. Harvey, Lilian and Geraldine Harvey was resumed yesterday. Nothing new was elicited. The jury at 1.20 this morning returned a verdict of wilful murder against the prisoner W. H. Harvey.

FOUND IN AN "EMPTY" BAG.

Several Hundred Letters Discovered in the Montreal Postoffice Attic.

MONTREAL, April 2.—An employe of the Postoffice made a somewhat remarkable discovery in the attic of the building last week. In a number of mail bags he found three packages of letters aggregating from 300 to 400, all for Montreal, from Winnipeg, the Maritime Provinces and the United States, which had been posted at the latter end of February and in March. The postmaster was communicated with and an investigation made with the result that he was forced to the conclusion that the letters had been concealed there by some one who was only waiting a favorable opportunity to ransack them for money.

The postoffice authorities have been unable to ascertain who purloined the letters, but Mr. Lamothe thinks they were taken not by any of the clerks but by some of the workmen who have been engaged in building throughout the winter. Fortunately none of the letters were tampered with and they were sent to their destination with the somewhat peculiar announcement "Found in an empty bag."

DRIVEN OUT OF TOWN.

Winnipegmers Treat "Prof." Ernest to an Unpalatable Mixture.

WINNIPEG, April 2.—It is stated the Mormons are practising polygamy in the Macleod district.

Prof. Ernest, who eloped with a married woman, was driven out of town last night after being treated to a mixture of axle grease, syrup and peregoric.

Some unknown person deliberately fired two shots at Charles Wilson on Sunday and then disappeared.

Ice began running in the South Saskatchewan yesterday.

It is reported that Gillies, M.L.A. for Minnedosa, will resign.

The Portage extension will be completed in ten days.

The investigation into the arson case at Roberts' tobacco store was finished to-day. No results were obtained.

MISSING MISS MACKELCAN.

The Absence of a Hamilton Lady Causes Uneasiness.

HAMILTON, April 2.—A great deal of uneasiness exists as to the safety of Miss Louise Mackelcan, than whom Hamilton has no more highly respected or charitably disposed lady. For some time past Miss Mackelcan has been very ill and her mind was unable to stand the severe strain. Yesterday afternoon, about 5 o'clock, after returning from a drive, she disappeared and it has been impossible to find any trace of her since, though the members of the family and the police searched all night and to-day.

Thomas Jenkins, an alleged horse thief, was arrested last night by Detective Campbell, and brought before Police Magistrate Cahill this morning. Jenkins admitted that he took the horse from Frederick Gardner of Berlin, for whom he worked, but he claimed that it was understood that he was to go back and work out the price of the horse, which he had traded for a cow. Chief Klippert arrived this afternoon and will take the prisoner back to Berlin for trial. The detectives have not recovered the horse.

Donald Dawson, collector of statute labor tax, slipped on an icy sidewalk this morning, hit head striking the corner of a stone step. He will be laid up for some days.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT ON THE RECENT LOAN.

Said Terms Were Unfavorable—The House Making Progress With the Estimates—A Long Sitting to Supply.

OTTAWA, April 2.—Most of the time of the House to-day was occupied in Committee of Supply and considerable progress was made with the estimates. Before going into supply a discussion arose with reference to the 3 per cent. loan recently negotiated by Sir Charles Tupper.

Sir Richard Cartwright inquired whether the Government considers that the pledge made in the prospectus of the 3 per cent. loan recently negotiated in London, whereby it is declared "that the Canadian Government intend to apply the sum annually required for redemption of the national debt in purchases of the stock now offered," requires them to use the sinking funds therein referred to in the purchase of said 3 per cent. loan in case said securities should be held at a premium at the time of purchase.

Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Finance, said the Government would be required to make such purchases unless at the time of the proposed purchase the bonds were unduly high by reason of undue competition.

Sir Richard Cartwright held that this provision very materially altered the character of the loan and made it one of the most unfavorable negotiated by Canada in those of, as had been admitted hitherto, a highly advantageous one. He believed that this proviso, to apply £780,000 a year to the redemption of the loan, had the practical effect of making it a loan repayable in ten annual instalments instead of a 50 year loan as had been intended, and that we were bound to repurchase the bonds at the current rate even though much above par.

Hon. G. E. Foster said he would think the matter over and make an early statement. He would consult with Sir Charles Tupper who had negotiated the loan.
